"I believe in a unitary empire foreign policy, based on the interests of all and arrived at after consultation. Canada must have fuller co-operation with Great Britain."

"The time has come," he added, "for Canada to declare her relationship to the British Empire in the future world, of our international objectives and our relations in peace to come with the United States of America."

The first principle of Canada's foreign policy must be the successful prosecution of the war to an early conclusion and the destruction of the forces of dictatorship. The second is the mobilization of the United Nations for peace as for war and the third the fuller co-operation with Great Britain and with it the establishment of a unified empire foreign policy.

Canada is the school room of aviation for the British Empire in time of war and "cannot afford to give up that position, with the possibilities it holds for trade, employment and peace after the war," he declared.

Mark Twain Society Presents Medal To Prime Minister Churchill

ST. LOUIS.—In a letter to Cyril Clemens, president of the Mark Twain society and a second cousin of the famed humorist, Prime Minister Winston Churchill has acknowledged receipt of the society's gold medal awarded annually for literary achievement.

The medal was presented to Mr Churchill in recognition of the prime minister's oratorical eloquence

To Drive Japan Back To Her Home Islands

CAIRO.—Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and President Chiang Kai-Shek have held an historic five-day conference, have bound their countries in an agreement to beat Japan into unconditional surrender and to strip her of all her imperialistic gains of the last half century.

A communique issued at the close declared they had agreed upon a plan of military operations against Japan which would "bring unrelenting pressure against their brutal enemies by sea, land and air."

Declaring their purpose to drive Japan back into her home islands, the three powers outlined this specific four-point program:

1. Japan must disgorge all the islands she has seized in the Pacific since the beginning of the First Great War in 1914 (from which she gained, from Germany, the Marshall, Caroline and Marianne archipelagoes in which she planted bases for her attack on the United States).

2. Manchuria, Formosa, the Pescadores (the 21 islands lying between Formosa and the Chinese mainland) and all other territories taken from China must be restored to her.

3. Korea is to be made free and independent in due course.

4. Japan must be expelled from "all other territories which she has taken by violence and greed." (This would cover all the lands she has seized since the Pacific war started—the Philippines, Wake and Guam; Hong Kong, Malaya, Burma and islands of the Pacific; the Netherlands East Indies and French Indo-China.

The above blueprint for breaking up the Japanese empire and liberating its conquered peoples in effect would divest Japan of the territorial loot won by aggression or trickery in her war of 1894 to the present conflict, climaxed by her surprise attack on Pearl Harbor and her rapid conquests in the South Pacific.

A British source said the controversial subject of "island hopping" in the Pacific—already combed over in public by MacArthur—was gone into thoroughly.

SPECIAL SERVICES

Physically Handicapped Workers Will Be Placed Through New Department

OTTAWA.—Employment and selective service offices in many centres shortly will open "special services sections" specializing particularly in placement of workers who are physically handicapped through war service or civilian accidents, Labor Minister Mitchell announced.

Experts in this line of placement work will scan be appointed to the offices in Moncton, N.B., Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, said the statement.

POWERFUL FUEL

New Super-Fuel Is Being Produced In Nova Scotia

DARTMOUTH, N.S.—Tripitane, a new super-powerful no engine has yet been designed to use it full strength, is being produced by Imperial Oil, Limited, at an estimated cost of $1 a gallon, Charles Scrymgeour, general superintendent of the company's plant here, told a service club here.

Mr. Scrymgeour said the fuel is blended with high octane aviation gasoline, producing "remarkable extra power."

NOT DISCUSSED

Allies Dismiss Informal Armistice Proposals Of German Group

LONDON—An anti-Hitler group of old line Junker Germans, according to reports from inside Germany, is awaiting the psychological moment to attempting a government coup

In London this group is viewed as merely one more suggestion of merciful peace terms that may come from any meeting of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin.

The reports, which come through channels considered reliable although they cannot be identified, say this group already has made informal armistice proposals which were rejected without discussion.

These wholly unofficial tenders, the report continues, were not regarded by the Allies as treaties at all and were dismissed, first because they did not originate formally with the government in power in Germany and, second, because they fell far short of the United Nations' unconditional surrender formula

CONFISCATE ART OBJECTS

LONDON—The Berlin radio broadcast a Rome despatch saying that the Fascist republican government had decreed the confiscation of all art objects in Jewish possession in the part of Italy it controls. Jews were directed to register their art treasures before Dec. 5 or face "confiscation without compensation," the broadcast said.

A Negotiated Peace Is Hope Of The Enemy

VANCOUVER.—Rt Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, United Kingdom high commissioner to Canada said that when the Germans began suffering setbacks in Russia they felt that if they could not gain outright victory they could prolong the war until our peoples grew war weary and demanded a compromise peace

In an address prepared for delivery before the Canadian club here, Mr. MacDonald said the Germans pinned their hopes of averting total defeat:

1. On the submarine war, which they hoped would sink so many ships that the Allies would not be able to muster enough strength in Britain or North Africa to hurt a big offensive against Europe.

2. On diplomacy and propaganda which would persuade quarrels between Britain and America, or between the two democracies and Russia.

3. Other withdrawal of her armies from Russia and Italy to strong defensive positions around Germany and conquered countries from where the Allies could be worn down until they asked for a negotiated peace.

"Each of these German hopes have been recently defeated," Mr. MacDonald said.

"There have certainly been periods when the U-boat menace was the most anxious pre-occupation of our leaders. But that time seems to be, on even a cautious estimate, passing. Our troop ships and merchant vessels, faithfully guarded by our warships and aircraft, are crossing the ocean with comparatively little interruption."

The victory over the U-boats was won not only by sailors and aviators but also by civilians who fought from their laboratories, Mr. MacDonald said

"Never before in the enemy invented a new device to make their U-boats more devilish, our scientists replied with one to counteract it. Our device and render it comparatively harmless. . . . In the sea war, the land war and the air war either our scientists are proving superior Surely there is comfort and hope for the unhappy civilization in the world thought that in this crisis in human affairs the forces of good have been able to command the services of finer intellects than have the forces of evil."

The Moscow conference last month was a "crushing defeat to German hopes" of dividing the Allied nations by propaganda and diplomacy, Mr. MacDonald said.

RESEARCH FACILITIES

More Intensive Study Of Industrial Use Of Farm Crops

EDMONTON.—Extension of facilities in western Canada for more intensive study of industrial use of agricultural crops is being planned, it was announced here by Hon. James A. MacKinnon, federal minister of trade and commerce.

The western regional committee of the National Research Council meeting in Saskatoon in November, he recalled, had recommended a western unit of the council be established at one of the university centres in the prairie provinces as soon as equipment and staff were available.

"Appropriations for this purpose are being arranged," Mr MacKinnon said.

BOWTELL BULLETIN

Another quilt was finished Thursday at Mrs. Repp's. It was decided not to sew again until after Xmas.

Eddie Biddale was recently transferred from the Grande Prairie training centre to a camp near Chilliwack.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson spent Wednesday visiting at the home of Barney Powell.

Four of the ladies spent Saturday buying presents for the 72 children in the district.

The wood savers are now busy in the district. Dirk Payne and Gradon Sherwood have big piles sawed.

Alex King was among those obtaining their wings at No. 3 R.C.A.F. school in Calgary.

Interesting Items Gleaned From the Files of the Vermilion Standard

10 YEARS AGO TODAY — 1927

Dec. 8, 1927

On Monday evening the good ship H.M.S. Pinafore under Commanding Officer J. W. E. Markle glided into her moorings at the Columbia theatre. Here out her colorings and had her quarter decks swabbed down for the entertainment of friends from above, while a capacity audience admiringly looked on.

November, with an average of 9 degrees above zero, is recorded as the coldest November in 32 years. The way December is tearing into it more records will be overthrown when the month is finished. Tuesday night it was 36 below.

The Queenie Creek Stampede Association have made a gift of $625 to the town of Vermilion for the purpose of installing shower baths in the new arena skating and hockey rink.

Thirty-two Years Ago Today

Dec. 6, 1911

J. A. Rosebrough was elected as Mayor for 1912 by acclamation; Councillors Cooper and Mackenzie were re-elected by acclamation as were the two new councillors J.A.M. Craig and K. B. McLay. The new members on the school board are Mr. Ryan, P. C. Long and Ivy West.

The country still enjoys favorable weather, mild and fair.

There are now 151 telephones connected with the Vermilion office. A new rural line was put into commission last week running through the Coyote Valley district. An all night service is about to be inaugurated.

On Thursday Nov. 30 a jolly crowd gathered at Pleasant Valley school house for the first box social of the season. The program commenced with a pleasing selection of instrumental and vocal music with readings the artists being Mrs. T. Bothwell, Miss Bottomley, Mr. Brakenshaw, Joe Cutts, Dan Gilchrist and Mr. Smith. Mr. Downey kindly auctioned off the boxes.

OUTPUT OF ESSENTIAL SUPPLIES IS INCREASED

REGINA. — "Everything possible is being done to increase essential supplies such as clothing, food and numerous hardware and other products for farm use," Robert F. Chisholm, Director, Administration, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, told retail merchants here.

"Much has been done to concentrate essential production to essential production," said Mr. Chisholm, but indicated that it was difficult to convert the equipment and manpower used for producing bath salts into products of children's underwear. Special measures have been taken to boost the output of gasoline, underwear of all types, children's clothing and shoes, and all heavy woollen outerclothing he said.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strange

Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Co. Ltd.

BAD MIXTURES IN CROPS

The analysis of many thousands of farmers' wheat crops conducted this last summer by the "Crop Testing Plan" shows some interesting results. 61% of the fields are pure enough to make good true-to variety seed. 21% are classed as fair only, which means they are beginning to slip a little, but 18% of the fields tested were shown to contain bad mixtures. Many of these mixtures are of poor milling and baking value, and do not yield as well as the newer varieties.

Where mixtures consist of a rust-susceptible variety, such as Marquis, Red Bobs and so on, it means that in the rust area and in a rust year part of the crop would be rusted. Some of the mixtures were of late varieties in an early crop, such as Red Bobs. This means that such crops do not mature evenly and when the Red Bobs is cut there would be immature kernels of this late variety that would reduce the grade.

Farmers receive no financial returns for their efforts by growing one variety in as pure a state as possible. The only way to obtain "cash" for a farmer to use now and again a few bushels of good Registered seed sown on clear summerfallow and of the variety he decides to use.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

China's total production this year is not expected to equal domestic requirements—Acute food shortages are reported in Japan—The production of U.S.A. dairy and poultry products in sections of the East, South and far-West—Argentina's immense wheat surplus was recently placed at 138,000,000 bushels, compared with 161,000,000 bushels at the same time a year ago.

The Balkan countries are planning further expansion of wheat acreage, advices from Europe indicate — Australia's 1941 wheat acreage goal has been set at 3,500,000 acres, an increase of 500,000 acres above the area seeded this year—Rumania's wheat crop has been estimated at 3,600,000 tons, as compared with normal annual requirements of about 2,725,000 tons

AMMUNITION TRADE MUST BE LEGAL

EDMONTON.—"It is illegal for anyone other than authorized purchasers or authorized wholesalers or retailers or small arms ammunition to buy or sell ammunition of any kind," C. G. McKee, regional superintendent of rationing, Wartime Prices and Trade Board stated here recently.

Mr. McKee's warning is issued following the appearance of advertisements offering to buy or sell box or broken lots or shotgun shells or rifle shells.

Wholesalers and retailers are likewise to sell small arms ammunition to essential users who have approved permits obtained through their local ration boards he pointed out, and only such persons may legally buy or sell ammunition. Board order 251, completely governs such transactions Mr. McKee reminded.

COMFORTABLE HEN LAYS THE MOST EGGS

Insulate first, then ventilate should be the winter slogan for poultrymen with reference to their poultry houses. Protection against cold in the winter time is required for the laying stock, as an old poultry adage that a comfortable hen lays well. Where no heat is provided artificially, the only heat in the home is that generated by the birds themselves. It is important that there are no cracks or openings in the rear and end walls. They must be tight to prevent the entrance of cold and drafts. Banking with soil is helpful. In Western Canada, covering the roof, rear, and end walls with straw is recommended by poultry authorities. Many poultrymen build a temporary frame roof over their feed into the building and fill the enclosure with straw well tamped down. The ideal poultry house so far as warmth is concerned is one in which the water does not freeze. To ventilate properly, inside temperature in warm weather must be warmer than outside.

POOL PATRONAGE DIVIDEND ANNOUNCED

Patron members of the Alberta Wheat Pool who delivered grain to Pool elevator facilities during the 1942-43 crop year will receive a patronage dividend of 1c a bushel cash. This decision was made at the recent convention of Alberta Pool delegates. It was also decided to redeem in cash 5 per cent of outstanding elevator and commercial receipts.

The B.W.B. club held a meeting at the school last Wednesday afternoon with a good crowd attending. What drive and dance business was settled and numerous other items brought up. The new officers found things rather hard, taking office when so much unfinished business was on hand but from now on everything should be better. After the business was completed the festivities did follow and Mrs. Rendell served a late lunch. Mrs Carlson is home for two weeks from San Job Hill. A baby girl, Dorothy Ann, arrived on Nov. 30th and quite a lot of good gifts on. These included a set of wash dishes and a set of Movie. The baby arrives well and a nice sum was realized for Mrs. Graham at the B.W.B. in Calgary, kindly donated some crochet work to the sale. Eligible After Two Years' Service

Employees are eligible for participation in the retirement plan after they have had two years of continuous service and have become registered as permanents on the payroll; payment of annuities begins at age 60 in the case of men and at age 60 in the case of women. If an employee leaves before completing ten years of service he has three options: he may continue to deposit further premiums, he may allow the contract to stand as a paid up annuity to mature at the retirement age, or he may have his own contributions returned to him as an immediate annuity, actuarially adjusted. After ten years' service and within ten years of normal retirement date, the employee has a vested right in the Company's contributions as well as his own and may elect either to have the total of such contributions returned to him as a lump sum or to have the total of such contributions mature as an immediate annuity, actuarially adjusted, to begin further premiums, or to allow the contract to stand as a paid-up annuity until the original maturity date.

In the event of an employee's death before he has accumulated ten years' service with the Company, all of his own contributions with 4% interest compounded annually, are paid immediately to his beneficiary or estate. After ten years' service the Company's contributions as well as his own, plus 4% interest compounded annually, are paid immediately to the beneficiary or estate by the Dominion Government Annuities Branch. Every Employee member of the plan retiring at the normal retirement date, receives a monthly pension commencing one month after his retirement and continuing until his death. Should an employee, who accepts the normal retirement annuity, die after the commencement of his annuity and before 120 monthly instalments have been paid by the Government, the remainder of such guaranteed instalments are paid to his beneficiary or estate as they become due.

Pension Plans Call Group Insurance

The Company contributions to the pension fund, which on the average are equal to that of the employees' contributions, are never returned. Once the payments are made to the Annuities Branch of the Dominion Government, they must be used for the benefit of the plan. This guarantees that all employees at all times will have the benefit of the Company contributions under the provisions of the plan.

The estate also receives group life insurance benefits. All new employees become eligible for life insurance under the group life plan immediately upon starting work for the Company and during a probationary period of two years are covered in the amount of $500. The amount is raised then to $1,000 for single employees, or $1,500 for married employees, and a further $100 is added in the case of each dependent child, not exceeding three, under nineteen years of age. No medical examination is required and the insurance is payable to the beneficiary named by the employee.

The Company has been a leader in many plans to provide better working conditions for its employees. In 1937 it instituted a plan of holidays with pay, after two years' service the employee is entitled to a week's vacation with pay, and for every succeeding year a day is added until two weeks are reached. Apprenticeship courses were first inaugurated in 1932 and have since been expanded.

Twelve Courses For Apprentices

The apprenticeship plan for sons of employees deserves some special mention. Parents recognize its value because it solves the problem of what to do with a boy when the time approaches for him to think about earning his own living. Most small towns offer a bright lad only a small variety of employments, but at Flin Flon he has the choice of the following apprenticeship courses: blacksmith, boiler maker, carpenter, electrician, machinist, mill operator, smelter operator, steam operator, welder, and zinc plant operator. Thus the boys are given an opportunity of learning a trade of their own choosing, and because apprentices are paid a working wage from the date of commencement of the course, they are practically self-supporting from that date.

At Flin Flon, the apprenticeship courses are laid out to occupy four years, and include both classroom work and practical work. To qualify, a lad in addition to being the son of an employee, must be between 16 and 18 years old and must have a good school record, preferably high school. The town high school is particularly well equipped to give the preliminary training.

Boys Earn While They Learn

The young apprentice is paid from the day he starts his course at a rate of $2.56 per day, plus cost of living bonus during the first six months with increases every six months so long as he continues to do satisfactory work. He gets two weeks holiday without pay in each of the first two years, and thereafter he receives the benefits of the Company's holidays with-pay plan. On the completion of his course he is given a bonus of $100, and if his ability is good he is offered a job in his trade by the Company, but is free to go anywhere else if he trades: special burners, fitters, boiler makers, firemen, and steel erectors. The apprentice is required to attend special classes in mathematics, draughting and subjects pertaining to the trade he is training in. Upon completion of his course he receives a bonus of $50.

Horrors Of War

People Who Made Conflict Possible Now Learning What War Means

There is little disposition to gloat over the sufferings of the people of Berlin, but there is here and no doubt everywhere in Allied countries a grim satisfaction that the people who made this ghastly war are learning at first hand what modern war, German-style, means.

For the past century all Germany's wars of conquest, until this one, had been fought on the soil of other countries, and the German people had grown up to believe they were immune to the ravages inflicted so eagerly upon their neighbors. And even this war, in its earlier stages, for the Germans meant silk stockings from Paris, hams from Denmark, cheese from Holland, a shower of loot from half of Europe. They were sure—hadn't Hitler told them so?—that the war would end with a larger and stronger Germany, and the German conscience gave never a twinge. —Ottawa Journal.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

DECEMBER 15

Golden Text: A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another; even as I have loved you, that ye also love one another. John 13:34.

Lesson: Mark 12:28-34; John 13: 34, 35; 15:10-14.

Devotional Reading: I John 4:7-16.

Explanations and Comments

Christ's New Commandment, Mark 12 28-34. It is Tuesday of Holy Week. Pickers against his life have come to Jesus in the temple enclosure to propound their questions by which they hope to ensnare him. The first question is in regard to the payment of tribute, verses 13-17; the next concerns the resurrection, verses 18-27. It would seem from Jesus' commendation in verse 34 of our text that the scribe who came and, after hearing the earlier questions and answers, asked him questions about what commandment was the first of all, was an honest inquirer, with no ulterior motive. He really wanted to know what was the ultimate motive guiding the religious life.

Jesus answered by quoting from Deuteronomy the commandment that is the upon one to love God with every power that he has given man, and coupling with it a second commandment that calls for love for one's neighbor as oneself. The first commandment is given in Dt. 6:4, 5, and the second in Lev. 19:18. Jesus brought them together, showing that one is the complement of the other. "An obscure saying in the book of Leviticus—perhaps the only word that glorifies that dreary and detailed exposition of legal requirements now dead and gone—the Master lifted out and set as a gem. Since that time no one has been able to separate the two commandments. 'What God hath joined, let no man put asunder.' The fact that the two commandments were not original with Jesus critics have cited as a reason for undervaluing his word.

With great conviction the scribe returned: "Of a truth, Teacher, thou has well (literally, the Greek word is beautifully) said that he is one; and there is none other but he: and to love him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the strength, and to live his neighbor as himself, is much more than all whole burnt-offerings and sacrifices." (that is, more than the whole Levitical ritual.

Jesus saw that he answered discreetly, that is, wisely, understandingly. He had not only accepted Jesus' answer but he further acknowledged that to keep moral obligations is far more important than to observe forms of worship. "True art not far from the kingdom of God," said Jesus. No further questions were put forward by his enemies; they were consciously defeated.

Weapon For Victory

Edward Stettinius Writes A Book On Lend-Lease

The story of Lend-Lease as told by its former administrator in the United States, Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., is to be told in a book, "Lend-Lease: Weapon for Victory."

Mr. Stettinius' informal narrative is designed to be a global story, for Britons, Canadians and American air-training schools assisted by Lend-Lease are open to thousands of Allied student pilots. But he has not forgotten that Lend-Lease works in reverse also, as in the case of repairs to United States warships carried out in Allied shipyards in the British Isles, the Middle East, India, Australia and New Zealand.

All royalties from the book will be payable to a charitable organization named by its author.

Danish Ships

366 Are Now Engaged In The Normal Service

Two hundred and three [redacted] ships in the British service were seized in June. Their value has been estimated at $29,980,000. Since the invasion of Denmark they have continued to sail with a large number of their original crews. The Danish ships were requisitioned by the Ministry of War Transport on the understanding that, although seized in prize, they would be returned at the end of the war, and the owners paid a hire fee proportionate to the fee paid to British owners for similar ships.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

YOUTH'S RETURN

By JEAN CAMERON

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

He plodded slowly along the gravel walk, his eyes never glancing at the bright flowers set so neatly in their plots, the green of the small vegetable gardens, the clean stones of the little thresholds. The houses were becoming more numerous now; soon he would reach the village. The bridge was just on the other side.

Shifting his hiker's bag to his left shoulder, he walked with his head down, for he could have found his way blindfolded—he did not need to look. His instructions had been to start ten miles from the village, and he was quite tired, but it was not fatigue that caused the deep pain in his heart.

Fifteen years! He could hardly believe it. Apparently things had not changed at all. He could have sworn that the carts and wagons that passed him, pulled by horses and an occasional dog, were the same in which he had ridden often in the past. The fences were the same; the cloud of dust at the summit of the hill was the same. He paused there, at the top, and stared at the village just ahead of him.

So he returned to the people who had taken him in when his nation was starving, fed him, clothed him, sent him to their schools—how else could he have spoken their language so well?—made him one of them. He would notice the fortifications at the bridge, the guards—how many and when they changed, how many there were, any slight difference in their uniforms—then troop back and make his report, as so many others were doing. No one knew; no one guessed. The value of the whole scheme lay in its surprise element; if they knew, if they learned, perhaps the whole idea would be abandoned. If he told—if he ran down to the village and cried, "Don't you remember me? I am the little boy who lived here fifteen years ago, come back in treachery. . . ."

His head went up; his jaw stiffened. This was his duty. He would obey orders, think of them what he might. He was no longer a person; he was a soldier acting under command. He strode on steadily.

But he was glad—ah, but he was glad—that George and Martha were dead. He could never have borne the pain of coming back if they were here, of betraying them. George had been to him like the father he had never seen, and Martha, with her gingerbread, her warm smile, her work hardened hands, had been like his own mother. They had wept bitterly when the four years of his stay had ended, had written to him—and then suddenly both were dead. He had wept, too, when he received that letter.

He must be careful not to look at the little cottage. It might unnerve him, make him think of what it would look like afterwards when the plan he was helping succeeded. The new tenants, no doubt, had different plots in the garden. There might be different curtains at the windows. But the old trees would be the same. A new dog would nose around, but different from the one described Rex, the lumbering water spaniel. They had spent many hours playing together in the yard and down by the canal.

He was in the centre of the little village, the trailer of the caravan at the open markets, the bustle of the little shops, were all familiar to him. They made a far happier, gayer sound than the noises in his own city. No one noticed him. Hikers were a common sight here. A girl sometimes threw a quick glance at his tall figure, nudged her companion and giggled. Women, laden with bundles, sometimes apologized pleasantly for bumping into him. He paused for a moment, stepped down a side street to gaze at the square There could be no harm in recalling. He had a mission, the old days were perfectly safe; no one knew him, and he spoke the language like a native.

The rumble of the wagons over the cobbled street drowned out the soft whine behind the fence on which he leaned. He did not notice the black mass of hair that waddled through the hole and threw itself on him, until it was licking at his shoes. "Rex!" he exclaimed. He bent, put a gentle hand on the old dog's head. It could not be—he had been an old dog then. The spaniel whined louder, gave feeble barks. A woman, smiling and wiping her hands on a spotless apron, ran out.

"He is very old," she said, "you must excuse him. It is astonishing that he notices a stranger. He lies in the sun all day . . . now, can it be you? I would never have known you." You remember? I lived next door, and we took in the dog when Martha died." Her look of welcome faded. She stared at him in bewilderment. "But we understood you were conscripted for three years! You are in the army? HEIK, in these clothes!"

He did not rise. His hand continued to rub the dog's long ears. The coarse hair that had once been so fine and silky. In a moment she would call someone, he was caught, captured and he felt was relief a great wave of relief sweeping over him.

Alberta Wheat Pool Favors Plan For Pool Members

Delegates attending the annual convention of the Alberta wheat pool approved a resolution providing for a contributory pension plan for wheat pool members.

It provided that the directors be asked to investigate the matter and present a plan for discussion at the 1944 convention. The idea was based on the making of deductions from the returns of grains marketed through pool elevators, the amounts to be applied to a fund which would provide pensions for farmer members of the pool.

Mr. Antonson pointed out that retirees engaged in occupations other than for farming are finding means of obtaining pensions for their old age, but to date farmers had not made any provision toward that end.

"WE MAKERS" CLUB FORMED; GIRLS INVITED TO JOIN

A new and interesting development among high school girls was the formation of a study and recreational club which will be known as the "We Makers" club. Membership is already 15 whose eligible to join are girls between the ages of 16 and 19 years.

The following executive has been elected:

Hon. President — Mrs. J. D. Adam
President — Marie Pinchbeck
Vice-President — Betty Atkinson
Sec.-Treasurer — Jean Reid
War Convener — Jean Carley.

Plans of the executive are to have educational talks and study projects, also to engage in various welfare activities.

The executive will be glad to hear from any girls interested in joining the club.

LESLIE YARWOOD SUFFERS SEVERE FOOT INJURIES

Leslie Yarwood had the misfortune to suffer severe injuries on Monday last he home when his foot got caught in the chopping machine. The bones are broken and the foot badly lacerated, many stitches being required to close the wounds. Leslie was engaged in chopping and stepped down off the wagon unknowingly putting his foot on the running machine. He was called by his father who shut off the engine, and dismantled the chopper in quick time to have the foot free. Leslie was rushed into the hospital where he is now receiving medical attention. His foot will be saved in a way, although the injured young man will be laid up for some three to four weeks.

The sympathy of a wide range of friends in town and district is extended to Leslie in his misfortune.

TRAGEDY STRIKES AT HOME OF FORMER VERMILION GIRL

The sympathy of many friends in the Vermilion district is extended to Mrs. Alex Cameron (nee Florence Aitchison) who suffered the loss of two little sons, Gordon 7 yrs. and Billy 4, in a fire which destroyed her home on Saturday Nov. 27th. The family live on a farm in the other Heights district, south of Hughendon. Mr. Cameron and one other child, age 8, were also injured in the tragic conflagration.

Mrs. Cameron's father Mr. Aitchison, and brothers reside in the Indian Lake district and are well known here.

ANGLICAN YOUNG PEOPLE ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

A meeting of the Anglican Young People's Association was held Tuesday evening and officers elected as follows:

KILLS MOSQUITO — FIRE WEATHER WAS DRAWBACK!

Charlie Lodell killed a mosquito last Thursday night but before finally liquidating the little marauder which loomed loudly around his head when he was about to go to sleep, decided that this predatory wretch we are on saying has its drawbacks. Charlie thinks, though, that it was the last of the mosquito tribe left in Alberta this year and that no more will be heard from until the new crop hatches in the spring.

WEDDING BELLS

PURSER—CALDWELL

A quiet wedding was solemnized in St. Saviour's Anglican church on Sunday evening Dec. 5th at 9.15 o'clock, when Betty, daughter of Mrs. C. Caldwell of Vermilion was united in holy matrimony to Mr. Gordon Purser, son of Mr. John Purser of Islay. The Ven. Archdeacon Letherdale officiated. The bride and groom were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Stack.

The young couple will make their home in Islay where Mr. Purser is employed by the Starle Grain Co.

WEISENBURGER—PROCTER

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Central United church in Calgary on Saturday November 27, when Ethel May Procter, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Procter of the Hindville district, became the bride of Mr. Otto Weisenburger, eldest son of Mr. Otto Weisenburger of Trochu and the late Christian Weisenburger.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a white afternoon dress of brown and mustard, with a brown off-the-face hat and shoulder length veil, and wore a corsage of red roses. The matron of honor, Mrs. Anne Sherwert, wore a dress of navy blue with brown hat, and a corsage of pink roses.

The best man was Private Herbert Weisenburger a brother of the groom.

The wedding reception was served at the Tea Kettle Inn, the table being centred with a lovely two-tier wedding cake.

The bride and groom spent a few days in Calgary and have now taken up residence at their home in Irma.

ISLAY

We heard that Jim Carey was in ill well, finished up his job and is home now, he had been doing on a ladder to repair the pump when they fell off.

Thrashing is pouring very peculiar here. Quite a number of young folk are learning to skate this winter—Miss Dorothy Hall, Miss Ella Mathys. There are some very good skating rinks on too. And not all women teachers either. You know teachers were frozen to their work!

There are bright lights in Easton's house these nights. After a long spell of darkness. We think the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Purser, are getting settled.

The ladies of Islay church are very grateful to the many people who attended their bazaar Saturday after noon, making it a most gratifying success. The nice sum of $125 was realized.

Each Sunday at 3 p.m. Rev. Sinclair Reible of Vermilion holds service in Knox church. All are invited. Those who have not been taking advantage of the afternoon service are missing much.

On Sunday Dec. 19th at 2 p.m. the Christmas service will be held. Let us make this a record service.

Last Sunday Mr. Joe Allen from north of Chauvin was taken to hospital in to hospital. While in he thought he would visit some of the old timers and friends—but the old hand was empty. Joe was disappointed. Just 26 years that Saturday before he landed here.

Mr. Joe Dupuis is suffering from rheumatism, not able to walk. Miss posing him on the street.

Somebody has the line of fun at the Community gathering in the Junior school this Friday night. Bring all the coppers you can, also a few nickels. See how they can be mixed and come out shiny proper.

We were sorry to hear that Rev. W. T. Crumb was ill in Manville hospital. We hope he is home again and feeling fit now. Bad colds have been going the rounds here.

Christmas cards first became a commercial business 80 years ago—and first became big business 25 years ago.

Stagette Notes

The regular Tuesday night meeting was held in the club room with eighteen members present.

The girls were glad to note that Jessie was finally successful in obtaining another couch. We can now sit and knit in greater comfort. Besides this addition we found the two new lampshades improved the lighting.

After a short business meeting, Herbie officer Dipple of the R.C.A.F., (W.D.) Edmonton, addressed the girls and replied to their queries concerning the Women's Division of the Air Force.

We were pleased to have as our guests two girls from the C.W.A.C. training centre who were before they enlisted members of the Edmonton club and of the Grande Prairie club respectively. Lance Corporal Merle Lawrence was well remembered by the girls who had attended the Coronation in Edmonton in 1937.

Vermilion Agricultural Society Plans for Year 1944

The members of the Vermilion Agricultural Society at their annual meeting on Friday, December 3, heard reports of the various activities of the society for the past year and laid plans for a continuation of their work for the coming year. Reports indicated the most successful year in history with much valuable work done in connection with agricultural production and encouragement.

Special mention was made of the Provincial Shorthorn show which was held in conjunction with the summer fair and which proved our leading Shorthorn individuals attract the people of Alberta; the Society has undertaken to hold this show again in 1944.

Congratulations were extended to Mr. W. R. Cornish, recently re-elected in the office of Provincial President of the Alberta Sheep Breeders Association, and to Mr. W. L. Robinson also re-elected as President of the Alberta Cattle Breeders Association; both are directors of the Vermilion Society and have made valuable contributions to the agricultural life of the district for many years past.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Officers placed in charge of conduct of the business of the Society for 1944 are as follows:

President—W. McClellan
1st Vice—J.W.G. Morrison, K.C.
2nd Vice—William M. Steele
Sec.-Manager—S. C. Hockbery
Directors—M. Barr, Wm. Barr, J. Bryden, E. H. Buckingham, Homer Campbell, W. R. Cornish, R. Duncan, Munro Forbes, Andrew Gillies, E. W. Hart, W. R. Jory, Geo. Maggs, Gordon Overton, H. R. Parker, W. L. Robinson, J. R. Robson, F. M. Stewart, A.M. West, W. D. Williams, J. H. Winters, F. Van Wagenen.

BOYS CAMP IN 1944

It was unanimously decided that a Boys Camp would be held in connection with the fair in 1944 and that district boys be brought to Vermilion for agricultural instruction and housed on the fair grounds. Instructors will be available from the agricultural staffs of the Dominion and Provincial governments. It is expected that a large number of youthful agriculturists will take advantage of the opportunity provided.

ADDED CLASSES IN PRIZE LIST

A considerable number of classes which have been excluded from the prize list in the past few years due to lack of entries are to be brought back for the coming year, these will include Bulls, Stock, grains, grasses and vegetables and sections for Aberdeen Angus and Jersey cattle. It is hoped that a healthy revival also may be witnessed in the field with the Vermilion fair as that all branches of agriculture may be fully represented.

RODEO RACING PROGRAM

Patrons of the track will be able to know that harness racing will again be included in the program for 1944; racing classes of the past few years have been of interest to many and the track, which has been gradually improved for some time past will see the speedsters in action on July 27, 28 and 29 when the 1944 exhibition is in progress.

GROUNDS TO BE IMPROVED

By direction of the managing committee the ladies' lily beach pond, which excluded the view of the grounds on the south side adjacent to Highway 16 have now been removed, having been disposed of by tender and view fencing will be placed in such a way as to make possible a continuation of a belt of trees which should greatly enhance the natural beauty of the grounds.

District residents interested in the annual exhibition and in agricultural improvements generally are asked to make suggestions to the Society so that consideration may be given such suggestions in due course.

C.N.R. Foreman Transferred

Neil W. MacKay who has been locomotive foreman at Vermilion the past six years has been transferred back to Hanna to assume a like position there. Mr. MacKay came from Hanna to Vermilion. He left for the southern town on Monday night of this week. He is succeeded by E. W. Broughton from Winnipeg who has been in charge for the past two weeks. During his stay in Vermilion Mr. MacKay served two years on the town council heading the poll in the 1938 municipal elections. He did not proffer in 1939.

PAPER STICKERS FOR CAR LICENSES

E. Trowbridge deputy provincial secretary, announced Friday that two new sets of paper license stickers for Alberta motor cars are expected to be delivered to the government next month.

The stickers are to be on hand Feb. 1 on that preparations for issuance of new gasoline ration books which are issued in March, can be made.

The new stickers which have a color combination of black on an orange background are to be displayed on the windshield and on the rear window of motor cars. They are five and a half by three and a half inches in size.

Christmas cards were invented 100 years ago by Sir Henry Cole, a patron of the "arts" who thought of hand painted cards as a means towards popularizing painting and poetry.

Vermilion Is Parking On Main Avenue

Park on One Side Only

The town council has decided, as an element of safety, to cut down the parking space on Railroad avenue between Main and First street south. When the centre parking by-law was passed some years ago, parking on this avenue was intended only on the east side but the plan was never enforced and parking on both sides has continued since. Owing however to the enormous increase in traffic passage through this avenue, particularly on Saturday nights, it has become a source of danger and the Council felt the situation should be remedied. Parking on both sides could not be safely continued. Therefore from and after Jan. 1st next, parking on this portion of the avenue will be permitted on the east side only from First street south to the intersection lane and on the west side from Main street to the lane, and owners received to be governed by parking signs. The change should make travel between these two points much safer and give considerable wider spaces in which to back out from the curb and for the safety of the through traffic.

Bankers On Transition From War To Peace

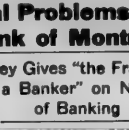
Vital National Problems Discussed by Bank of Montreal President

George W. Spinney Gives "the Frank and Considered Opinion of a Banker" on Nationalization of Banking

126th ANNUAL MEETING

Strongly Emphasizes Value of Victory Bonds Both During War and After

Problems of vital interest to Canadians in the transition from war to peace were discussed at the 126th annual meeting of Bank of Montreal shareholders by George W. Spinney, C.M.G., president of the institution. Among the subjects he dealt with were nationalization of banking on which he gave what he described as "the frank and considered opinion of a banker", the value of Victory Bonds in the war and after, and the need for a healthy, vigorous and flexible economy in attaining a high and increasing productivity essential for full employment and decent living standards.



G. W. SPINNEY, C.M.G.
President

Following a presentation of the year's profit and loss statement of the bank, as already published, Mr. Spinney spoke as follows:

"On the whole line throughout the world, the past year has given us much cause for profound thankfulness. On the home front too the year has been one of achievement. But I think that any realistic view of the local scene must lead to the conclusion that the threat of inflation with all its attendant dislocation and hardship has in no way diminished in the past twelve months but has, if anything, increased. Moreover, I do not think it should be a matter for pride by reason of the very success of the Allied forces, we in Canada are peculiarly vulnerable to the dangers of complacency with a consequent relaxation of our energies at a time when our full efforts should be sustained. In brief, I think we have a situation in which it is necessary for Canadians to draw upon the reserves of sound common sense and the sagacity for clear thinking and self-discipline. For it is at a time such as the present that these qualities, displayed by them at home, can have a telling effect on the duration of the struggle and on our ultimate ability to meet and to solve the problems of transition from war to peace.

"Much has been said, and rightly so, concerning the spectacular wartime achievements of Canadian industry—achievements which would not have been possible but for the co-operation and untiring efforts of millions of Canadian workers who have brought to the task of war production the full measure of their energies and skill. I should also like to pay tribute to these magnificent results from our remarkable accomplishments in two other fields—agriculture and transportation. At no time in the war has food occupied so vitally important a place in the scheme of the United Nations as it does at present. The manner in which Canadian farmers have met and are continuing to meet, the challenge of greatly increased demands upon them, under extreme handicaps of a shortage of help and scarcity of machinery, is deserving of the praise and gratitude of the entire nation. I should like also to say a word concerning the services rendered by our two great railroad systems. Despite scarcity of equipment and manpower, the railways are handling freight and passenger traffic in all-time record volume. The performance of such a task, under trying conditions of operation and with relatively little inconvenience to shippers of freight and to the travelling public, is an accomplishment of which the management and employing personnel of the railway systems may well be proud.

THE WASTEFUL WORK OF THE BANK

"I think it would be quite in order for me now to draw attention to the manner in which your Bank has addressed itself to the task of war finance. Its efforts have been directed in a spirit of service to meet the changing needs of a nation at war. There has been little change in the volume of loans of the usual commercial and financial character, but in other directions the work has greatly expanded. Transactions in cheques and deposits, Victory Bonds and subscriptions, pouring through our hands, have been immeasurably heavier than before the war. Our safekeeping facilities have been under a severe strain. We have already opened thousands of ration coupon accounts and handled correspondence running literally into hundreds of millions. The ramifications of Foreign Exchange control also have added to our responsibilities. It has been necessary to cope with these situations with a staff which by reason of heavy enlistments is seriously depleted. Its experienced ranks Of their willingness and loyalty the General Manager will have something to say later on in this meeting.

"In the year just closed, our acquisitions of Government securities were on a reduced scale as compared with the preceding year, notwithstanding a substantial increase in the Government debt. You will, I am sure, appreciate my point when I say this is a development we welcome, since it is a direct reflection of the national effort to control inflation by financing the war to the greatest possible extent by taxation and the sale of bonds to individuals and other sectors of the community, rather than by the creation of bank credit. Our investments, however, now exceed by a substantial margin the total of our loans, a reversal of the position which existed before the war. This change in the character of our assets has been accompanied by an even greater growth in the volume of deposits, which are the monetary equivalent of the expenditures made by the Government.

"Let me say, therefore, that the Bank is a servant of the people and that its interests are inseparably bound up with the welfare of the nation. Let me say, furthermore, that the Bank is a Canadian institution, that it is controlled by Canadians who have the interest of this country at heart, that it is a Canadian institution in the sense that its shares are held by Canadians and that its loans are made to Canadians. Let me say, finally, that the Bank is one which has the interest of its customers at heart, that it is willing to go more than half way to meet their requirements, that it is ready to render any service which lies within the limits of sound banking practice and that it is desirous of maintaining the most cordial relations with the business community at large.

"Our attitude in this respect has been and will continue to be governed by the principle that the Bank is a public service institution, that it is dependent for its existence upon the goodwill of the community which it serves and that its own welfare is inseparably bound up with the welfare of the community as a whole. Let me say, therefore, that the Bank is a servant of the people and that its interests are inseparably bound up with the welfare of the nation. It has been and will continue to be the policy of the Bank to use its resources to the utmost limit of their ability in the purchase of Government securities and to encourage every special effort upon the part of the public to do likewise. The Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates. I am proud of our record in these great national undertakings. By written word and oral appeal we have done everything within our power to encourage the people to invest their savings in such a way as to the utmost limit of their ability to assist

VERMILION OIL FIELD LEADS IN DEVELOPMENT

The Vermilion oil field has consistently been the leader in development and production in the month of October there were 17 Heavens housed, no new wells in Alberta. Seven at Moose Jaw in the Vermilion field, three in Turner Valley and the other seven were scattered over the province.

In October Vermilion producing wells jumped to 29 with a total production of 12,971 barrels. This is an average of 418 barrels per day compared with an average of 380 barrels per day for the previous month, and is well ahead of the September figure of 327 barrels per day for October of 1942.

Production of each well in the Vermilion field for October was as follows:

WAR SAVING STAMP CHRISTMAS CARDS ARE NOW AVAILABLE

Something New and Different

War Savings Stamp Xmas cards are now available at all stamp outlets in South Alberta. War Finance officials announced today.

Records received at Headquarters indicate that the Stamp Xmas cards are proving a boon to those who find it difficult to select the usual gifts. The attractive Christmas card is given away free with each purchase or one or more War Savings stamps. In this manner, the purchaser is provided with the ideal gift to send to those for the kind given to casual friends. The cards are obtainable at all stationery stores and other retail outlets which handle stationery.

The cards may be obtained in sizes suitable designs from the stationers and in six other designs from Post Offices, banks and other regular stamp outlets. Three of the latter type are designed to hold War Savings Certificates. Distribution of the cards to 172 retail outlets in Southern Alberta was done by a special stamps committee.

On the cards you will find Santa Claus simply snowed under with War stamps, or Santa with his pack filled with stamps, have dignified counters with the Canadian crest printed on the cover, or cards with designs suitable for children.

Inside the cover there's another design with a slit in the paper. And into the slit like a folded piece of paper, with room for 16 war stamps on it.

The verses are gay or dignified, and there is room for the name of the sender. Envelopes are supplied with the cards.

BATTLEVIEW ECHOES

The meeting of the church circle and war service league was held at the home of Mrs. Ida Larsen. The weather was fine and there was a very good attendance. Following considerable business the hostess served a delicious lunch. The afternoon was pleasantly enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stranahan and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stranahan were Edmonton visitors last week. Harry brought a new car back with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonie Alexander and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Harrison are Edmonton visitors this week.

The school concerts will be in full swing next week. Triangle will be on Dec. 21 and Battleview on Dec. 22.

There is a turkey raffle in aid of the Jr. Red Cross at the dray on the winner will be made at the school concert.

Rumors are around that a new co-operative store will be built at Autumn Leaf to handle the ever growing business there. Let us hope the rumor proves true.

Henry Brethner and George Couch are on the sick list this week. The latter is in the Vermilion hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Arthur of Auburndale were recent trippers to the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Jensen and family were Manville visitors on Sunday.

Word has been received by their parents that Bill and Howard Price are both in Italy.

The million dollar objective of the wool, stationery and gift trades in their campaign to have people attach War Savings stamps to Christmas cards works out to a little less than 10 cents for each Canadian.

SALVAGE RUBBER DRIVE WILL BE STOPPED JAN. 15

Because of an enormous reserve that has been accumulated since the drive commenced, the campaign to collect salvage rubber in Canada will be discontinued after Jan. 15, 1944.

F. C. Fisher, regional organizer of the national salvage campaign, in announcing the end of the drive for tires, tubes and other forms of scrap rubber, urged all salvage committees to at once take advantage of the special railway freight rates to ship all collected salvage so that they will have none on hand on Jan. 15.

Committees in rural areas are especially warned to ship their stocks at once.

Otherwise rubber will be left on their hands as no arrangements have been made to handle scrap rubber after Jan. 15th.

The campaign has been so successful that Dominion Rubber Co., a crown company, has accumulated a large reserve at national salvage headquarters in Toronto.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

DECEMBER 13

CHRIST THE FULFILMENT OF THE LAW

Golden text: God . . . hath at the end of these days spoken unto us in his Son. Hebrews 1:1, 2.

Lesson: Hebrews 1:1-9; Romans 10:4-10.

Devotional Reading: Romans 8:1-13

Explanations and Comments

Christ the Final Revelation of God, Hebrews 1:1-3. In early times God spoke to the fathers of mankind through the prophets. "The prophets" here includes all those who had spoken for God, all the great men of Israel from Abraham and Moses onward through the prophets themselves. "The author is speaking not of the forms in which God spoke to the prophets, but of the modes in which he spoke through them to the fathers. The message took the form of law or prophecy, of history or psalm; now it was given in signs, now in types" (A. S. Peake).

But now, at the end of these days, in the Christian dispensation, God has spoken to us through the Son, whom he appointed heir of all things, through whom he made the universe. "The author apparently experiences no difficulty in attaching to one and the same Personality the creating of the worlds and the dying to cleanse sin. He who is the end and aim the heir of all things is also their creator" (Marcus Dods). "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. In the beginning was the Logos, Word, or Wisdom. Wisdom was with God from the beginning. That is, God was always Wisdom. And not a material thing. All things were made by Wisdom, or God. The God who is wisdom, and not matter was in the world, and the world was made by him, but it knew him not. Finally Wisdom, or God, became flesh, and tabernacled among us, and we discerned his glory, a glory as of an only-begotten with the Father, full of grace and truth" (Richard La Rue Swain).

Dairy Farmers

Farmers Are Congratulated On Production During 1942

The Canadian farmer is to be congratulated on his production during 1943, and it is very questionable whether dairy farmers of any other country, except perhaps the United Kingdom, can show a better production record this year as compared with 1942 than those of Canada, stated J. F. Singleton, Associate Director of Marketing Service, Dairy Products, Dominion Department of Agriculture, in a recent address to the Dairy Industries Wartime Conference at Toronto.

Dealing with some of the developments in the Canadian dairy industry during 1943, Mr. Singleton said that, while some dairy products might have been at times in short supply in certain parts of Canada, the condition was not due to decrease in the total milk production, but was brought about by meeting demands for exports of cheese, evaporated milk, and butter under contract to the British Ministry of Food. The inclusion of the total of the whole milk in the parcels sent by the Canadian Red Cross Society to prisoners of war, and for canning, sustaining governments in exile, and by the increased requirements of the various armed forces of Canada, were also factors to be considered.

It was estimated that total milk production in Canada during 1943 would be equal to, if not exceeding, that of 1942, and would be about 21 per cent. higher than in 1939.

A kingfisher makes its nest by burrowing a four-inch hole that may extend 30 feet into a river bank.

Six hundred British naval vessels are at sea at any given moment.

Cattle Increase

Beef Cattle Are Prospering On Pre-War Supplies

Canada will enter 1944 with the largest — and healthiest — cattle population ever reported at the opening of a year, officials forecast.

Since 1937, when Western Canadian drought conditions led to severe reductions in herds, the cattle population has increased by about 500,000. Beef cattle, prospering on ample feed available from the 1942 crop, are averaging many pounds heavier than in past years. Dairy cattle are in good condition, with the average milk production per cow higher.

On June 1, cattle and calves on farms totalled 9,800,000, compared with 8,080,000 in 1937. The second yearly count comes on Dec. 1, when there is usually a falling off due to autumn marketings. But authorities said it was probable that the number on Dec. 1 would be about 9,500,000.

New Inventions

Many Things Considered Impossible Are Now A Reality

People must beware of swallowing every story that comes out. They will do well to accept with caution even some of the latest rumors about developments in the field of medicine. They should not expect that the motor cars of the immediate post-war period will be startlingly different from those still in operation.

But they also know that it would be foolish to say of every new development, as did the small boy on seeing a giraffe for the first time, "There ain't no such animal."

The old saying, "Nothing is impossible", seems to be too sweeping. But many things once considered impossible are no longer so. In this day and age, an ever-credulous mind may be an invitation to trouble, but an over-skeptical one stands in the way of progress.—Brantford Expositor.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

MANITOBA FIGHTS V.D.

With the support of churches, service clubs, lodges and other voluntary organizations as well as the public health authorities, the Young Men's Section of the Winnipeg Board of Trade has conducted an intensive community health education campaign. The educational program was not confined to Winnipeg, but is being carried to Brandon, Portage la Prairie, The Pas and Flin Flon.

In each centre speakers were made available to various organizations and special attention was given industrial plants, where large numbers of workers were reached with exhibits and noon time speakers. The churches co-operated with appropriate sermons. Personal letters, personal contacts, posters, booklets, motion pictures and advertisements were used to spread the message of prevention.

Reasons for the campaign were set out as follows:

1. Venereal disease is a foremost wartime health problem; its control is important to a successful war effort.

2. This is a strategic time to develop venereal-disease education.

3. Venereal-disease education is one of the most challenging of all public health educational efforts.

4. As an effort to deal with a wartime industrial problem, the campaign can be conducted on a dignified and positive basis.

Many other Junior Boards of Trade, from coast to coast, are preparing to conduct similar campaigns, most of them to start with Social Hygiene Day, next February 2. The Health League of Canada, through its Social Hygiene Division, is preparing materials for an intensive national educational program.

Fibre Crops

Fibre Flax Is Used In Many Ways

As the Fibre Division, Dominion Experimental Farm Service, is the only organization in Canada carrying out investigational work on fibre crops, the work of the Division is particularly important during wartime. The increase in the acreage of fibre flax in Canada from about 10,500 acres in 1939 to 45,000 acres in 1943 shows the importance of fibre flax for war purposes. Years of investigation as to modern types of machinery for pulling, rippling, retting, and binding, and to the mills for scutching line fibre have been the basis for wartime assistance in developing and equipping modern flax mills. Officials of the Division also give assistance to new operators of flax processing machines on the best methods of operation so as to produce the highest quality of fibre. New growers of flax are also informed about the best methods of growing, harvesting, and retting.

He got the Military Medal. A simple statement, but here is what Acting Corp. Melvin J. Tate of National Hill, Hamilton, did in Italy to win it. At daylight, Aug. 6, mules carrying weapons and ammunition for a M.G. platoon were either killed or dispersed. Tate worked forward under fire, removed the locks of the guns, making them valueless to the enemy. He lost his platoon, and reported to the Regiment and found two enemy machine gun emplacements holding up the advance. Despite the fire, he crept out again and got guns and ammunition back on several trips, which took him about four hours. Thus the Regiment was enabled to advance and silence the emplacements.

Canadian Navy men have unusual experiences. Lt.-Commander W. D. Brown helped to pick up survivors of a Nazi U-boat in mid-ocean. The first man to slowly ascend was the sub-captain.

Recognizing him as his former second officer, Brown immediately helped him to the perforated seaman he had met in Rotterdam before the war. They recognized each other. "I didn't want to look," said Brown, "and I guess he felt the same."

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

"PROBATIONER"

— By —

Margaret Pusloe Hoadland

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

THE first time Peter saw her she was walking down the hospital corridor with a pot of red tulips in her arms. Tall and slim, her smooth black hair parted in the middle and her large gray eyes intelligently alert, she wore her uniform like a queen's robe.

Peter drew a deep breath. "This is she. It's her," he mused a fellow interne.

"Anne Bradford." Mac watched her disappear into the women's ward. "She's a probationer. Started in last fall. Renshaw's put her on the flower service for a while. Afraid if she started her taking temperatures the readings wouldn't be accurate. Not out in the men's ward."

"Introduce me," begged Peter, but Mac shook his head and hurried away; then Peter met Anne dressing in the women's ward which could be done as well as later.

Old Mrs. Fagin was crotchety. "I'm tired of fighting," she grumbled. "Every day you say the leb is better but every night it keeps me awake."

"The leg really is better, Mrs. Fagin. So much better I'm going to let you walk a bit today."

Peter found himself saying: "I'm Anne Bradford's low voice as she talked to another patient. "A lazy bum in Holland, Michigan." Anne was saying, "there are thousands of tulips like this every spring. People come from many States to see them."

Was it Peter's imagination or was there a strain of homesickness in her fresh young voice?

He waylaid her in the corridor. "I'm Peter England," he said. "My home is near Holland and I've seen the tulips many times. They're wonderful, aren't they?"

She smiled in a way that lighted up her whole face and they stood and talked together until Peter saw Miss Renshaw, the supervisor, get out of the elevator. "See you again," he said softly, and went his way.

In the weeks that followed Peter and Anne became real friends. Peter's confided his ambition to be as great a surgeon as Dr. Sykes and was able to keep Anne from utter discouragement on several occasions when Miss Renshaw's sharp tongue had brought tears to her eyes.

Gradually Miss Renshaw learned that Anne Bradford had something more than a lovely face and excellent posture. She saw that she was loved by every patient with whom she came in contact, that she was quick and deft with her hands and had a real love for the hars' profession she had chosen. And one day when two emergencies came in within an hour, she gave Anne her first bit of responsibility.

Peter wasn't around to hear the supervisor say to Anne, "There's a case just coming down from surgery into the women's ward. Stay with her until Miss Redden comes up from the emergency room. Report any unusual occurrence immediately. No medication of course."

But two hours later Miss Renshaw called Peter. "That operative case in the women's ward is hemorrhaging. Dr. Sykes immediately. I've already sent the patient back to surgery."

As Peter proceeded to the operating room he wondered what could have happened to Miss Bradford. He had assisted Dr. Sykes with that ulcer operation and knew there had been no complications. What could have happened in the hour the patient had been back in the ward? If she had been given water, that might have started the hemorrhage.

Suddenly he had a dreadful thought. He remembered meeting Anne in the corridor when he came down from surgery. He had noticed how lovely she looked with so much care in her cheeks. And, when she had asked, "Is it all right for me to give a patient a drink of water?" he had answered, "Of course," thinking she meant one of the chronics to whom the routine says to give drinks that have been the ulcer case? If she had given water to Mrs. Fagin's leg, but—not Anne—was responsible for what had happened.

He passed Anne in the corri as he came down from surgery. "Mrs. Bruning going to be all right," she asked anxiously.

"Come in to know, Anne," said Peter shortly. He found Dr. Sykes in the surgeon's room. Miss Renshaw was there. Peter knew, even in the moment he him to tell that Anne had asked his permission. He was willing to take the blame, but he knew Miss Renshaw would hold Anne responsible. If Mrs. Bruning died Anne would be dismissed from the hospital disgraced — her nursing career ended.

"Miss Bradford." Miss Renshaw's voice was severe "Did you give Mrs. Bruning a drink of water this morning?"

Anne hesitated, then said in a troubled way. "No, Miss Renshaw, I didn't but

Oh, Anne darling, whispered Peter to himself, don't let about it. Miss Renshaw turned to Mrs. Fagin. "Did the nurse give Mrs. Bruning water this morning, Mrs. Fagin?"

Sure, and she didn't," answered the Irish woman positively "The poor woman was moaning and crying for water, and the nurse said she'd go and ask permission. I knew she wouldn't get it. So while Miss Bradford was out of the room, I up and gave Mrs Bruning a glass from me own pitcher."

Ten minutes later Peter held Anne very close to him. "Darling," he said, "I'm afraid you had given Mrs. Fagin water and if you had it would have been all my fault, too."

Anne raised her face from his shoulder. "No, Peter, I should have told you the moment I saw Mrs. Fagin. Her voice was penitent. "Tell me, would I have been dismissed from the hospital?"

"I'm afraid so."

"And now I can go on?" Hime she loved the work!

"Of course, and when you finish perhaps you'll come to Holland, where that being a doctors wife is almost as great a work as being a nurse."

"I shall. I'm convinced already," she whispered.

Major Of The Salvation Army At Edmonton Tells This Story

Major R. Sharp of the Salvation Army Corps at Edmonton reports the following incident: It appears there was too much swearing on the Alaska Highway, so the men in one of the Administration offices at Fort St. John decided to put up a box in their office and the penalty for every "cuss" word was one dime. This showed up the swearing so effectively that soon there was no more money going into the box. They opened it, and sent the contents, one dollar to the Salvation Army with the explained note: "Sorry that we don't swear more on the Alaska Highway but it is the best we can do."

Women Diplomat

Once Crossed Canada With The Mobile Canteen

Mrs. Betty Gibbs—who has just been appointed one of Britain's few women diplomats—is no stranger to Canadians.

The vivacious, sparkling brunette, appointed attache on Lord Halifax's Washington staff, rattled across Canada in 1941 in the "Iron Duke."

The Duke was a battered mobile canteen from which Mrs. Gibbs and co-canteen workers had served tea during the worst of London's "blitz." Wherever they stopped, Mrs. Gibbs gave talks about the work of the canteen unit and about the ordeal by fire that was pouring down on Britain at that time.

Reporters who interviewed the sprightly English woman during her pilgrimage remember her as "good copy," charming, lively and interesting. Probably it was these qualities that got her the job, a few months later, as receptionist at the British Embassy in Washington.

Now the front door of the embassy, she's worked herself to an attache's office in the inner sanctum, and it is spoiled as one of the busy members of the Washington staff.

Mrs. Gibbs, who was widowed in 1941, had two sturgeon at school in Eastern Canada, but the boys are now back in England attending Eton. She is a descendant of Hardod Snaggs, a London banker.

Following Mrs. Gibbs as receptionist is Mrs Yvonne Cripps, who was a companion on the Iron Duke trek, and who is a relative of Prime Minister Churchill.

Aid To Britain

Malcolm MacDonald Pays Tribute To Canadian Farmers

Right Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, High Commissioner for the United Kingdom said at the formal opening of the Export Food Show held recently in Ottawa, that the occasion provided him with an opportunity to pay tribute to the magnificent people of Britain to the vital part Canadian farmers have played in the war.

"In 1940 and the first half of 1941 the citizens of Britain had to bear the full fury of the attack of a ruthless, disgustingly victorious foe," said Mr. MacDonald.

"To survive their ordeal they had to be in possession of a few essential things. First they had to have a fearless spirit; that they were given by Divine Providence. Then they had to have a strong right arm with which to deal some counter blows at the enemy; that was done by the immortal group of boys who manned the R.A.F in those days

"But also the people of Britain needed sufficient food to keep body and soul together until the forces of freedom all round the world had time to come to their rescue to help them to beat back the Nazi conquerors. That essential food was provided in large measure by the farmers of Canada, and you have gone on providing it through all the difficult times that have passed since."

The Other Enemy

Fog And Icebergs Bring Additional Worry To Atlantic Convoys

These are the days and the nights when that other enemy, fog, is creeping on the big silent convoys running without lights in the wartime Atlantic to bring additional worries to the men who travel the sealanes

That other enemy is the Will-O'-the-Wisp of the sea, fog, and the iceberg, fog spawn of the Labrador current and the gulf stream that send off Canada eastward many big icebergs treacherous aftermath of a long, bitter winter

Ships have been lost in that enemy, though no craft of the Royal Canadian Navy has run afoul of the big bergs.

And the Navy puts it bluntly in a press release describing this business of wartime sailing through rough weather seas "It's hell cutting your way through a pea-soup fog with a ship convoy."

It's hell say the Navy because of the shroud that hides 40 sticking prows huddled for protection, because the tension plays tricks on your sense and in the silent oppression you wonder if your reason's snapped

FOOD SHORT IN PARIS

Reports filtering out of France reveal that food is so short in Paris that nearly 1,000,000 persons will have to be evacuated to rural areas this winter to avoid widespread starvation; food parcels from friends in the country are all that sustain some Parisians now.

The letter M has varied only slightly in design from early Phoenician times to the present

Earthquakes In Japan

Geologists Believe Islands Will Eventually Disappear In Pacific

Japan has had much trouble with earthquakes. A number of the United States Geological Survey, says the Japanese islands will eventually disappear completely below the waters of the Pacific.

Japanese scientists reveal the fact that an island in Kyushu has vanished 300 years ago, drowning 5,000. However, we are not likely to get rid of the Jap for that manner. Japan may stay above water longer than some other countries. Scientists show that South America, not so long ago, as geological periods go, was completely under water. The chalk cliffs of England were manufactured by tiny marine creatures at the bottom of the sea. And you find a oyster shells on high mountains, suggesting victorious foe," said Mr. MacDonald. victorious sea.—Toronto Star.

Board of Trade Notes

Mr P. Van Wagenigen, president of the Vermilion and district Credit Union gave a short talk on the purposes of the organization of the board of trade meeting on Wednesday. The credit union was formed here last spring and is growing steadily. The appreciation of the meeting was expressed by Mr. Tom Watts who moved a vote of thanks to the speaker for his informative talk.

Gerald Stephens was in the chair and there were 21 members present. Visitors in attendance were the guest speaker P. Van Wagenigen, Earl Gliddon, Ray Walker, George Newman, and Mr. Moffatt of Unity, introduced by Mr. Ray Norton.

A motion by E. M. Stewart and J.R. Robson, tabled two weeks ago pending the gathering of further information, was report to by the mover and seconder. As result of the facts presented the following motion was passed unanimously: "That the present system of school terms be approved with the recommendation that the school term begin on Oct. 1 and close on July 31." Mr. Stewart Neotman presented the farmers' point of view as well which was decidedly in favor of the present system of the duration of the help shortage.

A motion was made by Ashley Cooper and seconded by Wm. McWhinney.

During in the next few weeks being in the midst of the Yuletide and there being no Wednesday half holidays, the next meeting of the board of trade will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 5th at 12.30 noon at George's Lower Deck

PLANS FOR POST-WAR AVIATION UNDER WAY

It is quite true that our great national and international air services will provide much employment for our airmen and civilians in the post war period. The advent of more and more safer planes for the private owners will also open up a brand new source of employment. You will have your local flight training school, air taxi service, sales and repair service, flying ambulance. Flaking and insulating trips will be made by air. Most of your fresh sea-ripened fruits, fresh fish and other perishables will move by air. All first-class mail will be air borne. And perhaps most important of all, is the fact that new industry will spring up and light industry will be distributed more evenly among the smaller communities. Your airport will become a most important factor in your daily life. With adequate airport facilities in resort areas, Canada's tourist business can be increased by millions of dollars annually.

All the talking in the world will not provide employment for our airmen when they come back. Only action will do that. By action we mean the creation of a committee, unless you already have one, to consider the various post war plans.

Mr. Patterson concluded with further references to the men of the air force and submitted an Honour Roll of the boys who will never return to Canada.

OBITUARY

MRS. CHRISTINA MacPHEE

Mrs. Christina MacPhee, widow of the late Duncan MacPhee, passed away in the Vermilion Municipal hospital on Saturday December 11th, following a brief illness. News of her death was received with sincere sorrow by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. The deceased had lived in the Pelican Lake district for the past 36 years, and was held in very high esteem.

The late Mrs. MacPhee was born at Port Albert, Ont., in the year 1878. The family moved west in 1907 to join Mr. MacPhee who had preceded them in the previous year. They settled in the Pelican Lake district and were among the early pioneers of that area. Mrs. MacPhee lived on the original farm until the time of her death. She was predeceased by her husband in 1.26 and leaves to mourn her passing six brothers in Alberta and one sister in Ontario, one stepbrother Mrs. Hamilton, Vernon, B.C., three stepsons, Gordon MacPhee at Camrose; Howard, Overseas; and William of Pelican Creek; two daughters Velma (Mrs. W. McGimsey) of Meewasine and Edna (Mrs. J. David) Stevenstown, and many nieces, Herbert, Lorn and Norman at home.

The late Mrs. MacPhee is mourned by a large circle of friends. She was a cheery disposed person and never happier than when entertaining her friends and neighbors and especially the younger people of the district. This was characteristic of the late Mrs. MacPhee from the pioneer days to the present time. She was a devout worker in her church, and had a great faith and trust in God. She was very interested in Red Cross work.

The funeral service was held on Tuesday December 14th from the First United church, Vermilion, Rev. Dr. E. S. Reikie officiating. The large number of friends and neighbors attending and the many floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held. A large concourse of mourners followed the remains to their last resting place in the Vermilion cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Messrs Tom Woodward, Frank Wilde, George Tiddy, Jas Kilton, H. W. Brown, C. E. Thompson.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from: Lorne and Norman; Herb. Mousaliee and family; Velma, Walter and family; Edna, John and Mabelle; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith and family; Mr. and Mrs. David; Betty and Evan; Curry and Mabelle; Grossmeadow Public; Mr. and Mrs. Lau; Friends at Clandonald; Maud Family; Edwards Family; Mr. and Mrs. Pausch; Mr. and Mrs. Stickle; Mr. and Mrs. Trotter and family; Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Thompson; Bennett Family; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Brown and family; Kilton family; Mr. and Mrs. Jas Good; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dow; Mr. and Mrs. M.H. Wilkinson; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Welsh; Ruth and Clare; Florence and Hugh Hagen; Pegg McKinnon; Mr Peckon and family; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Mags and family; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Darling; Mr. and Mrs. Isidore Newton; Mr. and Mrs. Orley Omness and family.

J. Warring was in charge of arrangements.

MR. SAM LITTLE

On Sunday, Dec. 5, Mr. Sam Little of Lavoy, Alberta, passed away in the city of Edmonton at the age of 76 years. He leaves to mourn his loss one daughter, two sons, Mrs. O. F. Johnson of Lavoy, William Kreost of Vermilion, and one brother Mr. Little Jon. Also eight grandchildren. The funeral services were on Thursday, Dec. 9th at 2 o'clock from the Anglican church in Vegreville and interment was made in the Riverside cemetery.

BOWTELL BULLETIN

The district was shocked to learn of the death in the Vermilion hospital on Sunday morning of Mrs Darlis, well known and esteemed resident of the Bowtell district. She had undergone an operation some two weeks ago and was apparently recovering nicely when she suffered a relapse. The funeral was held on Wednesday morning. She leaves her husband and five children to mourn her loss. The deepest sympathy is extended to the family on their and bereavement

The sympathy of their many friends in this district is extended to Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Tattersall and family of the Union district who were bereaved this week by the death of their little daughter Shirley. Shirley died from pneumonia in an Edmonton hospital

CANNAR OILS COMPLETE TWENTY-SEVEN WELLS

Fifteen Now on Production

Twenty - seven wells have been drilled in the Vermilion oil field by the Cannar Oils, Ltd. Of these 15 are on production, 4 more are ready to be put on production, and 8 are standing completed. Only two dry holes, No. 6 and No. 23, have been encountered.

Recent completions which give promise of being satisfactory producers are wells No. 25, 26 and 27.

The rig is on location to drill the 28th well, which is No. 28. No. 18 has not been drilled. Three locations are left to drill on the east half of Sec. 20-50-5W4. The first well drilled on the S.W. ¼ of Sec. 32-50-5 gives indication of proving a satisfactory producer as oil rose in the well to the normal level following the drilling and of the cement plug.

The drilling program of the Cannar Company commenced on May 22, 1943 and exceptional progress has been made since that time.

VERMILATA WELLS TO BE PLACED ON PRODUCTION

According to word from the field manager of the company, Mr. P. D. Bowker, Vermilata wells No. 4 and 5 will be placed on production this week. This company has a group of five wells, three of which are already on steady production. The producing wells are among the best in the field and the two that will be placed in the pumpers this week should help hold up the record as they are located in the very heart of the producing area of the Vermilion oil field. A feature of the new wells is that the oil is very clean and contains less than one-tenth of one per cent B.S & W.

Special attention of all milk customers is drawn to the fact that there will be no milk delivered on Christmas Day or on New Year's Day. Patrons are asked to govern themselves accordingly. The full page feature of the new advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

PUBLICITOR JOE REPLIES TO ALDERMAN

Ends Controversy Over Art Wiebe

Published accounts appearing across the line, of investigations being made in regards to U.S. funds spent in Canada, an interesting article taken from an eastern paper shows how closely another Canot project has been played right in the centre of the big new oil fields at Vermilion, Alberta. This project deals with the Staff of Life. The article reads as follows:

"Replying to a query from Ald. Joe Gillespie, one of the Chicago Blackhawk 'regulars', as to why he didn't play Art Wiebe's bakery and there it up so the Hawks defence man could come back to hockey, Publicitor Joe Farrell had his secretary (Johnny Gottselig) dictate the following reply to Ald. Gillespie: "Dear sir: I cannot take over Mr. Wiebe's bakery because I am untitled for the roll and moreover I do not knead the dough.

"Please thought-ful kid me about it anymore because I am not mutin anything and you have a lot of crust to say no."

No Standard Next Week

For the first time in a quarter of a century the Standard will miss an issue, as next week Dec. 30, no edition of this paper will be published.

This decision was reached after consideration of several facts, the most important of which is that the Standard has been running close to the deadline on its newsprint quota. Contributing reasons are that the issue between Christmas and New Year usually carries little in the way of advertising and thus the monetary return is negligible, in fact the paper issued that week is a direct tax on the Editor's pocketbook; next week too, is a short one due to holidays, making publication difficult. These reasons added to the fact that there is a rough commercial work and other year end chores to keep the staff busy and out of mischief for more than the time available next week, have led to the decision to break the practice of a quarter of a century and forward the edition of the Standard for one week.

It is to be hoped that this year's class will equal the achievements of that of last year which brought an H.D.E. scholarship and 3 Grade IX pupils on the honour roll.

The boys' basketball league consisting of four teams has finished the first half of the season. Thursday night Keith Dowdell and Raymond Sellers are tied for first place. Ronald Sellers is in third place.

In that order. After Xmas there will be a rearrangement of players and the three teams will be: Thunderbirds, Mr. Arthur supervising the balls in shape; this is no problem because of anxious red faces.

Mr. Nelson Crowell, editor in chief of the school paper, has the honour of announcing the first edition of the paper to press in the near future.

The girls have not shown as much enthusiasm for basketball as the boys have, perhaps for a very good reason. Not only is the class large, forty-seven, but of these, only fifteen had been played before this fall. Ten of these form two league teams and are the regular high school team, which is, at present, too good for the five teams from the remainder of the class. These girls are learning quickly and are anxious to compete against the high school team at some future date.

So far League Baskbeck's team is leading in games won, and we hope for keener interest after the holidays.

AIR CADETS WANT RECORDS

To Be Left at Kaiser's Tobacco Shop

The RCA Victor Company, Montreal, are making short of material to make gramophone records for the armed forces. They have therefore appealed to the Air Cadets of Canada to collect old 78 r.p.m. broken records, promising that as soon as enough records turned in a new record would be made available for the armed forces.

The Air Cadets have made a real save on the town of Vermilion and quite a number of records have been collected. Persons living in the country are asked to save all their old gramophone records and any old records some will be thankful to receive.

Records from the country may be left at Kaiser's Tobacco shop. Any one in town still having records that have not been rallied for please phone 21 and one of the Cadets will call for them.

Fighting Canada's Battles In Northern Manitoba And Saskatchewan Bushlands

Employees Control Welfare Board

In matters requiring adjustment between the Company and its employees, the latter are represented by the Employees' Welfare Board. This board consists of employee representatives from each department. No salaried employee or person in charge of other employees may sit on the board. The Company has no influence whatever in the election of the representation, this being done by the employees by secret ballot. Employees through their Welfare Board representatives may bring up any grievance, real or fancied, which they may have against the Company without the slightest fear of it being held against them by the Company. In practice, the Company's policy has always been to welcome the opportunity for discussion and settlement of any grievance brought forward as it believes fully in personal freedom and discussion. Thus the cause of any grievance can be readily removed if it is a real one. The British system of free discussion thereby scores another triumph since the relationship between the Company and its employees is based on two of the principles we are fighting for—Freedom of Speech, and Freedom of Employee to join together in discussing mutual problems. Company representatives never attend the meetings of the Welfare Board, except upon invitation, and in connection with discussion is free and without hindrance. Transactions of the Welfare Board are published once a month in their organ entitled "The Bulletin".

The Company is a member of the National Safety Council of America, and of the St. John Ambulance Association. A safety engineer and staff are employed, and in addition employees are taught First Aid. Those who qualify for First Aid certificates receive a bonus of $10.

The health of the employees at Flin Flon is carefully guarded. A thorough medical examination is a required preliminary to employment, and should a man become ill or be injured he is given medical advice and care at the Flin Flon Clinic, in a Company-owned hospital, or at home as conditions may suggest.

Slow To Gain Advancement

A large and well managed mine like the Flin Flon provides a great variety of jobs. Beginners in the Surface and Transportation Department are known as the bull gang, where an aptitude for special kinds of work can find many profitable outlets for the newcomer's interest and ability. From ordinary labor in the bull gang one may graduate to be a helper in a trade connected with the Surface Transportation, Construction, and Machine Shop work Variety adds spice to the work and the experience gained on the bull gang gives one the best general idea of what's going on and what it's all about around a mine as the multiplicity of jobs takes one "all over the works". Outstanding surface workers as they prove competent, adaptable intelligent and prepared for the next opening to come, may become, in time, specialized foreman, etc.

Beginners underground are called muckers. They dig and clean ditches in the haulage tunnels and clean up headings after the mechanical muckers have done the heaviest part of the work of shovelling ore and waste rock. There are many other occupations for beginners underground, but generally it is the muckers who become miners helpers and later miners. Mucker bosses, mine foremen, shift bosses and so forth mostly are promoted from workmen who gained their experience by starting as muckers. Underground accupations include blast hole drillers, timbermen, motormen, pipemen and others.

A surprising number of tradesmen are employed at a large mine like the Flin Flon. These include electricians, mechanics, garagemen, machinists, carpenters, masons, painters, pipefitters, and so forth. All employees receive the full current the cost-of-living bonus. A young fellow starting as a helper learns much about a useful and well paid trade and receives pay increase as his skill improves.

In and around the plant there are many openings for men to work in the rock crusher house, in the concentrating plant, in the smelter, and in the zinc plant. As beginners become competent on a job they can qualify as operators with an increase in pay dependent on their aptitude.

Flin Flon Has Fine Clinic

There is a comforting permanency in employment at Flin Flon, since the Company has reserves of ore to last a good number of years and, moreover, has an exploration department whose job is to find new ways to improve efficiency of operation and increase the output of the metals. It is a good, year-round job too with no seasonal lay-offs.

When Robert Service lived in the Yukon he found the towns inhabited by "two gun" miners with "pokes" full of gold nuggets or dust in their pockets. They bought real licker drinks for themselves and hurid ladies mostly called Lou, and settled their poker disagreements with revolver shots. But a modern mining town is an orderly community with lots of men on a steady payroll,—the class of chap that marries a nice girl and raises a healthy family in respectability and comfort. The tough guy soon finds out that he cannot get along at all in Flin Flon.

Flin Flon Is Manitoba's Fourth Largest Town

The three larger ones are Winnipeg, St. Boniface and Brandon. Its population is roughly 3,700, including over 2,000 living in and around a mayor and six councillors elected by the people. Its municipal assessment is $1,900,000.

Four schools manned by an efficient teaching staff of 64 carry pupils through Grades 1 to 12, instruction in the higher grades being given in an 18-room collegiate. Besides the three R's, boys may learn general shop practice in preparation for later apprenticeship, and girls may learn home-making. Music is taught and a musical festival is an outstanding event in each year. High school students in Flin Flon lack none of the activities that one finds in the larger scholastic centres.

Explanations and Comments

The Wise Men's Quest of the infant Jesus. Matthew 2:1, 2. It was in the days of Herod the Great that Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea. The Wise Men (Magi) of the East came seeking him. Article portray them as kings, but there were not as kings, but there is no suggestion in Matthew's story as to how many they were nor as to their being kings. They belonged to the priestly or sacred class of learned among the Medes, Persians and Babylonians as astrologers, soothsayers and interpreters of dreams. The tradition that there were three of them (Caspar, Melchoir and Balthasar) may have originated from the gifts of three bringing three kinds of gifts, verse 11.

When these men saw a strange star (a conjunction of planets, or a shoce like one star is Kepler's theory) they decided it betokened the birth of the King of the Jews, and started forth from their home in Arabia or Persia or still farther east to offer him their homage.

The Wise Men and Herod. Matthew 2:3-8. When they reached Jerusalem, they inquired where King Herod and all the city by their inquiry for the King of the Jews. Herod feared a pretender to his throne, and the people were terrified probably because they feared to have Herod angered, for he was very cruel and unscrupulous.

Herod wished to know the age of the Child who, he had heard, was to be a claimant to his throne, and therefore learned from the Wise Men the time of the star's appearing. The babe shall not escape his original search, he thinks. Then he sent them to Bethlehem and ordered them to return and tell him where the encircling the young Child, claiming that he too would go and worship him.

The Wise Men Worship the Infant Jesus, and Return to their Country. Matthew 2:9-12. The Wise Men went to Bethlehem and finding the house where the infant Child and his mother, they fell down and worshipped him, paying homage in accordance with the eastern custom of prostrating themselves before him. Then they presented their gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh, the gifts most highly valued in their land.

Being warned of God in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they went home another way.

Shops Many Exports By Germany From Pre-War Scenes

In Great Britain's air and sea front against Germany, the Royal Navy has played a tremendous part. THIS CURIOUS WORLD

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

A Switch In Time

By MADGE ELWOOD
McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Corporal McNew laid his whiskers on the window sill. They were hot and uncomfortable. It wasn't, he thought, military duty to play the role of Santa Claus at the garrison Christmas party. He couldn't, however, disobey his commanding officer. Nor did he want to after hearing about that vacancy for a corporal at the recruiting office in Kansas City. McNew had been born there, Marianne lived there now and only yesterday he'd heard that Marianne had been seen with a fireman. It was time that he went home but a furlough was out of the question after buying Marianne's Christmas present. He'd have to trust to the magic of Santa Claus. Surely the colonel would reward perfection.

The colonel, though, had made his role more difficult. "Er—" he'd drummed on the table with his fingers, "I want you especially to convince my son. Make him believe that Santa Claus is really magic. My son is—er—fascinated by anything in the electrical line. He's been—er—quite disturbing. I've told him that Santa only gives presents to good boys. If you can encourage his belief, it'd help the regiment and—" the colonel had coughed "—me."

He'd been to a party for Santa Claus, McNew thought. Bonny, as every soldier in the regiment knew, was a very skeptical child.

"Hello." Peeping in the window he saw the object of his worries, accompanied by the regimental "nurse" —Henry, the goat. McNew scraped quite a chunk. Too late, he remembered his magic cape. The goat in the regiment had learned, had an appetite. McNew's fears were confirmed when Henry stopped to nibble closet. The whiskers were gone, and he heard Sonny giggling, "I bet Santa Claus can't magic nothing but paper, mean whiskers. I bet he ain't magic at all. Dad doesn't know everything. Say, Henry, I wonder if Santa Claus can see in the dark. I know how to turn off the switch—"

McNew sighed. Soldiers were supposed to be ingenious. But Sonny was clever, too. The Christmas party was to begin at seven. It was six now. How could Santa Claus appear without whiskers? They couldn't be bought at this time of night. McNew associated it a mosquito. It was hot at this Texas border station. McNew remembered some cotton fields he'd seen. Due to a plague of insects not all of the cotton had been picked He hurried out of the barracks, pausing to slap at an early firefly. He grinned as he remembered the fireman. That guy soon would learn what a real soldier could do.

The band played a traditional Christmas carol. Corporal McNew stood beside a gayly decorated tree and began to distribute gifts to the children of the regiment. "Thank you," said a red-headed boy, "is it a football?" Corporal McNew frowned "This was hard work. A curly-headed girl tried to kiss him. A small boy attempted to pull his whiskers. He picked up the package marked with Sonny's name. Sonny had disappeared. McNew called his name again. It echoed to the front of the platform and almost fell as the lights went out.

McNew was not prepared for the tumult that followed. He had hoped to sneak step backwards as tiny lights gleamed about his whiskers. Firemen have magic, he'd thought, and the abandoned cotton he had plucked McNew stepped on a package, stumbled and fell against the tree for support. He caught a branch. Out of the darkness, he heard Sonny's voice: "Yes, Santa, here I am."

"Here " McNew tried to hand the boy the package containing the electric train. A firefly rested on his whiskers. "Here, Santa Claus carries his own lights, you know." He hoped that the colonel was listening. A firefly rested on his cheek.

"Is it magic?" asked Sonny. "And you grew more whiskers "

McNew stumbled again, reached for support. The branch cracked and broke Falling, he caught Sonny's arm. "Here!"

The lights went on. Sonny fled down the steps and McNew saw that the colonel was comforting a weeping boy. Then the swaying tree fell on McNew and his mouth was filled with cedar and tinsel. It didn't matter. A corporal who'd given the colonel's son a switch for a Christmas gift would never be recommended for a recruiting job in his home town. More than likely he'd be sent to the guardhouse.

The Real Success

Of Canada's Victory Loans Depends On Purchases Keeping Busy

The amount of the Victory Loan depends on more than the actual sale of the bonds, which went over the top. The real success depends on the people keeping the bonds they have bought. If they turn right around and sell them their purchase has not the important since it had.

There are cases of financial emergency where people have to sell the bonds to raise cash for some indebtedness. But, in the general run of affairs, it should not be necessary to sell the bonds. Holding them is part of holding the inflation line.—W. L. Clark, in Windsor Star.

1 egg

Mix berries, sugar and water. Bring to boiling point over moderate heat, stirring constantly; simmer two minutes. Spread in 8-inch round pyrex or 9-inch square baking pan.

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt together. Cut in shortening. Soak All-Bran in beaten egg and milk about 5 minutes. Add to dry ingredients stirring only until combined. Drop dough by spoonfuls over cranberries. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Serve warm with thin cream.

Yield: Eight to nine servings

FIRST AID IN ONE JAR

Now painfully removed the cotton from his chin. His suffering was in vain. He could never explain away his mistake.

The colonel wanted to see him. Mc-New hurried. His chin was sore and red, but he managed a salute. "Yes, sir."

"Did you ever act the part of Santa Claus before?"

"No, sir." McNew suppressed a sigh. He wondered if the fireman was home.

"Um—maybe that explains the fireflies and the switch." There was a curious note in the colonel's voice. McNew struggled to explain, but the colonel interrupted: "I hear you want that recruiting job in Kansas City. Under the circumstances, I've decided to recommend you. Sonny wants to visit his grandmother there and you can take care of him on the journey. His grandmother thinks that Sonny is a good boy. I expect you to er—continue to be resourceful."

"Yes, sir." But McNew sighed. He wondered if snow could be used to advantage by a resourceful soldier in charge of an equally ingenious boy.

Cabled Messages From Relatives Are Received Through Red Cross

The Canadian Red Cross has had an arrangement in effect for the past year whereby Canadians can send cabled messages to relatives and friends who are interned or prisoners of war in enemy-occupied countries, officials at Ottawa said

It is understood that Canada is the only country which has such a service but that other countries are considering making similar arrangements and that other projects like radio broadcasts from prisoners to relatives and from relatives to prisoners—have been under consideration.

The Red Cross has definite information that its cabled messages have been delivered to prisoners in Germany and Italy and one or two reports confirming delivery of messages to people in Japanese hands but is not sure the system is working in all cases on messages to territory under Japanese control

FREE ISSUE OF HONOUR ROLL PROVES POPULAR IN CANADA

The attractive Honour Roll issued free of charge to educational institutions, factories, offices clubs fraternal organizations for the purpose of recording the names of the men and women who have volunteered for Active Service with the armed forces is meeting with a wonderful reception on the part of the public, Headquarters announced.

The Honour Roll is artistically designed and it embodies in striking and realistic form the symbols of the historic majesty of the British Empire.

The basic motif is the chain of coral islands with flaming shields showing the maple leaf of Canada the shamrock of Ireland the thistle of Scotland the rose of England and the fleur de lis of France.

In the design on the base are the heraldic flags of the Navy Army and the Air Force, colourings in rich and the whole is reproduced in a special type of

The Honour Roll is available in sizes named for 12 50 100 and 312 names and 25 cents for each additional name. Orders may be placed by writing to the Director of Army Recruiting, Aylmer Building, Ottawa While the Honour Rolls are issued under the supervision of Army Recruiting it is explained that they are for the names of the men and women of the Navy Army and Air Force without distinction on Active Service

The name of the church, school or business together with the star of Roll required should be clearly stated on the application

Blood Donors

Urge Rations Maintain Blood And Build Health

Comparing blood counts has become a fashionable pastime among regular visitors to Blood Donor clinics and having a high blood count has become a matter of pride with the thousands of Canadians who give of their blood that the wounded may live.

Good red blood means a blood stream which carries a sufficient supply of iron to the body," explains Dr. L. B. Pett, director of the government's Nutrition Services at Ottawa

"Even though you may not live within reach of a blood donor's clinic, it is important that you provide enough iron in the day's meals for the needs of the body. Rations which help to build up resistance to colds and other infections

"Iron is found in foods present in the human body in very small, about enough to make five small carpet tacks, but an important in it that, if it were withdrawn, death would follow in a few minutes

For an adequate supply of this important mineral, Dr. Pett lists the following foods that should be eaten regularly. Every day,—whole grain cereals and bread, green, leafy vegetables Potatoes and other root vegetables will contribute more iron if cooked without peeling Three or four times a week an egg, once a week a generous serving of liver heart or kidney

Dried peas and beans, red meat molasses and dried fruits are other foods which rate high as "iron ration"

DON'T SPOIL FATS

Don't spoil fats and foods cooked in fat, with too much heat The unpleasant odour of smoking fat is a warning that the fat is breaking down, chemically Food will be harder to digest and the life of the fat will be shortened for fat that unsmothered becomes rancid more quickly.

The British Army was outnumbered by the enemy in every one of its campaigns in the first three years of war

Health

LEAGUE of CANADA presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

THE HEALTH OF CANADA

It has been estimated that about 200,000 Canadians have syphilis and do not know it. Of these some 30,000 will die prematurely with syphilis-riddled brains and hearts, and in many instances their families will become dependent on the state

This was the message given 500 industrial physicians and nurses, plant managers and personnel officers at Toronto by Lt.-Col. D. H. Williams R.C.A.M.C., chief of the division of venereal disease control, Department of Pensions and National Health, Ottawa. Colonel Williams spoke at an industrial health conference called by the Health League of Canada in co-operation with the Ontario Department of Health

Speaking on syphilis as a saboteur of industrial production, Colonel Williams urged pre-employment and routine Wassermann tests as part of industrial health examinations but added that education of both employers and workers was necessary. He emphasized that "for all practical purposes syphilis is spread only by intimate physical contact and the unsuccessful workers had been discriminated against by being deprived of employment when their condition was discovered. If this attitude continued syphilis would be driven "underground" to continue its insidious ravages among Canada's workers.

"The law doesn't permit any physician to tell management when an employee has syphilis." Colonel William continued, pointing out that secrecy was both necessary and required by law. All the plant physician might do was to report to management on the disease of an employee is to do the work to which he had been assigned.

3 purposes Nits CATARRH Misery Fast!

When acute catarrh makes breathing difficult—causes stuffy head, watery eyes, nasal irritation and distress, put a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol in each nostril and enjoy the relief it brings. Va-tro-nol is so successful because it does three very important things; (1) shrinks swollen membranes of the nose, (2) clears out discomforting congestion and (3) soothes irritation. Many catarrh sufferers say it's the best relief they've found. Try it!

Care Of Cattle

Should Never Give Live Stock Ice Cold Water

For all cattle in winter, particularly for dairy cows, a liberal supply of good clean water is necessary. And an important thing is that the chill should be taken off the water before drinking As pointed out by W. D. Albright, Superintendent, Dominion Experimental Farm, Beaverlodge, Alberta, "watery-coated, constipated cattle shivering humpbacked at icy troughs on a bleak winter day are an object of sympathy and a standing advertisement for shrunken profits." If the water is ice-cold, the animals do not drink enough water. The small amount that they do drink checks natural functions. Results are constipation, ill-thrift, and sometimes indigestion.

Warm water is relaxing and substitutes in part for succulent feed. Half a pailful of tepid water has brought a cow home around after an immersion or after a cold hard drive. Swine do poorly on ice-cold water. It is better to let the drinking tank will not only avoid much ice chopping but will contribute decidedly to the health and comfort of the farmyard stock.

A meeting of the council of the M.D. of Vermilion Valley No. 482 was held in the municipal office on Saturday, Dec 11th, with the following present: Reeve Norman McClellan, Dep. Reeve David McPhee and Crs. Gordon, Shepherd and Kent.

Minutes of the meeting held Nov. 27th were read and confirmed.

Financial statement for November was accepted

At this meeting an extra poll was decided on and now the list is as follows:

Div. 1. Chas McFadyen D.R.O. at his house; Div. 1. Islay Com. hall, Reg Lambert; Div. 2, Union school, A. A. Barr. Div. 2. Baldwin's house, Ed Baldwin; 3. Forbes house, Mungo Forbes; 4. North Vermilion church Geo Mayes; 5. Allandale school, John Nelson; 6 Trimbleville school, A. H. Bush

A refund of $17.66 to Barney Powell for overpayment on seed grain was passed

Payments amounting to $65.50 and bills of $7305.74, which latter included requisitions to both hospitals and school division were passed for payment Council adjourned

Gaston-Watson Red Cross

A meeting was held at the home of Mrs E. G. Green on Nov. 17th with eleven members present. The afternoon was passed by working a quilt and pricing the bazaar articles.

Mrs Grace Isley donated $7.50 to be used to buy material for children's garments The secretary was instructed to buy same and also batts and material for quilts. Thirteen finished articles were brought to the meeting and seventeen pieces of new work given out

The next meeting was at the home of Mrs. Wilson Ford on Dec. 8th, where another quilt was made by the seven members present. The children's garments to be made were given out and a few pieces of work were turned in. Fig in the district accounted for the small meeting and small amount of work brought in. The secretary treasurer reported that the sale of work at the bazaar amounted to $31 60, the net profit of which, $21, was made over to the Vermilion branch of the Red Cross. The belt over articles since then have been sold and added $1.10 to the money raised.

Donation of $5 was received from a friend and one of $2 from R. Proctor, which will be used to buy further material for quilts. Collections for the two meetings amounted to $1.57.

The annual meeting will be held at the home of Mrs T. Preston on June 12, 1944, unless members are notified of another place. We hope every member will try to come and help with another quilt.

WILDMERE WINKS

No news last week owing to the writer being on the sick list from a heavy cold that has been making the rounds.

Here are some late items—Pte. M. Smith of the C.W.A.C. training centre, spent a day visiting at the Burke home in Derwood. Mr. and Mrs. Ken Isley and family were visitors at the same home on that Sunday also.

A pall of sadness was cast over our district on Sunday when word came that George Cruthers, an old timer, had passed away in the Vermilion hospital where he had been a patient the past two weeks. While he had been in failing health for sometime, no one thought his end so near The deceased was one of our real old pioneers He came west and homesteaded here in the fall of 1907 when he had to file his papers at Hardisty, Alta. He returned to Ontario the fall before last. In April of 1944 to his prairie farm on which he has resided ever since. He has thus seen the country change as the years rolled by. In the spring of 1912 he married and his wife survives him, besides two daughters, Mrs Jack Marlborough Mrs. Albert Smith, two sons, Cliff at home and Russell overseas, and one step-daughter Mrs. Harry Phillips of Hendon. There are seventy-two grandchildren, three sisters and one brother in Ontario to mourn his passing Mr. Cruthers will be greatly missed from our district where he has lived for so many years He was in his 69th year. We, along with the entire community extend our heartfelt sympathy to the sorrowing widow and family in their bereavement The funeral was held Wednesday at two o'clock from the United church, Vermilion.

We wish to extend sympathy to the relatives of the late John McInnes of Cummings district He too was an old timer in the west and was past master at the former Cummings I.O.O.F. for many years before it was closed

VERMILION — ALBERTA

ESTABLISHED 1909

Published Every Thursday Afternoon at the Office, Main St.

G. B. P. COOPER — EDITOR

Vermilion, Alta., Dec 23, 1943.

MERRY CHRISTMAS —

This is the 35th Christmas on which The Standard has extended the old familiar greetings to its readers. It never did so with greater heartiness or with keener appreciation of the friendliness they have manifested over the years and of the many tokens of their confidence it has received. These are deeply prized and to earn them will continue to be The Standard's constant endeavor.

Monday December 27 has been proclaimed a public holiday throughout the province of Alberta by a proclamation of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

ISLAY

Born at Islay Municipal hospital to Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Grant, of Derberry, on Dec. 7, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Portsmith, of Tofland, on Dec. 12, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Garnier, on Dec. 11, twin daughters, father and twins doing well.

Islay wishes all readers or the Standard, and the staff of the Standard, a Happy Christmas time — and may next Christmas be a peaceful one for the world.

Pte. Steinhauer left this week for Gleichen and Calgary.

The newly weds Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Purser are settled now. The chairman that Betty was looking for really happened. A great crowd of friends gathered and were met at the door by Gordon carrying a shotgun—but that was not much of a scare — we know his aim! Everyone had a good time.

The Jr. room will have their party on Thursday, and are we looking forward to a nice afternoon!

Skating is continuing quite popular also the teachers. We understand Dolly Magee is going to begin Think we will go down some afternoon with Louis Bousquet of C.N.R., has been transferred to Lashburn. We will miss him on the rink.

The annual public Xmas concert, is not being held this year. Each teacher having a party for their pupils. Mr. White had a glorious time at his home entertaining his pupils. They had an hour or so skating first, then gathered at the house, where games were played, and then a tree was unloaded of its gifts—then a lunch, and what a lunch! Oh Boy, said the children we

ROWTELL BULLETIN

Another Christmas is here again, let us pray ere it is Christmas next year that the world will once again be at peace.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Sherwood were pleased to have as a visitor Mr. B. Robertson of Onion Lake for a few days. He was on his way to Calgary. Mr. Robertson homesteaded in this district 35 years ago and it is 20 years since he last visited Vermilion. He was amazed at the changes in the town.

Ladies are asked to remember that the next quilting bee will be held at the home of Mrs Repp on Wednesday Dec. 29th.

Robert Repp trapped a fine coyote last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson expect to attend Xmas in the north country with their parents.

Jack Harley is busy hauling in the district.

The sympathy of many friends in this district is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Cameron of Hughenden in their great loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Gow and family were supper guests at the home of Mr and Mrs. Sherwood

Grandpa Payne has been quite ill and a quick recovery is wished him.

The teacher has been ill with flu and the school was closed on Thursday last

Thanks, Mrs. Lottie Stone of Islay. May our readers all enjoy a Merry Christmas and a bright and Happy New Year

Due by one the old pioneers are passing on the their well earned rest after battling the many hardships of the early days.

Mr and Mrs. Carlson were Edmonton visitors last week.

Mrs. John Wilson had her sister from Fort Saskatchewan and her brother from Mannville visit her over a week end recently.

We wish our Editor and staff, fellow scribes, and readers, a very Merry Christmas.

VERMILION DISTRICT CO-OPERATIVE Association, Limited

Working together with you, knowing you better, sharing to some extent your good fortune as well as disappointments, the months that have passed since we extended similar greetings have been to us a privilege and inspiration. For your contribution toward this end, for your first class co-operation and sympathetic understanding, we offer a sincere "THANK YOU."

AND, as we come into this new season of Christmas we could have no better wish than we extend to you, that the story of the first Christmas, with all its fullness of promise and hopeful prophecy of "Peace on earth, good will toward men" may bring you unbounded joy again. Let us, in the strength of Him whose birth we now reverently commemorate, carry on, serving gladly where we are that we may hasten the coming of that glad day we look for "When the Lights Go On Again."

Merry Christmas!

THE STAFF AND MANAGEMENT

will never forget that ice cream. Mrs. White surely knows how to make it and serve it!

Our milkmaid got a hot reception for a cold touch at the hospital one morning. She was seen by one carrying or wielding a bottle of hot water. Now who handles the tea kettle a great lot at the hospital kitchen? A weighty question — what?

Elmer Ward of Frog Lake brought down a load of the prettiest Xmas trees that have ever been seen here in a long time—no scrubs in that bunch.

Sales of war stamps are going on in good order. The school children are responding well.

The Christmas service on Sunday was excellent. The church was filled but we could have squeezed in a few more — and those who haven't yet come to the afternoon service are missing much. The Christmas music was wonderful.

We notice Pte. Joe Buchanan at home these days.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Millward since going to Victoria have gotten settled in their own house. While out shopping one day recently Mrs. Millward met Mrs. McEachern on the street. When Lila Bowser gets to Victoria these three ladies are planning some grand visits.

Here is a little poem from two of our boys overseas. If the Editor has room to spare for it;

We're Seeing Things

To Dad and Mom, from Bud and Bill,

We're sitting on a distant hill On foreign soil, I'm sure you guessed

Our thoughts are of home and all the rest.

Of turkey, pie, ice cream and toast And nuts to crack, marshmallows to roast.

Yes, we see you all from this little hill,

And wishing we were with you still, But we'll chase the gob-darn huns away,

And be with you all on a future day. So keep the home fires burning bright.

John G. Clark of Irma was chosen as Conservative candidate for the next provincial election at a convention held in the Royal George theatre, Vermilion.

Heigh ho boys and girls! Gather round and let's talk about a swell contest It provides loads of fun, especially to work for in the way of valuable prizes. You've guessed it the first time, it's the big Roman Wax Colour Chart Competition. Two hundred prizes—fifteen hundred dollars in War Savings Stamps and Certificates to be exact! You bet it does! Listen to The Adventures of Jimmy Dale" Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 2.15 for full particulars.

—V—

A giant Christmas card with thousands of War Savings Stamps attached to it in the shape of a bomb will be sent to England by air to R.C.A.F. bomber headquarters. For each stamp attached there will be the signature of its Ontario buyer. The stamps are to an Air Force Prisoners' fund and the Air Force is to be asked to drop a bomb on behalf of the stamp buyers as near to Christmas as possible and as close to Hitler's head as possible.

Christmas Eve, 1943

"This is the night—the night I've always lived for, year in and year out.

"This one is sure different, though. Instead of sleighbells, we've got tank tracks clanking over the rocks. Instead of stockings over the fireplace we've got Army socks drying on the bushes. Instead of a treeful of presents, Jerry lobs over 155's.

"See that star over there? Looks like a Christmas star all right. It's shining down on our house right now, I bet . . . on Dad and Mom and the kids and Mary.

"They'll be singing carols and it'll sound wonderful. And there'll be a big fire in the fireplace and the stuff on the tree will be sparkling like diamonds.

And after a while they'll hang up the stockings. And finally they'll all go to bed and the kids'll dream of Santa Claus all night long, like I used to.

"Merry Christmas, Dad and Mom! Merry Christmas, kids! Merry Christmas, Mary! Don't worry about me. I'm all right. And, if everything goes okay, I'll be home for next Christmas."

* * *

Let us not fail the boy who waits tonight on a wind-swept hill. Let us try to match his job with ours. Let us work harder in mine and field and factory. Let us buy more and more Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates. Let us resolve now to bring him home before another Christmas comes.

MAPLE SYRUP VALUE OF RATION COUPONS

Although it is proposed to increase the value of "D" coupons for the purchase of maple syrup, it is pointed out by the local ration board that this change will not go into effect this next March 2. This explanation is given in order to correct a mistaken impression which appears to be quite prevalent. Until March 2nd the D coupon is worth 12 fluid ounces of maple syrup, on and after that date it will be worth 20 fluid ounces.

NO INCREASE IN TEA-COFFEE RATIONS NEAR

OTTAWA—The Wartime Prices & Trade Board has announced that there is no prospect of either a suspension or increase in the tea and coffee rations. The administration's statement says that Canada is buying coffee to the full extent of her 1942-43 allocation of shipping and that is barely enough to meet the prevailing rate of consumption. Coffee consumption is 24% above the pre-war level, and 30% as the supply is going to the armed forces Red Cross, prisoners of war parcels and institutions. The result is that our stockpile is only adequate for five months. Our reserve of tea is also below normal level due to the fact that shipping conditions in the Pacific prevent any increase in the supply allotted to Canada by the British Ministry of Foods.

WOODVALE

Once again we wish a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to the Editor and Staff of the Vermilion Standard and to the readers of the Standard as well. Every year we say, "Is it possible, here it is Xmas again". How time flies and still for most of us this past year has been a busy one with lots of work. Which may be the reason the months seem to go so quickly. We all regret that there is still no peace on earth, but are hopeful that part or maybe all of the fierce struggle will be over by next year and as many as possible of our boys still safe and sound, back in our midst.

The children of the district will have a party at the school on Friday afternoon, Dec. 24th, starting at two o'clock. Santa will pay a visit and it is hoped that all the twenty four little ones will be there with their parents and friends. In a very few years there should be no need of closing the school for lack of pupils with so many youngsters growing up.

Believe it or not, we are still threshing in our district and grain is reported drier than before the last snowfall. The days are short, but so mild and cloudless the last week that good progress is being made. It does seem rather funny to be loading racks on sleighs, but it is not so hard work. Even last saturday when a gale blew over the district, the crew at Rankin's kept right on going.

Chester Rankin spent Sunday in Edmonton with Harry Turner and Joe Tompson. The Courier children are expected Thursday evening from Vegreville while Evelynn de Breville will be spending her holidays with her father, coming from Lloydminster where she attends high school.

Bert Portsmith, Jack Lyness and Corey Sabo returned from their hunting trip west of Edmonton. Only the last mentioned shot a moose which was very young and tender, we should say, being very lucky to have had some of it to eat.

Phil is visiting many homes and now Little Margaret Watt is down with the measles. Here is hoping it will not spread in the Yuletide season.

The words which keep people busy for hours deciding which Christmas card to buy are written by greeting card experts who know all about all kinds of sentiment. This year the industry which makes the cards is limiting to every Canadian to attach a War Savings stamp to each Xmas card

WE MUST HOLD THE LINE!

On the home front the battle against inflation is now the most critical of all.

The winning of this battle will contribute much to winning the war.

It will contribute more than all else towards the solution of post-war problems.

• • •

The purpose of Price Control is to prevent inflation. Its purpose is to protect and maintain a basic standard of living.

A higher money income will not be of any advantage if, because prices are going up, our money buys less and less.

To win the battle against unemployment in the post-war period, we must first of all win the battle against inflation.

• • •

Salaries and wages are a large element, often the largest element, in the cost of everything we buy.

If the Price Ceiling breaks down, in the long run all stand to lose.

We must hold the line against inflation to assure victory in war.

We must hold the line to provide a solid foundation on which, after the war, to build a greater and a better Canada.

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

(Week of Dec. 12-18)

Our weather has turned somewhat colder this past Sunday and today, (Mon. 13th) but we cannot complain yet. Some folks are wishing for more snow so that we might have sleighing and simplify hauling etc., as wagons are rough riding over the frozen roads. Some greenfeed remains to be stacked. Most folks are quite busy getting ready for winter which has been somewhat shortened by our good weather—and what's more, we don't mind a bit!

The rig has been going the rounds again. Mrs. Barnwell and Mrs. Matt Farkash both have been sick with it. Several of the school kiddies also have mumps.

Gravelling of the Ottawa road was halted last Saturday. That lay the season hauled north from the pit.

The Chatsworth school concert is to be held on Dec. 22nd and the children are very busy this week putting the final touches to recitations, dialogues, songs etc.

Several of the school children met to skate at Thompson's lake last Friday night. The rather icy half snow half rain which fell last week did not improve the ice but the children enjoyed an hour or two of skating. Jimmie and Keith Fooks and Eleanor Lafrance came out from town for the skating.

Folks in the Ottawa district met at Dell Wayland's home last Wednesday evening and enjoyed a social visit with cards and dancing.

Miss Castel, Miss Almond and Hugh Osbaldeston were visitors to Mar warns last Sunday. They drove down by car to visit Miss Castel's parents and sister.

On Sunday night (5th) some turkey thieves were on the rampage in this district. Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Davies each lost two birds. Mrs. Macdonnell lost three. It is reported also that on the following night Mr. and Mrs. George Brown lost five.

Bob Gordon of the R.C.A.F. is home on leave visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gordon.

Fourteen passenger agents and seven traffic clerks have been assigned to duty by Trans-Canada Air Lines after studying in the largest personnel training school ever held by the air line in Winnipeg. Most of them are women.

Dairy cows require from one ounce of salt daily. It may be d in the meal mixture by adding one pound to each 100 pounds of meal, w it may be fed separately.

One Hundred Concerts Raise $8,500 for Queen's Fund

More than $8,000 have been raised for the Queen's Canadian Fund by a group of volunteer entertainers known as the McCauley Concert Group of Edmonton.

The group was organized by J. J. Hodgkinson one month after the Fund's appeal opened. Since that time one hundred concerts have been given.

Bad roads and winter weather have never prevented the members or this each lost two birds. Mrs. Macdonnell concert group from carrying on their engagements, some forty miles from Edmonton. The voluntary contributions given their time freely and the entire proceeds from concerts are given to the Fund.

News items of all kinds are always welcomed by the Standard.

WE HAVE RECEIVED from a Traveller now serving in the R.C.A.F. the following message in a letter:

". . . to wish you all a very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year, and for the sake of old memories, your friendship that I appreciated, and the good old days when I sold you goods with no restrictions, to earn a few dollars. Now though war has disturbed the peace and pleasure we knew, my thoughts still go roving and I remember you too; wondering whether your lot is O.K. and wishing for the return of a rare visiting day with you."

Like thousands of our boys this man has given up all his personal privileges, that we might hold our Christmas festivities in security. Let us back them up to the limit!

Lease-Lend Reciprocated

DURING ONE OF THE DARKEST PERIODS of the war for the democratic nations, the system of Lease-Land was proposed by President Roosevelt. The food and war materials made available by the United States through this now famous plan, was of great assistance to the people of Britain at a time when they stood alone against the conquering armies of Germany and Italy. Since that time Lease-Lend has taken on much broader applications and all members of the United Nations now participate in the plan, which is a practical example of the community of effort which exists among the people of the United Nations. Canada has this year passed a United Nations Mutual Aid Act, which provides for the distribution of Canadian war equipment, raw materials and food stuffs to the United Nations during the present fiscal year to the value of $1,000,000,000, on the basis of strategic need.

Materials Sent To War Fronts

Because this continent has not become a battle ground our chief concern has been to send war materials to the areas where they are needed. There has been little restriction or reserve on the transfer of supplies from here, although it is provided that we may receive reciprocal aid in the form of services or supplies if it is considered desirable and practical. Between Britain and the United States, however, there has arisen an opportunity for reciprocal action which is a fine example of the co-operation engendered by the Lease-Lend plan. For some time large numbers of American troops have been stationed in Britain, and in providing for their requirements and their comforts the British people have been able to repay, in a very practical way, their debt for the great assistance sent from the United States under the Lend-Lease arrangement. Not only in the provision of enormous quantities of military equipment, and in great numbers of air fields, training camps and army camps, in this debt being repaid, but British civilians are cheerfully sharing with the American many rationed items of which only very small supplies are available.

Much Food Has Been Provided

Food is strictly rationed in Britain and great efforts have been made to increase the production of food within the country. In spite of this scarcity, American soldiers in Britain have been supplied with large quantities of foodstuffs. In 1943 these supplies have included 4,920,000 pounds of bread, 3,500,000 pounds of vegetables, 5,435,000 pounds of potatoes, 7,774,000 pounds of sugar, and 16,351,000 pounds of enriched wheat flour. We are also told that farm land has been set aside for the production of sweet corn for the Americans, although the British rarely use this vegetable. In a similar manner, clothing, which has been one of the most difficult of the British people's ration problems, has been shared with the Americans, and under a system of reverse Lease-Lend, Britain has supplied the American soldiers there with almost all clothing replacements during the past year. In a like manner public utilities, manpower, and recreational facilities are being supplied from Britain's limited resources. The British public is co-operating whole-heartedly in the arrangement and in it is seen a fine example of the community of interests which exists among the United Nations.

Better Eggs

How To Obtain Grade A At The Top Scored

Milk and green feed are two of the constituents of the poultry feed given by a successful commercial egg producer. Ninety per cent of the eggs sold by his home are Grade A all the year round. Here are his methods. Plenty of crushed oats, wheat and barley is kept constantly before the birds in hoppers, also a commercial poultry concentrate and cod liver oil is poured over the whole grain in quantities of about two ounces to 100 birds and fed at the rate of skimmilk to the amount of 10 to 30 pounds per 100 birds, or semi-solid buttermilk, two pounds per 100 birds, to fed daily

Green feed as much as the birds will eat and consist of mixed cut alfalfa or clover hay is fed by the forkful on the litter. This, along with the feeding of mangels or turnips keeps the birds busy and healthy. The birds do not eat the alfalfa but the coarse stocks they leave make ex cellent litter. It does no dampen as quickly as straw. Burns full of hay suitable for poultry feeding are the most significant thing about this producer's plant. He has had no bare-backed or feather pulled birds as in his flock for years. He uses the commercial poultry concentrate to effect shortages in milk, and the quantities given to the birds vary directly in accordance with the supply of milk

They Cliff-Climbing Cars Are Being Rushed Into Service In Naples

The only railway in the world that has its own special theme song has resumed operations at Naples and thousands of Neapolitans are again humming the familiar strains of "Funicul, Funicula." The city's tiny cliff-climbing funicular cars have been restored to activity after two months of idleness caused by German wrecking. Naples, built mainly on hills, has six cog-wheel railways to outlying residential sections. A seventh climbs Vesuvius.

Wood Control

The Application Of Commercial Fertilizers Is Recommended

Experiments during the last ten years have demonstrated that application of commercial fertilizers adds greatly in controlling weeds, according to A. G. Kusch, Dominion Experimental Station, Scott, Sask. This is good news for the farmer for whom weed control has become more difficult because shortage of farm machinery have interfered with proper tillage. The fertilizer is successful because it provides the growing plant with a readily available source of food, thus enabling it to form a vigorous root system quickly. The crop thus weed needings are starved out and prevented from establishing themselves.

"In general," says Mr. Kusch, "the drier the climate, the lighter the fertilizer application required for effective control." In the prairie provinces, triple superphosphate and ammonium phosphate fertilizers drilled in with the seed, have been effective. Rate of application may vary from 20 to 50 pounds per acre. Barnyard manure used alone is inadequate for weed control, but useful if combined with commercial fertilizers.

Doing Good Work

Canadian Engineers Have Left Their Mark In Old Country

Canadian army engineers have left permanent marks on the English countryside through their wartime activities, Brig. James L. Melville, former engineer commander who now is chairman of the Canadian Pension Commission, said.

The marks include arterial highways, by-pass roads and airfields. The Canadian sappers also made important contributions to exploitation of Britain's mineral resources by operations in the tin mines of Cornwall and exploration for minerals and ores in many parts of the island

The speed with which one special job was carried out by a Canadian road construction company amazed the British contractor and government department concerned. A large excavation more than 60 feet deep had to be made in a subsoil of sand-stone and blue clay. It looked like many months for the contractor's pick-and-shovel gang.

Canadian tractors, bulldozers, scrapers and pneumatic drills were moved on to the job, three eight-hour shifts were started and in two weeks the excavation was completed.

Strides have been made in the technique of demolishing obstacles of all kinds. Tunnelling companies of the Canadian Engineers have demonstrated their skill and under which is known as the V-Bundle of Manitoba. Rejuvenation of old clothing, which is sent across the seas, is the victory task of a large number of Winnipeg volunteer workers.

Many women, some with grown families, others with teen-age children, and office workers who have free time in the evening, are donating all their spare hours to this work. Evidence of what has been accomplished during one year would fill to the roof many rooms of a house. Reconditioned garments numbering 138,000 were sent overseas from this tireless group to be distributed among those who had been bombed out of their homes.

Much of this work is carried on through the Women's Voluntary Service centre known as the Bundle of the Central Volunteer Bureau. V-Bundles of Manitoba opened its doors more than two years ago in a loft building in the downtown district of the city. Since then it has moved into larger quarters where the women's groups, including church societies, institutes and legion auxiliaries work together.

Any garment with re-make possibilities is accepted by V-Bundle of Manitoba, although the cleaner and newer the garment, the better the workers like it.

The women have developed a "gular assembly line technique. garments arrive at V-Bundles of Manitoba, they are first sorted according to kind and condition, after which they are either washed or cleaned before being sent to the work room. In the work room an army of workers recut, sew and mend. By the time the garments are ready for packing they have been completely rejuvenated.

Bundles For Britain

Manitoba Doing Excellent Work in Supplying Clothing

Canadians, particularly during the Old Country "blitz-winter" of 1940-41, heard a great deal about an American organization known as Bundles for Britain. It is very unlikely, however, that the same Canadians know very much about another organization right here in the Dominion which is known as the V-Bundles of Manitoba. Rejuvenation of old clothing, which is sent across the seas, is the victory task of a large number of Winnipeg volunteer workers.

Many women, some with grown families, others with teen-age children, and office workers who have free time in the evening, are donating all their spare hours to this work. Evidence of what has been accomplished during one year would fill to the roof many rooms of a house. Reconditioned garments numbering 138,000 were sent overseas from this tireless group to be distributed among those who had been bombed out of their homes.

Much of this work is carried on through the Women's Voluntary Service centre known as the Bundle of the Central Volunteer Bureau. V-Bundles of Manitoba opened its doors more than two years ago in a loft building in the downtown district of the city. Since then it has moved into larger quarters where the women's groups, including church societies, institutes and legion auxiliaries work together.

Any garment with re-make possibilities is accepted by V-Bundle of Manitoba, although the cleaner and newer the garment, the better the workers like it.

The women have developed a "gular assembly line technique. garments arrive at V-Bundles of Manitoba, they are first sorted according to kind and condition, after which they are either washed or cleaned before being sent to the work room. In the work room an army of workers recut, sew and mend. By the time the garments are ready for packing they have been completely rejuvenated.

PLENTY OF NERVE

The Nazis, who have been plundering France, now are asking the Vichy government for indemnity for damage to German industrial property in France through Allied bombing, members of the French delegation to London said.

Royal Air Force

Has Done A Tremendous Job Of Destruction Against Enemy

In Great Britain's air and sea war front against Germany, the Royal Air Force has done a tremendous job of destruction. It was given the task of crippling the German war machine, and in a single year, from the spring of 1942 to that of 1943, R.A.F. raids on Germany are estimated to have reduced overall industrial output by from 15 to 20 per cent. This percentage has now been increased by further R.A.F., R.C.A.F. and U.S.A. air attacks.

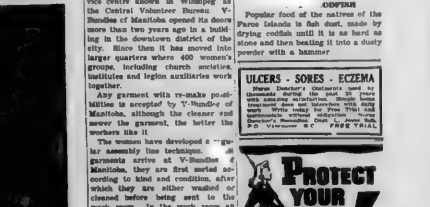
Canucks Enemies Their Handiwork



Sees No Rush Of Settlers To Northern Areas

OTTAWA.—The permanent population of Canadian northlands, opened up by the Alaska military highway and air routes, probably never will be great as that of more southerly districts but major tourist traffic may be expected, Dr. Charles Camsell, deputy resources minister and Canadian chairman of the north Pacific planning project, said in an interview.

During last summer the northwestern area adjoining the highway had been examined by mining, agriculture, forestry and tourist traffic authorities, he said. Canada and the United States are co-operating in development of the region, each in its own territory, with the highway and the Canol pipeline only two of the instances of intensified collaboration.

Dr. Camsell said he feels it would be an error to look for a great rush of settlement to the far north. The country would support a larger population than at present, but there was little likelihood of a density of permanent population north of the 54th parallel comparable to that in other parts of Canada.

Dr Camsell said few countries have such tourist attractions to offer as the northwest. But an immediate movement of tourists over the highway after the war was not to be expected. Much improvement would be necessary before the road was of a standard to which tourists have become accustomed elsewhere.

Dr. Camsell has intimate personal knowledge of much of the country through which the highway passes. He was born at Fort Liard, north of the highway, and was a member of a number of exploration parties in his youth.

Opportunities for sportsmen will be found in areas where hunting is permitted, he said.

In Alaska and Canadian territory covered by the north Pacific plan ning project, the main forest categories were the accessible coastal forests in British Columbia; the interior forest area in central British Columbia north of Prince George and along the Peace and Findlay rivers, and the northern forest covering the remainder of the area in British Columbia, northern Alberta, the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

The coastal forests, including Sitka spruce, were the most valuable. Central interior forests had great potential value and only awaited further road and transportation. North western forests, however, were of poorer quality and possibly would always be restricted to meeting local needs.

In the southern part of the region, including central British Columbia, the Alberta Peace River block in British Columbia, agriculture was well established. Along the Alaska highway there were no large blocks of good agricultural land, except in the Fort Nelson area and one fairly large tract west of Whitehorse. In other sections, pockets of land probably could provide for the garden requirements of the population.

TO BE CONSIDERED

Dominions Have To Study Question Of Post-War Immigration

LONDON—The United Kingdom government has been in consultations with the Dominions regarding post-war immigration but no definite progress has been reported so far, Viscount Cranborne, Dominions secretary, told the house of lords.

Lord Cranborne added it would not be fair to expect the dominions to express their views until all the local aspects had been considered because they had to think first of their own servicemen and the effect of immigration on the economic situation of their countries

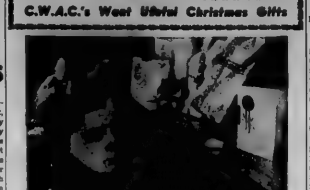
Regarding transfer of social security contributions of emigrants to the dominions, Lord Cranborne said the matter raised "considerable difficulties" but the government hoped to devise a satisfactory solution

MAY HAVE COMMAND

LONDON.—Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, sent to shaky northwest Europe as a kind of anti-invasion chief, may be given supreme command of the German army by Hitler in an effort to forestall an anti Hitler peace plot by Junker generals, refugee leaders with close underground contacts in Germany said.

The German army cook book recommends that small amounts of soybean flour be added to almost every item on the menu.

C.W.A.C.'s Want Useful Christmas Gifts



When Miss Canada in Khaki hangs up her stocking this Christmas, whether it be at her own family fireside or in a distant barracks, she is hanging it with the hope that Santa will remember her with gifts which will prove useful in her Army career.

An Army girl has not much space for unessentials. She must conform to rigid regulations in the matter of dress, and must be prepared at any time to pack all her belongings into a kit bag and push off for new territory.

A recent questionnaire submitted to the girls in the Canadian Women's Army Corps revealed that lingerie—dainty, feminine and lace trimmed—was the most "hoped for" gift this Christmas. Second choice was a gay colour-splashed housecoat, this was followed by khaki shirts, handkerchiefs, cosmetic sets and leather bound writing kits.

A further bracket contained such luxury items as a bedside radio, camera, cigarette case, identification bracelet, Arbine-crested ring, feminine bedroom slippers, and sleeveless sweater.

In these days of rationing, requests for candy and cake are hard to fill, but a box of home-made fudge would be well worth that extra coupon.

Plea for all service girls is "please no stuffed panther, umbrella stands or gaudy pieces of jewellery!"

No Great Change In Building Of Post-War Homes

OTTAWA.—It may be cruel to interfere with the building of castles and bungalows—in the air, but . . .

Housing Administrator F. W. Nicolls said that in his branch they think the average Canadian post-war home won't be built of plastic, won't be heated by the sun, and won't cook meals by the touch of a button.

In fact, the post-war home probably will be very like those of today with perhaps some improvement in arrangement of rooms, a slight increase in size and a few new fittings Mr Nicolls said. Some of the homes may be pre-fabricated. Prices generally will be governed by prevailing conditions not readily foreseen.

Mr. Nicolls said his branch is doing plans for what it expects the post-war house would be like While they are not intended to compete with the work of architects designing houses for individual customers, they would give an indication of probable trends in construction.

In a recent statement on post-war building probabilities, Mr. Nicolls said there never was a time when many new ideas and innovations were being developed for building. There had been some "fantastic" publicity on what the post-war home would be like.

The "freakish" house, containing all suggestions for housing improvements, would always be beyond the reach of the average man

The administration's plans for the post-war home make no provision for plastic construction or for such novelties as circular ice-boxes

In recent years there had been a trend towards smaller houses, but the probability was that slightly larger homes would be more popular after the war. Even the smaller houses might be better arranged so floor space was used more economically.

FINAL RETURNS ON LOAN

OTTAWA. — Final compilations show that in the Fifth Victory Loan campaign ending early last month there were 3,008,536 cash applications for bonds worth $1,383,275,250 —$183,275,250 more than the minimum cash objective— Finance Minister Ilsley announced.

SIMPLER FORMS

For Anyone With Yearly Income Not Exceeding $5,000

OTTAWA.—The man with the 1943 income not exceeding $3,000 will find the job of filling out his income tax form a little simpler than he did this year, it was indicated when copies of the new "T-1 Special" form started coming off the presses

More complicated forms are required for persons with higher incomes

The new "T-1 Special" is of four pages as before, but the last two pages are devoted wholly to tables showing the tax payable on various incomes by persons having various numbers of dependents.

The order of the questions is changed somewhat and they are broken down into greater detail this year. Where there were 14 main questions, each with a number of sub-questions, in last year's form, there are 17 main questions this year

A factor which caused some taxpayers confusion this year—the remission of 50 per cent. of the tax through adoption of the "pay-as-you-earn plan"—is not present this year. That in itself leads to simplification.

In the table of tax rates are 12 columns covering every situation from "single with no dependents" to "married with eight dependents." The new form puts the classification in print at the top of the column of taxes payable whereas in the old form usual was an identifying letter—"A," "B," "C," and so on—and referred the taxpayer to a key for interpretation

HIGHEST AWARD

R.A.F. Pilot Wins Victoria Cross For Devotion To Duty

LONDON.—The Victoria Cross has been awarded to Fit. Lt. William Reid, 22, of Bailleston, Scotland, who ignored head, shoulder and hand wounds to fly a crippled Avro-type Lancaster bomber 200 miles over enemy territory to the target at Duisenderfeer on the night of Nov. 3. The flight was made without oxygen and the courageous pilot suffered severely from the cold. His navigator was killed, his wireless operator fatally wounded.

The youngster had memorized the course so well that the bomb-aimer knew nothing of his captain's injuries or of the casualties to his comrades.

The citation said that Reid, now recovering in hospital, showed "superb courage and leadership . . . his tenacity and devotion to duty are beyond praise."

PRESUMED DEAD

But Body Of Famous British Air-Ace Not Found

LONDON.—Leave was given by Lord Merrimac in probate court to presume that the death of airwoman Amy Johnson, famous British peace-time flier and afterwards an air transport member, occurred Jan. 5, 1941, or since then, when the plane she was flying came down in the Thames estuary.

The application for presumption of death was made on behalf of the executors of her will.

No trace of Miss Johnson ever was found other than two bags floating near the wreckage.

Shipments Of Grain Heavy From Lakehead

WINNIPEG —An emergency program completed 100 per cent., the Canadian wheat board, with its allies — Argers and transport experts — to deal to new problems, the re-stacking of lakehead terminal elevators during the winter and plans for the movement of substantial grain supplies to the Pacific coast.

Increased movement from country elevators will be the next step in assuring adequate supplies for the opening of navigation at lakehead ports in the spring

During the 1943 navigation season some 373,750,000 bushels of grain, the second largest movement in the history of the Great Lakes, were shipped from Port Arthur and Fort William. This vital flow of wartime stocks was only 10,000,000 bushels less than in the record crop year of 1928.

When navigation closed Dec. 12, there remained less than 14,000,000 bushels of all grains at the lakehead, including about 6,000,000 bushels of wheat

Behind the huge movement is a story of co-ordination—team-work of shippers, transport agencies and the grain trade generally.

Ten weeks before the close of navigation it was estimated that 153,000,000 bushels of grain would have to be available at lakehead to meet vessels and rail movement demands. It meant that 72,000,000 bushels had to be moved from prairie elevators in the 10-week period.

This called for emergency measures. Huge grain lineups hundered across the prairies and when the season closed 70,000 cars, carrying a total of 83,000,000 bushels had moved.

When the last boat cleared the lakehead, 153,200,000 bushels, slightly above the emergency objective, had been shipped

Terminal stocks of grain are at the lowest levels in years, and at Port Arthur and Fort William.

"The performance of the transport controller, the railways, the Canadian shipping board, the lake vessel operators, the Lakehead Clearance Association and the grain trade generally was simply magnificent," said officials of the Canadian wheat board here

In western country elevators to day there are stocks of wheat totalling 200,750,000 bushels, including approximately [illegible] bushels in the week ending Dec. 11

The wheat board explained that producers at many shipping points in western Saskatchewan and Alberta had not benefited from the large country movement in recent weeks Delivery quotas are at low levels but the board said

"Plans now are under way to relieve these points as rapidly as possible"

To meet the earlier emergency, it was necessary to ship from country points most conveniently located in Manitoba and parts of Saskatchewan.

PERMANENT FOOD COMMISSION

LONDON The British government has been so gratified with the results of [illegible] in the nation's health, it plans the creation of a permanent post-war food commission to guarantee a maintenance of health standards under any economic conditions.

Will Maintain United Kingdom Bacon Supplies

OTTAWA.—A long-term agreement under which the United Kingdom would purchase bacon supplies from Canada over a period of four or five years has been suggested by Canadian officials and now is under consideration in London, it was learned.

Under a new agreement effective in 1944, Canada undertakes to provide the United Kingdom with not less than 450,000,000 pounds of bacon in each of the next two years. Because of the need of maintaining the British bacon ration of four ounces a week Agriculture Minister Gardiner has asked hog producers to seek production to permit annual shipment of 600,000,000 pounds.

An increase in prices for hogs is considered likely as a method of encouraging continued high production, agriculture authorities said but they expressed belief assurance of a market at existing prices for more than two years would induce many farmers to continue in hog production.

The price factor is concerned not only with the British, but also the Canadian, ability to pay. A substantial part of the bacon sent to Britain is provided for out of the Canadian mutual aid appropriation of $1,000,000,000 approved at the 1943 session of parliament, and there have been estimates that the Canadian share of the payment is one-half

Meat is a Dominion-provincial agriculture conference in Ottawa. Mr. Gardiner warned against increasing wheat acreage in the west. He put forward the view that wheat and hog production could not both be increased. He said the major demand appeared to be for coarse grains and meat products

To provide all the bacon the United Kingdom requires, some adjustment in the supplies available to Canadians may be necessary, authorities said, but it has not yet been considered immediately. The present record-breaking flow of hogs to market represents almost half as much again as can be delivered to British immediately. Bacon stocks can not be held in cold storage indefinitely, and it is necessary to dispose of pork products in the home market.

Officials said it is anticipated hog shipments to the United Kingdom can be maintained on the basis of 600,000,000 pounds per year at least until June. Thereafter the supplies required may be more difficult to obtain and for this reason farmers are being asked to maintain stocks at the highest level possible.

GERMAN ROCKET GUN

Britons Not Scared About Hitler's New Secret Weapon

LONDON. — German-inspired reports that Hitler has a long-range rocket gun as a weapon were received by ordinary Britons with sober realisation of the many possibilities in the way of "frightfulness" they were far from panicky or alarmed.

The general attitude is: "What's the betting he'll bring one? And even if he has a secret weapon it won't save Germany."

Officials are silent, but some military commentators are willing to concede that the Nazis may have some such long-range gun they will eventually try

One report heard here was that the Germans tested rockets a few weeks ago along the Baltic coast and a gun expected to hurl the projectiles 250 miles proved a miserable failure.

ARMORED WAISTCOAT

Makers Receive Personal Thanks From American Flyers

LONDON —The British workers who made the first body armor for American fliers received personal thanks from several men whose lives it had saved

The airmen travelled from their bomber bases to the works of the Wilkinson Sword Company, Ltd., on the outskirts of London where they trained the employees to cheers with accounts of bullets stopped by their armored waistcoats" as they call the flak suits

The Wilkinsons made the famous "Stalingrad" sword presented by Prime Minister Churchill to Premier Stalin at the Teheran conference in commemoration of the Russian stand at Stalingrad in 1942.

Canada took the first census of modern times in 1666 when 3,125 persons were enumerated in New France.

OBITUARY

JOHN McINNES

The funeral services of John McInnes, aged 77 years, who passed away at the home of his son in the Cummings district on December 13th, were held in the Auburndale church on Thursday, December 16th at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Interment took place in Auburndale cemetery. The Rev. E. Sinclair Rethie officiated. The pall-bearers were Gerald Elward, Preston Mecham, Alex Stone, James Irving, Harold Barlow and Gordon Larsen.

Mr. McInnes was one of the earliest settlers in the Cummings district, coming from Alida, Iowa, in 1906 to homestead here. For many years he was postmaster and he always took a keen interest in local affairs. He was predeceased by his wife in 1926. Left to mourn his loss are one son Ivan and four grandchildren, as well as many friends and neighbors.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from: Iran and Winnifred; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Arthur; Mr. and Mrs. John Green; Mr. and Mrs. T. Cairns; Agnes and Jeff; Grace, Joe, Chris and Pat; the Harrsvelas family; Mr. and Mrs. L. Barlow and family; the Macnab Family; Sgt. Brown; Jim Irving; Dessie and Alex; Rose and Daisy; Amy and Harold; Vera and Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eyben; George, Agnes and Henry; Mr. and Mrs. W. Irving; Frank and Emma; Herman and Jennie; John and Florrie.

Mr. Waring had charge of funeral arrangements.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of

William Cummings

—who died on December 21st, 1942.

"Time speeds on, one year has passed,
Since death its gloom, its shadows cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright.
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light, and ever will,
Its vacant place, there is none to fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain
For up in Heaven we will meet again.

—Ever remembered by his loving wife, Fred and Ruby.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our darling

Alvin Arnold

—who passed away Dec. 24th, 1942.

He went away without farewell;
He said goodbye to none,
Heaven's gate was open wide
A loving voice said come
Beside his heavenly home.
Our hearts are wrecked and sore,
But through the gloom cometh word
Not lost but gone before.
No one knows how much we miss him
Only those who have lost can tell.
Or the grief that we all suffer
For the boy we loved so well.

Honorable W. A. Fallow Accepts Grouard Nomination

Vermilion Representative Since 1926

Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works and member of the provincial legislature for Vermilion since 1926, will be the candidate for the northern constituency of Grouard in the next provincial election. Nomination and its acceptance occasioned considerable surprise in Vermilion where it was taken for granted that Mr. Fallow would again run, and in political circles generally.

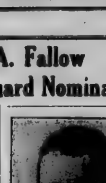
The Grouard seat is now held by Capt. J. H. Trembley, Liberal, who is overseas with the Loyal Edmonton Regiment.

Invitation to stand for election in the north was given at a nomination convention at McLennan in November, but announcement was withheld pending acceptance. A. D. Randall, of High Prairie, secretary of the party executive, now reports the minister has accepted.

Mr. Fallow told the Journal that he received the invitation to contest Grouard some time ago. As a result, he had conferred with the Vermilion S.C. organization, which was unwilling that he should stand for a different seat to that which he had represented.

The minister said he had discussed the matter with the premier, and finally it was decided that in the interests of the S. C. movement, he should accept the Grouard nomination.

Mr. Fallow was elected for Vermilion, his home town and district, in the election of 1926 which brought



HON. W. A. FALLOW
Provincial Minister of Public Works

Social Credit party into power and was given his present portfolio in the cabinet immediately following.

Mr. Fallow had a close run in the Vermilion constituency in the 1940 general election, when he won over F. C. Hackbart, Ind. On 1st count, the vote was: Fallow, 2,209; Hackbart, 1,815; J.T. McDuffe, C.C.F. 836. On the second count, with Mr. Duffe eliminated, Fallow received 2,566, and Hackbart 2,118, or a majority of 356 for Fallow.

In the 1935 general election, when Mr. Fallow was first elected to the house, he won with 2,685 on the 1st count, compared with 1,437 for J. C. Hunter, Liberal. On the first count, Fallow had 2,852, Hunter 1,982, Hon R. G. Reid, then premier, U.F.A. 876, William Halina, Communist 438, and A. E. Williams, Conservative, 241

GROUARD JUBILANT OVER ACCEPTANCE OF HON. W. A. FALLOW

(Grande Prairie Herald-Tribune)

HIGH PRAIRIE, Dec. 21. - The members of Social Credit Party of Grouard constituency will greet the New Year in a jubilant state of mind since it is announced by J. L. Lavoie, executive president, that the Hon. W.A. Fallow, Minister of Public Works will accept the nomination to stand as candidate for Grouard in the forthcoming election.

Although the news was not made public at the time, delegates to the Constituency Nominating convention, McLennan, Nov. 19, voted to extend an urgent invitation to the Minister to stand as Provincial member for Grouard and his acceptance has just been received.

The Hon. W. A. Fallow is well and favorably known throughout the north where the interest in roads is paramount, and his name will doubtless unite stakeholder and interest in harmony impossible to a less notable

Bob Burns Missing

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Burns received word on December 24th that their son Bob, with the Canadian troops in Italy, had been reported missing. No further information has been received.

Bob is a Vermilion born boy and lived here until he enlisted early in the war. He spent considerable time in England, subsequently taking part in the fighting in Sicily and Italy.

VERMILION BOYS WOUNDED IN ITALY

Bernard Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cooper of the Tofland district, and Charles Robson, son of Mrs. C. P. Robson of the Ottawa district, have been wounded in the fighting in Italy, according to word received by their parents here this week. Extent of the boys' injuries are not yet known. Robson was wounded on Dec. 11 and Cooper on Dec. 25th.

EARLY CLOSING FOR SATURDAY EVENINGS

Commencing Saturday Jan. 8th and continuing throughout January, February and March, stores and business places will close at 7 o'clock on Saturday evenings. All country and town patrons please make a special note of this.

Canned Salmon To Rationed

OTTAWA — Canned salmon will join the list of rationed commodities on and after Jan. 17th, the ration administration, Prime Prices and Trade Board announces.

Rarely seen on the civilian market during the past two years, now about 200,000 cases of canned salmon are being released, but to assure fair distribution, under rationing order.

Brown stamp coupons will be used to purchase canned salmon, each coupon being good for ½ pound of the fish. The canned salmon will likely be packed in ½, ¼, and 1 pound tins the Board announces

COLDEN WEATHER

The fall and winter months of 1942 will go down in history as equally as mild as any experienced in the west for the past 40 years, and during which the thermometer only dropped below zero for 13 very brief periods. The month of December itself ranks as the fourth warmest since 1895 New Year's Day and the two holidays following were mild but the old mercury slipped Monday night to 7 below, Wednesday morning to 5 below and this Thursday morning's reading being 12 below. Very little snow has fallen and roads are still open all over the country.

Refuse Extension Of Airline Service

Considerable disappointment was registered at the Board of Trade meeting on Wednesday, when it was divulged that the Department of Transport at Ottawa has refused the application of the Canadian Pacific Airlines for an extension of an airline service from North Battleford to Edmonton via Vermilion and Lloydminster. No reasons were given in the notice of refusal received from the government.

Canadian Pacific Airlines made application several months ago and said no additional planes and equipment would be needed. The Edmonton, Lloydminster and Vermilion Chambers of Commerce endorsed the application.

Planes of C.P.A. now fly from Regina to North Battleford, but no planes fly from North Battleford to Edmonton. While the application was being considered, several test flights were

VICE-PRESIDENT'S CURLERS TOO SLICK FOR PRESIDENT

Win Opening Competition 89 - 84

President Jack Beresford started his curlers' season with the good example of 1 up win over Vice-Pres. Bill McLaughlin's quartet skipped by Gordon Park, but his curlers failed to profit by the good example set and the end of the competition saw the Vice-President's total for the 10 games 5 to the president's 4.

Results by games were as follows with the President's rinks being the

A New Year's Message From Premier Manning

I am grateful for this opportunity to extend for the first time as Premier the sincere best wishes of myself and my colleagues to all for a happy and prosperous and victorious New Year.

As we stand on the threshold of 1944 we can look with confidence into the future with greater confidence than we have known during the past four and a half years of war. We have the unconquerable assurance of our highest military leaders that if each of us does his or her share victory may crown our efforts in the year ahead. Last year we have witnessed with admiration the heroic achievements of the fighting forces of the United Nations. We have learned with justifiable pride and undying gratitude of the gallant feats of arms performed by Canada's own fighting sons.

While cheering news comes from the battle fronts of the world we may also find much at home to sustain our bright outlook. Our production levels have soared to unprecedented heights, our harvests have been bountiful and our people in all walks of life are working together with one united purpose to hasten the day when bored ones will at long last be reunited and when the din of battle will give way to a just and enduring peace, but let us not be satisfied with what has been achieved. Our task is not yet finished. Let us therefore go forward into the New Year united and resolute in our determination to stand shoulder to shoulder with our fighting sons in the hour of their supreme test and to do our part to make Canada a country worthy of their magnificent

We would do well as a people to adopt as a national resolution for the coming year the memorable words of Abraham Lincoln

"With malice toward none; with charity for all; with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nation's wounds; to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow, and for his orphan to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

SURVEY OF FARM HOMES

The following results were obtained from a survey of 1,097 farm homes in Saskatchewan conducted by the economics division of the federal department of agriculture and the department of farm management of the University of Saskatchewan, in the years 1939-1942:

Out of 1,097 homes in the districts surveyed in the prairie area, only 67 were in good condition; 772 were fair, and 258 or 23.5 per cent were in poor condition.

In the park area, out of 616 houses, only 59 were good; 362 or 58 per cent were fair, and 195 or 31.6 per cent were poor.

In the pioneer districts, 37 out of 484 farm homes were good; 297 fair, and 564 or 56.5 per cent were poor.

Note was taken of the age of the houses, and this showed that 72 per cent in the prairie area were from 20 to 40 years old; 40 per cent in the park area were built in the last 20 years, and 92 per cent in the pioneer area were built in the same period.

The conclusion reached is that:

"At least 50 per cent of the houses in poor condition need to be replaced by more adequate and suitably constructed dwellings and the remaining 50 per cent need at least about one half of this replacement cost to put them in proper condition.

"Farm houses in fair repair would need about 10 to 20 per cent of the present value spent on repairs to put them in satisfactory livable condition."

MILITARY DETENTION MAKES BETTER SOLDIERS

Term in "Glasshouse" Not Relished

OTTAWA — No self-respecting Canadian soldier relishes a term on "Bloody Hill" or in the "Glass House", or whatever his pet name may be for military detention barracks. But if he does get detention he takes his medicine and comes out a better soldier for the experience, the reason being that the medicine is not so hard to swallow if he shows a willingness to cooperate. "Those rather than punishment is the catch phrase for Canada's modern method of dealing with soldier delinquency, and Fort Osborne detention barracks at Winnipeg provides a good example of how the system works. There, soldiers under detention follow a complete syllabus of training such as they would receive at regular training centres. They are given educational, training and morale films, hear lectures on responsibility of citizenship, take correspondence courses, write and receive letters. Under good punishment lies in being closely confined in the evenings, with fraternizing and conversation forbidden. Although other measures are taken at times, most if warranted. The result almost invariably is that the erstwhile delinquent leaves detention a better soldier than when he went in, and in many cases his subsequent advancement has been rapid. At least one from Fort Osborne is now an officer, another a Company Sergeant Major, and many have become Junior N.C.O's.

CURLERS ENJOY TRIP TO ELK POINT MONDAY

Two rinks of Vermilion curlers enjoyed a trip to Elk Point on Monday when afternoon and evening games were played resulting in three wins and one loss for the locals. The quartet composed of Reg Spencer, Lloyd McFadden, Jack Beresford and Tim McLaughlin took the measure of Rev. Pringle in the afternoon and Mann at night, while the other Vermilion rink of Carl Heckbert, Dr. Clarke, Russell Carroll and Art Wiebe won from Dr. Miller in the afternoon but went down to skip Beatty in the evening.

The boys were guests at a dinner served between the games and report that Dr. Miller and company are certainly wonderful hosts.

A return visit will be made soon.

Colonial Development

IN A RECENT ADDRESS given at the Guildhall in London by the Right Honourable Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner to Britain, he stated that the British Commonwealth "is a working model of political freedom and an object lesson in collective security." He added that it is "the one tried and successful union of free peoples in a world which must have union between the nations or perish." Events of recent years have shown how strong has been the structure of the Empire, which is held together by a bond of loyalty and common interest, as opposed to the forceful and brutal methods by which the Axis nations have attempted to extend their spheres of influence. In the early years of the war, when Britain's resources were taxed to the utmost, the whole Empire, from the largest Dominion to the smallest colony, rallied to her support, and Britain, in turn, has not let the stress of wartime conditions lessen her personal ties with the various members of the Commonwealth. This is especially true in relation to the smaller colonies, where in many cases the welfare of the people is to a large extent dependent upon the interest of the people and government of Britain

• • • • •

Act Passed To Aid Colonies

Colonel Oliver Stanley the British Colonial Secretary recently toured the British colonies, and brought back a report on conditions in those parts of the Empire. In July, 1940, a Colonial Welfare and Development Act was passed by the British Parliament. This act provided for assistance to colonial governments up to a maximum of five million pounds sterling annually, for ten years. It has now been in force for three years and many results have been noted. Shortages of raw materials and labour, due to wartime restrictions, have hampered many of the projects which would otherwise have been undertaken, but in spite of these difficulties it is reported that up to the end of October, 1943, three hundred and six plans of various types had been approved by the British Colonial Office These plans included measures for health and general welfare, education, public works and agricultural and industrial development. They were all directed with the object of improving the health and education of natives of the colonies, and increasing their opportunities for advancement.

• • • • •

British People Show Interest

Much stress has been laid upon the improvement of health services to native populations of the colonies, for it is felt that all other development depend upon the health of the people Large loans have been made to provide for malaria control in the West Indies and for a campaign against yaws in Jamaica, and grants have been made for the improvement of educational facilities. Funds have been provided for the opening of children's libraries and museums, the improvement of schools and of schools for teacher training. For the development of agriculture large sums have been designated for drainage, irrigation, reforestation, and for improving crops and livestock. While most of the money granted has been in aid of agriculture, assistance has been given in cases where local industries have been developed. These are only a few of the many projects which have been undertaken and more are to be launched when wartime restrictions of labour and materials are removed. In the meantime, the people and the government of Britain are showing their sincere interest in these "junior partners" in the Commonwealth of Nations.

As you know, most rationing does not cover the organ meats such as heart, kidney, sweetbreads, and liver. Now is the time to eat more of them because you to use a greater amount of organ meats, it is a decided advantage to you, nutritionally.

You have been informed many times to eat Liver. You ask why, or which—beef, pork,—is the most valuable from a nutritional standpoint? Pork Liver is the richest in food value and is the least expensive.

The average Canadian diet may be low in iron, riboflavin and perhaps other vitamins. An average serving of Liver provides you with almost all of the iron and riboflavin needed for a day, more than the daily need of Vitamin A, and is a good source of protein.- It is also one of our good sources of thiamin (B1) No muscle meat possesses the amounts of these important nutrients which are found in liver.

You must remember that liver requires careful cooking, as overcooking toughens it and destroys the flavour. Wash your liver in cold water, dry it first with a damp cloth, then dip in flour to which seasonings have been added if you desire. There are many other ways of serving Liver besides frying so give your family a pleasant surprise next time you serve Liver. Try boiling it gently, then cut into small pieces and cream. Or use it in a casserole or scalloped dish along with vegetables.

Jam From Powder

Result Of Research By English Scientist Makes It Possible

British housewives have been told that they may soon be making jam from powder, at all times of the year. Professor H. T. H. Parker of a research station in Somerset has announced that he has discovered a powder made from jam puree which keeps indefinitely.

Three ounces of the powder, with sugar added, after a few minutes of cooking, becomes two pounds of jam Only plum powder has been used so far but the scientist believes that it could be possible with apple and blackberry and probably any other fruit.

Advantages of the new invention, in wartime England are saving of storage space; saving of sugar, since the jam would be made for quick consumption; jam can be made whenever sugar surpluses available. A British firm of preserve makers already is preparing products, using the experimental examples.

Reveals Dental Troubles

High Altitude Flying Has Proved Better Than X-Ray

High altitude flying reveals dental troubles that elude even the X-ray, naval doctors in the United States Pacific Fleet have found.

For instance, a naval dive-bomber pilot reported that he was always troubled with severe toothache just before going into a dive. He blamed sinus trouble.

But a test in a pressure chamber simulating the atmospheric conditions at high altitude revealed hidden decay that had not been detected by X-rays.

Fifty-seven per cent. of airmen developed toothache in a pressure chamber equivalent to a height of 25,000 feet.

Twenty-three per cent experienced pain at a reading equivalent to 18,000 feet.

Twenty per cent. began showing symptoms before reaching the equivalent of 10,000 feet

After the hidden decay had been located and repairs carried out, the airmen experienced no further discomfort.

The dog star, Sirius, is more than 30 times brighter than our own sun.

Royal Bank Assets

Total Now Stands At Record Figure Of $1,500,097,571

New high records in practically all departments of the bank's business are revealed in the Annual Balance Sheet of The Royal Bank of Canada for the year ended November 30, 1943. Total assets, which a year ago reached the highest point in the bank's history, have again expanded, and now stand at the record figure of $1,500,097,571 as compared with $1,291,619,946 on November 30, 1942. Deposits have likewise reached a new high level, and now total $1,380,789,182, an increase of more than $216,000,000 for the year.

Current loans in Canada are again moderately higher, and now stand at $277,921,237 as compared with $256,140,000 a year ago. Other assets total over $72,700,000. It is understood that this increase is due largely to increased investments in Victory Loan and other government issues.

Liquid position of the bank continues very strong, with current assets realizable within a year to 78.09% of the bank's liabilities to the public. There has been a marked expansion in liquid assets, which now total $1,104,703,439, as compared with $806,440,789 a year ago. Included in these liquid assets are Dominion and Provincial securities amounting to $641,886,620, which is an increase of $122,000,000 as compared with last year. Cash on hand, deposits with the Bank of Canada, other cash items and bank balances also show a substantial increase and now stand at $333,225,905 as compared with $261,-934,075 in November 1942.

Made Himself Popular

Many People Took Food Minister's Advice As Personal Matter

I doubt whether any member of the Government at Westminster, save Winston Churchill himself, has won so fully the confidence of the general public as has Lord Woolton, whose fresh as Minister of Food made him a daily presence at mealtime in most of our homes. To millions who have learned to buy with their food his name was often used as a corrective, and older people regarded him as a personal adviser rather than a remote administrative power. Many times I have been told that a certain dish was made "Lord Woolton's recipe" or that some new idea in domestic economy was "one Lord Woolton" suggested.

This sense of personal relationship was carried even a stage further by the dear old lady of my acquaintance. In her remarks about household matters she would say "He told me so-and-so just this morning" (that "he" being Lord Woolton, and the "so-and-so" some item heard in the "Kitchen Front" broadcasts). Always she regarded such information as being broadcast to her personally by the Food Controller himself.—Belfast News Letter.

Our Boys And Girls On Active Service

(By J. G.)

Because four of their children are still too young to enlist is probably the reason, the only one, why all nine sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Chatt, Aftonville, Manitoba, are not now in the armed services. Two lads are in the Canadian artillery overseas, three of the girls are serving in Canada.

• • • •

Among the fellows back from overseas recently was a first division man, Pte. Johnny Falcon, Battleford. Over four years he had 17 leaves and visited Scotland and Ireland. With the artillery in two years across the pond, Gunner Gilbert Deeta of Biggar, Sask., also got back. In '41 he was caught in a raid as 150 planes came over, Gil said he made lots of friends there. He got so he just turned over and went to sleep when he heard the air raid sirens."

• • • •

The R.C.A.F.'s new mail squadron is now winging mail for the overseas forces as far away as Cairo. Among those who helped fly the Christmas mail to remote points included P/O. C. A. Dickson, Edmonton, Alta.; P/O. E. M. Rosebaum, of Winnipeg and an Alberta flying officer; J. P. Irvine. One of the mail craft had two crews, one of which remained in Britain to operate the Middle East and Italy service, and with this gang is Plt. Lt. K. W. Hanson, of Starback, Man., and Cpl. W. B. Hugh of Regina, and P/O. H. E. Hill of Winnipeg.

• • • •

Boy, here's a story of westerners in the air force. He is Sergt. Pilot R. D. Shultz of Bashaw, Alta. One of a two man crew in a Mosquito, they went up to intercept some raiders. Shultz's mate shot down a Dornier 217, blowing it up in mid-air, and scoring through the wreckage of the plane. It fell into pieces, and one of the four bombers shot down by Fighter Command that night in England, Shultz and his pal, Williams, got three of them. The third Victim came as he was flying on one engine and with only part of an instrument panel, the rest having been blasted away. They landed safely at an emergency field.

Lt. John J. McLaughlin, R.C.N.V.R. of Winnipeg, has been cited by the U.S. Navy, who with his crew went nearly 72 hours without sleep in a terrific gale off Greenland on a rescue, towing a U.S. craft and attempting a transfer of 3,000 gallons of gas by means of a garden hose. The wind was 90 to 95 m.p.h. Mum launch was attached to the Canadian Fairmile flotilla working with the Americans in the Caribbean area. In May, 1942 this gallant Canadian officer saw his sub sunk in the middle of the night to starboard by the ice cold Baudouin River, near Weymouth, N.S., to save several passengers and his crew.

What were the Wrens doing Christmas day? Those who weren't able to leave "ship". Well, it was Sunday routine. Morning devoted to church. Christmas service and gifts from home. Noon brought the traditional Christmas dinner, fruit cup, roast turkey, cranberries, vegetables, Xmas pudding with brandy sauce, fruit and candy. Wren officers served the meal for ratings. They gathered in the foc'sstle to hear His Majesty the King and his Christmas message in the afternoon.

A SOCK KNITTING RECORD

Since Canada declared war on Sept. 10, 1939, Mrs. Hannah Spence of Galt, Ont., has knitted 600 pairs of socks for men in the services. This total averages out to one pair every 1.3 days or 48 hours, 55½ minutes.

FERTILIZER STORAGE

With reference to the appeal of farmers to order and accept delivery of fertilizers now the ideal place for the storage of fertilizers should be dry and not have any vegetables or [illegible] the same roof. This fertilizer should be placed in a neat pile on planks clear of the floor and away from the walls. The reason for the neat pile is that it may be easily covered with straw, chaff, or other dry material that will also exclude air.

Large Number Studying Foreign Languages In London Schools

London.—Language schools reported the number of persons studying foreign languages today to be three times as large as before the war, civilians and soldiers alike optimistically preparing for what's to come after Adolf Hitler.

Learning Italian, German, Russian, French—even Chinese—were businessmen, officers and American troops, and civilian opportunists along with the usual batches of diplomats. And very many man," a language instructor told the United Press, "wants to learn in a hurry."

Men and women, with eyes on the shrinking Axis map, were demanding to learn in a hurry, and, to meet requirements, language teachers were attempting to devise basic-German, basic-Italian, trying the efforts were meeting with varying success, but "basic" courses were not being taught in the big schools.

It still was taking months to develop a language student beyond the gibbering stage. The director of one school said: "We wouldn't regard a man as able to speak a foreign tongue in anything less than three to four years study."

Some countries, Holland and Turkey among them, were conducting their own schools.

In the American army classes were running in French and Russian Instruction on a lesser scale was being given troops in Spanish, Italian, German, Czech, Slovenian and Hungarian.

With the Americans the accent was "up the fundamentals." Soldiers, mostly officers, were taking the courses voluntarily, in their own spare time.

Also that the emphasis on simple conversation," an army instructor said. "We first teach a man enough to ask for one thing, and then get it—afterward, he can go on from there."

FOUND RIGHT WORDS

It is extremely significant that it should be Mr. Eden, a young Tory who found the right words to describe the Teheran Conference. It is extremely interesting to note also that Mr. Eden made it clear that Britain does not wish to impose a three-power will on Europe, but to liberate the German-occupied countries so that they can take their places again in the European family.

Allied Planes On Offensive Around World

LONDON—The Allies have achieved air superiority in every theatre of the war and sent planes on the offensive all around the world, the R.A.F. announced.

In a review of the aerial war of 1943, Britain's air arm said the year's fighting produced theme victories and accomplishments in various fields of operation:

1. Nine of Germany's 21 major industrial cities with populations of more than 250,000 each have been forced for some time to consume more than they produce."

2. Many more U-boats have been destroyed by the coastal command in 1943 than in the three previous years together. The whole of the North Atlantic now is covered by shore-based aircraft.

Carrying heavier bomb-loads and using the new Pathfinder technique, the R.A.F. has been able to bomb Europe harder and oftener throughout the year with its percentage of losses consistently reduced.

The battles of the Ruhr and Hamburg marked "the campaign, causing immense destruction in Cologne, Essen, Dortmund, Duesseldorf, Wuppertal, Bochum and Rheydt.

"Hamburg, Germany's largest port, suffered the most disastrous damage of any industrial city in the world between July 25 and Aug. 3, 1943," the R.A.F. said. "By the end of the year it was on the road of 87 British aircraft.

This was followed by the smashing series of Berlin raids.

The continental bombings had a "marked effect" on the progress of the war in Russia, the R.A.F. said, and did much to put the German army on the defensive. It said that 50 per cent. of the Nazis' day fighters and 85 per cent. of the night fighters were based on the western front.

Indicative of where the bombs will fall in 1944 the R.A.F. stated that the "greatest possible air support from the invasion of Italy will be by the use of airfields in southern Italy

"There are five centres of German war production which cannot be bombed from Britain or the south The important targets of Austria, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Rumania, Bulgaria and Greece are now within effective striking distance."

"In all operations, for every one of our fighters lost during the year two German aircraft were destroyed," the R.A.F. said.

3,323,225,905 as compared with $261,-934,075 in November 1942.

Strategic Place Of Dominion In Global Aviation

MONTREAL. — Trans-Canada Air Lines is exploring "all the ramifications" of post-war global aviation, President H. J. Symington said in a year-end review of T.C.A.'s progress.

"Canada is well aware of its strategic position in what has been called "the air world," he said. "The shortest routes between North America and Europe and Asia cross this Dominion. This gives us at once an opportunity and a responsibility and the Canadian government has been quick to realize both."

Noting that "we are conscious as never before of global air routes," Mr. Symington said that "much of our thinking about post-war aviation must perforce be speculative and the time has not yet come when the nations can throw them open for public discussion."

Turning to the year just ended, Mr. Symington recalled that T.C.A. had started 1943 with a boom in summer, in a special government service that had carried "passengers on urgent official business and the important cargoes and mails for the troops overseas." Only one route expansion was made at home, between Vancouver and Victoria

Mr Symington said th estimate of revenue would be the purpose of preparing the plants for peace-time output.

NEWS FOR TROOPS

Canadian Service Personnel In Italy Will Get Newspaper

OTTAWA.- Defence Minister Ralston announced that 6,000 copies of The Canadian Press News, eight-page tabloid published in London for Canadian service personnel, will be flown to Italy each week from England.

He also said that a newspaper would be printed in the Mediterranean theatre, combining Canadian Press News and local news obtained in the area. News now is cabled daily by Th Canadian Press for the 1st. Army News which is published daily in the field.

Col. Ralston said lack of mail, news, etc., and movie film constituted the chief causes of complaint on his recent visit to the Mediterranean theatre and he thinks the arrangements here been made to get all three to the troops

RULE NOT ENFORCED

But Home Airmen Are Sent Back To Canada For Leave

OTTAWA.—A spokesman for the R.C.A.F. medical service branch said some patients now are returning to Canada under the air ministry ruling, effective but April 15, providing that R.C.A.F. personnel requiring three or more months' treatment would be sent back here for it

He emphasized, however, that the rule is not rigidly enforced and that there are many exceptions to it. Men requiring certain types of treatment might be kept in hospital overseas, for longer than three months before being returned.

"We are now experiencing a flow of patients, but if the ruling has not given rise to a great influx," the spokesman said.

Premier Tojo Tells Japanese Diet War Situation Is Serious

NEW YORK. Premier Hideko Tojo told the upper house of the Japanese diet that the Allied "counter-offensive has become real and serious and fierce fighting is raging at various fronts," the Tokyo radio said in a broadcast recorded by United States government monitors.

In another broadcast, the Tokyo radio told the Japanese people that recent Allied operations in the South Pacific had brought the war to "the decisive stage in which the rise or fall of our nation will be decided."

ANNIOU'S TO RETURN

SUB MENACE

Rear Admiral Murray Says That Enemy U-Boats Are Defeated

HALIFAX.—Declaring the U-boat menace defeated, Rear Admiral L. W. Murray, R.C.N., commander-in-chief of the Canadian Northwest Atlantic, in a New Year's message expressed hope that before the end of 1944 Allied naval and air forces could shift their activities from the Atlantic to the Pacific region

Extending New Year's greetings to the Allied naval forces and to the R.C.A.F. "which has given us such loyal support in the battle of the Atlantic," Admiral Murray continued with the "hope that before this year (1944) is out we shall have driven the war from the Atlantic and that we shall be continuing, in the same close association, in pursuit of our enemy in the Pacific."

Reference to the U-boats was made in a tribute to men of the merchant marine "for your undaunted spirit which has made it possible for us to defeat the U-boat menace."

RIGID CENSORSHIP

Would Restrict War News Flowing Between Britain And U.S.

LONDON.—More rigid censorship of war news flowing from Britain to the United States can be expected, in the event that Britain and United States forces mass their strength for the continental invasion under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

This was foreshadowed with the disclosure by Capt. Eugene F. Nute, who is taking over the U.S. army's chief press censor, that the military censorship setup is being expanded considerably. He added, however, that the more was only normal under the circumstances.

It is reasonable to assume that the principal future concern will be over speculation on imminent Allied moves in this sector, Capt. Nute did not deny that there will be a tightening up on that type of news.

OFF LEND-LEASE

Some Capital Goods May Be Removed From The List

WASHINGTON.—Removal from lend lease lists of some of the capital goods which Great Britain has been obtaining from the United States, with resultant reduction in the total supply he announced shortly in line with a policy to confine the aid to actual war needs.

Effect of the expected action by the foreign economic administration would be to put future British purchases of such things as machine tools and heavy industrial equipment [illegible] Britain would have to obtain cash basis and restore them to private channels.

[illegible] is understood to be under consideration as a result of belief that little further assistance is to be required over the same month last year but showed a seasonal drop from the previous month. The number of passengers carried during the month was 30,578, compared with 31,503 in August and 19,896 in September, 1942.

LETTERS COMING

Will Soon Arrive From Canadians In Mediterranean War Theatre

OTTAWA The RCAF said a big batch of letters from Canadian servicemen in the Mediterranean war theatre will be carried back to Canada shortly aboard planes of the R.C.A.F.'s new mail squadron

The air force said the flying postmen spent a busy Christmas week delivering mail by air to posts in the Mediterranean theatre in the first trip made by the new squadron Returning flights from the Mediterranean area will carry a full load of letters

First two of the squadron's fleet of six Flying Fortresses landed recently in Britain with 1,100 pounds of letters

Fourteen hundred pounds of mail were packed into the Fortresses for their flight south from Britain to the Mediterranean area.

CREDIT FOR RAIDS

OTTAWA. - The R.C.A.F. said the R.A.F. bomber command's pathfinder force, of which one of Canada's most famous equadrons is a member, was given a "big slice of credit" for the success of recent night raids on Berlin.

Social Security Plan For Canada Is Under Way

OTTAWA.- Blueprints for Canadian social security were prepared in Ottawa last year

Vigorous study was given proposed steps to be taken before and after the war ends, to ensure every Canadian has a basic minimum income regardless of age, occupation or place of abode or sex.

The year saw presentation to the House of Commons committee on social security of a lengthy report by Dr. L. C. Marsh, research adviser to the government reconstruction committee, on a suggested social security program for the Dominion.

Dr. Marsh estimates that assurance of a basic income to all Canadians would cost about $1 000 000,000 a year, and that another $1 000 000,000 would be required during the first year after the war for work projects to fill the gap between demobilization and restoration of the national economy to a peace basis.

The Marsh plan envisioned children's allowances, increased unemployment insurance benefits, unemployment assistance to uninsured, free medical care for all Canadians, sickness benefits, maternity benefits for employed women, increased old-age pensions, disability pensions for unemployables, and funeral benefits.

A national health insurance plan was outlined to the house by Paul Martin, minister of National Health, setting forth proposals for allocation of the costs between the Dominion and the provinces. The total cost was estimated at $256,146,000 with $131,-436,000 to be met from public funds and the remainder from contributions.

The individual contributions in the plan was estimated at $28 a year with no person required to pay more than 2.7 per cent. of his income on a bill of honour and his dependents.

Ultimate decision on the insurance plan rests with the provinces which have jurisdiction over health matters in their own areas but the Dominion proposes leadership through grants-in-aid

A national physical fitness program was approved by parliament. It provides for establishment of a national council on physical fitness and creation of a fund to which the Dominion will contribute $700,000 a year. The program includes the organization of sports on a nation wide scale

Rural sanitation and construction projects were examined in detail by house committees The social security committee suggested further studies and is expected to continue its work in 1944

The reconstruction committee recommended an immediate survey of Canada's capital resources to determine their extent and adaptability to meet balanced Canadian economy."

The committee said a housing program was essential to eliminate slums and [illegible] with the government obtaining control [illegible] to finance or assist the building [illegible]

Hospitals Are Ready Now For Any Emergency

OTTAWA—Hospitals of the federal provinces department are prepared to cope with practically any emergency that might arise out of a sudden heavy flow of casualties from battlefronts, a department official told The Canadian Press

"The pre-war bed space in government owned hospitals will be increased 10-fold before the end of the war," he said. "We can't foresee what's going to happen to Canadians on the battlefields so we have drawn up plans that are ready for use should an emergency arise in the handling of casualties."

In preparation for such an emergency, the department has

1—Built new hospitals, enlarged others and increased the number of beds in its hospitals from 2,000 to 7,000.

2—Drawn up plans for further enlargement if the hospitals to increase number of beds to 17,000 or more.

3—Arranged with general hospitals throughout the country to help in the handling of casualties when it comes time to move the department's hospitals overseas.

Although the maximum of the 14,000 beds in the federal department establishment across the country, should be need arise

Also [illegible] buildings which could be used as hospitals in an emergency

In this last [illegible] the department had approximately 2,000 beds. With the building of new hospitals and the setting up of others the normal bed capacity has been increased to 7,000. That normal capacity could also be doubled before the end of the war and could be redoubled in a case of emergency.

By next April 1, the official said an additional 980 beds will be available in hospital space now under construction in London, Ont., Toronto and Saint John, N.B. Contract [illegible] been let for the building of [illegible] another 920 in Edmonton [illegible] and Ste. Anne de B [illegible] Que.

In addition, the department is preparing plans for the building up to an additional [illegible] beds in Vancouver, Toronto, Montreal, Halifax, Saint John and London, and also has templates the provision of 3,680 beds in five health and occupational centres.

"In an emergency, space could be provided for 20 000 beds by 1943, more than 10 times as many as could be provided for at the outbreak of war," he said

AIR SERVICE

Eastern Bus Lines Propose To Use Helicopters After The War

TORONTO—The Toronto transportation commission and the Gray Coach Lines applied to the Dominion government for permission to use helicopters and other aircraft for an air service after the war.

An official said the two organizations had hundreds of employees in the air force and that after the war they would operate the air service.

Present Gray coach terminals will be used, the application said, adding that it is proposed to make at least one daily trip by air over all routes now served by the coach lines in all parts of Ontario and connecting with points in other provinces. A route map of the proposed helicopter routes was included with the application.

London Daily Express Praises Gen. McNaughton For His High Generalship

LONDON In an editorial on the relinquishment by Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton of his command of the Canadian army overseas the Daily Express said, "Britain will treasure the memory of that December morning in 1939 when he received with the first Canadian contingent."

"It has high generalship" to have created what is well equipped a [illegible] army, through all these years of waiting without the stimulus of battle the newspaper said adding Rate to be Gen. McNaughton of the pride of leading them as battle approaches but not of the satisfaction of leaving them as a splendid fighting force to his successor."

In June, 1942, British production of tanks, guns and other mechanical vehicles was at the rate of 237,000 a year.

Farm Machinery Rules Tightened

OTTAWA. — Closer control of the purchase and sale of farm machinery is announced under regulations making a new consolidated order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Now, before applying for new equipment, after old machinery has been sold, the farmer is required to file a statement describing the used machinery sold, reasons for sale, and the new machinery required. He must also secure a notice from the Boards representative, W. C. Trimble, Williamson Building, Edmonton, that his application will be approved, and that the desired machinery will be available.

Applications will be taken on... from farmers who actually own or lease the farm on which the machinery is to be used.

Repair parts are also limited to essential sales in order to put the machinery in good working order.

THE THREE DEBS

WILDMERE WINES

Wishing all their many every success during a happy, healthy, prosperous, victorious year.

Home to roost from her school at Grande Prairie, Lorna Ann has given up her position at Calgary and Victor from his in Saskatchewan made Xmas very happy for their parents Mr. and Mrs. Harry Howard. Albert, their eldest son was unable to be home.

Sgt. Norman Smith of Calgary, and Albert Shaw of Edmonton, spent Xmas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Smith. The Chas. Morand and Albert Smith families spent the day at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallington, Pte. Graham and his children spent Xmas day at the George Monaghan home near Islay. Mr. and Mrs Chas. Hebert of Borradaile and Mr. and Mrs. A. Gillis, Chrissie, Betty and Bill were also visitors at the same home. A very jolly time was enjoyed, topped by a delicious dinner to which every one did justice.

Mrs. J. Wilson spent a day in Edmonton last week and a night with her sister Mrs. Fisher near Ft. Saskatchewan, then a day at her home at Manneville. Her mother was sick in hospital, also her sister-in-law Mrs. John Fisher, who is still ill. Mrs. Albert Holte went to Edmonton with Mrs. Wilson.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Crothers on the birth of a daughter, at the local hospital on Monday Dec 27th.

According to recent word from Cpl. L. E. Graham (overseas) he had received a parcel which contained fruit cake, 3 bars, candy, gum and a package of noodle soup, and no way to tell from whom it had been sent. Lorne would like to write personally to the sender for their kindness as parcels are greatly appreciated over there. Anyone researching this description write or phone Mrs J. Wallington and she will see he gets the name.

A party is to be held at Beaverdell school on Friday evening Jan. 7th for Bill and Noel Garnett who are home for the holidays. Everyone welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Les Kenzel and family spent Xmas with Mrs. Kenzel's parents Mr and Mrs. G. Gibson, Beaverdell, then Mr. and Mrs. Gibson and son Howard spent New Year's at the Kenzel home near Marwayne.

A large crowd attended the funeral of the late George Crothers on Wednesday, before Xmas and the splendid sermon given by Rev. Mr. Bethle must have been very comforting to the sorrowing ones left behind to mourn his passing. Pall-bearers were all old friends of the deceased. Adam Smith Sr., Harry Howard, George Wilson, Chas Morand, George Haines, and Wm Waldenberger of Vermilion. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips were born in attend the funeral from Heinsburg. The sympathy of the whole community is extended to the bereaved ones in their hour of trouble.

The heavy fog like cold have certainly visited every house in our district, but everyone seems to be recovering nicely.

We wish to extend sympathy to Joe Payne and family on their recent bereavement.

Harold made quite a name for himself at track meets when he attended high school here

Never overfeed is one of the principal rules for feeding dairy cattle. The cows should be fed according to the individual needs and desires of each animal. Because sudden changes in feed may cause not only loss in cains or production but will often induce ailments, the cows should be fed regularly as to the hours of feeding and the character of the feed

The utmost extent of profitable application of fertilizers is determined by the value of the resultant increase in the yield and quality of the crop and whether increases in the quantity of the applied fertilizer result in profitable increases in the crop.

It is expected that the No. 4 ration books will be issued some time next March or April.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Australia has agreed to send 500,000 tons of flour to England, this will require 25 000 000 bushels of wheat.

British output of munitions in the first quarter of 1943 exceeded that of the same period of 1942 by 40 per cent.

Britain's national farmers' union has rejected a proposal to seek a president for 1944 among prominent men outside its own ranks.

A committee has been formed to examine the question of training nurses in Britain and overseas for service in colonial territories.

A giant lawn-mower that can run 40 acres in an hour has been developed by the U.S Army Corps of Engineers for use on air fields.

Norwegian forests are being ravaged by the Nazi army of occupation to such an extent that the damage to Norway's chief industry may not be repaired for generations.

Field Marshall Jan Christian Smuts of South Africa was nominated by the Woodrow Wilson Foundation as the winner of the Woodrow Wilson award for distinguished service.

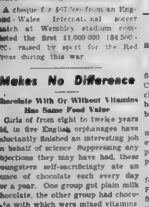
A cheque for $47 500 from an England-Wales International soccer match at Wembley stadium completed the first 41 000 000 ($4 500 000 Canadian) spent for the Red Cross during this war.

Makes No Difference

Chocolate With Or Without Vitamins Has Same Food Value

Girls of from eight to twelve years old, in five English orphanages have reluctantly finished an interesting job on behalf of science by overcoming their objections they may have had, these youngsters self-sacrificingly ate an ounce of chocolate each every day for a year. One group got plain milk chocolate, the other group had chocolate with which were mixed vitamins A, thiamin and iron. At the end of the year's medical investigators found that the difference between the two groups was just about nil—but that chocolate is a good medium in which to incorporate vitamins and minerals.

Initiated Apron



And now an apron with your personal initials! Pattern 4580 not only affords you extra smartness but extra coverage as well. Note the two button back closing that holds the apron securely. As for those attractive initials there's a transfer pattern included.

Pattern 4580 comes in sizes small (13 24), medium (36-38), large (40-42). Small size takes 2 yards 35-inch. 3¼ yards ruffling.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number and send orders to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept. Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 176 McDermot Ave E. Winnipeg, Man "Because of the slowness of the mails delivery of our patterns may take a few days longer than usual."

NAZI MEDALS

A London broadcast revealed a history-making Hem. Fuehrer Hitler had awarded medals to three Nazi generals and a colonel on the Russian front. The citation "For enabling the German armies to successfully disengage themselves on the Russian front."

Forty Years Of Flying

On December 17, 1903, man flew for the first time in history. In a heavier than air power-driven flying machine The artist's drawing shows the Wright Brothers' famous Kitty Hawk. In the forty years since it soared into the air, flying has made tremendous strides

The first flight in Canada took place at Baddeck, N.S., when J. A. D. McCurdy flew the Silver Dart on February 23 1909 Now, over routes totalling nearly 8 500 miles the planes of Trans-Canada Air Lines cover more than 8 000 000 miles a year carrying passengers mails and express

Two of the fleet are shown to the left of the layout. On the right is one of the big Lancasters flown by T.C.A. is the Dominion government's wartime trans-Atlantic service. Passengers on urgent war business cargo of strategic importance, mails to and from the Canadian troops overseas, are carried across the ocean.

The skies are witness to the miraculous fulfilment of the dream of Orville and Wilbur Wright two score years ago.

Scientific Farming

Russia Has Opened Schools For Intensive Training in Agriculture

Intense activity is beginning in the field of Russian agriculture The Communist party organ, Pravda, declares the production of grains must be increased next year. There can be no let-up during the winter

Schools for collective farm chairmen and brigade leaders, over the entire country, are to train 3 000 000 persons The walls of the students, presumably, will be women

Emphasis is given to the necessity for early and scientific sowing Farms which failed to meet the levels fixed for the autumn must redouble their efforts in the spring, Pravda declares.

Is Deputy Now

With the illness of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, it may be necessary for another British leader to assume at least part of Churchill's duties. Clement Attlee, above, is now deputy prime minister and may assume some of the prime minister's functions temporarily.

Found Its Place

Failing As Bomber Giant Flying Boat Made Good Transport

The giant flying boat, Mars, that promised badly as a bomber because of low speed, has performed well—better than that—as a transport plane. The 4,375-mile non-stop flight from Maryland to Brazil established a record The freight cargo of 35 000 pounds established another. A total weight of 148,500 pounds was lifted from the air. There were other records, but what men may find most interesting about the performance of this machine is that progressive failure to one field was followed by brilliant success in another. It is available for all square pegs to round holes New York Sun.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JANUARY 9

JESUS BUSY WITH HIS MINISTRY OF LOVE

Golden text: We must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work. John 9:4.

Lesson: Mark 1:23—2:14.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 42:1-7.

Explanations and Comments

A Demoniac Restored to Sanity, Mark 1:23-28.

Peter's Wife's Mother Restored to Health, Mark 1:29-31.

Many Cures Brought, Mark 1:32-34. At even, when the sun did set, they brought unto him all that were sick. It was the Sabbath (verse 21), and not till the Sabbath ended at sunset was it deemed lawful to bring the afflicted to be healed. So great was the crowd that Mark can graphically say that "all the city was gathered together at the door." Various as were their diseases, Jesus healed them.

A Preaching Tour through Galilee, Mark 1:35-39. The work that Jesus had been doing must have imposed a heavy strain upon him. Early the next morning, so as not to be held back by the crowds, he left the city for restful solitude in a desert place. There he communed with God and renewed his strength. Prayer was the secret of power. Said Luther, "I have so much to do today, I can never get through it with less than three hours of prayer."

Simon Peter and other disciples followed Jesus and brought him word that all men were seeking him. No doubt to Peter's surprise, Jesus did not rejoice over his popularity and immediately return to Capernaum. The work there threatened to monopolize his time and his plan included a preaching tour in Galilee He desired to preach in as many synagogues as possible before stopped by the hostility of scribes and Pharisees. "Let us go elsewhere to the next towns, that I may preach there also," was Jesus' answer to Peter. "For this end came I forth," he added. "This is interpreted theologically in Luke 4:43 and by many modern commentators, but the phrase may mean simply that is why I left Capernaum," or, that was my mission in setting out to evangelize" (A. S. Peake). And he started forth on his mission.

A Crack At Jerry

When The British Home Guard Go Into Action

Quietly and without most of us fully realizing it, the Home Guard has taken over most of Britain's A.A. batteries from the Regular Army. When a London cyclist is blown down by fire from the ground the chances are now 100 to one on the gunner being a Home Guard.

Following a recent raid on the capital I talked with one of these Home Guard gunners.

"Having a crack at Jerry," he said with a grin, "is a bit of a lonic. All day we are civilians in factories, offices and elsewhere. Then, on one night in eight, we become A.A. gunners."—London Daily Telegraph.

For The Russians

Britain Lent No Time Sending Them Shoes And Overcoats

Within a week of the German invasion of Russia Britain had sent the Soviet 500,000 pairs of boots. Six times that many had been sent by April, 1942, at a cost of 40,000 tons of shipping space.

In four days alone the Quartermaster General's Department of the British Army baled, packed and dispatched to Russia enough great-coat cloth to stretch from the White Sea to the Black Sea.

WEED PESTS

Practically all the troublesome weeds on prairie farms have been introduced from outside, mainly as impurities in seed, feed, and fodder. The same agencies account for the spread of weeds to new localities, together with distribution by wind and by farm implements or vehicles.

Arab Chief Thought American Was Giving Him A Present

The friend of an Arab sheik wears today the Christmas earrings instead of the Mrs. Philip Kerker, because her United States army-captain husband couldn't speak French fast enough. Mrs. Kerker had gone to her husband, now with the Allied Military Government branch in North Africa, chalked up a minor victory for international relations. Here's the story Capt. Kerker wrote home: "Accompanied by an archaeological friend of mine who knew the Arab country very well, I visited a silversmith and bought a pair of simple but cupshaped earrings for you. The next day I was a guest at a feast given by an Arab chief. In a bill I produced the jewellery to ask his opinion of it. The chief misunderstood my gesture as one proffering a gift to him. He graciously reached for the silver, accepted the same, and said he regretted that I had not four pairs, as he had four to favour."

If You Get Up Nights You Can't Feel Right

If you have to get up 3 or more times a night and your rest is broken and it's no wonder you don't feel right. Your Kidneys contain 15 miles of tubes, filters and traps. Don't blame them if they may be the cause of many aches and pains. Many people suffer from backache, when the kidneys are working, but sometimes it's the first sign that they need help. Nagging backache, headache, dizziness, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, puffiness under the eyes, swollen ankles, leg pains and burning, scanty or too frequent urination are other signs that you may not be getting rid of excess poisonous matter in the blood as you should. Then you get up nights, feel tired, nervous, "all washed out." Don't take chances with drugs for these troubles. Use Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic. Doan's help the kidneys flush out poisonous waste. Get Doan's Pills today. Use with confidence. Sold by druggists everywhere. Get Doan's Pills today.

FOR FUR FARMERS

The Prices Board announced an order establishing uniform prices for horsemeat and horse livers used by fur farmers to feed their animals. The order effective Dec. 20, establishes delivered prices for these products in various areas in Ontario, Quebec, the Maritimes, and the Western Provinces.

In the last 4,000 years of history there have been only 268 years entirely free of war.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Wives Always Know

By MARCIA DAUGHTREY

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

With practised eye, Jerry sized up the pedestrians straining against the bitter wind. There was a good prospect: Girl in a fur coat, fur-trimmed galoshes keeping her feet cosy, an expensive hat tilted rakishly over one eye.

Jerry didn't have to pretend to shiver as he sidled up beside her; his coat was ragged and thin, its frayed collar turned up around his ears. His hands were an angry crimson, the knuckles broken open from cold. "Pay parties, lady, but could you help me here with a little something to buy a bite to eat?"

She gave him a swift, intent look, opened her purse, dropped a half dollar into his hand and hurried on. Good touch, he thought—angry at his sense of failure. That's what he had come to! Complacence at a dame's forking over.

Wednesday late a doorway, he waited for another of the little knots of people strung along the icy chain of the blizzard. There was a fat man in a thick overcoat, walking beside a girl who was laughing in spite of the wind. With an agility aired by the fact that he'd had a solution, Jerry leaped to the side of the fat man and muttered, "How about the price of sinkers and Java, buddy?"

"Beat it."

"Aw, a dime won't break you. Looks like you're doing all right. How about passing your luck along?"

"Leave us," the girl said. "You may be old and weak yourself some day. Give him the price of the gardenias you don't have to send me tonight."

The fat man extracted several coins from his pocket and tossed them on to the sidewalk. "Scratch for it!" he grunted.

Jerry, groping with stiffened fingers, collected a nickel, two dimes, and seven pennies. That made four dollars and thirty-seven cents so far. Not until he had returned to his doorway did he remember the pitying, disgusted expression on the girl's face as she watched him touch his cap in servility and stoop to scrabble for the coins thrown in contempt.

The girl had looked—from those eloquent dark eyes and down that slender, patrician nose—a little like Ellen. At the thought, Jerry's chin wrinkled with misery; his lower lip pulled down and his red-rimmed eyes filled with tears so hot that they seemed to scorch his numb cheeks. With a doubled wrist he wiped the salty moisture away.

There was this to be thankful for: Ellen didn't know the truth, didn't dream that he spent the first four hours of the night cadging dimes, and the time from midnight until six in an all-night movie. He had told her that he had a night watch job at the docks—working for peanuts, but at least working.

Ellen worked valiantly in a garment factory, kicking a sewing machine eight hours a day, and portraying newspaper Want Ads at night. "This watchman business is just a stop-gap; we both know that," she had insisted loyally. Some advertising agency is going to need an artist before long. And then, when you get your hands back in condition . . . darling darling, your poor hands! Why won't you wear gloves?"

"A week of good care would put them back into shape. And if you had a steady job, you could go on with your etchings and charcoal drawings at night. You don't need so very much more material to be ready for a one-man show, honey, and then we'll be famous. The Jerry Lemlings; he, the gifted young artist, and she the best-dressed woman in America." She had prounced tragedy gayly "Look at me, Jerry. Say it'll come true!"

He had only stared at the floor, elbows on knees, scarred hands falling forward. Somehow he had managed a week's respite. He mustn't let her know the truth—that he was licked. Licked good sad plenty; kicked by life and circumstances until there was no spirit, no hope, no flicker of wishing, not even any self-respect left. He was the sort of guy who took money from hurrying women, from men who took coins on the street.

From his pocket Jerry pulled a folded newspaper. With a pencil stub he had circled a paragraph: "Wanted

Rationing in Britain

Makes What Are Or Are Able To Get Seem Abundance

William F. McDermott, writing in Cleveland Plain Dealer, says: If you are occasionally disposed to mourn your inability to obtain a thick sirloin steak, or a substantial roast of beef for the family table, consider the plight of the English who are a nation of beef eaters. The British rationing program permits each individual to purchase 1 shilling and 2 pence worth of meat each week and no more. That is equivalent of about 24 cents.

It will buy two large chops or three small ones You would need to save your coupons for a month if you wanted a roast of modest size Other necessities are limited to a corresponding degree

The prevailing egg ration per person is one a month If you can find a place to buy an egg. In the spring and summer when hens have a more acute sense of duty eggs were in greater supply but the highest rationing figure then was not more than three a month.

The individual Englishman's consumption of sugar is restricted to 8 ounces a week, or a little more than a tablespoon a day. Butter is limited to two ounces a week, milk two pints a week

The shortage of butter and sugar are felt by visitors such as myself who dine in restaurants. Even in the expensive hotel dinner rooms the butter is sliced with a razor and there is never enough for a second coating on the cold breakfast toast, and the tiny morsels of sugar that lurk coyly in the coffee cups are inadequate sweetening even to one who can take sugar or leave it alone

Nearly all manufactured Britain are rationed including canned foods cereals confectionery dried fruits and vegetables Jams and jellies margarine fats cheese, tea and soap, and the maximum allowances seem painfully slim to one accustomed to the American level of living.

Soap poses a problem to the English housewife She is limited to three ounces of toilet soap a month, which isn't much, but if by some miracle she finds an over-supply of today she may use one month's and the same coupon to purchase four ounces of hard soap. She is prohibited with what must sometimes be difficult alternatives between whether to use her coupons for toilet soap, laundry soap or kitchen soap

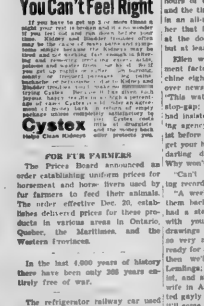
KENTUCKY BLUE GRASS

Kentucky blue grass is native to nearly all countries outside the tropics Europe Northern Africa Siberia North America, Australia, and the southern parts of South America It is found along the seashores and in the foot of glaciers in Greenland and on the summit of mountains in the Sahara

When the war is over and all the women are trained mechanics what a relish it will be for the husbands who now have to be called upon to fix doorknobs and faucets

The limiting factor in crop production in the prairie regions of the Western Provinces is moisture.

THE TOWERMAN



This sketch by Grant Macdonald shows Harry Gaffney, veteran National Railways towerman operating the levers which handle the huge trains of war materials through one of Canada's busy railway junctions. In spite of the stress of drawings by Mr. Macdonald explains that he likes his job being performed by Canada's railway workers. "They're doing a wartime traffic Last year the National System moved 70 per cent of the freight and the amount moved this year will be considerably greater. In the freight, passenger, and work equipment of the National System together with locomotives, could be set out buffer to buffer in a single line of track they would form a train 1,100 miles long

Dealing With Japan

Advocates The Destruction Of Tokyo As A Menace

The world as far as we can see, has nothing to learn from Japan either in knowledge or wisdom. There may be good individual Japanese people I think there is much hard to find them, and there is much difficulty in finding the preferential people in a society where the egg is placed on a higher plane than the human being. I think that she will be a menace to the future and I would advocate the destruction of Tokyo and the removal of Admiral Yamamoto's head to another place where it may not be the means of Admiral Yamamoto's head to another place where it may not be the means of Admiral Isoroku what he says. I do not advocate that the Japanese race should be destroyed, but I would advocate that the army, navy and the ruling class of Tokyo should be destroyed.

I merely advocate that when this war is over the Japanese should start to take their place in the world.

Satellite Towns

A Plan To Solve Britain's Reconstruction Problems

A plan to solve Britain's post-war reconstruction problems by building satellite towns in the Empire was advanced by E. L. Leaning, surveyor to the Lancashire urban district council at Urmston, Eng., during an address to a woman's club

Satellite towns in Britain would threaten the beauty of the countryside and spoil agricultural land, whereas the dominions and colonies have acres need of additional population he said.

"The greater London area could easily build a satellite town in Canada or another in Australia, a lesser one in New Zealand and one in South Africa. The cost would not be prohibitive if spread over a number of years from Britain," he declared

SOME GOOD SUGGESTIONS

The National Safety Council selects three odd accidents for our interpretation. Our first prize goes to the soldier who was wounded into his sleeping bag by a bolt of lightning that put his zipper out of commission. To an iller soldier whose left leg was broken by a cannonball which dropped on him when a stray bullet cut it loose. New York Times.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strange
Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Co., Ltd

People in Eastern Canada and in most other countries know little of Western Canada, have been telling us how little they know. Last week's Chicago Wheat Futures market was superseded, and that the Government set the price of wheat at $1.25.

The trust is that farmers have not benefited by this action anything like as much as some people seem to think. One Hockey player in the Province of Ontario's market may have been from the sale of his crop of wheat last year, and which division I do not know, criticize it as well for everyone, to know that is our farmers who are bearing a good deal of the burden.

The last day the Future market functioned what registered $1.22 at Port William, and when then the Chicago rose and open Futures market began on 25 cents. It is definitely evident that had our Future market also been operating the price of wheat would have risen in proportion, and we would not get $1.25 but actually $1.42 a bushel for No. 1 Northern at Port William.

While, therefore the people of the west and the basis of wheat may be something extremely to one and we but any advantage is accruing to our visible farmers.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

The Australian wheat crop is now estimated at 200 million bushels, compared with 156 million bushels in 1942. The last added some 30 million bushels to the carry-over, so that the new total is 1 bushels as compared with 5,878 ons in the previous season—owing of winter grain behind schedule in the Railway because of dry weather.

It is reported that India may increase wheat acreage as new land is being developed in the Punjab. The key's wheat crop is estimated at 250 tons more than last year's production, the 9-45-44 Argentine wheat crop is estimated at 212,200,000 bushels, compared with 275,136,000 bushels last year.

WEDDING BELLS

WAITE—COOPER

A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Saviour's Anglican church, Vermilion, at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, December 26th, when Verna Nadeen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Cooper, became the bride of Pvt. Frederick Hunteon Waite, R.C.A.S.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Waite of Lindsay, Ont. The Ven. Archdeacon Lefroy officiated.

Miss Shirley Cooper, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid while Mr. Douglas S. Cooper was groomsman. The ceremony was attended by immediate relatives of the bride.

The young couple returned to Edmonton that evening where the groom is at present stationed.

SWEENEY—JONES

Mr. and Mrs. E. Jones of Vermilion announce the marriage of their only daughter, Enid Dorothy, to Mr. Charles Sweeney, second son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Sweeney of Vermilion. The marriage took place at United Church manse, Vermilion, on December 23. The Rev. E. S. Reikie officiated.

Do Butterflies Presage Mild Winter

A really beautiful large brown, black and gold butterfly suddenly appeared on the wing at the farm home of Mr and Mrs. J. Magee on Wednesday of last week. It lived quite happily until Saturday when in spite of bitterly cold weather and piled with all the varieties of food butterflies are supposed to eat, it passed away. It is rather too much to hope for spring on the appearance of the butterfly must surely indicate a short mild winter. We hope

Canton-Watson Red Cross

Well members please note that the annual meeting of the Canton-Watson Red Cross will be held at the home of Mrs. H. Hind on Jan. 12 and not at Mrs F Preston's as previously announced

Stagette Notes

The first meeting of the New Year was held in the club room on Tuesday evening with twenty-two in attendance. We were very pleased to have two former members with us named: Dorothy Heidebrecht now of Paun Lake and Dorothy Gagnon now an active member of the Edmonton club. Dorothy was one of our original members and our first secretary. We are proud of the fact that Mona was chosen as secretary of the Edmonton club. She reports that Mary Stewart is now attending night class.

Two new members were welcomed into the club, Letha Clarke and Helen Kirk. These girls have decided to help keep up the good work of their co-workers. We have always had a large representation from the local telephone office and believe it is now ten per cent.

Greeting cards which were received from Stagettes in the service of the country from former members, were passed around. Among those heard from were Marie Stewart, Hazel Lawrence, June Burch, Irene Carey, Pat Dunn, Dorothy Heidebrecht and Doris Stevenson. Thank you girls for your kind remembrances.

Lavonne gave a report on the result of our sale of holly. Appreciation was expressed by the President of the cooperation of the local merchants and of the boys of the office staff.

There was a discussion regarding a card party and dance which we hope to hold at an early date. Preliminary arrangements were left in Dorothy Heidebrecht, convenor of the social committee. Knitting went on as usual.

Motion approximating moved to men in the armed forces now on short leaves are not valid unless stamped by the issuing unit

FUNERAL OF LITTLE MARGARET LOUISE PAYNE

The sympathy of a wide circle of friends and acquaintances is extended to Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Payne of the Burrell district who were bereaved by the death on Friday, December 24th of their little daughter, Margaret Louise. The little girl passed away at the local hospital after a short illness suffering from pneumonia.

The funeral services were held from the Roman Catholic church, Vermilion, on Tuesday morning Dec. 28. Interment was made in the Roman Catholic cemetery. The Rev. Irwin officiated.

Left to mourn the loss of their daughter and sister are the sorrowing parents and two sisters, Mary, aged 6 years and Kathleen 4 months.

Floral offerings were received from: Mum, Dad, Mary and Kathleen; Grandad and Grandma and Uncle Dick; Uncle Ed and Auntie Hilda, Uncle Lawrence and Auntie Theresa; Mr. and Mrs. J. Wemer and Mr. Gerry; Mr. and Mrs. Dodelly and Mr. Pauline and Evelyn; Mr and Mrs. T. Sherwood and family; Bowtell Bus drivers club, Uncle John and Aunt Emma.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Payne extend sincere thanks to friends and acquaintances for the many acts of kindness and help received during their recent bereavement in the loss of their little daughter, with special mention of the staff of the Isley hospital for the care and attention given their little daughter in her last illness.

CHRISTMAS PARTIES TO CHEER CHILDREN

Miss Hilda Hidlay, one of the trained Children service workers sent overseas by the Queen's Canadian Fund says that school teachers in little towns have been working for many months on their plans for the Children's Christmas.

She says: "Every effort is being made to give the children the best Xmas they have had since the outbreak of the war."

Masses of all the 56 London boroughs have been asked by the Lord Mayor to prepare and submit their plans for these parties, while the Fund's regional commissioners have notified mayors in other parts of the country. School principals have submitted their reports stating the number of children who will attend and the number in great required, in many cases the children have been allowed to choose the sort of entertainment they would like. The Prime value when possible, is very popular. Last year 100 bombed children evacuated to Harrogate chose, as the Xmas treat, a visit to the Queen's Canadian Fund, a visit to "Cinderella" at the Royal Hall, Harrogate. The Mayor and Mayoress (Councilor and Mrs. Stephenson) were present as give the children a message from the people of Canada.

Many toys will be available this Christmas than other years as the manufacturers resumption of peace-time activities have been raised for the benefit of December.

Canadian golfers are daily giving the necessary help for British children who are bomb-victims, providing pleasant homes, good food and trained workers to help in Britain's nursery schools. Now the Queen's Canadian Fund needs money to give the British children a Canadian Christmas happiness, and will welcome any gift you can give.

Unless mauve is infested with weeds, it is usually desirable to draw it fresh from the stable to the field. Where snow does not prevent its use, the manure spreader is the most satisfactory implement for drawing and spreading manure.

BATTLEVIEW ECHOES

Now that the holidays are over it looks as if the New Year was going to be a welcome winter weather we certainly cannot kick as we have had very little of fall

Peter Scott who has been work in Edmonton for some time went home to visit her parents and spend the Christmas holidays.

The Alexander family will meet at the home of Mr and Mrs Fred Church on New Year's eve in honor of the 1st wedding anniversary

Alice Fulton spent Xmas holidays at the home of the grandparents, W. J. Duffy spent Christmas at the same home

The Battleview, Auberndale and Heatherdale districts collected a total sum of 857.50 for the British and Foreign Bible society

The meeting of the church circle and war service league is scheduled for Thursday evening at the home of Mrs A. E. Seal

Henry Brecher is on the sick list and Albert Winter has been suffering from the 'flu' some time too

Red Cross Notes

The following letter received from Headquarters is also quoted:

As 1943 draws to an end our thoughts turn again towards Xmas. We have little time or material to be generous with but our hearts are full of the Xmas spirit and this year we feel we can afford to be especially liberal. The wonderful news that comes to every day from Russia, Italy and other fronts, inspired us to redouble our efforts and we are determined to work in 1944 with all our strength to do our utmost no matter in how small a way to bring this long struggle to an end. We know that our gifts are yours and we shall march forward on the high road to Victory together, though we may still be hard and rough. Without your unfailing help and kindness we would have finished the task days of the past, dark indeed. We can never hope to repay the debt we owe you and can only thank you with all our hearts for all you have done and are still doing for us. Please accept our very warmest Xmas greetings and New Year good wishes.

Board of Trade Notes

Two high school boys, Nelson Crowell and Clayton Taylor, presented a plan to the board of trade at the Wednesday meeting, which called for the sale of $1000 worth of war savings stamps by the students of the high school. They asked for the opinion of the board as to the merits of the project and received the unanimous endorsement of the members with a further promise to help in whatever way they could with the undertaking of the students. The plan was decided on at the meeting of the Junior Board. Business will be a resume of the year's work by the president, financial report and the election of officers for 1944. A full attendance of board members and others interested in the progress of the town and district is expected.

TWO MORE PRODUCERS FOR VERMILION OIL FIELD

Flush Production at Vermilion 120 Barrels in 30 Hours

Vermilion No. 5 was brought in Monday with a flush production of 120 barrels in 30 hours Imperial Oil Limited announced.

A committee of two, W. P. Phillips and A. K. Butler were appointed to act in an advisory capacity to the students in connection with the sales effort.

Mr. Whitley Wilson was chairman of the meeting which was attended by 25 members. Further action in regard to the proposed airline was taken in conjunction with like action from Edmonton, Lloydminster, Prince Albert, Saskatoon, North Battleford and Regina. The refusal of the government to grant a franchise for this line to the C.P.A. has raised a storm of protest in all the points mentioned. Young people of the area are soon to Prime Minister King as the constituency of Prince Albert is totally interested in the extension to the out portion.

Messrs F. J. Richardson and Andy Cooper were appointed to the local committee of the Aeronautical Institute of Canada.

The meeting on Wednesday next will be the annual banquet and a good attendance is requested.

Airline Extension Asked

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask.—A joint letter from the Board of Trade and city council to Prime Minister King is being prepared, requesting Mr. King's intervention as M.P. for the Prince Albert riding, to have the Dominion airline extended from Prince Albert-North Battleford service eastward to Vermilion and Edmonton.

The prime minister was also asked to advise his constituents why the application for extension of the airline was refused by the cabinet

HECKBERT NOT CANDIDATE FOR INDEPENDENT LEADER

R. C. Heckbert of Vermilion, who has recently been mentioned as a possible leader of the Independents in the Province, stated to the Standard today that it would be impossible for him to permit his name to be submitted to the forthcoming convention, owing to the pressure of other obligations previously accepted.

Mr. Heckbert is Provincial President of the Canadian Legion, an organization which is strictly non-political and his interest centres very largely on the effective re-establishment of the men and women who are today engaged in armed resistance to aggression and on the welfare of dependents of servicemen, to all of whom the segmented leader feels a very direct obligation.

While expressing his appreciation of the honor of having been mentioned in connection with the leadership of a large political group, Mr. Heckbert said he must decline to accept further obligations which might have the effect of nullifying the work which has been aggressively pursued on behalf of those who are serving Canada at this time or who have served her in the past.

MID-JULY TO OCT. 1 HOLIDAY PLANNED FOR ALBERTA SCHOOLS

Legislation will be introduced at the next session of the legislature to enable the legislature to have the school holidays run from the middle of July in the beginning of October, Hon. Solon E. Low, minister of education, said Wednesday.

Last year, the legislature passed an act which empowered the school holiday period from July 1 to Oct. 31 this was done for the purpose of enabling children to help farmers with the harvest in relieve the labor shortage during the harvesting period.

It looks now as the emergency in the province is that the holiday period should begin at the middle of July and should end close to the first of October, Mr. Low said.

Until last year the summer holiday period in Alberta opened on July 1st and lasted two months.

Last week a delegation from the Alberta School Trustees Association urged that the holiday period in the Alberta school year should start on or about July 15, and begin on or before Oct. 1. The delegation also requested at the annual A. C. convention in Calgary last January.

Mr. Low said that the matter was also under consideration by the Department of Agriculture.

Regular Meeting School Board

The regular monthly meeting of the trustees of Vermilion Centre # 31 No 1440 was held in Council Chamber's town hall, on Thursday, Jan. 6th at 8.15 p.m with Chairman Pete Taylor and Trustees H. Anderson and Hearn and John Bell present.

Messrs. Bussard and Walker were in attendance and reported on their respective schools for the month of December.

There was considerable discussion over attendance at the Vermilion high school, where certain pupils were attending one or two days a week and staying at home for the other days. The Principal pointed out that this disrupted classes. The Secretary was instructed to write the parents in such cases and if an improvement was not forthcoming, to take such actions as the Act permits.

Moved by J. Anderson that the janitor be installed in the lunch room of the high school at a cost or $2a a d

Moved by R. G. Hines that Mr W. F. English be appointed trustee officer for the year 1944 at the same salary I'd Ty Anderson that the accounts as submitted be paid the carried. Hearn carried in the negative on a tie vote.

Meeting then adjourned

Air Cadets Ship 107 Old Records — More Needed

The Vermilion squadron No. 97 Air Cadets shipped 107 old gramophone records to R.C.A. Victor Company at Calgary last week to be made over into new records for the Armed forces. These old or broken records are still urgently needed and any that you have can be left at Mr. Kaiser's Tobacco Shop, or phone 23 and one of the Air Cadets will call for same.

There are 46 boys in the Vermilion Air Cadets taking a series of training to fit them for that day when it will be their turn to take their place with the fighting sons of Canada. We already have 11 boys in the R.C.A.F. and more are about ready to follow.

A.C. P.O. Walker was in Edmonton during the Xmas vacation taking a three-day course in aircraft recognition.

We were pleased to have as a visitor during the past week L.A.C. Beverly R.C.A.F. Oshawa, former air cadet.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Vermilion, January. 1944.

Editor, The Standard
Vermilion, Alberta.
Dear Sir:

The following is an extract from the KWA Drilling Company Managing Director's report to the shareholders:

"The last year of 1942, the company's steam rotary rig drilled only two wells—one of which the contract was arranged for in 1942. For the second well, the company loaned the rig to the Stevens Drilling Company to drill the well, the lease being for a flat sum.

The obvious reason is that we have not been able to compete with the modern power rig in drilling in the Vermilion area. Our existing one well known contractor with portable power rig stated to the writer that he has to bale out his rig casing at a cost of $15.00 for fuel and labor. On the basis of using 8 inch surface casing and 5 inch production casing, each well could be drilled and the casing set and cemented for a cost of approximately $5000.

The writer has made application to the Foreign Exchange Board for sufficient American funds to take a trip to Oklahoma, and try to pick up a good second hand power rig, as it is realized that in order to compete with the other companies, it will be necessary to go into this class of equipment.

On the basis of the contractor's experience above referred to, it will be readily understood that with the up-to-date power rig, we could continue to drill holes in the Vermilion field for $2 a foot and still make a nice profit. If we had a number of wells to be drilled during the summer season that could be drilled one after the other."

Yours truly,
J. L. Wilson.

...mulsion Farmers Set Energy...

...ic is difficult for farmers to find time for intellectual study. Interest to all our readers from the Red River to the Peace River, therefore, we extract deal with matters of purely local importance. While this is really a salute to Manitoba commencement the attention of ...

...ment under the Department ... organized, we have stressed, at all, two problems—feed and ... Conservation. If you, in your district, were to organize a meeting to discuss prices, debt legislation, or Farm Labour, you would be sure of support. But suppose you were to arrange a meeting for the sole purpose of studying weed problems; how many farmers would come? Well, on November 30, the Minister of Agriculture for Manitoba called such a meeting. For nearly four hours, 170 farmers sat on hard seats completely absorbed with the problem of controlling leafy spurge. For three years, the Department of Agriculture has co-operated with municipal officials and other farmers in a program to conquer this weed. Fifty municipalities were represented at the meeting. Results of control methods by chemicals, by tillage and by sheep were discussed and means for making the work more effective were studied.

Governments of agriculturists have learned that they must get better acquainted with each other himself. Farmers have discovered that the professionally trained agriculturist has something to offer. Leafy spurge is for a tough row in Manitoba. The same spirit will defeat weeds and preserve soil—anywhere, and three tow goals can be reached before very.

On behalf of the Line Elevator Standard, as well as on our own, we wish our readers a Merry Christmas and a New Year that will bring peace

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

Our Xmas concert and tree are now pleasant memories, the children all performing their parts well with the grande finale—a visit from Santa. The children received plenty of mitts, candies, oranges and apples. The oranges and apples were donated by Mr. J.J. Hope, Mrs. J. Parkash donated the coffee which was made by Mrs. Barnwell and all ladies contributed to the lunch. Mr. Hope and E. Thompson cleaned up the school on the Friday following the concert.

Mrs. Hunbow was a visitor to Edmonton for Xmas where she spent the holiday week end with Mr. Hughes and Eric who had not left Edmonton for his new posting at that time.

Miss Castel spent the holidays at her home north of Marwayne, leaving via train on Dec. 22nd.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hughes, Bobbie and Dickie visited at Westlock during Xmas week. They made the trip by truck load Dec. 22nd and returned on the 29th. They planned to visit relatives, also the Hindmarch family and Martin Kabell family.

Joe Parkash Jr. did the chores at Jim Panter's while Panters were away.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Jones, Bobbie and Keith were visitors to Jim Thompson's for Xmas. Jimmie and Keith spent their holidays there, Mr. and Mrs. Jones returning to town on Monday 27th.

Clifford McKee was home on New Year's leave.

The Jim Thompson's spent New Year's week end in town with the Parks family.

Hugh Osbaldeston was a visitor to the Castel home for New Year's.

Our weather remains wonderful for the time of year. All roads are open for cars yet, Jan. 10th. The young folks still enjoy skating as the snow is deep on the lakes and fine. Jan. 2nd was not enough to cover the open lake or sloughs.

Miss Castel spent the week end of Jan. 7th at the E. Thompson's.

Mrs. Barnwell and Lena, and Geo. Thompson visited at Autumn Leaf last Friday 7th.

Alice Thompson is now attending school in town. She is staying with Mrs. Fooks.

Mr. J. R. Thompson spent last week in town with Mr. and Mrs. Fooks.

Chatsworth has a new pupil now — Jerry Klaschinsky, eldest boy of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Klaschinsky Jr. since it is too far for Jerry to travel every day during the cold weather he is staying at George Neuman's and attending school from there. It is certainly quite a problem getting the little folks to school in winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Smith and Darrie were visitors to the Smith home at Manville for Xmas.

USEFUL HINTS TO AVOID CHICK LOSSES

More chicks than ever were hatched in Canada in 1943, but far too many of them never lived to lay eggs or to be sold as poultry meat. Many of these deaths could have been avoided.

No matter how vigorous and healthy a newly hatched chick may be, if it is stunted or weakened in the early days of its life it will be a losing proposition in the end. Careless feeding, careless brooding—these are the kind of things which set a chick off to a bad start.

How can a farmer avoid these losses? Good housing will help. A weatherproof building built to allow plenty of sunlight and fresh air and a reliable heating unit with the best fuel obtainable will keep the chicks comfortable and the operator not too busy.

As to feeding, there's no economy in feeding cheap and inferior rations. Ungli it gets out on the range, the chick depends entirely on the feed it is given in the brooder. For the present, the starter feed should be carefully prepared, containing all the elements necessary to a growing chick. There is little cause for worry if the chicks come from a reliable source, are warmly housed in sanitary surroundings, and are given fresh water and plenty of suitable feed. Nature will take care of the rest.

But once a chick is chilled or inadequately fed, it may never recover sufficiently to be profitable. And late replacements never equal an earlier hatched chick.

THE LOCAL AIR ROUTE

The efforts of the local Board of Trade augmented by those of the Town Council as well as similar bodies at Vegreville and Lloydminster, to have an air line service established between North Battleford and Edmonton with three places as ports of call are to be highly commended. The prospects of immediate success however do not appear to be very promising. Recently the Department of Transport had an Order in Council passed refusing the application. No reasons were given and usually none are given in the case of Orders in Council and which represent the views of the Cabinet as a whole. It is quite apparent nevertheless the Order was not based so much on the merits or demerits of the proposed service as upon the fact that the Government is averse to the establishment of any service that will compete with traffic over the government owned railway. For sometime past the cities of Halifax and St. John, the two largest cities on the Atlantic seaboard have been urging a like service but without success, and when those wide water industrial and commercial centres cannot move the government to give a local service, it is not reasonable to suppose that our ambitions in that direction would be given a preference. The inherent difficulty in the whole matter is that the Federal authorities have not, as yet, adopted any sort of a policy with respect to feeder line services and until that is done not much can be accomplished by local communities to further that end, and which is recognized by them to be an important factor relative to boat war air borne traffic. It is therefore, quite consistent with the still wide sheets by the government to conclude it has no intention or meaning or endeavoring in the request for a feeder service to operate between North Battleford and Edmonton. Discussing this very matter recently, the Financial Post had this to say:

"For one thing, decisions as to policy on new routes, conditions of operation, etc., are either not being settled at all or are being decided in favor of the government-owned and operated TCA. Moreover, the outline of policy as presented to the House of Commons by Prime Minister King during 1943 is said to have proven so vague and lacking in clarity in regard to domestic operation of civil air transport in Canada, that matters have repeatedly gone from bad to worse.

"For example, CPA, under the proposed principle that local air operations were to be reserved for private enterprise, applied some time ago for an extension of its local route from North Battleford to Vermilion to Edmonton. Argument behind this application was that CPA has for some time operated between Regina Moose Jaw-Saskatoon North Battleford.

What was intended, apparently, was to complete this service, with a few more local stops to Edmonton.

Considerable support was given the application by local communities.

"So far as can be learned here, there is no intention of granting this application, which under the present scheme of things comes not before any independent tribunal for decision, but before the men who are closely associated with CPA's chief competitor TCA. Meanwhile, the Government has quietly announced that Canadian Pacific Air Lines Limited has been granted permission to extend its service from Winnipeg to Regina and to Saskatoon and Edmonton.

"Presumably this is to be a mainline service. But if carried through it would compete in some extent with the local service now operated by CPA and which CPA wants to extend.

"The moral of the piece is that under the present confused and irregular control of civil air transport authority in Canada the Government can hold up any or all local applications such as that of CPA from North Battleford to Vermilion to Edmonton, while it plays dog in the manger or furthers the ambitions of its own particular creature — the government-owned TCA."

Nearly $2,000 Car Licenses in Alberta

Motor car licenses issued in Alberta since the opening of the license year on April 1 have reached a total of 91,222, which is only slightly less than the total for the previous year, according to official information received by the Alberta Motor Association.

It is apparent that the big decrease in revenue which the provincial government expected has failed to materialize. While motor revenues have been maintained at practically the same level as in the previous year, this has not been matched in highway improvements, according to A.M.A.

Officials say that every effort will be made to induce the government to make larger highway expenditures this year. Roads in many parts of the province are in bad condition and when the province is in such good financial condition as it is, there is every warrant for larger outlays, not only on main but also on connecting highways.

Strong representations will be made by the A.M.A. to ensure that bigger highway appropriations will be provided at the forthcoming session of the legislature.

WILDMERE WINKS

The B.W.B. Welfare club met at the home of Mrs. Osterberg on Wednesday last owing to sickness at Mrs. Carlson's where it was originally to have been held. It was a cold day so only nine members turned out, but some finished work was handed in and also a lot handed out. Next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Cliff Crothers on Feb. 2nd. After the business part of the meeting was over Mrs. Osterberg served a tasty lunch.

Congrats to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson, Wainwright, on the birth of a baby girl; to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Scott of Dewdale on the birth of a baby daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Pete Madill, Vermilion, a daughter.

The whole community was profoundly shocked to hear of the death of one of its former residents in the person of Mrs. Tom Doyle, Ponoka (nee Nita Garrison) on Friday. She passed away from a heart ailment from which she had suffered for a number of years. She came as a bride to a farm only a couple of miles from the writer's and we were very close friends ever since. She leaves to mourn her passing her loving husband, son Hubby, a son in the air and daughter Judy 8 years, her parents Mr. and Mrs. Graham Gunton of Union district and several sisters and brothers. It is the second time within a few months that the same tragedy has occurred in the district, along with the whole district, extend our heartfelt sympathy to the sorrowing husband and children, and to her parents, sisters and brothers left to mourn her passing.

On Friday evening a party was held at the Hanson school for Bill ... Neil Gatzell, home on leave. While not a large crowd attended a good time was enjoyed by all. Bill left the last part of the evening. Mrs Gaylord Gibson was first for the ladies and Bob Martin was the guest prize. Consolation went to Mrs Frank Gibson and Robert Dobbin. After supper dancing was enjoyed for a few hours. Albert Smith furnished the music and J. Burke was M.C. Near the close of the evening Mr Fred Haines gave a toast to the boys on the home front as well as to those going away. The writer was to have done it for the boys home on leave but owing to the ... anything like that before made a very poor job of it. However we believe the boys enjoyed the party given in their honor very much.

Mrs. Cliff Crothers returned home from the hospital Saturday afternoon with her new daughter, Maureen Phyllis.

The writer was a visitor to the curling rink on Saturday evening where fifteen rinks had gathered to play and watch the game. The boys have now seven pairs of curling rocks and they play every Saturday night.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT
By H. G. L. Strange
Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Co., Ltd.

THE VITAL THING NECESSARY

Many schemes and plans for so-called reconstruction after the war have been proposed. Committees and study groups are now looking into these matters. Some of the proposals would help, to some extent, on our prairies. But the vital thing above all that is necessary for the after-the-war welfare of our prairie farmers is that we shall have favorable markets for all the wheat and other farm products we can grow. If these world markets are available there would be no surpluses to press down on markets and so the prices of our agricultural products would be fair and reasonable.

The only way to assure these markets is for Canada to remove the selling obstructions in trade such as tariffs and customs duties which prevent some country from buying from another country. We all of us have dollars, pounds, francs, pesos, or some other kind of money with which to buy our requirements of goods and services. The surpluses they produce.

For myself I firmly believe that to eliminate tariffs and other objectionable barriers to trade would be of more value to our farmers than all the reconstruction proposals made put together, good as some of them are.

OBITUARY

GEORGE CRUTHERS

The funeral of George Cruthers, aged 87 years, who passed away in the Vermilion hospital on Dec. 19, was held from the First United church on Wednesday December 22nd at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Interment took place in the Vermilion cemetery. The Rev. E. S. Reikie conducted the services. The pall bearers were Geo. Hainer, George Wilson, J. W. Waldenhemer, Charles Morand, Harry Howard, A. Smith.

Mr. Cruthers was born in Garafraxa, Wellington County, Ontario on October 17th, 1875. He came to Alberta on April 11, 1906 and homesteaded on his present farm in the Wildmere district where he carried on farming operations with considerable success right to the time of his death.

In 1912 he was married to Sarah Newman who survives him. Left to mourn his loss also are three daughters and two sons, Mrs. H. Phillips, Edinburgh; Mrs. Jack Marriott and Mrs Jack Smith of Wildmere; Russell with the Canadian Army Overseas and Clifford at home. There are 22 grandchildren.

J. Waring was in charge of funeral arrangements.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from: The Family; Russell, Beulah and Baby; Helina and Harry and family; Mr. and Mrs. Marriott and family; Mrs. Nash and Jim and Frank; Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Bill and Adam, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wilson and family; The Canterbury Family; Addie and Clara Carlson, Mrs. Rund and family; Mr. and Mrs. J. Waldenhemer and family.

MORE SHOTGUN SHELLS MADE

OTTAWA.—Although there will be three times as many shotgun shells produced in 1944 as in 1943, this increased production will still stand at less than 70 per cent of a normal prewar year's output.

Based on experience of the first year of rationing small arms ammunition the Wartime Prices and Trade Board is making slight changes in the order governing distribution to essential users. In this, advantage will continue to be taken of advice from provincial governments and from such service associations as the Sheep Breeders' organization.

Certain types of ammunition no longer produced, but still in stock will be removed from the ration.

The limiting factor in crop production in the prairie regions of the Western Provinces is moisture.

Etherington on d-tty makes, she also knits and crochets, and from a bag on the arm of her chair she worked as she talked.

The floors of her home are covered with beautiful hooked rugs, many of which she designed and are therefore original. One in particular that took my fancy was a scroll mat of unusual charm. "There is not another one in the world like it," remarked Mrs. Etherington.

"What a wealth of memories you must have," I said. "Yes," replied Mrs. Etherington, "I have my memories, but I wish I could remember only the best things and forget the rest." She is in full possession of her faculties of sight and hearing, using glasses to sew and read, although she can read the headlines without them.

"Every morning and night I give thanks for being alive, and my motto are 'Pray without ceasing' and 'In everything give thanks.'

"I am delighted at night, and then, when I am unable to sleep I repeat some of the poems and songs I used to sing, and it helps to pass the lonely hours."

Reluctantly I said goodbye to one who from her small store of strength can devote so much to working for others.

NONAGENARIAN RED CROSS WORKER

By Sadie F. Getson

Dresden china lady were the words that flashed into my mind when, in answer to my knock, the door of her home was opened by Mrs. Mary Etherington 91 years young, whom I wished to interview. I was hearing Milton that morning, and it was disagreeably early—but timetables are inflexible—and Mrs. Etherington was wearing a soft pearl kimona, having that morning unshingled her head, a luxury she seldom permits herself. A truly dedightful person, we were soon chatting away like old friends. I had come to get the story of her Red Cross activities, so she asked her daughter Dorcas, to bring along her latest big piece of work, which was a beautifully designed log cabin patchwork quilt. The workmanship was exquisite — such tiny stitches — such perfect matching and blending of colors

"To make one block was a big day's work for me," she said. It was made and given to the Red Cross, but Mrs. Etherington filled it so well that she immediately bought it back from that organization' Another quilt, a 25 square sunburst pattern, made some time ago, was quilted by the Milner Red Cross (Nova Scotia) and sent by a shipment to England

"I wrote a note and pinned it to the quilt," said Mrs Etherington, "but I had no answer, and it may be at the bottom of the sea, for all I know."

Mrs. Etherington feels a kinship with the people of England, being of pioneer British stock herself, her great - grandfather Jackson having come from Yorkshire to Cornwallis King's County, where she was born.

Leisurely would seem to be a family trait as Stephen C. Jackson, a brother, is 87.

In addition to the quilts which Mrs.

—Ben S. Hamer, of Bassano Alberta, recently elected chairman of the board of directors of the Alberta Wheat Pool. Mr. Hamer is the fourth chairman of this pro-vincial farmer co-operative grain mar-keting and handling organization which, with its 426 country elevators and three terminals controls 40 million bushels of elevator space.

Born in Chatham, Illinois in 1889, Mr. Hamer came to Alberta in 1911. He took up land in the Bassano district and still owns and operates 640 acres of farm land there. He also owns a farm of 320 acres of irrigated land in the Eastern Irrigation District, four miles north of Brooks, Alberta.

Mr. Hamer was married to Miss Florence McCleary shortly after coming to Alberta. Their family consists of three boys and three girls. Ben Jr. the eldest son is a flight lieutenant with the R.C.A.F. on active duty overseas and, in taking a leave of absence at Macleod and expects to graduate in Veterinary science.

Mr. Hamer has been a director of the Alberta Wheat Pool ever since it was formed in 1922. The first co-operative pool in Hong Kong was the grain pool set up by Alberta wheat growers.

Britain's Merchant Navy

DURING THE EARLY PART of the war, much attention was focused on the work of the British Merchant Navy. With the increasing tempo of the Allied attacks on land and by air, less has been heard of this branch of the service although we have never ceased to be aware of the continuous part it plays in the prosecution of the war. It has been pointed out that in the last war, Britain's main supply line to her fighting forces was from Southampton to Le Havre, a distance of a little over one hundred miles. In this war the supply line to the Middle East, around the Cape, is almost 12,000 miles. During 1941, three hundred ships were continuously in port, a short time as against April, 1942, when over three million tons of military supplies, including one million tons of foodstuffs, had been delivered to Egyptian ports. During the campaign in North Africa, more than 16,500,000 tons of Allied merchant shipping were used to carry supplies for the forces there, and we are told that on one night in March, 1943 more than one million tons of shipping were en route from Gibraltar to supply bases of the armies in Tunisia.

* * * * *

A Perilous And Difficult Task

One of the greatest and most perilous tasks undertaken by the British Merchant Navy in this war, has been that of maintaining the flow of supplies from this continent to Britain. During the anxious times in 1940 and 1941, when Britain stood alone against Germany, the whole course of the war depended on the ability of the Allies' people to produce war materials. The Merchant Navy kept them supplied with vital raw materials and food at that time, and is continuing to do so to-day. We are told that up to the middle of June, 1943, twelve thousand ships in convoy carrying 77 million tons of cargo, had been conveyed to Britain from Canada alone. Canadian merchant ships and those of Allied countries, were included in these figures. In that time, 200,000 Canadian soldiers have been taken to Britain by the Merchant Navy. It has also been pointed out that during the first three months of 1943, more than two and a quarter million tons of British shipping was carried to the United States and Canada under the mutual aid agreement between the two countries. Under the reciprocal agreement British transports have been given to the United States to carry American troops overseas.

* * * * *

Many Tributes Well Deserved

The Merchant Navy has carried large quantities of supplies to Russia over the dangerous northern route to Murmansk. The enemy has continuously hampered the progress of merchant ships on this route, yet by the end of 1942 nineteen large convoys had reached Russia and many have gone through since that time. A long and hazardous supply route has also been maintained to India, and large quantities of reinforcements and equipment have been sent there. One convoy which recently reached India was said to be so large that it could not be received at a single port, but had to be divided among several Indian sea ports. So the first three years of the war convoys of British merchant ships, manned by crews from Britain, the British Dominions, India, the Colonies and from Allied and neutral countries, have travelled over 125,000,000 ship miles, which is equivalent to six thousand times around the world. This branch of the services without doubt deserves the many tributes it has received, for it is clear that upon it has depended much of our success thus far, and that it will be equally vital until the last battle is won.

How A Man Made Two Razors Out Of One

I feel you ought to meet an ingenious man, who generously shared with fellow-passengers in the train his method of countering the match famine.

It is so simple. He merely slits the match down with a razor blade so that a blob of substance is left sticking to each half. By this means a box of matches goes twice as far.

The halved matches are safe, but not too thin to strike without breaking if a little care is used.—Linda Yorkshire Pos.

Use Of Plastics

Many Plastics Have Beginning Down On The Farm

The importance of plastics has been emphasized during this war, not only by architects and industrial decorators, but by scientists. Many of these plastics are produced from farm products. From the laboratory to the factory, from the factory to the farm, from the farm to the consumer, the world of plastics will also be used for the needs of peace after the war years are past.

The cultivation of soybeans in Canada has been intensified in recent years. Soybeans have a definite place in the waterproofing of fabrics, and soy meal may be used to make plastics. Soybeans, apart from their value as a high protein feed for livestock, also provide edible oil and can be converted into a lubricating oil.

Progress has also been reported in investigations in connection with sunflowers, another plant from which an edible oil may be extracted.

A New Habit

Britons Assured That Chewing Gum Will Not Alter The British

The Daily Mirror was so concerned over the spread of the American imported gum-chewing habit among Britons that it asked the Royal Anthropological Institute whether it would alter the British profile. The institute replied sagely that Britons would chew from now until doomsday without making any difference to the jowl."

SOLID MOLASSES

A process for dehydrating molasses and packing it in dry form has been developed by the U.S. Board of Economic Warfare. Finished solid blocks of molasses can be stored for indefinite periods in ordinary warehouses and sheds, and can be shipped, handled, and stored as general dry cargo.

A portable medical laboratory for ships at sea has been developed by the R.C.N. research unit, Ajax in a week-end bag, weighing about 40 lbs. It will be instrumental in saving lots of lives in the future. About 100 kits are already being distributed. From it they can make tests, diagnosis at sea, do bacteriological work; tuberculosis and diphtheria may be detected; there is enough blood grouping serum for 100 tests. Another important feature, it makes penicillin, the wonder drug, a source of drinking water, often in foreign ports a matter of grave concern.

How an electrically-heated flying suit probably saved a life comes with the story of how Sgt. G. W. Meadows of Bowsman Lake, Manitoba, got the Conspicuous Gallantry Medal over. Near gunner in a heavy bomber, over the target an enemy night fighter smashed the mid-upper and rear turrets, put a bullet into Meadow's back. It hit the wiring in his electric flying suit, was deflected, came out in the groin. He continued to man his turrets, however, and helped get the fight damaged with his wireless operator and navigator wounded. The mission is highly praiseworthy of his gallantry.

Recently a detachment of the girls of the Polish Women's Army assembled in Montreal to say "Good Luck" to sea on their way overseas. They are quartered in the United Kingdom, their land, for various highly specialized duties. They have been active since Poland, and in the four years on this side have learned to speak our language fluently. Left to right with them being Pte. Alice Dulki of Manville, Alta., and Lieut. Helen Roper of Arcola, Sask. There was also Marie Sowinska of Winnipeg, Man., Pte. Novak from the same city, even Gwendolyn Kory of Alberta. Others now were from Detroit, Michigan. They are in uniform of British battle dress, distinguish them from the other uniforms, also the silver buttons bear the Polish Eagle insignia.

Britain Finds Room

Has Fitted 60,000 Refugees In Various Parts Of United Kingdom

Britain seems to be doing its part in finding homes for refugees. Sixty thousand non-British refugees have been admitted to various parts of the United Kingdom since May, 1940, and they still are arriving at the rate of 800 a month, the Foreign Office has announced. The announcement said 40,000 Polish refugees were being removed from Iran to East and South Africa, India, Palestine and Mexico through efforts of the governments concerned.—Sault Star.

THERE IS STRENGTH IN UNITY OF PURPOSE

Prairie Lumber Dealers Prove The Soundness Of This Theory In A Practical Test

(One of a series of articles about your community lumber merchant, by F. C. Pickwell, well-known western newspaper writer)

The role played by local lumber dealers during the war has been outstanding, and of inestimable value to the communities they serve. The constructive service rendered provides a practical illustration on the value of unity of purpose in behalf of the general public. This story is worthy of more than passing reference. It has to do with the efforts made by local lumber dealers to secure a more equitable supply and distribution of necessary material for their clients under controlled wartime conditions, without any serious regard for anticipated profits.

When war was declared against enemy nations the community lumber and supply yards only had stocks on hands to take care of customary demands under normal peace-time conditions. The situation did not cause any unusual alarm till the early part of 1941, when a combination of abnormal causes created a threatening crisis. The solution called for the united support of the most experienced minds in the industry.

Due to urgent demands of government and military authorities their needs were finally placed in the number one priority list, and under state control. That move appeared to be the only way to secure lumber for the army, air force and navy accommodation just for the moment, without any argument. Then the Dominion Timber Board was created, and all buildings overhauled and enlarged. In addition to increased homes for the workers in many districts from coast to coast, particularly in the most important manufacturing centres.

To the practical observer these hectic developments created an ideal foundation for the hoarding of the unrestrained boom in the lumber industry. But it did not work out that way, for two substantial reasons. Enlistments in the various fighting forces created a serious number of experienced workmen in the lumber camps and mills in British Columbia and the northern spruce areas on the prairies. Then in the spring of 1941 R. H. MacMillan, of Vancouver, was appointed Canada's timber controller.

Any possibility of soaring prices was finally faded out of the picture on April 1, 1941, when a further price freeze was put into effect. Also some slight increases have since been authorized by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, as a means of encouraging increased production, all the industry's source. But, so far as the consuming public is concerned, prices now being paid for lumber remain approximately the same as set on that above date.

It would appear to be somewhat ironical that more attention is paid to the price of such an irreplaceable material as lumber was four months six months in advance of less essential commodities which were pegged originally at levels in force during the basic period. The point to be kept in mind is that many lumbermen have since increased substantially, but the price of lumber has remained much more stationary.

The consuming public may thus gather from official records that the prices which community dealers were permitted to pay the mills for lumber, and the prices which they in turn could charge their customers, were all definitely established by official government regulations. These decrees militated in times of emergency against the possibility of retailers securing supplies in desired quantities, as prices in the open markets were not similarly controlled

Butter Shipments

Shipments From Prairie Provinces Are Under Control

Those parts of Canada where butter supplies are low will benefit by an order issued December 23rd last, by the Dairy Products Board. The order prescribes that shipments of butter from the prairie provinces must be made only to destinations authorized by the Board and states that "no person shall, without authorization from the Dairy Products Board, ship or transport creamery butter in quantities greater than 1,000 pounds from the Provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan or Manitoba into any other of the said provinces or into any other province of Canada." The order reaches an earlier prohibition on butter shipments into Alberta and British Columbia.

The object of the order is to prevent accumulation of butter where supplies are plentiful and to route it to deficiency areas.

The Wanton Destruction Of Ourtaries-Old Russian Churches

The German barbarians have destroyed the centuries old Russian churches near Novgorod memorials of the beginning of the Russian state and jewels of ancient art.

The great faces of princes and saints of old Russia, painted on thick, stave through the broken walls of the Spasa Nereditsy Church. Blocks of stone and heaps of rubble are all that remain of the strong walls built by Russian architects, which stood for seven and one-half centuries, until German artillery reduced them to ruin.

Artists and scientists came from all countries of the world to view the wonderful frescoes, creations of the masters of those times, and to study the art and architecture of Kiev-Novgorod

BAS BEEN INDISPENSABLE

Allan Nevins, professor of history at Columbia University, has written: "The British Empire has been indispensable to civilization. Why it Britain has given, peace, order and ever-broadening freedom to vast populations that might otherwise have sunk into chaotic strife, she has carried a great part of the burden of world progress; she has widened the bounds of fair play, free trade and representative institutions."

Landing Barges May Soon Be Built In Canada

OTTAWA.—Canada may soon be building huge landing barges—vessels of the general dimensions of a car ferry—for the British government, it was revealed here following announcement of the government's decision to halt the laying of keels for more frigates and corvettes.

Discussions on the project already have been initiated with the British authorities, officials disclosed. They said they hoped to negotiate a contract which would keep yards on both the Canadian Pacific and Atlantic coasts in full operation for a year and possibly 18 months.

The new vessels cannot be built in great lakes shipyards as they are too large to reach the sea through the inland canal systems. Government sources said, however, they expected a program of small vessel construction would be carried out this year on a scale sufficient to keep inland yards busy.

Canada already has been building invasion barges in fair numbers in several yards. The vessel which she it is now hoped to construct in the Dominion, however, bear little resemblance to the landing barges turned out. They are designed to carry not only large numbers of troops per vessel, but also a effective force of tanks and heavy transport equipment.

It was admitted here there might be some layoff of shipyard labor in the interval required by the yards to switch to the new type of craft, but that itself would be no layoff of technical staffs, and that any holiday for general labor in any part of the yards would be a brief one.

FOREIGN WORKERS

Forced Labor In Germany Receiving Terrible Treatment

LONDON. — Foreign workers in Germany are treated like livestock, according to a comprehensive account of their living conditions given to Axis by a Netherlander student who recently escaped from the Reich after being shipped there from the Netherlands for forced labor.

Workers were housed in crowded, unsanitary huts behind barbed wire over which fierce police stood guard. Beatings were left to the judgment of foremen. Heat in living quarters was inadequate. Medical attention was careless and disease prevalent.

The student said that in the huts at the Krupp Essen factory last summers workers preferred to sleep on the floors because like it more impossible to get rest in the beds.

The informant was quartered for a time at Camp Trifstrasse in Berlin where there were hundreds of foreign workers of all nationalities. The camp had no lavatories and only two water taps for 2,000.

He declared that medical care was of the most perfunctory sort, and that contagious diseases were common with dysentery, scarlet fever and typhus particularly prevalent. The doctors looked upon every patient as a possible malingerer.

INVALIDED HOME

Large Number Of Canadian Airmen Invalided Home

HALIFAX More than 100 wounded veterans of the fighting in Sicily and Italy, the "Red Patch Devils" of the Canadian First Division in the British Eighth Army, arrived here aboard the hospital ship Lady Nelson, and impatiently awaited their transfer to the trains that would take them back to their homes, or at least back to their home provinces

Also returned from the battle zone painted former cruise liner were large numbers of Canadian troops invalided home from Britain because of illness or accidents, some R.C.A.F personnel and a few members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

SHOWS DECREASE

Official Cost-Of-Living Index Was Lower At December 1

OTTAWA - The official cost-of-living index declined from 119.6 at Nov 1 to 119.3 at Dec. 1, making the total wartime increase 18.4 per cent the Dominion bureau of statistics reported.

"Decreases in indexes for foods and fuel and lighting overbalanced a rise in house furnishings and miscellaneous items," said the bureau.

"The food index dropped from 133.1 to 132.7 with decline for beef, pork, oranges, turnips and cabbage of greater importance than increases for butter, eggs and potatoes."

Canadian Army Command Changes

McNaughton. At left is Lieut.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, former chief of the general staff who succeeds Gen. McNaughton as commander of the Canadian forces. At right is Lieut.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, present chief of the general staff who is now appointed chief of staff, Canadian military headquarters, London, and acting commander of the First Canadian Army. They are pictured together watching Canadian troop manoeuvres in Britain.

Nazi Engineers Building Strong Defences In Italy

ALGIERS.—German engineers are rushing to completion an Italian "Siegfried Line" almost as powerful as similar Nazi fortifications in western Europe, German prisoners reported here.

Intent on keeping the Allies from Rome as long as possible, the Nazis have said to be installing their formidable new defence system a few miles from the present battle line, with its strongest features located in the neighborhood of Casino opposite the 5th Army and inland from Pescara, Adriatic seaport which Canadian forces of the 8th Army are nearing

The desperate nature of German resistance in Italy in recent weeks possibly was dictated by the necessity of holding until the new line could be completed.

The Nazis also were reported forming reserves of mobile defence units back of the fighting line and to be reinforcing their troops at the front with crack mountain regiments. An Allied officer said the enemy appeared to be preparing for a long war of attrition up the Italian leg.

Canadian troops from the Maritime provinces stormed and captured "Point 59", a strongly-defended hill about three miles from Ortona and overlooking the coastal highway to Pescara. The advance was first of importance for the Canadians since a snow and windstorm hit the Adriatic sector recently.

WORKERS WARNED

Sir Stafford Cripps Says This Will Be Difficult Year

LONDON Workers at a Greater London factory were warned against over-optimism by Sir Stafford Cripps, minister of aircraft production, who told them th a year would be "by far the most difficult year both on the fighting front and the factory front at home"

It is perfectly true that the position of the United Nations is very much better than it ever was in the whole course of the war but we must always remember that a wild beast is never so dangerous as when he has been wounded," he said "Undoubtedly the Nazis have been very seriously wounded and the danger of desperation comes from that state of affairs

TRAINING GROUND

French North Africa Vast Centre For Allied Invasion Troops

ALGIERS British, United States and French troops are undergoing training throughout French North Africa for coming assaults across the Mediterranean against the Germans, it was disclosed.

North Africa was officially described as "one vast training centre for troops destined for future operations," with camps scattered throughout Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco.

Guarding Vital Sea Lanes Of North Atlantic

OTTAWA.—The Royal Canadian navy's fleet of speedy sub-chasing motor launches guarding the waters of Canada's eastern coast have been operating for the past seven months under their own command, directed by Capt. J. A. Keenan, of Ottawa, naval service headquarters announced.

In assuming control of the fleet Capt Heenan also was made commanding officer of H.M.C.S Venture, a converted yacht used as the M.L. base ship—the nerve centre of the fleet.

Since the start of the war, officials said, the motor launches have been guarding the vital sea lanes of the North Atlantic and since coming under their own command have increased their efficiency a hundred fold

Travelling in flotillas of six they have seen service from the most northern tip of Labrador to Key West, Fla., and Bermuda's sunny south They played an important role along with the minesweepers when Germany missed the mouth of Halifax harbor and they frequently dash to the aid of distressed merchant ships. The survivors they rescued number in the hundreds.

PLANS BEING MADE

To Send Needed Supplies To Europe After Invasion Starts

LONDON While the Allied forces prepare for a second front in the British government is planning a second invasion wave men and women bearing food and clothing for the ragged and starved people of Europe

The board of trade and ministry of supply here have announced that British clothing stores for their surplus stocks These garments are now being received and sorted at large depots. They will be ready to be rushed across the Channel in the wake of the army

Most of the clothing being collected from shops are utility lines not in demand such as raincoats rayon clothing Since a woollen garment or tweed jacket takes in many cases the same number of coupons as cot tons or rayon garment, British exporters will not surrender coupons for the finisher clothes

It is expected that knitted wear and footwear will be supplied by Canada and the United States, where the shortage is not as great as it is in Britain.

SPANIARDS IN RUSSIA

NEW YORK.—Spanish soldiers are fighting with the Germans on the Volkhov front in northern Russia despite assertions by Gen. Franco's government that all Spaniards have been called home, a broadcast Nazi German communique asserted. The communique quoted a captured Spanish soldier, Jesus Perez Sanchez, as authority for the assertion.

New Propulsion Plane Capable Of High Speeds

WASHINGTON Cloaked in secrecy for years, a new "rocket" plane has emerged from British-American engineering laboratories, capable of extreme speeds at high altitudes without using standard propellers

The disclosure was made in a joint statement by the RAF and the United States army air forces

The plane is powered with jet propulsion engines. No details were given. Jet propulsion is generally considered in aviation circles to be a series of short sharp explosions on the rocket principle, hurtling the plane forward Aviation authorities have said that today's airplanes have just about reached their limits in speed at close to 500 miles an hour by use of propellers and that the jet propulsion or rocket principle is the next logical step to greater achievement

The discovery of jet has been reported experimenting with rocket devices or planes to give them additional power to take-offs or higher speed in emergencies

Several hundred flights by the new British American planes were made without a single mishap and quantity production is just around the corner

Allied officials declared Research work on the idea started 10 years ago in Great Britain under Group Captain Frank Whittle of the R.A.F. and his preliminary engine ran successfully in 1937

The joint statement issued in Washington by Gen H H Arnold, chief of the army air forces disclosed that the British air ministry had the first order for a plane using jet propulsion engines with the Gloster Aircraft Company Ltd. in charge of the work. To be built by Power Jets Ltd in a special factory in England. Group Capt. Whittle was to head up this company

The first successful flight of this aircraft was in May, 1941" the statement said "The pilot was the late Flight Lt. P. E. Sayers, chief test pilot of Gloster Aircraft company, and greatest credit should be given to Group Captain Whittle for the performance and for the genius and energy that made it possible.

Partial information about this jet propulsion engine was disclosed in July, 1941, to the United States army air forces by the British R.A.F. and ministry of aircraft production, had the foresight to appreciate the tremendous possibilities of this new form of aircraft power unit. The U.S.A.A.F at once asked for an engine to be sent to U.S.A. and the engine which had made the first flight was sent to the General Electric Company in September 1941

PEOPLE WELL FED

Canadians Are Eating Better In Spite Of Rationing

OTTAWA Canada as a nation is eating better than ever before despite rationing and occasional shortages the wartime information board said in a review of food supplies available to various nations.

The condition of Canada, the United States, Australia and New Zealand in respect to the adequacy of the wartime diet was described as "extremely favorable" when compared with European countries.

Restricted food rationing in 23 countries the board said that in some notably Canada, Britain and the United States the people as a whole were better fed today despite rationing, than before the war. This was because of increased purchasing power, more even distribution of available foods and other factors

At the other end of the scale were countries where the food available was insufficient not only to maintain health and working efficiency, but, for large groups of people, to maintain life itself

The Canadian rations are among the most liberal in the world," the review said. "Only Australia and New Zealand have at few foods rationed or generously and in these countries a severe clothing rationing scheme is imposed.

DEATH RATE LOW

Reports of nearly 30,000 battle casualties treated at Allied hospitals in the Middle East in the year ending April 1943, show was a mortality rate of only 2.1 per cent an analysis disclosed. Total deaths during the period were 611. This compares to a 7.44 per cent mortality rate in hospitals in Egypt and Palestine in the last war.

WEDDING BELLS

RAMSAY — OLDENBURG

In a simple ceremony, Wednesday December 29th at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Cook, Lena Miriam Oldenburg, younger daughter of Mrs. A. Oldenburg, and the late Mr. Oldenburg of Holland became the bride of Robert Ramsay, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Ramsay of Edmonton. Rev. E. S. Reikie officiated.

The bride entering a candle-lit room, was given in marriage by her eldest brother Charles. She was dressed in a pretty two-piece afternoon model of petal-rose crepe, trimmed with white French lace. Her accessories were brown and she carried a shower bouquet of pink carnations and white chrysanthemums. Her only ornament was a cameo pendant, a gift of the groom.

Attending her sister, Miss Dorothy Oldenburg wore a two-piece afternoon dress of Mediterranean blue crepe, trimmed with blue silk braid, with accessories and a corsage of talisman roses and feather fern. Best man was Mr. Frank Wood of Vermilion. Mrs. E. S. Reikie played the Wedding March.

They were married under an arch decorated with evergreen and white streamers and lighted with small white bulbs adding a festive touch to the occasion in the background was a Christmas tree and a beautifully decorated table, centred with the bride's cake and tall white tapers.

The wedding reception was held at George's Lunch Room, at which two-tiered miniature replicas of the bride and groom attended. Mrs. A. Oldenburg receiving with Miss Ruth Ramsay and the bridal couple were an aisle duet by Miss Dorothy Oldenburg and a corsage of rubrum lilies.

Miss Ruth Ramsay, sister of the groom, wore a gold two-piece dress and corsage of bronze roses.

After the reception the bridal couple received at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Cook a number of friends and members of the Baptist church, of which the bride was an active member. Mrs. Clive Stephens poured and Mrs. Welsh, the Misses Miriam Cook and Jessie Swanson, assisted Mrs. Cook with the serving of a delightful lunch. Miss Muriel Batty sang "I Love You Truly" with Mr. Wm. Vernon Sprake accompanying her on the piano.

The bride's travelling outfit was a two-piece green wool ensemble topped with a fur coat.

The couple will be at home in Waskatenau

POLISH LANDSCAPE PAINTER IS IMPRESSED WITH CANADA

WINNIPEG. — After seeing it in such high spots as Jasper National Park, Mount Robson and Prince Albert National Park, Rafal Malczewski, famous Polish artist, says that Canada is a magnificent country for the painter. He was in Winnipeg the week, on his way back to Ottawa with a batch of water colors painted during five months in Western Canada, chiefly in the Rockies, which he exhibited last fall in the Dominion Gallery. Accompanied by his wife, he bicycled over mountain trails to Medicine Lake in Jasper, visited, as the guest of J. A. Wood, Park Superintendent, the Columbia Icefield; painted the Angel Glacier at Mount Edith Cavell and stretches of the Athabaska river, familiar to summer visitors in the days before the war, some months also at Mount Robson, before going on to Vancouver and Victoria.

The Canadian landscape impressed Mr. Malczewski, but not as much as the Canadian people. Their kindness and friendliness are unfailing, he says, and in many instances is real. He speaks from experience. In the winter of 1939, in peril of their lives, the Malczewskis fled before the Nazis, going on foot through the mountains to Czecho-Slovakia into Hungary, and by their way through Italy to France. For France fell and they were forced to take refuge in Portugal and from there they went to Brazil. After 13 months in Brazil they came to Canada, where they have at last found sanctuary.

On his arrival in Winnipeg Mr. Malczewski received a letter telling her that her sister had died in a concentration camp. The refugee says nothing about the other members of their families.

The son of a painter whose portraits included such distinguished personages as Raymond, the Polish minister of the Nobel Prize, Rafal Malczewski has a European reputation that is now a gold medal at the Paris International exhibition in 1937 has exhibited in the Carnegie International at Pittsburgh, and is represented in art collections of Moscow, Buda Pesth and other capitals.

VANESTI MAN DIES AT NELSON, B.C.

Frank R. Redman

On Tuesday Dec. 21 the death took place in the hospital at Nelson, B.C., of Mr. Frank R. Redman, formerly a resident of the Vanesti district southeast of Vermilion. He had been in ill health for many years.

Mr Redman was born in Iowa, U.S.A. on March 1, 1877. When quite young he moved with his parents to Idaho, and later to Oregon. There he was married in 1901 to Teresa Barnes who predeceased him 21 years ago.

In 1917 Mr. Redman with his young family moved to Canada, settling near Loverna, Sask., where he farmed until 1928 when he moved to Vanesti. He lived at Vanesti until one year ago when his continued ill health forced him to give up farming. He then moved to the coast where he lived until shortly before his death.

Left to mourn his loss are four children, Alfred of Armstrong, Mrs. W. Machnik of Salmo, B.C., Mrs. R.J. Elliott of Waskatenau, Alberta, and Mrs. Arthur Anderson, B.C. There are eleven grandchildren.

His many friends and neighbors of the Vanesti district extend sympathy to the bereaved family.

Interment took place at Nelson B.C.

Iceland Is Call for Mail Plane

On a recent return flight from Great Britain, one of the four-engined Lancasters operated by Trans-Canada Air Lines on behalf of the Dominion Government in the trans-Atlantic service made a special stopover at Iceland to pick up 750 pounds of United States "V" mail for delivery in Montreal. "V" air mail is similar to Canada's "airgraph" service.

Car License Cut Plan on Program

Reduction of motor car licenses, which is being advocated by the Alberta Motor Association, is expected to be one of the main subjects for discussion at the course of Social Credit principles which has been called for Feb. 8 and 9. This is the usual pre-sessional caucus, as the house will open on Feb. 10.

Perhaps up the resolution passed at the annual meeting of the A.M.A. in Calgary last month, officials will make further representations to the government concerning the urgency of a lessened scale of motor licenses.

Undoubtedly there is some desire in government quarters, at least among the rural members to see that car licenses are lowered. It has been pointed out time and again that the condition of the highways and federal restrictions on gasoline and tire supplies, form every warrant for car licenses being reduced to a nominal sum.

When the government rejected the A.M.A.'s request last year for refunds or the 1942 licenses, it was indicated that a gasoline rationing plan would be given the question of reducing licenses when the 1943 budget was being prepared.

The budget soon will be in course of preparation and the A.M.A. is continuing to press for a cut in car licenses.

FARMERS UNION HOLD BYE SOCIAL AND DANCE AT ALTONDALE JAN 7

The Alberta Farmers' Union met in the Autumn Leaf schoolhouse on Friday Jan. 7th at a box social and dance, the proceeds of which are to pay the expenses of an Alberta Farmers' Union delegate to be sent to Edmonton to attend the Leicbcoming A.F.U. convention which is to be held there in January. A large crowd attended the entertainment, and after the expenses were paid there was over $75 left to place in the Union's treasury.

Mr. G. J. Neetman of Vermilion, who is the secretary and director of the A.F.U. for district No 7, addressed the gathering. Mr. Neetman stressed the necessity of unity among all farmers, and said that those farmers who preferred to remain outside the Union, should be treated as outsiders and not entitled to the benefits of the Union, so that they may be made to realize the necessity of united cooperation. He also advised farmers everywhere to tune in their radios every Monday evening at 8.30 to the Farm Radio Forum, the organization set up under the auspices of the provincial government to promote the welfare of agriculture and agricultists. Mr. Neetman pointed out that farmers, who constitute one third of the nation's population, should be receiving one third of the national income, but, he said, in 1920 and during the depression, the farmers of this country received less than one-sixth of the national income, and, although conditions have vastly improved during the last few years, they are still not receiving their just share of the national income.

The music for the entertainment was supplied by Messrs. H. Eden, H. Harle and A. Keat, all of this district.

FIRST AIR STOWAWAY TO DODGE T.C.A. CHECK

MONTREAL.—What it did happen, despite the careful check which the Trans-Canada Air Lines maintains at all airports, a stowaway evaded checks and guards and was carried from Newfoundland to the Montreal Airport at Dorval.

The story starts at Gander, Newfoundland, where a group of winged members of the Air Force were assigned to get to Canada for Christmas furlough.

Expectations rose high as Capt. J.L. Reed, senior T.C.A. pilot in the Dominion Government trans-Atlantic service operated by Trans-Canada Air Lines, dropped his huge Lancaster on the runway at Gander on his return journey from Great Britain after delivering three tons of Xmas mail for the boys and girls of the Canadian forces overseas. It took only a few minutes to assure the group that Capt. Reed was not then carrying passengers and that he could fly the airmen to Montreal provided they obtained authorization and their clearance papers were in order. They were, and presently 23 members of the R.C.A.F. were on board, and a few hours later they were being disembarked at Dorval.

Then it was found that while 22 fliers had their papers in order there was a 24th flier without a single document. Not only that, it was discovered that [illegible] had been chosen to fly to the [illegible] minutes to 90 below zero in one of the air posts in a wing. When discovered by the inspectors over he stared with eyes ablaze, but he was eventually taken from his place in the wing, a hapless owl, the first stowaway to make an unauthorized flight in a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane.

High School Students To Launch $1000 War Stamp Drive

Whirlwind Campaign Planned

At an executive meeting of the students' Union of the Vermilion high school on Jan. 5th, it was proposed that a War Savings Stamp Drive be launched. Nelson Crowell was accordingly appointed to draw up a plan and to submit the plan to the board of trade for their approval and helpful suggestions. This was done on Jan. 10th and it was unanimously endorsed with but very few modifications. The plan was then approved at a general meeting of the Students' Union and committees elected. The quota was set at $1000.

The chairman of the sales committee, Jean Cotjay, plans to open stamp here at the public school, high school, and in various stores on Saturdays. Individual salesmen will be selling stamps throughout the week. These salesmen will be awarded prizes according to sales. These prizes will be in the form of war savings stamps and will be donated by the business men.

V.H.S. shields will be presented to those business houses where every member of the staff buys a certificate. A thermometer indicating the progress of the stamp drive will be placed in front of the post office and weekly communiques will appear in the Standard.

OIL BURNERS WORK; VOLTAGE REGULATORS INSTALLED

At E. L. & P. Plant

The stand-by oil burning equipment at the Vermilion E.L. & P. plant has been tried out several times during the past week and found to be entirely satisfactory. This equipment can be installed under the boilers very quickly in case of emergency.

Another job talked of for the past several years at the plant, that of the received installation of the voltage regulators, has been quietly done by the electrician Bill Finks. T. [illegible] voltage regulators keep the current going into the light and power lines constant, and eliminates the variation which causes flickering in lights etc., and which is harmful to all electrical devices.

Two of the latter were donated by the Ganton W.I.W.A. and Ganton school Junior Red Cross.

Of the $224.01 received and raised by the auxiliary $149.22 was sent to the Vermilion Red Cross branch; $42.50 went to the Red Cross drive in March; $5.50 was spent on donations to Navy League and Xmas parcels for the boys Overseas; 66.87 was used to pay for 14 blankets sent to the out of door woollen articles, as yet not received, to buy quilt tops and linings, and wool and material for children's garments necessary for bazaar and concert, to buy thread, needles, etc., and postage. $2 12 is still on hand.

Considering the bad roads in 1943, the extra amount of work on the farm, due to threshing in spring and fall and shortage of farm help, the achievement of the Auxiliary in 1943 can be called satisfactory.

H. P. Mollait for some years manager of the Beaver Lumber Co. at Lully, Sask., and for the past several years engaged in contracting and building at Lully and district, has arrived in Vermilion to take over the management of the lumber and building supply branch of the B.H. Norton business. Mr. Mollait will occupy the L.A. Tyner house which Mr. Norton purchased some months ago and has reserved as a residence for his lumber yard manager.

Landlords and tenants are entitled to apply to a rentals appraiser, WFTH, for permission to increase or decrease the amount of rent charged for an accommodation.

Annual Town Meeting Friday, January 28th

Terms of Two Councillors, Three School Trustees Expire

The annual meeting of the town of Vermilion and the Vermilion Consolidated school district, and at which the report of the Vermilion representative on the hospital board will also be given, will be held at the Memorial hall on Friday evening, Jan. 28th, commencing at 8 o'clock p.m.

Annual town meetings bring to mind that municipal nominations and election days are not far off and in this connection the terms of Vermilion's two senior councillors, F. M. Stewart and R.W. Bushell expire. It is sincerely hoped throughout the town that both these men will consent to stand again. The terms of three school trustees, D.A. Andrew, G. Brass and J. D. Adam, K.C., also terminate. It is hoped that a strong effort will be made to induce these three men would consent to stand for re-election.

H. E. Parker who is the town representative on the hospital, comes up for re-election this year. It is not expected that he will be opposed.

Nomination day is the first Monday in February which is the 7th, and election day the second Monday, the 14th.

Rumors are to the effect that the best town financial statement in history will be presented to the ratepayers on Friday evening, Jan. 28th, and it is the duty of every ratepayer in the town to attend the meeting and hear all about it.

LOCAL TEAM DROPS OPENING HOCKEY GAME

A remarkably good game of hockey was witnessed at the arena last Thursday when the Lloydminster and Vermilion clubbed in the first game of the season, to be played here. Going into the third period Lloyd was enjoying a comfortable 3 to 1 lead only to see Ron Mansell and Keith Donahue score a counter apiece in the final half-hour skirmish which slipped one past Brock, well known Heatherdown Flyer goalie who turned in a fine exhibition, for the goal that proved the winner. Les Meader notched Vermilion's fourth counter.

A good sized crowd turned out for the game.

Russell Carroll refereed.

Line-ups: Vermilion — Brock, Machnik, Kreller, Nuryot, Williams, Spencer, Douglas, Meader, Dundell and Crowell.

Lloydminster — Dearlie, Gallaghe, Trimble, Simpson, Kindrick Manners, McLean, Sunderland, McBride, Grant.

Post-War Relief For Europe

FOREMOST AMONG THE MANY problems which must be dealt with by the United Nations at the close of the war, will be that of providing the oppressed people of Europe with the necessities of life. This will be a vast undertaking and it will have to be commenced at the earliest possible moment after hostilities cease. The urgency of the problem is fully realized and already plans have been made for the alleviation of the suffering of the many thousands of people who are now under Nazi domination. A United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration has been set up, and at a conference held in Atlantic City not long ago, the probable needs of these people, and the means of securing relief for them, were discussed. It is apparent that there will be need of close international co-operation in the gigantic task, and as a great food producing nation Canada will be in a position to contribute much toward the relief of those countries where appalling conditions of famine and disease now prevail.

* * * *

Estimates Of Future Needs

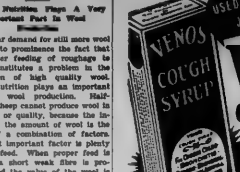
Some interesting facts relating to the estimated requirements for relief for the occupied countries of Europe during the six months following the end of the war are contained in a report which was submitted by the Inter-Allied Committee on Post-War Requirements to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration conference. This Inter-Allied Committee sits in London, and the figures in its report were based on the opinions of experts from France, Holland, Greece, Belgium and the other Occupied Countries. It is estimated that Europe's minimum need for food, raw materials and other necessities during the first six months period will be 45,350,000 tons. This does not include the needs of Russia or of neutral or enemy countries. The goods to be imported will require 23,680,000 tons of shipping space, which is a little more than the total shipping space available in Great Britain and the Dominions in 1939. Shipments would be made up of 80,000 tons of drugs and medical supplies, 7,333,000 tons of food, 1,150,000 tons of coal and coke for domestic and industrial purposes, and 9,962,000 tons of base metals and materials for construction work.

European Death Rate is Rising

These estimated needs for foodstuffs were based on the minimum nutrition requirement, which is 2,000 calories per day for each man, woman and child. At present the diet in these countries is far below this requirement. In Norway it is thought that the present diet may yield 1,440 calories, in many parts of France it is said to be less than that, and in Poland the present diet does not contain more than 900 to 700 calories, according to a recent report released on this subject by the International Labor Office. This same report tells of the wide prevalence of tuberculosis and other contagious diseases in occupied Europe and of rising death rates. It is apparent that many of the most complex post-war problems will be in connection with the relief and rehabilitation of Europe, and much will depend upon the way in which it is approached. The report of the Inter-Allied Committee draws attention to this fact and concludes by pointing out that "The provision of relief and rehabilitation will be a test of the capacity of the United Nations to rebuild a more prosperous world and realize the most pressing of the four Freedoms, "Freedom from Want," in their territories."

Aviation Centre

R.C.A.F. to Close Its Repair Plant At Winnipeg



T. W. SIERS

The growing importance of Winnipeg as an air centre is further emphasized with the announcement by C. H. Dickins, Vice-President and General Manager of Canadian Pacific Air Lines at Montreal, that CPA will establish its main overhaul and repair plant for both aircraft and engines in Winnipeg.

T. W. Siers, one of the pioneers of Canadian aviation, and presently General Superintendent of Maintenance of Canadian Pacific Air Lines system at Montreal, will open new offices at Winnipeg this month. It is also planned to transfer the company's engineering division from Edmonton to Winnipeg and this work will be under the supervision of Aeronautical Engineer A. G. Clarkson.

W. E. Rolls, now assistant to the Acting Superintendent of Maintenance on Western Lines of CPA at Edmonton, will also be located at Winnipeg as assistant to the General Superintendent of Maintenance.

This new change in the location of CPA overhaul and repair facilities will result in Winnipeg being a central point to do this work for the temporary PO airplanes now flying on routes and in many areas from Quebec to the Yukon. It will mean an increased volume of work for the local aircraft maintenance employees and will also assist in making better known the advantages of Winnipeg as one of the main centres in Canadian air operations and overhaul work.

Winter Feed For Sheep

Proper Nutrition Plays A Very Important Part In Wool

The war demand for still more wool brings into prominence the fact that the winter feeding of roughage to sheep constitutes a problem in the production of high quality wool. Proper nutrition plays an important part in wool production. Half-starved sheep cannot produce wool in quantity, or quality, because the increase in the amount of wool is the result of a combination of factors. The most important factor is plenty of good feed. When proper feed is lacking a short weak fibre is produced and the value of the wool is decreased by at least two cents a pound.

The proper feeding of roughage necessitates a proper manner of feeding it, which in turn demands the greatest care on the part of the shepherd to produce racks of suitable type. A desirable type of rack is one so constructed that large portions of the feeding material, such as chaff and leaves of legumes, may not lodge in the fleece of the sheep as the sheep feed at the rack. There are many types of racks, specifications for which may be obtained by applying to any Dominion Experimental Farm or Station, or Agricultural College.

To protect the fleece of the sheep, when feeding material is being carried to the racks, it should not be passed over their backs. It is better to remove the flock before the racks are to be filled. At all times care should be taken to prevent chaff falling on the fleeces. For the same reason, sheep should never be allowed to feed from the side of a hay or a straw rack because such a method is ruinous to the production of high quality wool, through seeds and chaff getting into the fleece.

The volume of goods flowing to Russia over-land via Iran and Persia, £70,000,000, Sir Francis Joseph, acting chairman of the United Kingdom Commercial Corporation, said in London. He declared that "miracles of improvisation" had been performed to get the material in motion. Supplies have consisted of lead, mica, aluminum, hides and rubber, jute goods, rope cloth, thousands of tons of tea, cocoa and flour, tools, electrical equipment, boots, nails, shellac and graphite. The world was combed to find it all, he explained.

HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA

An Anniversary

For one year every Canadian housewife has had the key to healthful and nutritious meals for her family; for Canada's Official Food Rules are celebrating their first anniversary. In January, 1942, the Nutrition Services at Ottawa gave to Canadian housewives a few of the minimum daily requirements of the foods necessary to protect health. This was one of the ways in which even the busiest housewife could do her bit for her country and her family.

Now, in January 1944, as we look back over the year, we would each say to ourselves, "Have I done my part?" Do you know the Official Food Rules so thoroughly that you can tick your score from this page like a report card? These are the foods that should have been included in each day's menu during the year:—

MILK—Adults, ½ pint. Children, more than 1 pint. And some cheese, as available.

FRUITS—One serving of tomatoes or citrus fruit daily; and one serving of other fruit, fresh, canned or dried.

VEGETABLES—One serving potatoes. Two servings of vegetables, preferably green or yellow, and frequently raw.

CEREALS—One serving of a whole-grain cereal. Four to six slices of Canada Approved Bread, brown or whole MEAT, FISH—One serving a day of meat, fish, or meat substitute. Liver, heart, or kidney once a week.

EGGS—At least three or four weekly.

Eat these foods first, when available, then add other foods you wish. Some source of Vitamin D such as fish liver oils, is essential for children.

The Nutrition Division of the Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto, now has, for distribution at less than cost, a colorful calendar portraying simply the foods one should eat daily for proper nutrition. Hang one on your kitchen wall to remind you, through all the days of 1944, that Canada's Food Rules are on the front line for home defence!

Japanese Trick

Broadcast Recording Of Voice Of Man Who Died

How a soldier's voice lived on the airways for a minute after the man in question had been told at Halifax by a brother, Bert Pallece of Winnipeg, a telegrapher in the Royal Canadian Navy.

Pte Michael W. Pallece was one of the Canadian soldiers who went to Hong Kong just before the garrison fell to the Japanese at Christmas time, 1941.

Last August his family had a letter from the doctor saying he had died from beri beri, and a short while later official confirmation of his death came from Ottawa. Some few months afterwards people in different parts of the world heard his voice on the radio—the last time in Australia last month, his brother said.

Hello, mum," said the voice of the dead soldier, then came a few words of greeting and his name and address.

The Japs had made a recording of his message to the people in a home, and after his death continued to broadcast it for some reason, said the brother.

List Of The Nutritional Merit Of Different Vegetables

Graded as sources of vitamins A and C, iron and calcium, vegetables, cooked or raw according to customary usage, were arranged in the following order of merit as protective foods at the recent meeting of the Nutritional Panel of the Food Chemical Industry Council, Inc. Eng. First came the green vegetables, broccoli tops, watercress, mustard and cress, brussels sprouts, and spinach, rich in carotene, and very rich in Vitamin C and containing contributions of iron and calcium, although it was doubtful whether the calcium in the spinach was available.

Next came cabbage and cauliflower which still contained substantial amounts of vitamin C but negligible quantities of carotene In green vegetables, carotene is associated with greenness. When the heart of a cabbage is blanched, it thereby forfeits its rank in the highest class of protective vegetables

Tomato and lettuce fell in the middle of the list. They contained more carotene but much less vitamin C

Vegetables with only one fifth of the concentration of green were placed at the bottom of the list, namely turnips, green peas, onion, leeks, parsnips, string beans and lima beans Asparagus, cucumber, celery, and marrow contained so little vitamins or minerals that they could not be graded at all, said the report.

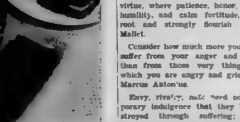
Jack Miner, who hands ducks and geese and other birds at his sanctuary in Kingsville, Ont., to enable study of their migrations route, has received word of a goose, banded in the fall of 1937, being shot Dec. 11 by Julius Crew, of Worton, Kenty County, Maryland. The goose had carried the band 10 years, which meant that it had made 32 trips across the continent, Mr. Miner said.

Quickly Made, Quickly Eaten is This All-Bran Prune Bread



Now we know why "quick breads" are so named. After the first taste, everyone comes back for more. The whole family vanishes, quite a witch, if you don't watch out!

All-Bran Prune Bread is grand for sandwiches It has a pleasantly moist texture and a grand nutty flavor. Made with prunes and All-Bran, it is rich in iron and Vitamin B.

Perhaps you've thought breads were difficult to make, why not try this recipe and see how simple it is?

3 cups All-Bran
¾ cup juice from cooked prunes
¼ cup buttermilk
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon shortening
1 egg
1¼ cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons soda
½ cup chopped cooked prunes
½ cup chopped nutmeats*

Soak All-Bran in juice drained from prunes and buttermilk. Cream sugar and shortening thoroughly; add egg and beat well. Add All-Bran mixture. Sift flour with salt and soda and add to first mixture with prunes and nutmeats. Stir only until flour disappears. Bake in a greased loaf pan in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.) 1 hour and 20 minutes.

Yield: 1 loaf (9½ x 5½ pan).

*Nutmeats may be omitted.

Itching Scalp

A Simple Home Treatment

If your scalp has broken out with ugly surface rashes or irritations — DON'T DO IT with fingernails as that only serves to make it worse, and spreads it! Instead, your druggist today can get a bottle of Zemo for you. Then, at the very first sign of an actual attack of eczema, or if you want to use all you do is apply to the scalp with your fingertips gently rubbing into the roots of the hair. Do this at bedtime and in the morning before you shampoo, using a good soap. I know you'll find this combination start right in preventing further scratching. Often one treatment will relieve and the loose, flaking dandruff has disappeared.

Continue for 2 weeks and then you should see a clear, healthy scalp. Zemo at Druggists everywhere and Emerald Oil.

To Make Future Secure

If Germany Pays Reparations She Cannot Launch Armament Program

Wilhelm Morgenaetlere, Norwegian ambassador to the United States, told a press conference that Germany should be forced to pay "as far as possible" for war damage, with a view to blocking her rearmament for a third world war. He explained it was not a matter of getting revenge, but the dictates of experience following the First World War. He pointed out that within a few years after Germany had ceased paying reparations, she had launched a large-scale armament program which made possible her attacks on other countries. "Our point-of-view," said the ambassador, "is to secure future generations against a third attack by the mechanized barbarians on the free-born-loving countries."—Sault Daily Sta.

Dominion Will Need Market For Farm Products

OTTAWA. — Agriculture Minister Gardiner said in an address before the national poultry conference that Canada must look to overseas for much of her surplus agricultural products after the war.

Home consumption after the war could not be much larger than it was before, and by quality production and good merchandising Canadians must sell in other lands, he said.

When the war was over, Canadian products should be established on overseas markets because of their quality, packaging and other factors, he said.

Mr. Gardiner said Canada had never known until the war came the possibilities of her agricultural production. There had been vast increases in most production lines, with an overall increase of 48 per cent. in output reported in recent figures as compared with 1938, when there were 500,000 more men and women on the farms.

Home consumption of food had increased only six per cent. in 1942 as compared with 1938, although in 1942 and 1943, Canadians were eating all they could eat.

The Minister envisioned the nations producing to the limit the products they were suited to produce, and making such food available to others.

The 12,000,000 people in Canada could not use all the food their farm try produced, he said, and 60,000,000 more people would have to come to Canada to consume the additional food produced, as the per capita use of which Canada had increased her production would have to be exported. less the six per cent. by which Canadian consumption had risen

J. H. Evans, Manitoba provincial deputy minister of agriculture, said Canadian progress in quality hog and poultry production was second to none, and British hogs and poultry now were not better than Canada's

LONDON.—British food ministry officials welcomed news from Ottawa that Canada will be able to continue supplying the United Kingdom with 500,000,000 pounds of bacon annually for as long as is wanted and said this "removed the risk of a cut in the British bacon ration"

A food ministry official said the ministry was highly pleased that Canada is letting Britain have a larger supply of bacon than she originally intended to send

MAIL FROM CAIRO

Over Three Tons Brought To Ottawa By R.C.A.F. Plane

OTTAWA. — The first R.C.A.F. overseas mail squadron aircraft to complete the round trip from Ottawa to Cairo brought to Canada three and a quarter tons of homeward-bound service mail from soldiers, sailors and airmen in the Mediterranean war theatres and Great Britain.

The R.C.A.F. said that letters from base post offices in Italy, Sicily, North Africa and Great Britain made up the first consignments, and that members of the Dominion's three fighting services were quick to make use of their newest service.

On the last 12½-hour leg of the journey, Pte. H. W. H. McIntosh of Winnipeg piloted the giant Flying Fortress.

McIntosh, completing his second two-way Atlantic crossing, said the trip was "first rate." Later he confided he had to make a three-wheel take-off, and that engine trouble had marred the first hours.

He said his crew braved a lowering ceiling and a night landing to get the mail through.

Record Is Set By Canada In Trade Exports

OTTAWA.—Canada's export trade in 1943 reached "the highest figure in its history and far exceeded imports in the Dominion, Trades Minister MacKinnon said in a prepared statement.

"The total of our domestic and foreign exports during the year attained the unprecedented figure of slightly more than $3,000,000,000," Mr MacKinnon said. "In other words we exported in 1943 commodities at the rate of $250,000,000 a month, or approximately $10,000,000 per working day by far the highest figure in our history."

The value of 1942 exports was more than three times greater than 1939 exports, set at more than $935,000,000.

"Well over 70 per cent. of these exports were materials used directly in the carrying on of this total war, and were sent where they would best serve the cause of the United Nations," Mr. MacKinnon said.

"While the great bulk of our exports went as always to the United Kingdom and the United States, our exports to the Middle East and to the Far East, both of them were nonces, were enormous Moreover, exports of munitions to Russia were of unprecedented value."

Exports of motor vehicles and parts, including trucks, gun mounters and tanks, showed an increase from $26 000,000 in 1939 to $472,000,000 in 1943 Exports of guns, amounting to only a few thousand dollars in 1939, totalled $114,000,000 last year

Exports of cartridges and shells valued at $1 000,000 in the first year of the war totalled $23,000,000 in 1943 Exports of ships aircraft and Canadian army and navy stores, which were only about $1,000,000 in 1939, rose to $176,000,000 last year.

In the main items of food, such as cheese, canned fish, bacon and cheese, processed milk and eggs, total exports of Canadian products increased from $43,000,000 in 1939 to $482,000,000 in 1943.

Exports of forest products increased from $127,000,000 in 1939 to $341,000,000 in 1943. Exports of non-ferrous metals such as aluminum, copper, lead and zinc also increased from $183,000,000 to $333,000,000 Exports of chemical products jumped from $24,000,000 to $86,000,000

"Canadians may well be proud of their achievement on the home front in 1943" Mr MacKinnon said. "While we cannot all go to war, we can all support our forces overseas and our allies all over the world with food, raw materials and finished equipment of war. The record shows that we have done so in 1943, and we shall continue to do so as long as may be necessary

The minister intimated that 1944 export figures would be even greater than those of this year.

SPANIARDS EXECUTED

LONDON.—Two Spaniards were executed in Gibraltar for offences against defence regulations, it was announced. One was found with a bomb in his possession before it could be used and the other placed a bomb on a gasoline tank in a fuel enclosure at a coaling island, start ing a "serious" fire.

WHEAT FOR INDIA

Part Of Gift From Canada Will Be Shipped Soon

OTTAWA. — Arrangements have been completed for the shipment to India of part of the gift of 100,000 tons of wheat which the Dominion government offered to the government of India to assist in the alleviation of famine conditions, Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced.

The shipment, delayed because of the difficulty of securing shipping space, is expected to leave Canada "at an early date," the prime minister said.

Despite the delay, "it is expected . . . that this consignment will arrive in time to provide a valuable addition to food supplies in India."

NO PERMIT NEEDED

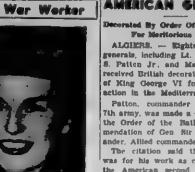
Changes in Regulations Will Aid Utilization Of Surplus Milk

OTTAWA.—The agricultural food board authorized changes in regulations to permit milk processors, cheese factories and creameries to purchase or receive milk from the fluid milk market when offered.

Previously, permits had to be obtained before a change was made by a shipper in the plant to which he took his product. The new regulation facilitates the utilization of surplus milk, which officials said accumulated from time to time, by permitting plants to purchase it without encountering permit difficulties.

The British army was outnumbered by the enemy in every one of its campaigns in the first three years of war, Italy Undersecretary of War Stanley told the House of Commons.

New War Worker



Helen Gray Fraser, one-time Hollywood glamour girl, is now employed in a Canadian war plant. Her husband, Flight Sergt. Fergus Fraser, is overseas with the R.C.A.F. It was back in 1933 in Medicine Hat, Alta., that Helen Gray won her chance to go to Hollywood as a result of "The Quest for Beauty" contest.

AMERICAN GENERALS

Decorated By Order Of King George For Meritorious Action

ALGIERS. — Eighteen American generals, including Lt. Gens. George S. Patton Jr., and Mark W. Clark received British decorations by order of King George VI for meritorious action in the Mediterranean.

Patton, commander of the U.S. 7th army, was made a Companion of the Order of the Bath on recommendation of Gen Sir Harold Alexander, Allied commander in Italy.

The citation said the decoration was for his work as commander of the American second corps during the Makmassy battle in southern Tunisia last year.

The decorations were conferred by the new Allied commander in chief Gen Sir Maitland Wilson in a colorful ceremony The other generals were praised in their citations for staff work and field leadership

MAY BE INCREASE

More Light Steel Waves May Be Rolled

TORONTO H H Foreman federal steel controller, said in an interview here there is hope for an increase within the next three months in the production of light steel items such as pails and wash tubs, material for which is at present in the restricted range.

We hope there will be some change in the situation with regard to light steel within the next three months" Mr Foreman said. "Production will be increased as more material becomes available Our problem is now largely one of manpower.

More Industries Are Needed For Western Canada

SASKATOON — Small rural industries for the crushing of flax seed, the processing of fibre, the production of alcohol and the manufacture of starch were seen as future possibilities for western Canada by Dr. J. A. Anderson, chief chemist, grain research laboratory, board of grain commissioners, Winnipeg, when he spoke on "the industrial utilization of crops" to the Saskatchewan Agricultural Societies' Association. Chapping from the large audience followed his remark that the crushing of flax seed should be done in the west not only because it was technically feasible but also because of the need here for high protein feeds.

Dr. Anderson prefaced his remarks with a warning about the danger of emphasizing the importance of the industrialization of farm crops. Farm crops, he said, were and would be for many years most important for food purposes. Also the profitable and economic utilization of crops frequently depended first on the solution of production problems. As an example of this he mentioned the production of sunflowers, remarking that it was fortunate that the artificial price from the pair of sunflower seed gave an opportunity to experiment with the crop and to see if it could be put on a paying basis

Dr. Anderson also emphasized that he was speaking as a chemist not as an economist and while some industries might be technically feasible, they might not be economically sound

The fact that Saskatchewan farmers had paid off more mortgages in the past two years than they had in the previous 20 showed that fair prices for farm produce could do for farmers in a short space of time, said W. E. Brown of Elstow, president of the Saskatchewan Agricultural Societies' Association.

Mr. Brown admitted that the government set fair prices for farm produce over a term of years in order that farmers could plan their production objectives and methods

Canadian Wounded Return Home From Italy Battlefront

Canadians in Britain Prepare For Invasion

With the invasion of Europe looming as the greatest blow of the war Canadian troops in Britain are training night and day for the special landing. This picture, just received from overseas, shows how the men might be launched on their grim attack against hostile shores. In these practice manoeuvres, the boats loaded with heavily armed fighting men, make a quick trip out to sea then turn back toward a specially prepared strip of beach. The men leap from the assault boats under a thick smoke screen spread by the Royal Navy, while will have a major invasion role, and half-made, half beramble ashore waist deep in water. Here gun bulletin whine overhead

Hard Blow is Struck Against Nazi Air Force

WICHITA, Kas — Gen Henry H Arnold chief of the army air forces, said the might of battle-wise Germany inflicted "one of the hardest blows yet struck against the German air force at one of its most vulnerable fine per cent of the American planes making the attack

Arnold said three separate fighter plane factories were smashed meaning that hundreds of projected German fighter planes will never be manufactured

Production at these three plants which the Germans are struggling to increase has been wiped out altogether, and months must elapse before the damage can be repaired and new plant construction started there," he said

Arnold said the multiple attack — by the Eighth Army Flying Fortresses, Liberators, Halberstadt and Brunswick were hit—illustrated the extent to which the American air effort has been built up and the constantly changing tactics of the air forces

The report of the air forces placed the loss at 64 planes 39 bombers and five escorting fighters

On that basis a five per cent. loss would mean there were more than 1200 planes in the attack force

Arnold said the strategy in sending out raiding parties against three objectives was to confuse the enemy

"There are only a certain number of fighters the Germans can send up," he said. "They are confounded as to their defense and this enables us to have the initiative

"As we increase the number of bombers we sent out, our losses will normally decrease"

The U S army chief said that were it not for our continuing attacks against the production capacities of German aircraft factories, Nazi efforts to double their fighter strength might have succeeded with the result that the difficulties which must be overcome by Allied air attacks and also by amphibious landing forces would be incalculably increased.

A REAL FAMILY GATHERING

Here is a late item but one worth mentioning. At the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Isley, Triangle, on Xmas day, forty-four sons, daughters, grandchildren and one great grandchild sat down to dinner. Even this was the descendants present 19 were still absent. Their youngest son is now in Italy with the Canadian Mr. and Mrs. Isley will celebrate their golden wedding next spring. We would like to know if any larger gatherings of all relatives was held during the half day season.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Garnett, Beaverwood, accompanied their son Bill as far as Edmonton on his return to Lethbridge. While in the city they met the Gilholme and Howson families.

The writer and Bobby and Kenney Graham visited Mrs Clift Chambers and family on Wednesday afternoon last. Mrs. H. Howard was also a visitor at the same home.

Curling lasted until the wee sma' hours on the rainy night. We understand some of Vermilion's curlers are to come out to play the local boys some time soon, weather and roads permitting.

Adam Smith Jr is kept busy hauling these days Everyone is hoping when this damp and tough wheat gets in the quota will be raised on dry grain

Mrs George Crothers returned home on Saturday evening after spending ten days visiting in town. Her brother Bob Newman is staying with her for awhile helping Clif do the work

We are indeed sorry to hear of several of our Vermilion and district boys being wounded and some missing over seas.

AIR LINE FRANCHISES —

Speaking at Toronto recently the Hon. Mr. Howe, Minister of Transport said the movement was receiving numerous applications for new airline franchises, but "these routes have been and will be held open until our gallant airmen return from overseas".

"A franchise for an air route is to day one of the most valuable concessions within the gift of the Federal Government," Mr. Hope said in his speech. "Surely the young men who are fighting our battles in the skies are entitled to first consideration when these franchises are issued."

This was given as the reason for refusing the Canadian Pacific Air-lines license for the operation of a service between Halifax, N.S., and St. John New Brunswick and is probably back of the same attitude towards similar applications for feeder services in the west.

HOLD YOUR VICTORY BONDS

A Patriotic Appeal

Mr Heley has recently released figures covering Bond purchases in the Fifth Victory Loan campaign. Patriotism has been shown in acquiring these Bonds, so it is of utmost importance that they be retained by the purchasers.

The money which you have invested is used in innumerable ways which make it possible to retain our democratic way of life. It provides ammunition for our fighting sons and brothers with which to protect their lifes and ours. It provides clothing and food as well as the implements of war; it provides credit which makes it possible for Canadians to take their rightful place in the markets of the world.

In totalitarian states, you are not asked to invest your spare dollar. They are taken from you at will and you are given no assurance that you will ever get them back whereas in Canada, all the resources of the land are pledged as the Nation's Bond to return your money — with interest, when it has served the purpose for which it was invested.

When you hold your Bonds for maturity, you are also making your dollars fight for you on the Home Front. Inflation is one of the most formidable enemies here. The equal distribution of necessities of life is being controlled to a greater extent in Canada than almost any other warring nation. This is largely due to the fact that the majority are behind the war effort, not only lending their dollars, but also the lives of their sons. Your Bond dollars help to maintain the level of life which we are enabled to live. Withdraw them and contribute to inflation withdraw the assistance of your fighting sons and brothers and contribute to defeat in short, Hold Your Bonds, they are as strong as the Nation.

There is to be some distribution of small arms ammunition for sporting purposes later this year.

In Italy. We at home must try and be brave like those boys are in the face of danger over there. It's the way they want us to be according to letters from them.

Will the party who took oranges by mistake from Davies' butcher shop on Thursday last, with a baby bonnet and bootie in on top, please return same to the shop. They belonged to two ladies from our district.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallington and the Graham children spent Sunday evening at the Adam Smith home. Mr. and Mrs. J. Bathe and Dorothy, Lyndon Fladden were all visitors to the Wallington home on Monday.

Pleasant thing heard of. Elmer Isley, Triangle, buying what he supposed were five new hanks from Mr. Van Wageningen. He discovered on getting home that he had 3 wethers and had to make a return trip on one of the coldest days we've had this winter.

Chirkos pen has again visited the Carlson home Albert being the latest victim.

BOWTELL BULLETIN

A meeting of the B.Bs was held at the home of Mrs Jones and was attended by 12 members and two visitors, the latter being Mrs. Carroll Sr. and Mrs. King of town. A new member joined bringing the membership to 17. Tuesday was chosen for quilting. Thursday a shower will be held at Mrs. Dedelly's for a new bride-Edgar Williams wrote a letter of thanks as follows: "Ladies or Bowtel: I wish to thank you for the wonderful parcels. I thought it was swell of you all not only for the parcels but to know that we are still remembered back home. The parcel arrived at a most needed time, we were on special training and could not even go into a village so you can imagine how we enjoyed the cream, some of which we never see over here if the people here are fine but we are anxious to get this over with and get back in Canada to live in peace again. Your grateful neighbor, Edgar."

John Brady, Mrs. Ireland and Mr. Dedelly have all been sick recently.

Miss Maybelle Knutson spent the past two weeks visiting Miss Wolters at Chisman and Gregg, in Edmonton.

Well folks, here is news there is a new baby at the Semple home, not Red for more particulars.

The person who took a car pump from the Bowtell school the night of the Xmas tree please return same and avoid further trouble.

Vermilion Credit Union Annual Meeting Jan. 26

What A Credit Union Is

The Vermilion Credit Union will hold its annual general meeting on January 26th at 2 p.m. in the Legion hall, Vermilion. Everybody is welcome.

None of us knows what the future holds in store for us. Let us organize for hard times to come.

A credit union is a group of people maintaining a sort of joint savings account from which any member can borrow at a low interest rate, limited by law to one percent a month on unpaid balances. (Some large ones charge only one half of one percent.) In contrast even the best finance corporations charge two and a half percent on unsecured loans up to $180, two percent on amounts above that sum. If you borrow $180 for a six months' period from a credit union at its maximum interest rate, you pay back $103.50; to pay back the same amount borrowed from the very lowest rate finance corporation takes $108.00.

Members pay a small entrance, perhaps 25 cents and subscribe for at least one share of stock, ordinarily about $5, payable at 25 or 50 cents a week and returning about five percent in dividends. Directors and directors are elected and usually serve without pay.

The credit union movement has convincingly demonstrated the honesty of the common man. Losses are amazingly low—by far the lowest in the whole banking field, averaging not more than a dime on a $100 loan, or one-tenth of one percent.

In Arkansas, federal credit unions had a loss of only $11 in one year on $116,170 in loans or one cent on $132. In California collections on $6,200,000 in loans averaged 99.95 percent.

The credit union loan is made on the basis of what a man is rather than what a man HAS. It's a matter of character rather than resources, and a man's associates can judge his character far better than can any investigator for an outside lending agency. Also, a credit union loan enhances a man's integrity; it must be for a purpose which will improve the status of the borrower and limited to an amount that he can repay without jeopardizing his job or family's welfare.

America's first credit union started in 1909, among the French Canadians at Levis, Quebec, with the deposit of a dime. In that Province there are now 432 unions, with 100,000 members and assets of $21,000,000. In the United States the moving spirit behind the credit union movement was the late Edward A. Filene, famed Boston merchant. In 1921 he began a local educational campaign, poured $1,000,000 into it, and brought about the formation of 2500 unions.

A prize story concerns some fishermen in Canada on a date of 81.50 a month each. They could not fish because they had no nets. So they cut ice, sold it to fortunate fishermen for seeing their catches, and started a little credit union with the proceeds. Before long there was money enough to buy one net; a member borrowed the money, purchased a net and went off relief. He began to pay back, the others continued to cut ice. Presently there was another money for another net, one more man was able to go on his own. In a few months all had nets and jobs, all were self-supporting and the credit union had several hundred dollars in the treasury.

The credit union movement has shown how to reach down to the man in the lowest economic pit, to help with the strong arm of co-operative credit. It has demonstrated that idealism and sentiment can go hand with good business and eradicate the foolish notion that it is humiliating to borrow money.

News Letter from Home

The Christmas holiday season is over. The New Year beamed on us with kindly features, mild weather and fluffy snow, and everybody is happy in the thought that 1944 would see the boys back at the home fireside. On New Year's eve members of the Elks hall were, as usual, the social event of the year. The hall was jammed to the doors but everybody had a good time. Since then the rinks have been some busy and some rubber weather, but no one is complaining: the fall rather was an delightful. Curlers are still running. The roads are good and for the most part smooth as befits the season.

The local board of trade is advertising for an air line service between North Battleford and Edmonton this spring in at Vermilion on the way. The combined efforts of Lloydminster, Vegreville, North Battleford and Edmonton are being urged by the organization.

Hon. W. A. Fallow, who has represented this district in the local legislature since 1925 has chosen not to seek re-election here and has accepted a nomination for the northern district of Grouard. As member and minister of public works he rendered valuable assistance to the town and district by way of public works and in clearing up the local landing field at Vermilion.

Very little grain has been shipped out of Vermilion up to now as compared with previous years. The elevators are full; the quota still low and there appears to be a full tide of backwash from the Lakehead. Cattle are bringing a fair price also here, but horses are practically off the market.

Art Wiebe, the noted Black Hawk hockey player, has purchased his father's interests in the Wiebe bakery and has relinquished his holdings in the Myrnam flour mill and in which Mr. W. B. Wiebe will now devote sole attention.

The six municipal districts east of Vermilion, Vermilion Valley, Elberta, Christy Pine, Morton, Streamstown and Wellington — have now been merged into one large unit with nine electoral divisions. The new councillors will be elected in February.

There are no strikes because the price of coal was increased 50 cents a ton following an increase in wages as the result of a recent strike.

There were 1,051 births registered in the province for the year 1943 as against 2,500 in 1942. Deaths showed an increase of 72 over the same period, the number being 1,294. There were 1,862 marriages, 279 less than the previous year.

Fifty male and 38 female students failed in their Xmas examinations at the University of Alberta and are likely to seek some other employment.

George Crothers, a pioneer resident of the Wildmere district, died recently at the local hospital on Dec. 10 after a few weeks illness. He had been in poor health and in declining health for the past year. One of the sons, Lloyd, is serving with the Canadian Army overseas.

Marion Fisher, for the past several years connected with the ladies' wear department at Craig Brothers, was married on Dec. 23rd to Leslie Cowman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Cowman of Vermilion. After spending a honeymoon in the east the couple are at home to their friends in the bride's parents at Lantana, sask., the couple are now settled in their home here. Rev. Father O'Sullivan performed the ceremony in the Holy Family Catholic church, Rev. Father O'Sullivan officiating.

Fred Goulette who farmed for a great many years in the Clayesmore district in the local legislature since 1925 has chosen not to seek re-election here and has accepted a nomination for the northern district of Grouard. As member and minister of public works he rendered valuable assistance to the town and district by way of public works and in clearing up the local landing field at Vermilion.

Registration of Beekeepers

Permits for the purchase of sugar for feeding bees can be issued only to those beekeepers who have registered with the Provincial Department of Agriculture. This registration is required every year and application forms have been mailed already to those who are on record with the Provincial Apiarists.

Registration is necessary to ensure the best results from the inspection work conducted by the Department for the assistance of beekeepers. Those who have not received an application form should write immediately to W.J. LeMaistre, Provincial Apiarist, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton.

Since honey is a rationed commodity the Wartime Prices and Trade Board requires that all beekeepers be registered with their local ration board.

their attic cobwebs seeking a parallel winter to that of this one thus far. Some go back as far as 25 and 30 years without much comfort, and then conclude it does not really matter very much what kind of winters they had back in those ancient days as long as we are blessed now with exceedingly delightful winter weather, bright sunny day, very little snow and the mercury well above zero day and night.

The Vermilion oil field produced 60,000 barrels of oil for the year 1943 which commences most favorably with the production of 75,000 barrels at Tabor both being comparatively new fields. There were 1,145 wells drilled in the province last year of which 430 were producing oil, 175 gas and 538 were dry holes.

MORRISON

Xmas has come and gone once more. It was a white Christmas, built but a little stormy.

Brad Gunn spent his leave visiting his wife and son here.

Grandma Gould celebrated her 80th birthday on Dec. 30th when a number of her family gathered to wish her well.

Mrs. Gunn and her little son have now moved into the bunkhouse.

Angus Anderson is spending a few days visiting in Calgary.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Burt spent New Year's Day at the Dupuis home.

Ode Fenton spent a day recently visiting in the district.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Fenton motored from Elk Point to visit Mrs. Fenton's father, Mr. Jack Purser in the Islay hospital. They also called on some of their old Morrison friends.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of

Mrs. James A. Barnett

—Who passed away Jan. 23, 1927.

"Time spends on, seven years have passed
Since death its gloom and shadows cast,
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light and ever will,
Her vacant place there is none to fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in Heaven we will meet again."

—Ever remembered by her loving husband and family.

Airway Plan

Western Canada Shows Enthusiasm For New Airports

C. R. Patterson, president of the Aeronautical Institute of Canada, said in an interview in Toronto that the provinces and principal cities of Western Canada have shown enthusiasm for a plan to establish 400 new airports and landing strips across the Dominion capable of employing 30 000 to 35 000 R.C.A.F. personnel after the war.

Home from a tour of the Canadian West Mr Patterson said the plan, projected by the Aeronautical Institute and the National Housing Federation, was favored by 22 committees from Winnipeg to Victoria and by provincial officials of Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Mr Patterson and the Aeronautical Institute believes between 50 000 and 60 000 members of the R.C.A.F. will return to employment in peacetime flying. He said the airport development plan and resulting growth of feeder lines would give work to 30,000 to 35,000 men.

Had Great Career

Late Sir Dudley Pound Was Most Efficient Naval Officer

The late Admiral of the Fleet Sir Dudley Pound had greater experience of naval affairs afloat and ashore in war and in peace than any other officer on the active list of the Royal Navy, states the London Daily Sketch. In the last war he was second in command of the battleship St. Vincent and commanded the battleship Colossus at the Battle of Jutland. He also served at the Admiralty As a Rear-Admiral he commanded a battle cruiser squadron and on promotion became Second Sea Lord. He was Commander-in-Chief Mediterranean for a longer period than any other officer and was naval head of the Admiralty for a greater period than any other member of the Board of Admiralty either in the last war or this. Twice he saved the lives of men of his ships companies—once by diving overboard and on another occasion by going down into a gassed potato locker

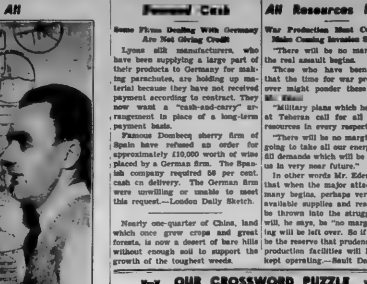
This Map Tells All



It is hard to decide whether the above map, shown with its creator, Grahame Clayton, draughtsman in the Canadian Pacific Railway's engineering office, Winnipeg, is a chart or a sort of quick-glance encyclopedia of railway information. Working diligently for many months, Mr. Clayton transferred from a score of books and records a wealth of information onto a map 11 feet long and three feet wide, showing western lines of the C.P.R. Clearly shown are all stations, sidings, junctions, subdivisions, divisions and districts, with mileage summaries of mileages. Terminals, divisions and districts are also summarized. Double-track portions, joint-operation tracks age, standard time zones and provincial boundaries also are delineated, together with connecting or adjacent foreign lines. Also, however, the map incorporates valuable historical data never before compiled and which it was turned over to the operating department. The map gives the history of the development of the C.P.R.'s lines in the west al a glance. Railwaymen who like the idea of having all information on one piece of paper already are clamoring for prints of the Winnipeg man's unique chart.

Sight For Children

Tool-Lighting Of English Town Was Unfamiliar Spectacle

A glimpse of what it will be like "when the lights go on again" was afforded the London borough of Deptford by last lighting the borough's main street.

People rushed into the street to see the unfamiliar spectacle. Children, some of whom had never seen the lamps lit, exclaimed to one another.

The lights of London, like those all over Britain, have been blacked out since a few days before war broke out in 1939.

Before the war, Britain produced one-third of her food, now she produces two-thirds.

Nearly one-quarter of China, land which once grew crops and great forests, is now a desert of bare hills without enough soil to support the growth of the toughest weeds.

All Resources Needed

War Production Must Continue To Save Civilians From Starvation

"There will be no margin" when the real assault begins.

Those who have been assuming that the time for war production is over might ponder these words by Mr. Eden:

"Military plans which he laid down at Teheran call for all our Allied resources in every respect.

"There will be no margin and it is going to take all our energies to fulfill demands which will be made upon us in very near future."

In other words Mr. Eden intimates that when the major attack on Germany begins, perhaps very soon, all available supplies and resources will be thrown into the struggle. There will, he says, be "no margin." Nothing will be left over. So if there is to be the reserve that prudence demands production facilities will have to be kept operating.—Sault Daily Star.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JANUARY 23

JESUS TEACHES IN PARABLES

Golden text: If any man hath ears to hear, let him hear.—Mark 4:23.
Lesson: Mark 4:1-34.
Additional Reading: Deuteronomy 8.1-10

Explanations and Comments

The Parable of the Sower, Mark 4:1-9. Public opposition to the religious leaders closed the synagogues to Jesus and he began to teach by the seaside. So large a number congregated to hear him that he had to seek a pulpit on a boat anchored off from the shore. Here he taught them many things by parables. The Greek word from which our word "parable" is derived means "to put one thing beside another." Jesus' parables picture things in nature which have their counterpart in the spiritual life.

The first parable that Jesus told on this special day was the parable of the Sower who with prodigal hand sowed seed in four kinds of soil. In the interpretation of the parable, verses 14 and 15, Jesus explains that he himself is the Sower, for the seed sown is the Word of God (Lk. 8:11). Some of the seed fell on paths through the unfenced fields and was quickly devoured by the birds. That wayside path was once as fit for the reception of seed as the rest of the field, but it had been trodden till the soil was packed, and the seed fell on it, but not into it. Until hard soil are the minds of some men closed impervious to the Word of God.

Other seed fell on rocky ground. This ground was covered with a thin layer of soil and the rock beneath was not visible, but there it was, and the shallowness of the soil prevented the development of any kind of fruit. The rocks deep and firm. The heat of the sun causes a quick germinating and equally quick withering. An exact picture this of thousands who are touched by some fervent address, whose impression is only temporary and "for a time".

Yet other seed fell where there were thorns which choked the plants that developed before they could produce fruit. "When the grain begins to spring up, there is a struggle between it and the bolder, sturdier thorn. After an ineffectual effort to assert itself, the slender wheat plant gives up the unequal contents itself with what energy remains over, when his harder antagonist has taken all it requires.

"Notice how carefully our Lord discriminates between the different kinds of thorn, verses 18 and 19. Care steals away the strength of the heart in the poor; wealth in the rich; pleasure-seeking in all, especially the young. It is not other things that are wrong, but the lusts of other things, i.e., inordinate love; and the multiplicity of interests, which drain away the attention and divert the righteousness of the soul."

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

FIREWORKS

— By —

RUTH GILBERT COCHRAN

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Sarah, the towering old Jamaican negress who does the farm chores on my little place in the Berkshires, is a great stickler for justice. They told me that over at the County Employment Office when I went there in May last year to see about getting a strong, reliable woman who would be willing to work for little more than her keep. But I never knew how true it was until the Fourth of July.

I thought I'd have a treasure, Mrs. Taylor," Dr. Voss said. "She's as strong as an ox, and a wonderful hand with children, but watch out for squalls if she thinks she's been treated unfairly. A contractor held back part of her pay last week, and she took down his—er clothes and spanked him!"

I chuckled. "Sounds like a good ally for a lone woman like me."

"You'll like her. She's out shingling a barn roof now, but I'll send her over in the morning."

I did like Sarah from the first minute I had of her swinging powerfully along, balancing a heavy bundle on her head, and fresh as a daisy after her six-mile walk. She might have been anywhere from fifty to seventy, but she was as tough and gnarled as an old hickory root.

"Why, you can have a separate cabin for me!" she asked. She could scarcely real ze wrote but she spoke the most perfect English with a beautiful Cambridge accent.

"Over in the orchard," I said. "It'll be cool and shady."

Sarah drew a deep breath. "I'll stay," she said. "And don't worry about the noise. I'm used to a quiet letter. You need one, too, madam. I see several places that require repairs."

Cool of her, but I wasn't sorry. Sarah was a real treasure. She cut firewood, planted a wonderful garden; had Buttercup, my rather skittish Jersey cow, following her around like a dog in no time, and even took a terrible paper-hanging from Professor Saunders, a pernickety old fussbudget who has a summer place next to mine, without a sign of rancor.

"The gentleman was quite within his rights," she said. "Buttercup ate his pansies." But I noticed that she swung her wicked looking hatchet—the yard-long Jamaican knife she used in place of an axe, with extra vigor—and I prayed that the professor would continue to stay within his rights

Things went on smoothly through June. I rented my other cabin to a Mrs. Jones, a quiet little widow whose eight-year-old son was recuperating from a siege of pneumonia. Eric took a great fancy to Sarah, and the latter was very fond of him, too. Hours if he day, Sarah trotting to keep up with Sarah's long strides and glowing rosier and stronger by the hour

Then came the Fourth. Eric equipped with a precious half-dollar's worth of firecrackers had made Sarah promise to wake him at the crack of dawn so that he could set them off. I guess most of us remember that thrill of stealing out while the sky's still gray to start celebrating the day in proper style. I know that I, for one, didn't begrudge the kid his fun, but I got up early, too, thinking a cup of coffee would be welcome to Mrs. Jones after greeting the little fellow. From the kitchen window I saw Eric dart off, laughing, to the little brook that divided my property from the Saunders place (we'd all agreed that would be the safest); heard a few tremendous bangs, and then all was quiet, so went on getting breakfast ready, but finally, puzzled at the continued quiet, looked out again. I saw Sarah swinging down from her cabin, machete in hand, and knew that we had a fire in trouble.

Eric, leaning against the railing of the bridge, was crying fit to break his heart, and Sarah didn't offer any comfort him. She strode right over to the Saunders' house where the professor, barefoot and in pajamas, was just entering the front door. Sarah reached him before he could close it, grabbed him by the jacket collar, and marched her weapon so close to his right ear that he must have heard it whistle.

"I believe in Justice!" she shouted. "It was an act of tyranny to throw that child's firecrackers into the brook simply because he disturbed your sleep! You shall make restitution!"

Mrs. Saunders stumbled out on to the porch, shrieking.

"Throw me my wallet," Saunders ordered at her. "I'll send a crazy woman'll kill me if you don't!"

His wife flew indoors and came back with a well stuffed bill-fold. She threw it on to the lawn.

"Pick it up!" commanded Sarah, hefting the long knife back of the professor's head. He picked up the wallet, all right.

"Now march yourself over to Mrs. Jones' cottage," Sarah ordered. "I'll follow you."

Saunders broke into a run, Sarah right after him, chipping at his bald heels with the machete. Mrs. Jones had heard the commotion and had come out on the porch, standing there on the porch step, our arms around each other, and Eric dashed over and hid behind the Saunders and Sarah came into the yard.

The professor towed Mrs. Jones over walked. "Take out the rest of firecrackers are worth," he pleaded. "And for heaven's sake, Mrs. Taylor, call off this crazy woman!"

"Sarah!" I said, "go back to your work."

Sarah straightened up "pelting the long knife affectionately. "With pleasure, madam,' she said, "now that matter has been done." And off she stalked to her tomatoes mumbling oddly, while Professor Saunders screwed up his courage.

"Eric, I'm sorry I blew up," he said. "Here's fresh coffee in the kitchen Mrs. Jones." I said weakly. "Would you mind bringing me a cup . . . out here ?"

Canada-Built de Havilland Mosquito

Rated Among World's Three Greatest Planes

Peter H Kneefield British airplane technical expert recently rated the de Havilland Mosquito the fourth American Mustang, and the Consolidated Liberator as "the three most outstanding aircraft in the world today."

Writing in the aviation magazine "Flying", Mr. Mansfield, personal advisor on civil aviation to Lord Beaverbrook, placed the Mosquito "among the galaxy of fine aircraft, combining speed with a shattering weight of fire in its fighter form, and range and bomb load in its bomber version."

In its own category, the Mosquito was ranked the unusually high rating of 83.2 per cent. as a day and night reconnaissance bomber, 91.6 per cent. as a bomber and 93.2 per cent. as a night intruder fighter

In his article, Mr Mansfield explained the method of choosing the different top planes and remarked that "no enemy type quality"

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

FIGHTING T.B. IN INDUSTRY

Nothing but good can result when industrial groups not previously surveyed, one may expect to find 264 persons in every 10,000 who require treatment for pulmonary tuberculosis," says Dr. A. R. Riddell of the Industrial Division of the Ontario Department of Health, in a recent article in Health magazine "The majority of these should be in sanatoria. In addition there are some 340 in every 100,000 concerning whom there is some doubt" Dr. Riddell continues. Knowing as he does the expense entailed in the use of standard X-ray films in the handling of large groups, Dr. Riddell recommends the use of fluorographic miniature films These have proved most satisfactory and are, for all practical purposes, miniature X-ray photographs, "They are readily examined," says Dr. Riddell, "and can easily be stored in small space to be kept for record purposes Small films are examined through the use of a suitable magnifying instrument, or, upon being enlarged may be projected on a screen such as is used for lantern slides.

Since this miniature film was pioneered in 1971 by Dr Abreu of Brazil, it has been adopted in Canada, the United States, Great Britain, Australia, and Germany. In both Great Britain and the United Sta it is used in examining the personnel of navies. Australia now has in the examination of recruits for the fighting forces and Canada, in the mass chest radiographs of the R.C.A.F.

Many industrial workers are being examined in Ontario In all cases this is just a preliminary examination. Those found to require further study are so advised by the plant doctor.

Dr Riddell urges that the matter so important and likely to increase in importance due to the war should be given attention now.

Mutual Understanding

Wedding The English Speaking Nations Together By Confidence

Uncounted millions of words have been written and spoken with the object of wedding the English-speaking nations by friendship and understanding into a degree of harmony that can stand the disturbing factors of peace as it does those of war.

Words in such a cause are fine, but we think that far more effective is such a little story as came from the Mediterranean the other day

A ship carrying United States soldiers, said a Cairo despatch, was attacked twice by enemy aircraft, apparently was in grave peril. But fighters of the Royal Air Force each time came to the rescue, drove off the Germans and saved the troopship. The soldiers, moved by their escape, chipped in $4,000 as an expression of their gratitude. the money to go to the dependents of any R.A.F. casualties resulting from the two actions.

Some time ago there was a story of United States soldiers at a camp in British collecting a large sum of money assuring themselves to assure hospital treatment for a little crippled English boy they had come to know in the neighborhood.

Incidents such as these are far more powerful than the most eloquent words to bring these countries into the relationship of trust, confidence and mutual respect which all of us so much want to see. In so intangible a sphere deeds do literally speak louder than words.—Ottawa Journal.

SMILE AWHILE

Oldtimer: "Is your married life one grand sweet song"

Newly Wed: "Well, since our baby's been born it's more like an opera, full of grand marches, with loud calls for the author every night."

Barber—"Wet or dry, sir?"
Customer—"Just comb my hair and don't mind about my politics."

• • • •

She: "I shall love to share all your troubles."
He: "Phut, darling, I have no troubles."
She: "Billy, I mean when we are married."

• • • •

"My wife has the worst memory I ever heard of."
"Forgets everything?"
"No; remembers everything!"

• • • •

Darling, you are the seventh wonder of the world
Liar, liar, soldier, don't ever let me catch you out with the other six."

• • • •

Harold: "Where are all those old mags I used to see in your shop?"
Barber: "They have taken to shaving themselves, sir."

• • • •

Pop: My goodness you ask a lot of questions" Ill like to know what I did to have happened if I'd asked as many questions when I was a boy.

Son: Maybe you'd have been able to answer them, then.

Mit: Throw that piece of bread away. Why are you holding it in your hand?

Wit: I'm just waiting for the next piece.

• • • •

Mistress: "Just what can be the matter with my husband this morning? He whistled and sang as he came off to work

Maid: Oh dear! It's my fault. I cracked the runners next instead of the breakfast cereal this morning.

• • • •

Son: Dad you join the army to serve your country or complain about everything?

Dad: I joined the army to serve my country and complain about everything.

Woman Had Her Reason For Taking Goat On Bus

We all try to make allowances in wartime. On our local bus routes (writes "J.B.R.") conductresses and passengers alike stretch a point to such an extent that even on a wet day, a large old English sheepdog has been tolerated. The limit was reached the other day, however, when, at the foot of the mile-long hill ascending out of our village, a lady climbed into the bus accompanied by a goat. The conductress hesitated, but thought perhaps, as things were so difficult and there was a war on—well, if nobody on board objected ? The bus climbed the hill and at the top the lady and the goat prepared to get out. As she passed the conductress the lady tittingly observed that she had brought the goat out for a little much needed exercise and had thought that Nanny would find it easier to walk downhill all the way. —Manchester Guardian

Illinois Schoolboys Prove They Are As Efficient As Girls

Eight boys who are full fledged members of the domestic science class f an Illinois school have convinced school officials that boys as well as girls can learn to become good homemakers The boys are learning how to cook, care for babies, make beds and observe manners in a household Three times a week they roll up their sleeves, don aprons and work beside girls in the class. Superintendent Hubert Pearce said the boys are not sissies, they are in earnest and they have proved that such youngsters can learn to be good homemakers"

Turkey Abandons Government Run By Germans In Northern Italy

Turkey decided to abandon the new Mussolini "Government", and recall her Ambassador and his entire staff from Rome and accredit them to the Badoglio Government in Southern Italy

This is a quiet snub for Germany, which is raising the so called North-ern Italian Government. It is unlikely that another envoy will be sent to Rome. Ankara has decided that any Italian Government supported by the Allies shall be the only one to be recognized. London Daily Sketch

The Canadian Way of Life

Opinion of F.H. Marsh, President of the Bank of Toronto

Mr F H Marsh President of The Bank of Toronto, in his annual report said:

"The people of Canada are possessed to the ability to think clearly when called to do so, and to act boldly and resolutely about any subject. There is little fear in this connection in our national future if people stop to consider what the whole form of Government would mean to them, were some or most Canadians, including ourselves, denied not be immediate but would also have to conform to such a system and its regimentation. It is not complacent, remain passive about any such plans as would overturn Canada's entire system of individual freedom in growing, producing, distributing and consuming wealth. Our vast wonderful and retail trading, banking, transport and corporation, Canadians Government and regimentation is what our sons are fighting against while the advocates of socialism are trying to have that very form of life, among places in the world of Canada

There are many hundreds of thousands of Canadians who own their farms or homes, there are the owners of Canadian bank accounts and some hundreds people who own life insurance policies, all of whom are in real sly capitalists.

Such ownership is the result of years of toil and thrift in a free country. It represents the effort that many hope to hand down to their children and children whose ambition seems to their keenest human desire. In the rural parts of Canada especially it is here the heritage of home and ownership and freedom and the right to keep what is held with determination and tenacity and will never be surrendered in favor of any socialistic, centralized state control of property will implied.

It is reasonable to suppose, in considering the future, that these will be days of people will be, for the farmers where their own interests are affected. Old liberty they have had, but certainly many in the way of totalitarian power."

SMALL BUSINESSES MUST BE PRESERVED

Mr Marsh in his report emphasized the important contribution small industries would make in the post war period. He pointed out the impact now of the smaller businesses in relation to the line of the towns and villages throughout Canada He said:

"It is generally known that post war planning of a constructive nature is under way on the part of the government, a large and comprehensive scope. Many of them started with little advance of the war, and in the relatively prosperous years of the up adequate working capital, sharply and completely depleted by losses in the recession of the early thirties. During the 1939-39 there was relatively comparatively small. The basing of standard profits on the average of three years has resulted in many in these years little being left to build up the cash reserves necessary to reflect the change from wartime to peacetime conditions, thus making it essential that definite assurance by way of tax adjustments or other financial measures be provided before [illegible] an early return to a more normal policy in this respect would be most helpful.

Clearly, the job of industrial conversion cannot effectively be under taken by any enterprise with inadequate possessed of well-equipped plants and premises. Every attention are without the working capital which is essential to forward planning and to the maintenance of employment during any disruption or lesser following the cessation of war production.

These smaller manufacturers and retailers scattered throughout the length and breadth of the country, [illegible] an important factor in the employment of several [illegible] of workers under experienced direction, thus [illegible] the year 1941 there were 12,903 establishments in the manufacturing wholesale and retail fields and of that no less than 10,000 or 80 per cent of these were small businesses employing less than 15 persons each. In them being 52,826 persons. They are not only important in the aggregate but are essential in the life of the towns and villages throughout Canada."

STAGETTE NOTES

The regular weekly meeting of the Stagette was held in the club room on Tuesday evening, Jan 11 with 17 members present.

In the absence of the President, Nora Nelson, Margaret Girvan took charge of the meeting.

A letter from June Birch was read. June is now in Calgary at Mount Royal and we note with pleasure that she is forming a club in that town. We wish her every success with her undertaking.

Plans are still underway to our big dance on Feb. 4th. This will be held in the Elks hall on Wednesday Feb. 2. Both bridge and whist will be played and this will be followed by a dance. Lunch will be served by the girls.

Knitting was carried on as usual and many of the members were busy assuming some shape now. Lucy note very efficiently as the official "knitting nurse"

The Stagettes met as usual in the club room on Jan. 18. The attendance was good but many this week on account of illness Mil Noonan is in Calgary undergoing medical treatment. June has been in the local hospital; Judy and Barbara, Jean and the sub list. We sincerely hope that they will soon be back with us.

Both read a letter from Estelle MacDonald of Edmonton. She made arrangements for us to get our belly from Vancouver. After all our expenses have been paid we are more than gratified by the proceeds

A receipt from the Lloydminster Kinsmen's club was filed. A substantial sum has been realized through donations dropped into the milk bottles placed in banks and stores. This should buy many more quarts of milk for the children in Britain

Another new member Muriel Smith of the Bank of Commerce staff has been welcomed into our club We'll soon have enough new members to carry out another initiation program

Plans are practically completed for the card party and dance to be held on Feb 3rd. You may purchase your ticket from any of the Stagette members Each ticket entitles you to play cards, to dance and to have your lunch We can assure you of a very pleasant evening

39 Wells Drilled in Vermilion Field, 1943

19 Producers, 15 on Test, Five Abandoned

Preliminary figures issued by the APA from Calgary show that Vermilion field was the most active during 1943, having 39 wells drilled there. Turner Valley was second with 28 wells, Taber third with 8 while there were 42 wells scattered in other parts of Alberta, for a total of 117 wells drilled in the province.

Of the 39 wells drilled here 19 are now producing oil, 15 are standing completed and 5 have been abandoned.

Probable Drilling in 1944

Under the above heading the report goes on to say that 37 more wells can be expected to be drilled in the Vermilion field in 1944. 22 of these will be by Cannar and 15 will be by independent companies

QUICK CHANGE OVER POSSIBLE AT E.L. & P. PLANT

Quite a number of the business men around town enquired as to the change plan on Monday afternoon to see just how quickly the change from a gas burning plant to oil burners could be effected. Supt. Hall and his staff seem made the change so quickly that it was hardly believable, there being practically no cessation of the lights under the boiler, no less than five minutes was necessary for the complete change over, the change back to gas burners is made in two minutes.

The oil burners are stand-by equipment, only to be used in case of emergency, such as an interrupted gas flow into town.

PENHOLD FLIER LANDS ON VERMILION AIRFIELD

The Vermilion revolving beacon, moved from a distance of forty miles, proved a welcome sight to a young R.A.F. flier from Penhold out on night flying duties Tuesday night. A faulty compass was the cause of the pilot becoming thoroughly lost and when forty miles from Vermilion he caught sight of the beacon light. He headed for it and landed safely along the night lighted runways. However it was late and the first house with lights had no phone so the young flier rode up at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hulse, from where he phoned his headquarters, and this hospitable young couple had him stay for the night. The machine was put into flying shape and left for Penhold Wednesday afternoon

Vermilion Free of Debenture Debt

FINANCIAL STATEMENT REVEALS IMPROVEMENT

The annual financial statement just released for study by the ratepayers is one in which citizens generally may take considerable satisfaction. Debenture debt, so far as the town and the utilities are concerned, has been practically liquidated and long outstanding liabilities for social welfare and hospital purposes have finally been disposed of through compromise settlements. Only a few years ago the Town was indebted to the Government of the Province for more than $60,000 for social welfare and mothers' allowance services and this amount has now been removed from our liabilities. The compromise settlement with the Hospital District, on which an annual payment of $500 has been required for the past ten years has also been fully paid.

The present financial position of the Town of Vermilion must reflect credit on the Mayor and Council, as well as on Mr. Part who, since his appointment to the position of secretary-treasurer, has been most anxious to reduce outstanding taxes and to place the town in a position to meet operating costs. With a tax levy of $47,614.79 for 1942 there was collected an amount of $45,840.09 or approximately 100% of the levy, this indicates a considerable reduction in the outstanding arrears and brings the present amount for uncollected taxes below the $10,000 mark for the first time within the knowledge of present day citizens.

Other features of the past year have been those for taxes, shown above as $45,840.09; licenses and permits $673.25, rentals $420, law enforcement $177.45 and assets sold, including land sales $2,146.91. Bank loans of $12,500 were obtained during the year and repayments of $8,000 were made in the twelve months, leaving the liability as at the beginning of the year at $4,500. At this date [illegible] payments were made for short periods only as the interest charge on the bank loans are computed on daily [illegible]

Monies collected during the year were spent mainly for the purposes indicated below, chief among the items being, current expenditures $62,153.52, protection $609.53, police protection $1722.89, street lighting $1181.40 and sanitation and waste removal $2746.52. The public health service was small, just under $1600 on streets, sidewalks, wells and parks, while the airport called for an expenditure of approximately $300.

Under the heading of public welfare almost ten thousand dollars were required in assisting such services as indigent relief, medical health officer, hospital facilities and social welfare. Through the full compromise settlement the expenditure of $250 which was used to liquidate the balance of the indebtedness to the Government of the Province by means of which payment the Town is credited by a corresponding reduction of the arrears on the books of the [illegible] of the young people of the town is noted in receipts of $11.25 and sales of assets as $146.91. Mention is made that the arena was repeatedly flooded during the winter months and that the rink was [illegible] by Saskatoon was introduced by T. J. Cooney. Mr. Richards of Edmonton by Mr. Hill and Chas. W. Gould of the Provincial department of trade and commerce, by J. R. Hobson Gould F. Phillips acted as chairman for Farmer members present were F. H. Mr. Hall spoke briefly on the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The question of framing a constitution for the Vermilion board of trade was brought by C. L. Whitby, and after some discussion the matter was referred to the executive and the by-laws and league committee

Committee reports were given by A. C. Heckbert and Ashley Cooper

The board will meet again on Wednesday next at 12.10 noon at George's Lower Deck. All business men and [illegible] are invited to become members of this body and to attend the weekly meetings. All problems relating to the town and district can be brought up for discussion

CORRECTION RE DATES OF LADIES' BONSPIEL

The dates on which the Vermilion ladies two-day bonspiel will be held are Wednesday and Thursday, Feb 9 and 10 and not the 8th and 9th as stated last week. The bonspiel is an open one and entries are invited from all lady curlers.

In the statement of the School Board it will be seen that of a total income of more than $20,000 some $16,270 were required for teachers salaries, debenture retirement called for $2139.36, included in which amount were the final debentures issued for the erection of the public school some twenty years ago

The school District thus ends the year with $5,653.61 in the bank and liquid assets of no additional $1300 or better.

The expenditure of the utilities realized in an overall surplus of slightly over $1300 and steady progress is shown, the main items of expenditure for the year ahead will be fairly well in line with those of former years, while the substantial increase in earnings is largely due to increased sales of electrical energy.

The Utilities Reserve Fund, wisely set up by Council several years ago now amounts to more than $12,000 and is made up of Dominion of Canada Victory Loan bonds in the amount of $12,500 and cash in bank or $252.56, the only liabilities of any consequence at present are those for deposit accounts and these are sufficiently covered in the future as all energy users have to deposit with the town a deposit made on the basis of the highest month's consumption. Such deposits guarantee the town against loss as monthly accounts are rendered in the case of [illegible] outstanding accounts.

Plastic Materials

THERE ARE MANY REMINDERS at this time that we are living in a rapidly changing world. The war, with its great demands upon all our resources, has speeded up the rate of progress in many fields of endeavour. Science and medicine have made phenomenal advancement in the face of the necessities of war, and there have been equally great developments in many of our economic and social concepts. It is clear that the world will never again be as it was before the outbreak of the war and there is universal hope that the best of the benefits to mankind which have been brought into being to meet wartime emergencies may be wisely used to make a better world in the years that lie ahead. One of the things which the war has taught, has been the great value of our natural resources, and the importance of using them wisely and economically. Scientists tell us that the Germans would long ago have made many products from the waste materials of our lumber industry, had they been in possession of the Canadian forests. The war has indeed brought home to many the possibilities of making use of materials which were formerly discarded and scientific [illegible] light on this subject.

Plastics Now Widely Used

Shortages of many substances and the failure of some of those which are available to meet the requirements for war equipment, have led to efforts to develop new materials, both for combat purposes and for domestic use. In this connection, plastics have become well known as substitutes for metals, glass, and other essential materials. Although plastics are proving both useful and effective in many ways, scientists tell us that it is doubtful whether they will ever fulfill all the purposes which have been forecast for them in the popular concept of the "world of tomorrow". It has been pointed out that the word "plastic" is misleading, since it implies softness and malleability. On the contrary, there are plastics which are hard enough to adequately replace metals in a craft, motor vehicles and other equipment. At the same time they are extremely light, which makes them valuable in substitution for metals in cases where lightness gives added speed. Transparent plastics have also replaced glass in airplanes, ships and other conveyances, since it has proven to be tougher than glass, and also shatterproof.

Research Work Is Encouraged

Canada has always been known as a land of plenty and her farm lands yield abundant supplies of food. The Western provinces are among the largest wheat-producing areas in the world, and the cereals, and the fibrous stalks of some grains and plants make excellent wall board and insulation. It has been suggested that rubber or waterproof materials might be developed from the gummy portions of some plants grown here, and that science might find many uses for the straw, now frequently disposed of by burning. Canadian scientists are now giving much thought to these subjects and recommendations have been made before the House of Commons Reconstruction Committee. It is possible that the future will bring interesting developments along these lines.

Has Been Increased

Objective For Marketing Sheep And Lambs Is Higher

Objectives for the marketing of sheep and lambs off Canadian farms and ranches in 1944, as determined by the Dominion-Provincial Agricultural Conference recently held in Ottawa, call for a five per cent. increase as compared with 1943. In response to the wartime program calling for more wool, mutton, and lamb, the numbers of sheep have considerably increased, and therefore increased marketings in 1943 are considered probable and desirable, states the Current Review of Agricultural Conditions in Canada. It has also been suggested that producers might well consider feeding lambs to an average of up to 5 ft. greater weight before marketing. The 1944 objective for production of sheep wool calls for 14 million lb. (greasy basis), which is a small increase over the 1943 output of 13.5 million lb. With military requirements for wool now somewhat less limited with an improved shipping position in the Pacific, less concern is now felt with respect to reserve stocks of wool.

FARMER EXPLAINS

Oh what a strange-looking cow!" exclaimed the sweet young city lass. "But why hasn't she any horns?"

"Well you see," explained the farmer, "some cows is born with horns and never had any, and others shed theirs, and some we dehorn, and some breeds ain't supposed to have horns at all. There's a lot of reasons why some cows ain't got horns, but the reason why that cow ain't got horns is because she ain't a cow—she's a horse!"

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q—There was a good supply of canned milk in my grocers this week but he refused to sell it to me without coupons. Is this correct?

A—Yes, this is correct . . . effective November 29, 1943, sales of evaporated milk are prohibited in certain restricted areas except to holders of "O" coupons. "O" coupons for the purchase of this milk may be obtained for children under two years of age who require it for formula, by applying to the Local Ration Board. For persons over this age, applications must be accompanied by a medical certificate specifying the need.

Q—My daughter became 13 years of age, December 17, 1943. How can I secure ten rationes for her?

A—As your daughter did not become 13 years of age before September 1, 1943, she will not be eligible for ten rationes until the next ration books are issued.

—o—o—

Q—How do I, as a farmer, go about getting lumber for me to repairs at the lower prices recently announced?

A—Provided you do not buy such lumber in excess of $200 in value, in any one month, in that month's issue of your local Wartime Prices and Trade Board, you will be relieved that rule. Now you can secure up to $200 worth of lumber in any month without application. On sales over $200 the approval of the Timber Controller is required.

—o—o—

Q—I work in a small town and am interested in trapping furbearers. May I use this license to get ammunition for trapping?

A—No. When purchasing ammunition for hunting purposes, you must sign a declaration to the effect that the ammunition you receive will be used only for trapping purposes. To use this ammunition for trapping purposes would be contrary to the regulations.

—o—o—

Q—I expect a number of men to be employed in the bush during the winter months, where necessary, may be obtained by making application to your Local Ration Board, as was the case with temporary help during the harvesting season.

Nearly Leaked Out

Small Boy's Model Nearly Let Out Secret

The secret of the jet-propelled plane very nearly leaked out—and all through a small boy with a model plane.

An officer somewhere in the Midlands came across a group of small boys playing with model planes. At first he watched with interest and then with dismay, for one boy had a model plane without any propeller.

It was an excellent model of the secret jet-propelled plane of which Britain has such high hopes. The officer confiscated the plane and questioned the boy's father. The father, who was employed on the secret weapon," admitted thoughtlessly making a model for his son.

The boy was duly admonished and the father sternly warned.

Millions Of Charts

Supplied To All Allied Ships By Factory In England

Sometime ago we published an editorial on "Maps by the Million," these being maps for landing forces in all parts of the world. The corollary of that is charts for the navies, and it is also interesting to learn that millions of charts have been printed by the Hydrographic Supplies Department of the Royal Navy for all ships of the Allied navies and mercantile marine.

There is a factory "somewhere in England" where the charts are run off the presses, and as the headquarters of the department are alongside the plant, it is a simple matter for an authorized messenger, who may be a Wren, to call for a specific portfolio or charts for one of the ships of the navy and carry them away. This factory turns out about 3,000,000 charts a year. When 3,000 ships were mustered for the invasion of Sicily, charts were issued in hundreds of tons. When the big invasion comes, the thousands of ships who may be in the vicinity of any European coast where landings may be made.

There are special charts for submarines which also show the temperature and density of the waters they are to operate in. There are also special charts for use in lifeboats, printed on waterproof paper and wrapped in cellulo.

The charts are constantly to be made to the charts because of the minefields and sunken ships. Most of the corrections are made by girls who have acquired remarkable skill at this work and make the changes with great speed. They are handling as many as 4,000 changes in one week. These girls are specially trained for the work, and those for the war they might have been drawing fashions.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Royal Bank Report

Vice-President And General Manager Says Bank Business At High Level

In reviewing the bank's balance sheet, Mr. Sydney G. Dobson, vice-president and general manager of The Royal Bank of Canada, said that the volume of business passed through the bank's books had been unprecedented during the past year. Total assets now exceeded $1,500,000,000, an all-time high in the history of the bank.

Reviewing at length the part played by the banks in assisting the country's war financing, he continued:

"There appears to be a misconception in the minds of some people that the banks purchase a substantial portion of the Government's public issues and increase their earnings in this manner. This is not the case. During 1943 the banks' assets were issued, realizing $2,982,000,000. The 6th Victory Loan floated in May had a subscription of $2,200,000,000 and the 5th Victory Loan in October, by over $,000,000. In neither of these loans did the banks boost for their own account. While there is naturally some change in the holdings of the banks' investments, this is relatively only an unimportant amount found its way into the banks.

"The banks' purchases of other banks we have done everything possible to make these Victory Loans a success. Managers have encouraged customers to subscribe or to increase their subscriptions. All depositors considered capable of subscribing for an amount of $50 or more have been written to and advertisements have been inserted in the press urging depositors to subscribe to the full extent of their ability."

Large Supply Available

Argentina, Australia And Canada Have Surplus Wheat For Export

It is harvest time in Argentina and Australia and current estimates of the combined wheat crop total 386 million bushels, or approximately the amount produced by these two countries a year ago. The exportable surplus from such a crop would be 225 million bushels and this must be added to the carry-over of old wheat which amounts to 153 million bushels in Australia and 123 million bushels in Argentina. This makes a surplus over normal domestic requirements of approximately 501 million bushels available for export in 1944. When the surplus of Canada is added, the supply available for export exceeds one billion bushels by three of the four major exporting countries.

Advice To Growers Who Require

Supplies of Foundation and Foundation A seed for seed potato growers, and a Certified seed for table stock growers, are being held in Canada to meet estimated domestic demands, the Dominion Department of Agriculture states. Export demand for Canadian Foundation, Foundation A, and Certified seed potatoes is, however, exceptionally strong this season, and the Department advises potato growers to order their 1944 seed potato requirements without delay. In fairness to producers, and in the interests of the industry, the export of seed potatoes will be permitted after March 1, while export markets are still active.

The main objective of the Seed Potato Certification Service, states the Department, is to assist in the production of high quality seed for Canadian potato growers, but it is essential that orders should be placed while supplies are still available.

Lists of growers having Certified, Foundation A, or Foundation seed potatoes for sale can be obtained from the Plant Protection Division, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Tale Of Two Cities

The Bombing Of London And Also

December 29 is remembered in Britain as the date in 1940 when the City started to burn in the heart of the City of London and succeeded to a remarkable degree, considering that they dropped only about 300 tons of bombs, mostly incendiaries.

Dec. 29, 1943, may be remembered in Germany as the date when the R.A.F. dropped 2,250 tons of bombs on Berlin.

Survey Parties Start On New Air Route To Alaska

OTTAWA.—A start has been made on the development of a new air route to Alaska, north and east of the present northwest staging route from Edmonton to Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, it was learned.

The new route will follow the old Canadian air trail down the Mackenzie river valley and branch northwestwards from McPherson via Bell-Porcupine and Blue Fish-Porcupine in the northern Yukon to Alaska.

Survey parties of the R.C.A.F. and transport department now are in the field attempting to set out sites on Canadian soil, the wartime information board said in a review of northwestern developments. These fields will connect with the present Mackenzie river chain of airports from Fort McMurray, Alta., to Norman Wells, N.W.T.

The extension will involve the construction of airfields at Good Hope, Arctic Red river and McPherson, all familiar ports of call for Canadian airmen using planes with skis or floats since 1929. Other fields will be constructed at chosen points in Yukon Territory and Alaska. The new route will be alternative to the Edmonton-Whitehorse course, and may be used when weather conditions further west are poor.

Float-equipped planes carried material and supplies for Canadian survey parties last summer and fall, and it is expected this work will be completed early this year. The Canadian survey reports at hand, arrangements for construction of the fields are expected to be made.

Construction of other airfields along the Mackenzie river have been undertaken by United States army engineers and their contractors, and authorities said they believed work on the extension probably also would be a United States undertaking.

The northwest staging route was built by Canada at a cost of $25,000,000 but has been used extensively by United States machines since 1941.

Until 1942, air traffic down the Mackenzie was carried by float or ski planes. When the United States decided to proceed with the Alcan project, involving construction of a pipeline from Fort Norman oil wells to Whitehorse, the need arose for airplanes carrying far greater payloads to augment water shipments down the river.

Twin-engined wheel aircraft were decided on as the most suitable carriers and landing facilities were provided at Fort Smith, Fort Resolution, Hay River, Fort Providence, Mills Lake, Fort Simpson, Wrigley, Norman Wells, Camp Canol, Peace River, Meta and Upper Hay River post.

A call-off point for traffic between Peace River, in Alberta and Mills Lake in the Northwest Territories, used mainly during the winter months is included in the scheme.

In a review of Canadian-United States joint defence undertakings, the wartime information board said construction of the airports on the southern reaches of the Mackenzie began on May 15, 1942. No information was given out on the program until it was practically completed, as security reasons were involved.

BAN EXTENDED

Military Training For Coal Miners Postponed To August 1

OTTAWA Labor Minister Mitchell announced that blanket postponement of military training for those employed in coal mining has been extended to August 1, 1944. Similar extension has been applied to the ban on acceptance of coal miners for voluntary enlistment in any branch of the armed forces.

The original order-in-council arising from labor shortages, was passed May 17, 1942, and was effective to Feb 1, 1944.

PATRIOT EXPELLED

LONDON.—At least 20,000 Dutch patriots were executed by German occupation authorities from the time of the invasion of Holland up to last December, it is estimated by the Netherlands underground paper, Het Parool. A copy of the paper received here said 840 patriots were in transit to death in Holland in October alone.

BRITISH EMPIRE MEDAL

Award Made To Member Of C.W.A.C. For Outstanding Courage

RED DEER, Alta.—Pte. Mary Lilian Quinlan, 23-year-old member of the C.W.A.C., now attached to the Red Deer army training centre, has just been informed she has been awarded the British Empire Medal. The award was made for outstanding courage and presence of mind in an accident near Sydney, N.S., last July.

Pte. Quinlan, riding in the rear of a loaded truck with four other members of the C.W.A.C., administered first aid to her companions and driver of the truck after it upset. She was thrown clear of the wreckage.

Unable to revive the driver she hobbled half a mile on a sprained ankle to a telephone where she called a doctor, the police and a priest. Physicians and Pte. Quinlan's prompt action undoubtedly saved the lives of two of the victims.

Her home is at Holyrood, Conception Bay, Nfld. She enlisted in the C.W.A.C. at Halifax, in August, 1942.

An International Conference On Aviation Plans

LONDON.— A 50-passenger, 200-mile-an-hour commercial plane which will cross the Atlantic in 15 hours is being designed by Britain for her post-war civil aviation, Lord Beaverbrook informed the house of lords.

The lord privy seal indicated that an international post-war aviation conference of the great powers is likely to be held soon, but said no one is in discussions right now and is waiting only for the Americans to complete their survey.

Outlining the broad principles of Britain's air program, Lord Beaverbrook said the government intended to "take full measure of responsibility for development of civil aviation after the war," and he repeatedly emphasized the importance of Empire bases for establishment of world-girdling air routes.

"We have an Empire in every respect suited to the use of this new transportation," he said. . . . Now we have many bases at our disposal. They are scattered all over the Empire, and in other lands too. We have built and required by the necessities of war, and airfields have been constructed that are suitable for peace as well as for war."

Lord Beaverbrook said he was authorized by Prime Minister Churchill to say that Britain associates wholly to the principles voiced by President Roosevelt on the right of passage for all countries throughout the post-war world, and the right of aircraft to land anywhere for refueling and other non-traffic purposes.

DESTROYER IS LOST

LONDON.— The admiralty announced the loss of the destroyer Tynedale, a new ship completed in 1940. A member of the Hunt class, the Tynedale displaced 904 tons and was armed with four four inch anti-aircraft guns and eight smaller guns. No further details were available.

MORE NAVAL BASES

WASHINGTON.— The house of representatives sent to the White House a bill authorizing expenditure of $381,000,000 for expansion of United States naval aviation facilities on the Pacific and Atlantic coasts.

ARMORED EQUIPMENT

Churchill Says Britain Now Well Supplied With Tanks

LONDON.—Prime Minister Churchill said that Britain, reinforced by supplies from the United States, now is amassing adequate armored equipment.

In a written reply to a question in commons, Churchill declared: "I am not anxious at the present time about such tank production and equipment. We are receiving excellent supplies from the United States. Our own production now is on satisfactory lines in quality and character and I'm no doubt our forces will be well equipped."

Churchill conferred with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, invasion commander.

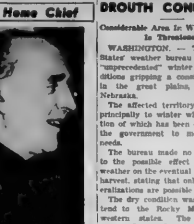
WILL BE NEW TYPE

Canadian Freighter To Be Built In British Columbia Shipyards

VANCOUVER. — A "new type" Canadian freighter will be built in British Columbia shipyards under the 1944 program, shipping officials said. Although details are lacking, they said it would be a combination of previous types built in Canada since the war began. New keels will be laid around the middle of August when existing contracts begin to run out.

New Home Chief



British home forces now are commanded by Gen. Sir Harold Franklyn, above, who succeeds Gen. Sir Bernard Paget, who has been assigned to the Middle East command.

SHOW INCREASE

Canada's Primary Products Last Year Greatest In Her History

CALGARY Canada produced an estimated total of $1,200,000,000 worth of primary products in 1943, greatest in the history of the country, F. B. Grisdale, deputy co-ordinator of primary products, wartime prices and trade board, told delegates to the convention of the United Farmers of Alberta here.

This was accomplished despite a decrease of 25 per cent. in farm labor as compared with 1938. Since 1939, production had increased one-third and monetary returns had doubled, said Mr. Grisdale.

"This is a phenomenal accomplishment," he added, noting that farm equipment was far from plentiful.

DROUTH CONDITIONS

Considerable Area In Western States Is Threatened

WASHINGTON. — The United States' weather bureau described as "unprecedented" winter drouth conditions gripping a considerable area in the great plains, centring in Nebraska.

The affected territory is devoted principally to winter wheat, production of which has been relied on by the government to meet wartime needs.

The bureau made no comment as to the possible effect of the dry weather on the eventual winter wheat harvest, stating that only broad generalizations are possible at this time.

The dry condition was said to extend to the Rocky Mountain and western states. The storage of mountain snowfall — a source of spring and summer irrigation water — is much less promising than at this time last year, the bureau said.

Royal Canadian Navy Is Praised For Part In War

LONDON — The Royal Canadian Navy is now pressing more than two fifths of the ocean patrols in the north Atlantic A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, told the House of Commons.

"The remarkable expansion of Canadian naval and air forces engaged in the Battle of the Atlantic and their skilful deployment and gallant handling in appalling weather could only have been the chief reporting the period from the start of the HIBER campaign to Nov. 23, convoy Hx 228 to London despatch Jan. 7.—passed by British censors.—from Rear Morris, Canadian Press war correspondent, that casualties in the Moro and Ortona battles in December were heavy.

With a the last four weeks casualties have been roughly three times greater than in the previous four weeks. The comparative figures are 1944 for the four weeks ended Dec. 21, compared with 695 for a similar period ended Jan. 18. This was an intensification of the closing days of the Italian campaign which began September 3

ISLAND FORTRESS

Civilians Have Been Evacuated From Heligoland

LONDON —The Berlin radio said that all civilians have been evacuated from Heligoland the North Sea island fortress of the First Great War which they are generally believed to have installed in defiance of the Versailles treaty.

Commanding the mouths of the Elbe and Weser rivers the island is a defence outpost for Hamburg, Bremen and Cuxhaven and for the Kiel canal. Its population is estimated at 2,500.

The island has been the target for at least one daylight raid by the R.A.F. bombers since the beginning of this war

Extra Returns To Hog Raisers Is Authorized

OTTAWA.—Expenditures for extending $75,000 to equalize returns to western producers whose hogs have been shipped east for slaughter since Oct. 1 due to congestion in prairie packing plants are authorized under an order-in-council published

In suggesting the appropriation to treasury board, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said prairie hog production had more than doubled since the start of the war and heavy marketings were temporarily in excess of slaughtering and processing capacity of western plants, especially during the fall months

Eastern hog production had shown a relatively small gain, and plant facilities were not operating at full capacity when the west had difficulty handling all marketings received.

Mr. Gardiner said shipment of hogs from Western Canada to the east for slaughter resulted in a lower return to certain producers because of the heavy in freight rates required to be as compared with domestic freight rates on live hogs together with extra expense due to shrinkage and handling. Payment will be made through the Canadian meat board

ADDED REVENUE FOR HOG RAISERS

New federal subsidy on hog marketings will mean at least $2,700,000 in additional revenue to Alberta producers during the 1943-44 hog marketings, Hon. Ir. Bruce MacMillan, Alberta minister of agriculture, said in a statement Saturday.

The federal announcement said there will be a subsidy of $3 per head on Grade A and B "B" hogs.

The subsidy, recently announced by the dominion department of agriculture for Grade A and B1 hogs should do much to check the widespread criticism there has been regarding the price of bacon, since the subsidies were announced on coarse grains said the minister. It will prevent, as well a further depletion of swine herds, which, according to many reports, was assuming alarming proportions

Based on 1943 marketings and grades, the value of the subsidy to Alberta farmers would be approximately $2,700,000. However, the subsidy will probably amount to a larger sum because the effect of the subsidy on 1944 marketings will be to increase the percentage of Grade A and B1 hogs marketed, thus enhancing the values of the swine industry to Alberta farmers.

The principle adopted under this policy of bonusing quality will be particularly useful in improving the quality of Canadian bacon, thus assuring our product of a favorable reception on the British market after the war.

I consider further remarked the minister, that the subsidy on barley hogs will have a stabilizing effect, not only on the swine industry, but upon other branches of agriculture, similating the swine industry will have a beneficial effect upon the production of coarse grains as well. Perhaps of more importance than any of these factors will be the assurance that as a result of the subsidy, the supplies of bacon for Britain will be more certain

SABOTAGE —

Residents in the west end have complained to the Standard that someone pens the air-waves regularly every morning, just as the 8 o'clock news starts. If you are in the habit of turning on some electrical equipment such as a razor or some household device, at that particular time each morning —don't do it—let John Citizen listen to his news without interruption.

HOLD YOUR VICTORY BONDS!

Demands upon individual financial resources during wartime are naturally greater than in peacetime, however, earning power during this war has been much greater. When the war is won there will necessarily be a transition from wartime to peacetime industry, which will require drastic occupational adjustments. During this period, your Victory Bonds will be an invaluable asset in surmounting the difficulties of readjustment.

In addition to the actual saving on bond investments, the 2% interest rate is much higher than on bank deposits or savings of a similar type, therefore, Bond values are not stationary but are continuously increasing.

When the men and women return from the fighting fronts, a new era will be established to assist them in re-establishing themselves in normal occupation without the necessity of going into debt, as War Bonds are still-edged security for loans.

Bond buying helps to control the inflationary urge to buy things which are non-essential, thereby assisting in control of inflation. The possession of Bonds also establishes a sense of security, and thrift which does not ordinarily exist when you spend from day to day.

RADIO GRAMS by Jim Allard

Morning is one of the most popular times for radio-listening — especially round about 8.30 or so—when that bright bit of early morning entertainment comes your way via The South Side Hour. This sprightly program brings you eye-opening music, time and weather notes, plus shopping news for residents of Edmonton's South Side. Join the extensive group of enthusiastic listeners to The South Side Hour every weekday morning at 8.30 over CJCA.

"Lipsonaires"—the name in itself suggests musical entertainment as you like it—and it's the name of another new feature scheduled to start over CJCA Jan. 31st. Lipsonaires will replace that popular Sunday feature, Lepton Tea Musicals; and will certainly prove equally as popular amongst lovers of better music. This new presentation will come to you Monday through Friday at 5.30 p.m. commencing Jan. 31st.

By the way, have you had a visit with Aunt Lucy Linton lately? She's a mighty interesting little lady to spend fifteen minutes with — her stories are realistic and full of intrigue — her manner of telling them brisk and entertaining, holding your attention and curiosity right to the end! Listen to her every weekday morning Monday through Friday at 9.15 over CJCA.

Commencing Feb. 1st, G.W.G. will present a new daily feature that promises to be a real treat for western music fans. At 12.15 noon, Monday through Friday, this 15-minute show will offer a variety of popular and "old-favorite" tunes in the western theme. Make a note of that starting date, Feb. 1, at 12.15 noon, for the new G.W.G. show.

Fine Reports at Annual Meeting of Red Cross

Ven. Archdeacon Leverredge Re-Elected President

The annual meeting of the Vermilion Branch of the Canadian Red Cross was held in the Legion Hall on Monday, Jan. 17th 1944 at 8.30 p.m.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Ven. Archdeacon Leversedge
Vice-Pres.—Rev. E. S. Bebbington
Secretary—J.R. Robson
Treasurer—C. L. Whitby
Work Convenor—Mrs. H.H. Norton
Shipping—Mrs. K. C. Heckbert
Finance—Mr. T. Dick
Publicity—Mrs. E.H. Buckingham
Ways & Means—Mrs. T. Dick
Relief—Mrs. J. J. Knull
Jr. Red Cross—Miss Dey.

The treasurer's report showed a total income for the year including Red Cross Drive, of $5,378.23 with a balance on hand at Dec. 31st 1943 of $1,296.52.

The Ways & Means committee convenor reported the sum of $396.02 raised during the year through various successful endeavors.

Convener of Work committee reported 8 shipments of goods sent to Edmonton consisting of knit goods 192, sewing 617, quilts 28, crib quilts 35, blankets 1, making a total of 1213 garments.

On behalf of the local branch the work convenor expressed thanks to all workers and said that all work had been of high quality, beauty and well done. Great credit should be given country units and groups for amazing amount of work turned in. Special credit was expressed to Mrs. Carroll and Eastern Star group for their work in turning in so many beautifully made quilts. Special mention was also made of the splendid work of Mrs. Welsh and Mrs. Adam and their assistants for the cutting out of garments, requisite, much time and care. The packing committee under convenorship of Mrs. J. Wenger received great credit for time and care given to shipping of finished articles.

The workroom committee Mesdames Whitby, Leversedge, McFadden, Hebbert, J. Reid and Hill deserve much praise for their regular attendance on Saturday afternoons at the work room. If not convenient for out-of-town workers to get work on Saturdays the committee are always willing to pack work or leave it any place to be picked up.

Unfortunately the number of articles completed dropped from 1726 articles in 1942 to 1213 articles in 1943, 513 less, but it is hoped that this will be remedied this year as the demand grows steadily day by day.

Reports were read from Auxiliary Branches as follows:

Carlton-Hughes — 14 crib quilts, 16 large quilts, 45 knitted articles, 94 sewn articles, money raised $140.00.

Dilhorn & Stellaville—116 knitted articles, 47 sewn articles, 2 quilts, 3 quilts and 1 pr. socks were donated.

Ganton-Wilson—64 knitted articles, 27 sewn articles. Two quilts were donated by Volland C.W.W.A. and Jr. Red Cross of Ganton school. $214.01 was raised by the Auxiliary during the year.

Windermere — 55 knitted articles, 14 sewn articles, of which 1 articles were donated

BOWTELL BULLETIN

A surprise party and shower was held at the home of Mrs. Bedelly on Thursday last week in honor of Mrs. Ed Sweeney, a recent bride. There were 21 ladies present and those from outside of the district were Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Mazza, Mrs. McFarlane, Mrs. Kline, Mrs. Carroll and Miss Peggy Kay of Onion Lake. Games were played and Marion was the lucky winner of the quiz contest, the prize being a cake of toilet soap. A large basket, gaily decorated and filled with presents was presented to by Mrs. Mazza and Maybelle Knutson much to the surprise of the bride. Mrs. Ed Sord made the presentation with these words "We are gathered here today to wish you in Bowtell many many years, and this basket of goodies, large and small, are from us, one and all." Mrs. Sweeney thanked everyone for their kindness. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess Mrs. Bedelly.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison and family were supper guests Sunday at the Knutson home.

Frank Robinson, David Shields and Tom Sherwood went to Onion Lake Monday for a load of cattle. Miss Peggy Kay made the return trip with them.

The next sewing meeting is to be held at Mrs Deford's when a pot luck dinner will be served.

Mrs. Carroll spent the week end at the home of Mrs. Repp.

The Vermilion high school students union is putting on a drive to sell Jiffies in War Savings Stamps. The committee has the endorsement of the Vermilion Board of Trade and the citizens generally.

School holidays in Alberta next year will be from July 15 to October 1. The long vacation of last year did not appeal to the people and the present arrangement is a sort of a compromise.

Miss Lena Miriam Oldenberg, for some time past a member of the Treasury Branch staff at Vermilion was married December 23th to Robert Hussey of Edmonton. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Mr Reikie of the First United church. Mr. and Mrs. Hussey will make their home at Waskatenau where Mr. Ramsey is on the teaching staff of the school.

The new federal subsidy on bonus will mean an additional revenue of $2,700,000 to hog producers in Alberta, stated Hon. D. B. MacMillan, Alberta minister of agriculture, a few days ago.

The town of Wainwright is planning a natural gas sewer system as a post war undertaking.

Wilhelmina Reindeer, high school graduate of Ft. Norman, N.W.T., recently covered hundreds of miles none of them on foot through muskegs to join the R.C.A.F. (W.D.) at Edmonton. She is now a parachute rigger at the bombing school at Lethbridge.

S. Carl Heckbert, President of the Provincial Legion has declined to be a candidate for the leadership of the independent party in Alberta, for the reason that the Legion is not in politics

Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, minister of labor, has stated that a million new homes will be needed in Canada after the war, indicating this mass building program will provide post war labor of great magnitude

WOODVALE

There seems to be very little news to the district lately. Most likely everyone is living contentedly, enjoying the sprinkle weather, and marvelling every morning that this is going to be another nice day. Some of the animals are getting rather be wildered and think spring just around the corner. Horses are shedding their hair and the little chickadees are chancing their vocal, but rather plaintive winter song for their cheerful spring chirp. It seems that the flu and severe colds are a bit on the wane too; we were sorry to hear that Mrs. T. Hobbs was again severely ill with it early in the month and hope she'll soon be up and around again.

The news of the death of Mrs. T. Doyle at Lacombe hospital two weeks ago shocked her many friends in the district. We all know she had been sick off and on for years, but last summer she looked and felt so well that everyone hoped she would yet live a long and happy life. The sincere sympathy of the whole community is felt for her husband and children and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Ganton of the Union district and her many sisters and brothers.

SWOOTS EARLE

The young folks have done quite a bit of hunting this year. Billy Haines has counted over thirty coyotes so far and Ted Ganton shot a beautiful eagle with a wingspread of over 6 feet 6 inches, when he was out looking for coyotes.

Several boys have left the community temporarily. Frank Young works on the oil wells at Vermilion; Douglas Young left for Stettler to do grain-cleaning there and Hughie Potter is reported to have a job as time-keeper for a trucking firm at Paterson Creek. There are still more boys than girls here apparently, as at the card party in Ganton school on the 14th the 1st prize for ladies went to none other than Brooks Lyons! The men's first prize was won by Otto Wolters. Over forty persons enjoyed themselve playing cards there that evening.

A dance was held at Thorsrud last week and a large crowd had a good time. Apparently there were also many children some of them doing a slow jab of dancing their elders not seriously talking to dancing.

Mrs. McLeod of Manneville visited for a few weeks with her daughter Mrs. Luther Thompson.

Harry Turner has bought a small truck and his mother hopes he'll take her once in a while to Wainwright to see her brother Tom Savage whom she has not seen for over ten years.

NUTS BY THE MILLION, BUT NOT FOR THE TABLE

MONTREAL — Maintaining 20,000 miles of track throughout the Canadian National System is a sizable task and requires a working force of 12,621 sectionmen to carry out this important job. For this trackage, about 37,500,000 nuts and bolts are required to fasten splice bars at track joints and sectionmen devote at least one day of each month to tightening these bolts. When new rail is laid, these workers thoroughly oil all the nuts-nuts it pains to keep them from "freezing", which means to prevent corrosion and to make for easy unscrewing throughout the life of the rail. In addition, all splice bars and fastenings receive an oil bath once or twice a year.

Pursuant to the order for sale and directions of the Honourable Mr. Justice O'Connor, sealed tenders will be received for the purchase of the South West quarter of Section Thirty-three (33) in Township Fifty-one (51), Range Four (4), West of the Fourth Meridian, in the Province of Alberta, containing 160 acres more or less, reserving unto His Majesty all mines and minerals.

The above property is situate five (5) miles from the Village of Islay, which is the nearest Post Office and grain elevator. It is two (2) miles from the nearest school. Of the area of 160 acres approximately 117 acres has been under cultivation. The top soil is from 2 inches to 7 inches in depth and varies from a light sandy loam to a sandy loam. The subsoil varies from sandy clay to sand. There is no well on the property but the water supply consists of a spring on the North West corner of the same. The property is fenced on the South, East and West sides with two strands. There is no fence on the North side. There are no buildings situate on the said land.

The purchaser will assume all current rates. Tenders must be enclosed in a sealed envelope marked "Tenders re His Majesty the King, in the right of Canada, represented by the Director of Soldier Settlement vs. Henry Putvin, Olive Putvin and Wilfred Joseph No. 2274" and addressed to R. P. Wallace, Esq., K.C., Clerk of the Supreme Court, Court House, Edmonton, Alberta, and must be in the hands of the said R. P. Wallace not later than twelve o'clock noon on the 12th day of February, A.D. 1944.

TERMS OF SALE: Each tender shall be accompanied by a marked cheque or cash for 10% of the amount of the tender and the balance of the purchase price shall be paid (unless the time is otherwise extended) into Court within 60 days after acceptance of the tender, without interest.

The deposit of 10% shall be forfeited by the successful tenderer if he refuses to carry out the purchase after acceptance of his tender. Cheques of unsuccessful tenderers shall be returned to them immediately after rejection thereof.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted. In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of sale of the Supreme Court of Alberta insofar as the same are applicable.

For further particulars apply to Friedman Ilsberman and Newson, Barristers, etc., 701 Bank of Commerce Building, Edmonton, Alberta.

Chadwold Boy Receives Christmas Parcel Overseas

The following letter has been received by the Rev. F. A. Peake of Onoway and formerly of Clandonald, from Sgt. H. A. Grahn who lived at the Clandonald Vicarage in 1941 and 1942 during which time he took his grade XI. Sgt. Grahn spent the following summer in B.C. and then joined the R.C.A.F. He received his later training in Edmonton and at Macleod, Man. The letter follows:

"Dear Mr. Peake:

Well Christmas has come and gone again and I suppose you had a very merry Christmas as I did. I was pretty lucky on Christmas Day because I got two parcels from the people of Vermilion and district. I'm really grateful for it because I've been looking forward to mail ever since "we" been over here. I'd like to thank everybody who helped to send it . . .

That Xmas cake really was good but it didn't last very long with all the other wolves around! I sure don't like the cigarettes they have over here. The station isn't too bad, food is quite good and so forth, however it's kind of cold in our barracks.

We celebrated Xmas right on the station and a very nice Christmas dinner was put on for us—turkey, chicken etc. Maybe some of us will be home for next Xmas.

Well I wish you and all a happy and prosperous New Year.

Yours,
Harold (Sgt. H.A. Grahn, R.C.A.F.)

SALE OF FARM PROPERTY BY TENDER

The Teacher

Generally The Poorest Paid in Relation To Importance

C.- teachers grade school or university professors, are perhaps the most essential economic or professional entity in the nation. Yet in relation to their importance they are among the most poorly paid groups. Just reflect on what is expected of the teachers. They are responsible for the development of our children through the most formative years of their lives. In far too many cases their responsibility is even greater than that assumed by the parents.

The teachers are expected to transmit all human intelligence and exhibit all the virtues and none of the vices. They are expected not merely to teach and instruct the children in all they must know, but to correct in the child all the wrong habits of the home and an errorneous environment over which they have no control. They are supposed to understand the child in a manner some parents make no effort to do, to uncover all the little quirks of character and temperament, and overcome the bad and develop the good

Asking this we have consistently refused to failed to face up to an honest evaluation of its worth

Super Highways

Non-Stop Motorways Envisaged By The British Road Federation

A super-modern system of motor roads which probably would make car travelling in Britain the fastest in the world is envisaged by the British Road Federation, in plans prepared by the London County Surveyors' Society

They provide for the construction of 1,000 miles of motorways—nonstop, 100 feet wide dual carriageway roads restricted to fast motor traffic—without destroying the beauty of the countryside or endangering life by passing through towns and villages the roads would cross-cut the country, connecting London and Glasgow, Newcastle and Liverpool or Manchester and Swansea

There would be no cross roads side turnings or even steep hills and the highways would pass over rather than under existing roads with clover-leaf junctions giving access to any village or town.

The cost? About £40 000 a mile which is £40 000 less than the cost of reconstructing existing main roads to suit present day speed.

Wise Eating

Cheese On Cereal Is Recommended By Dr. L. B. Pett

In a booklet called "Wise Eating in Wartime," published by the British Ministry of Information, Dr. Charles Hill recommends toasted cheese as a breakfast dish for Britons.

No suggestion that is radically different from established eating habits is likely to meet with immediate acceptance, so Dr. Hill goes on to point out that the idea of cheese as a breakfast food is no more peculiar, and a lot sounder, nutritionally, than giving small boys beer for breakfast. This, not so long ago was customary in English boarding schools and was accepted by parents as a matter of course.

In certain parts of Canada cheese is used as breakfast food being served grated or finely chopped on porridge and taking the place of sugar.

For those who are working outside in cold weather or performing heavy manual work, the use of grated cheese on hot cereal is a good recommendation, says Dr. L. B. Pett, director of Nutrition Service at Ottawa. Dr. Pett points out that cheese is a highly concentrated food staying power of the breakfast and provides added nourishment.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS'S USE HIS POWER TO HELP

Golden text: Why are ye fearful? have ye not yet faith? Mark 4:40.

Lesson: Mark 4:35-5:20.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 9:1-7.

Explanations and Comments

A Great Storm and a Command. Mark 4:35-41. On day long Jesus had been preaching, and there had been a great multitude and night came he said to his disciples, "Let us go over unto the other side." On the other side of the lake where there was a habitation. They departed, taking him with them in a boat "even as he was." And there arose a great storm and the waves beat into the boat so that it began to fill. But he was asleep on a pillow: and they awoke him, and say unto him, Master, carest thou not that we perish?" He arose and rebuked the wind, and said unto the sea, Peace, be still. And the wind ceased, and there was a great calm.

"Why are ye fearful?" sadly Jesus questioned the disciples, "have ye not yet faith?"—not yet, after being seen by them so many times.

Many a follower of the Christ thinks he has faith, but his faith fails him in times of stress and fear. Then he needs to hear the Master saying, "Have ye not yet faith." A well-regulated mind is a mind that is stored with faith. Faith is that which ensures exactly where to find it when its impenetrable treasures. Well-regulated faith is that which richly endowed with faith, and that knows exactly where to find it when occasion for its use arises.

"Say," he claimed, "how is it that you have so many Scotsmen among your pilots?"

"Well, sir," he said, "since the Scots have learned that every cloud has a silver lining, we can't keep 'em out."

Just An Experiment

U.S. War Department Tried Out Ham and Eggs Powder

The United States war department announces that a formula has been developed for substituting sea water and salt in making bread.

Taking samples of sea water from the oceans off California, Virginia, Florida and Washington, the chemists strained them to remove algae, seaweed and sand. The water then was treated with calcium hypochlorite to purify it. The technicians used 62 parts of salt water instead of 60 parts of fresh water and two parts of salt.

The sea-water bread showed only a slight variation from bread made according to the standard recipe in texture, grain, flavor and crumb

Britain now grows her own domestic sugar ration.

Hitler Youth Organization Trained To Take Army

A dispatch to the Swedish newspaper Nya Dagligt Allehanda said that members of the Hitler Youth organization were being urged to join the German Army as volunteers.

This latest indication of the Reich's need for Army recruits came as the newspaper Aftonbladingen said it had learned that 15-year-old members of the Hitler Youth were being trained in cavalry units for front line service when they become sixteen.

Germany is reorganizing her cavalry, a move that apparently reflects the Russian effective use of mounted troops on the eastern front.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

"Cherry Pie"

By—JEAN CAMERON
McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Glancing at the chair over which his late hour the Automat was still crowded. She would have to share a table. She pulled the belt of her light coat tighter, plunged her hand deep into her pocket. A dime—a nickel for coffee three cents—and the subway tomorrow morning. At noon she would receive her first salary check.

The thought sent a warmth through her which even coffee could not produce. She felt the cool smooth surface of the change desk, deep in the crevices of which would be found a gumful of nickels which the native New Yorkers could have something like that to think about to relieve one's mind, if only for a short while, when everything desperately for a job—hoping, praying that the next phone call would be from the agency.

Again the warmth that swept over her was not from the coffee she was sipping. She had a job, had had it for two weeks. The joy of having a place to hurry to when you awoke in the morning, of entering and opening happily, "Good morning." The delight of abandoning the trips to the bureaus, the futile shuffle over cards in answer to ads! And of receiving a salary, she reminded herself practically. Tomorrow would be her first pay day. The cup clattered in the saucer as she jubilantly set it down.

It hadn't been easy. She had been driven to think of returning to her aunt's, of spending the rest of her days in that dark little house, hearing a scolding tongue remind her of her obligations. But they ha' been no kind to her here. Mrs. McGonigal had cheered her up, encouraged her, waited patiently for her room rent. Now she was four weeks behind, and it made things difficult for the landlady, she knew. Tomorrow she could begin to pay her back, but she could never pay for the motherly advice, for the coffee and rolls every morning that were not included in the lodging house advertisement.

She had just been able to make her small savings last by going without—not asking for an advance. One of the office girls would leave soon to be married, and Jean would then be given a chance as a typist instead of filing clerk. In the meantime she was observing, realizing how many opportunities for advancement there were in an office employing fifty stenographers.

Her coffee was half gone. She noticed that the man opposite her was not eating at all. He had ordered soup, almond untasted, a sandw- ich and was staring in a strained manner at the thick piece of cherry pie before him. With nervous fingers he lighted a cigarette. She sighed. It seemed incredible that anyone could leave food uneaten. For over a week she had had only one meal a day beside Mrs. McGonigal's breakfasts. Then that noon one of the girls in the office had taken her to lunch, without a word to familiarize what seemed Jean's remaining in the coat-room during the noon hour. She would remember kindnesses like that

The man pushed his plate away from him, sighed, stirred in his chair. Jean's heart bounced She was not unendurably hungry but he had not touched the pie, and if he left it. . . .

He glanced at her, as he had done several times in the past few minutes. Her bright eager eyes were fastened on the plate. He rose, casually slipped on a fur overcoat, then, taking his half burned cigarette, deliberately plunged it deep into the pie. There was a faint hiss from the cherry juice. Jean's face reddened. Tears welled in her eyes

* * * * *

"And you've decided to have the operation, Mr. Colfer? Good. I've told you repeatedly everything's in your favor."

The gray-haired man with the strained look winced. "I'll have to take your word for it till it's over, Doctor," he replied. "I've never better now that I've come to a decision and ended this uncertainty. I have everything in order in my will, you're telling me, if I'd take care of myself in time. Perhaps. I almost came to another decision today, Doctor. I was so worn out with thinking of this and business worries, I took the sleeping powder you gave me and spread it on the cherries on a piece of pie all of it. I was going to make my exit sweetly like the heroine in a novel I saw a girl over in a poor girl, a hungry girl, yet she would have been happy, for she was starving. And I said to myself, I am not poor, I am not hungry, and I am be courageous, too." So here I am." He sighed . . . wish I could have left her the pie, instead of spoiling it."

Jean waited a short time after the man had left the restaurant, then, with a quick look around, she slipped the pie into her coat pocket.

Proves Its Worth

Helicopter Made Trip Which Was Impossible For Other Planes

A few days ago, a helicopter plane gave a dramatic demonstration of the practical utility of this type of craft in time of emergency. A United States destroyer exploded and sank off Sandy Hook. Among the survivors were many wounded men, badly in need of medical attention. All other aircraft were grounded by sleet and heavy snow squalls, but a Coast Guard autogiro left the side of a rudimental helicopter from Floyd Bennett Field and landed it on the Battery in New York. Fourteen minutes later it settled gently on the beach at Sandy Hook, with two cases of blood plasma for the survivors of the ex-ploding.

The plasma was rushed to the wounded and immediately administered. Delivery of this life-saving fluid and equipment by boat would have taken at least an hour; by car over an hour and a half. And minutes count when wounded men await the plasma which will give them the chance to begin to live again. Now we must change our entire economic system and launch out into new and untried paths, under new and bold, experienced leaders. The timorous and visionaries who preach these doctrines of a socialistic economic revolution be thoroughly honest and sincere! But the fact remains that the principles they advocate are only bad, as a final and inevitable result to a system which has proved its soundness on this point I cannot do better than quote the latter of the London Economist, a well known writer of liberal views

A wholly planned economy "is incompatible with any degree of political liberty. The essential liberty of a man's earning his living in his own way, without let or hindrance is the essential condition of there being any freedom at all. Almost unlimited, I suppose "If more than a fraction of the electorate come to the conclusion that likelihood upon the temporary machinery of the master class will be—that is upon the politicians Then democracy will die."

"I am more convinced than ever that the menace of socialistic teaching is one of the greatest that has come in Canada in both his business and political life."

"These advocates of a new order have an astounding scheme, which in their minds is complete and complete regimentation of Canada As you know, one of their principal objectives, and the first plank in their platform, is to nationalize the banks

CAPITAL ANT MENACE

"Naturally, we are interested in preserving our business, in which so many shareholders have put their money and to which so many depositors have entrusted their savings, but I am even more as citizens than as business men, to help stop the rise of greed, because we firmly believe that implementation of the socialist plan would bring to an end forever the kind of Canada back centuries.

"It is a fallacy as silly as it is dangerous that I put before you some further considerations to which I hope you will give your earnest thought.

The course of the socialist party in Canada has been charted for us in several banks which make clear that nothing short of complete socialization of the means of production and finance will satisfy the party. That means domination of every phase of economic life, including agriculture, labour and capital Therefore leaders of the fair minded commonalty of the classes it means domination of every individual

Within would be the nationalization of the banks' by nationalization of the banks' Their book would simply record what they will form the basis for the socialist party's monopoly control of the two boards which now controls the competitive

Socialistic literature suggests that the banks are to be taken over on the basis of the average of the annual net earnings of the banks during the last five years. Now, the banks have had a very moderate profit in the last year or two, but during the depression years they had a very large deficit. If business is to continue to function as it should, it is clear that these deficits must be made up. Any other type of business working with a deficit over a period of years would be going out of business unable to earn its own living. Therefore, the banks would have to make up these deficits. If we consider this in relation to the total amount of money that has been made in earnings by the banks during the last five years, it will be found that the amount is not sufficient to make up the deficits of the depression years, and the result on

THE BOARD OF TRADE COMPLETES ACTIVE YEAR

120 Members All Time Record —Promotional Body Essential To Live Town

In a half-hour's discourse, Ashley H. Cooper, president of the Vermilion board of trade, gave a resume of the work of that body during 1943, at the annual meeting held on Wednesday last week.

A promotional body is absolutely essential to any live town and while the board of trade cannot compel things to happen, it does bring matters to the attention of the proper authorities and urges that this or that be done. During 1943 the meetings of the Board were attended by more of the business men and farmers than ever and indications already point to the fact that membership will be even greater this year. Citizens must be more essential such a body is, and that it will be even more needed in the post war era.

A brief summary of the board of trade projects for 1943 follows:

AIR PORT

Had the airport been as greatly improved as no cost to the town; instruments in having branches light, illuminated wind sock installed, small waiting room built on grounds; telephone line re-routed away from the field, more work promised for the spring. Negotiations are now pending with Parker Airlines and they are now ready to commence daily passenger service as soon as federal government grants them a franchise.

Hail Bell inspected by C. H. Dickens of Ottawa, and Mr. Dickens and Capt. Grant McConachie, western superintendent and other officials.

Acknowledged with thanks the aid given by Mr. A. Fallow in inspecting the air field.

AGRICULTURE

Sponsored two day agriculture short course on farmers and farm women; game evening banquet at which Mr. G. R. Longman, deputy minister of agriculture was guest speaker, largely attended by farmers and farm ladies; sponsored Victory Garden campaign; gas instrumental in having the Dept. of Agriculture keep part of the dairy herd in the district for milk supply. Instead of moving them away as was planned, they were now now at the Wm. Barr dairy farm; in the spring asked authorities for early help on farm help situation; were directly responsible for action that resulted in farmers being able to thresh and ship dump grain this fall up to 14 bushels of wheat and 21 bushels of coarse grain per acre. This resulted in many farmers being able to thresh grain which otherwise would still be standing snow covered in the stook.

Appointed a committee in connection with the new acreage of M to the east

ROADS

Dept. of Public Works contacted to gravel Highway No. 16 from east limit of all-weather road north urged. Asked town council to gravel river hill roads, urged town council to keep roads in good condition, urged government to regrade low road leading to town from C.W.A.C. barracks, to be done when this section of highway 16 is reconstructed.

RETAIL

Commenced half holidays all year round, introduced noon hour closing; stood up on store hours during Xmas season

MISCELLANEOUS

Forestry, Post - War Reconstruction committee, formed branch Agricultural Institute of Canada, forwarded a brief to authorities suggesting recommendations and central quarters for R. C. M. P., sponsored successful Salvage Cost Drive campaign, advised that a man located in Vermilion be appointed Police Magistrate; voted, turned Mr. John Bracken leader of the National Progressive Conservative party at a dinner; entertained premier Manning and Hon. W. A. Fallow at a dinner; held a noon-day luncheon in honor of C. H. Patterson, president of the Aeronautical Institute of Canada; Sgt. Wagner and several other air cadet officials addressed the board at various times during the year; endeavored to have a health unit set up here and further attention on this matter is pending.

SALVAGE

The Board of Trade salvage committee continues active and has handled 140 tons of rubber, fats, non-ferrous metals, rags and paper salvage, also some scrap iron and steel. Receipts have been $586.17 and disbursements $462.11. The latter has chiefly been in the form of grants to the Air Cadets and to War Charities.

PUBLICITY

Chief publicity for Vermilion continues to be handled as it has for years, through the publicity committee of the board of trade. News for consumption outside of Vermilion is sent to various Alberta dailies and to all field journals in Ontario, B.C. and Calgary. We get considerable publicity also through our oil field, the C.W.A.C. barracks, and also by the fact that we have citizens holding high offices in Dominion and Provincial organizations.

In conclusion the Board president expressed his sincere appreciation to the members of the executive, members of the various committees, to the secretary-treasurer, and to all members of the Board of Trade, who have by their co-operation made very active and successful year just closed.

A Global War — A Global Peace

We have all been told that this is a Global War. We have only to glance at a globe of the world and to note the vast areas in the world where fighting is taking place to realize that this term Global War is correct.

The Global War however is only one aspect of a complete world revolution. Peace, when it comes, will certainly require a global solution. It is useless to have any assurance that another depression will not occur on these premises, and that World War number three will not break out in ten years. A Global War does not imply that the fruits of the earth, the foodstuffs, minerals and other products of Nature deposited in different parts of the world will have to be made available or reasonable access to all mankind.

This decidedly will require some thing approaching International Free Trade in fact, down to existing high tariff walls of all as the Atlantic Charter requires. Yet already we hear of a campaign to maintain existing Canadian trade-stimulating evil tariffs and quotas when for years have prohibited foreign goods coming into the country. There is but one way to offset this "nationalistic" campaign, which is for everyone who believes in the freedom of trade to make his voice heard for groups to pass resolutions and to forward them to Ottawa, and for individuals to write to their respective members of Parliament.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

U.S. Government wheat stocks decreased from 284,215,000 bushels on Jan. 1st 1942 to 92,315,000 bushels on Jan. 1st 1943. Peru's 1943 wheat crop to be restricted at about 2.7 million bushels or less than half of that country's requirements. Famine conditions are reported threatening in northern Italy as a result of the German food requisitioning policy.

Reports from Turkey and the Balkans indicate the condition of the crops as favorable—The harvest is nearly completed in the Argentine and yields are reported satisfactory. In most countries in the country—The main rice crop in India is reported in excellent condition particularly in Bengal.

Well Attended Annual Meeting

Satisfaction Expressed at Financial Standing of Town, School and Hospital District

Generally prevailed at the annual meeting of the electors of the town of Vermilion, Vermilion Centre school district, and hospital district, held in the Memorial hall last Friday evening. There was a good attendance, the peak number being 51. In spite of the number present there was no critician and little debate, and general satisfaction was expressed at the splendid financial standings of the three bodies represented.

H. P. Long was moved to the chair and Ashley Cooper was appointed as secretary of the meeting. Mr. Long, making his first appearance at a town annual meeting since 1940, expressed his appreciation for the kindly message received from the ratepayers present at the annual meeting held in 1941, the first occasion on which he had been absent for some 20 years, which expressed regret at his illness and the hope that he would soon be around again.

Minutes of the last annual meeting were read and on motion of H. E. Parker were accepted after the deletion of a remark credited to him.

Contrary to usual procedure, H. E. Parker, town treasurer, gave the hospital board, was given the chance to present his report first. Only question asked was the cause of the deficit which was explained by frozen hospital days and higher wages.

The subject of more lights on the hospital grounds was raised and a motion was passed "That the road to the hospital be better lighted from the rink west."

A motion of appreciation to Mr. Parker was passed for his able representation on the hospital board. Mr. Parker's two-year term expires this month and it is generally hoped that he will stand for re-election.

Town affairs were passed to and the first councillor called upon was R. A. McIvor, chairman of the finance committee, who gave a very thorough report. He noted the steady reduction of tax arrears, and stated that evasion of taxes was now most difficult. He also noted that tax collections as a whole were the highest in the history of the town, and that only $2,706 of current taxes had been uncollected during 1943, which was also a record. Mr. McIvor expressed his appreciation to the newly appointed secretary Mr. Part, whom he felt was responsible in a large measure for the splendid tax collection showing.

Quite a number of questions were asked and answered satisfactorily but one of those questions was by the chairman who wondered if the substantial raise in salary given the town accountant after a comparatively short space of time in his new position was good business practice. Councillors stated that seeing the official in question had given indisputable evidence of his adaptability to the work required, they were glad it did. A good business man to make the position attractive enough to keep him, and they felt that this would be done in his case.

R.W. Bushell reported for both ends of the utility committee. A fine showing was made in 1943 with a profit showing of $13,000. There was in addition a sinking fund of approximately $13,000 which was earmarked for Vermilion's water and sewer system. No expenditures of any appreciable size are at present foreseen for the plant in the near future. R. Bushell spoke briefly of the physical aspects of the plant and stated that one matter that should be dealt with was the installation of an efficient water softening system.

Consideration of unfair wages was introduced and the situation involving same was reviewed by Mr. Wiebe.

W. J. Mayhew reported for public works, stressing the fact that labor was scarce and high priced and that he figured the present time was not conducive to any extensive program of public works. He thought that a small tractor might prove valuable for maintaining streets.

H. J. Payne, with a multitude of portfolios reported on Rink, Fire and Police activities, drawing attention to the fact that policing was now being done by the R.C.M.P., and that the latter force were rapidly taking over policing of other towns. In regard to fire Mr. Payne advocated the installation of an additional cistern in the southwest corner of the town which was so far removed from the closest hydrant that the available fire hose would barely reach in some of the buildings there and this was the section where the elevators were located.

In speaking of the cemetery Mr. Payne said that he was frankly very ashamed of its condition and that if the cemetery commission as then existed was not beautified, it would during the present fine winter which allows him to get out daily and help with the chores. He was host at Vantage Hill (station was built 1912).

Councillor Harry Elliott reported briefly for the health and relief committee.

Gordon Munro Gives Life for His Country

Killed in Action January 21st

Flight Sergeant Gordon C. Munro, aged 24 years, was killed in action overseas at 6:15 on the morning of January 21st, according to word received by his wife Mrs. Munro (nee Doris Wright) of Vermilion. Burial took place in the cemetery at Oxford, England. Flight Sergeant Munro enlisted with the R.C.A.F. in January 1942. He received his Navigator's wing in December that same year at No. 3 A.O.S., Regina, and proceeded immediately overseas.

Besides his wife he is survived by one sister Mrs. L. Bodmer of Patricia, Alberta, and one brother Kenneth J. Munro at the R.C.N. Naval College, Fredericton, N.B.

Pte. Sgt. Munro attended Western Canada High school in Calgary, subsequently going to Alberta University, and graduated in Pharmacy in 1939. He was well known as a promising young business man in Vermilion, an active golfer, curler and game hunter. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge.

Gordon was popular in the town, was well liked by all with whom he came into contact, and his loss is keenly and widely felt.

Notice of Time and Place for Nomination

TOWN OF VERMILION . . . MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS 1944

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that I will attend at the Town Hall on MONDAY, the 7th day of February, 1944, from eleven o'clock in the forenoon until twelve o'clock noon for the purpose of receiving nominations of candidates for the office of Councillor for the next ensuing three years, the office of School Trustee for the next ensuing two years; and for the office of representative on the Vermilion Municipal Hospital board for the next ensuing two years

GIVEN under my hand at Vermilion this 31st day of January 1944

JOHN BRINACOMBE, Returning Officer

Nominations Monday

Nomination day for the town of Vermilion is from 11 a.m. to 12 o'clock noon on Monday Feb. 7th in the town hall. There is plenty of opportunity for aspirants to municipal offices as the terms of two councillors, three school trustees and the town hospital member, expire.

Councillors whose three year terms run out are E. M. Stewart and R. W. Bushell and they have given their consent to stand again. Trustees are D. A. Andrew, J. D. Adam and S. Brase, who were elected for two year terms and hopes are held that all three will carry on. The term of H.R. Parker, hospital representative also elected for two years has come to an end and no doubt his signature on nomination papers will also be sought.

FORMER VERMILION MAN RETURNS FROM KISKA

Capt. Jimmy Edgar Makes Interesting Observations on Aleutians

There were many Edmontonians and other Alberta soldiers with the Canadian troops in Kiska, although there were no city or Alberta units in the show, it was learned Saturday.

Most of the troops who made the Kiska landing have now left the island and are home on leave. In Edmonton streets many of the blue clothed R.C.A.F. men are to be seen on the khaki uniform sleeves.

Home after spending six months in Kiska is Capt J. E. Edgar, 11532 81 Ave. He served in the 24th unit of the 24th Field Regiment. Capt. Edgar said there were many Edmontonians and other Albertans in the unit. With the Rocky Mountain Rangers was at least a company of ex-Edmonton, Edmonton Fusiliers. Edmontonians also were in Kiska with the 24th Field Coy., R.C.E.

Capt. Edgar said, "we were disappointed and yet a little relieved to [illegible] Kiska. We said if they had chosen to stay and fight, the Japs could have put up quite a battle as they were strongly fortified there.

E. M. STEWART AND R. W. BUSHELL TO SEEK RE-ELECTION

Senior Members on Town Council

Interviewed by a large delegation of business and professional men of the town, E. M. Stewart and R. W. Bushell, senior members of the town council whose terms expire this week, consented to stand for re-election.

This will be good news to the citizens generally who feel that Mr. Stewart and Mr. Bushell have contributed largely to the excellent financial standing of the town and utilities and to the practical business methods now prevailing in the town's activities.

Nomination day this week will be located at Wiseton and the Northern Hardwoods. No nominations have been made to date, the high school stamp drive in the 4 rural C.P.R. districts at 7:30 p.m.

It is understood no steps contemplated other drive with the same vigor with which they started the project will be a credit to Vermilion and will make a fine start for the town falling down for the past several months on the stamp sale quota.

W. P. PILKIE MAKES PRE-CAMPAIGN APPEAL FOR SUPPORT OF RED CROSS

Drive Commences February 28th

W. P. Pilkie who will again be chairman of the drive for the Canadian Red Cross Society issues the following pre-campaign appeal for cooperation and support in the annual drive which is scheduled to commence on Feb. 28th

"The 1941 National Campaign of the Canadian Red Cross Society will soon be under way.

As you well know, the need for funds has never been more urgent. With each passing day the tempo of war steadily rises. Before us is the prospect of mounting casualty lists. The Red Cross alone of all services is equipped to meet the dark flood of human suffering.

The response of the people here last year showed clearly enough their realization of the vital work carried on by this service. The same generous support, the same willing assistance and excellent support is anticipated again.

It is possible that the campaign here will start a little earlier, probably a week or ten days in order to make good use of the present weather and roads.

Please make every effort to see that all efforts put on during the last week of this month and for all on March, are just for the Red Cross."

Thank You

W. P. Pilkie, Campaign Manager.

Students' Stamp Drive Off To A Good Start

$800.00 in First Few Days

The Vermilion high school war-time [illegible] got off to a successful start on Saturday of last week following [illegible] the buying public showed a great zeal and the thermometer in front of the post office rose rapidly to a point indicating sales of $800, and this sum has no doubt been further augmented since

Sales of stamps are being pressed this week as vigorously as ever and sales should be kept at a high rate to achieve the self-imposed quota of the students.

It is hoped that the work will be assisted at Wiseton and the Northern Hardwoods. Arrangements have been made to motor the high school stamp drive to the 4 rural C.P.R. districts at 7:30 p.m.

It is understood no steps contemplated other drive with the same vigor with which they started the project will be a credit to Vermilion and will make a fine start for the town falling down for the past several months on the stamp sale quota.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Proposal have been made for a five-year plan to British youths in the motor repair and servicing industry

Chinese Ambassador Wei Tao-Ming left Washington recently en route to Chungking for consultation.

Many of London's war reserve policemen aged 43 and over, are to be released for factory work.

A windmill built in Bramfield, Suffolk, England, when the Battle of Waterloo was fought is being dismantled for war scrap.

Since the war began, British railways have run 136,000 special troop trains and at present are running 1,600 "workers' specials" to factories daily.

The Anglo-Soviet Youth Friendship Alliance has adopted on behalf of British youth the Pravda home in Moscow, for Russian child victims of the war.

A 20-year-old girl who fought with the Yugoslav Partisans for two years, and who is credited with having killed 150 Germans, arrived in Cairo aboard a party of refugees.

Seed production in British Columbia is a thriving new industry, the department of agriculture reported, with output in 1943 valued at $910,000 compared with $48,620 the year before.

Four hundred and thirty of the 2,500 London forestry corps troops who returned to western Canada have been placed in jobs in logging camps and sawmills, selective service officials said.

GOOD ADVICE

If your efforts are criticised you must have done something worthwhile.

If someone calls you a fool, go into silence and meditation. He might be right.

If the world laughs at you, laugh right back. It's as funny as you are.

If you have tried to do something and failed, you are vastly better off than if you had tried nothing and succeeded.

BACK TO CIVILIAN LIFE

While waiting their discharge, soldiers at District Depot in Regina, Sask., are given a series of lectures and talks by business leaders, engage in discussion groups and are otherwise encouraged to prepare themselves for re-establishment in civil life.

Aircraft Ambulances

Flying Hospital Ship At Rivers Navigation School

Missions of mercy will be the chief role played by a Norseman aircraft recently converted at No. 5 Repair Depot, Winnipeg, into a flying ambulance, No. 2 Training Command Headquarters R.C.A.F. announced.

Identified by twin red crosses on its yellow fuselage, the sturdy aircraft ambulance will be based at No. 1 Central Navigation School, Rivers. Man. considered a central location for flying emergency cases from No. 2 Training Command's network of stations to expert medical and hospital care at Winnipeg.

Inauguration of the service means that the most isolated station in the Command is only a few flying hours from the highly efficient R.C.A.F. medical detachment at Deer Lodge Hospital in Winnipeg.

Although all units are expertly staffed with doctors and medical attendants, it is a reassuring thought for servicemen and servicewomen that the flying ambulance brings them within short range of the best in medical attention should they become emergency patients.

Planked with roomy doors, the twin hospital ship permits two stretcher cases to be comfortably placed aboard without removing the patients from stretchers. In addition, there are seats for medical attendants in the rear of the aircraft during the journey.

The value of the hospital ship become apparent when it is revealed in a recent survey over a six-month period that there were a total of 77 cases transported by aircraft not specially fitted for the purpose. According to the survey, 50 of these could be considered of an emergency nature, at least 30 being acute surgical problems. Of the 50 emergency cases, the majority provided a problem in transportation from the standpoint of medical care—a problem best solved by air transport.

No. 2 Training Command is not a pioneer in aircraft ambulance service, for other R.C.A.F. commands with an eye to continuous improvement in medical attention for personnel have already successfully tried the experiment. In short the R.C.A.F. at home is borrowing a leaf from the highly successful air ambulance service in vogue on the battlefronts.

The 1944 production goal for eggs in Canada has been set at 387.5 million dozen, or an increase of 10 per cent. over 1943.

Basic training of an army dog takes about two months.

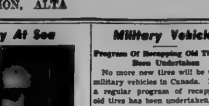
Receive Awards For Bravery At Sea



H. H. JENKINS E. GRIFFITH J. P. MACDONALD

Flying the Maple Leaf house flag, vessels of the Canadian National Steamships ply in dangerous waters and during the war years several of these craft have fallen victims to enemy bombers and submarines. In time of emergency seamen need courage and skill and Canadians in the Merchant Navy have established a proud record by their actions under conditions described in official citations as those of "agony."

Three officers and a seaman of the Canadian National Fleet were included in the King's New Year Honour List. The officers are Chief Engineers Edwin Griffith, John Paul MacDonald and Henry Hubert Jenkins who became officers of the Order of the British Empire; and the seaman, Able Seaman Claude Freeman, who has been awarded the British Empire Medal.

Mr. Griffith participated in two events, the first being on a Canadian National ship bombed by Japanese in Penang, the second the torpedoing of a company ship in a Caribbean harbor. At Penang he had to effect repairs and get under way after the ship had suffered fifty holes from strafing and was Listing badly. In the second instance Mr. Griffith supervised temporary repairs sufficient to float a company ship to dry dock after a torpedo had struck. Mr. Griffith, a native of Carnarvon, Wales, has been in the service with the C.N.S.S. His home is in Montreal.

Mr. MacDonald was chief engineer of a passenger steamer torpedoed in July.

Protein in Alfalfa

Also Contains Vitamins For Young Growing Cattle

Because of its high protein content, nearly one pound of which is digestible, alfalfa assumes a position of importance more than ever before, says A. G. Kuch, Dominion Experimental Station, Scott, Sask. Not only is it rich in digestible protein, but it contains large and appreciable amounts of vitamins for young growing animals. "Alfalfa," he says, "thrives on almost any kind of soil that has good drainage and is not too acid. It seems to do especially well on the lighter loam and clay soils in north-central Saskatchewan.

JESUS FEEDS THE MULTITUDES

Golden text: I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall not hunger, and he that believeth on me shall never thirst. John 6:35

Mark 6:35-7; 8:1-10. Devotional Reading: John 6:27-35.

Mark 6:35. And when the day was now far spent, his disciples came unto him, and said, The place is desert, and now is the day far spent: 36 Send them away, that they may go into the country and villages round about, and buy themselves bread to eat: for he answered and said unto them, Give ye them to eat. And they say unto him, Shall we go and buy two hundred shillings' worth of bread, and give them to eat? 38 And he saith unto them, How many loaves have ye? go and see. And when they knew, they say, Five, and two fishes. 39 And he commanded them that all should sit down by companies upon the green grass. 40 And they sat down in ranks, by hundreds, and by fifties. 41 And he took the five loaves and the two fishes, and looking up to heaven, he blessed, and brake the loaves; and he gave to the disciples to set before them; and the two fishes divided he among them all. 42 And they all ate, and were filled. 43 And they took up broken pieces, twelve basketfuls, and also of the fishes. 44 And they that ate the loaves were five thousand men.

Mark 8:1. In those days, when there was again a great multitude, and they had nothing to eat, he called unto him his disciples, and saith unto them, I have compassion on the multitude, because they continue with me now three days, and have nothing to eat: 2 and if I send them away fasting to their home, they will faint on the way; and some of them are come from far. 4 And his disciples answered him, Whence shall one be able to fill these men with bread here in a desert place? And he asked them, How many loaves have ye? And they said, Seven. And he commandeth the multitude to sit down on the ground; and he took the seven loaves, and having given thanks, he brake, and gave to his disciples, to set before them; and they set them before the multitude. 7 And they had a few small fishes: and having blessed them, he commanded to set these also before them. And they ate, and were filled: and they took up, of broken pieces that remained over, seven baskets. 9 And they were about four thousand: and he sent them away.

Military Vehicles

Program Of Scrapping Old Tires Has Been Undertaken

No more new tires will be used by military vehicles in Canada. Instead, a regular program of recapping of old tires has been undertaken, giving a highly satisfactory service to Army vehicles.

The rubber trends up the bogie wheels and the pads of tanks used to be discarded before the Army instituted a program of restoration. Now, wheels and pads can be recapped and restored to service with a minimum of delay and cost.

DEAL WITH GERMANY

The U.S. Army and Navy Journal said that suggestion was made at the Teheran conference that Russia, Great Britain and the United States each garrison one-third of Germany in the period of military control following the defeat of the Reich.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

DIPLOMA FOR MISS PEPPER

By MILTON WRIGHT

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

As usual, on a Wednesday evening, Jennie Pepper strolled toward Elmer Wappers filling station. When she saw Elmer holding the nozzle to the tank of a waiting car, she slowed her steps. She must not arrive at the wrong moment—everything must go smoothly. For this, although Elmer knew it not, was the night that he would ask her to marry him —and she would refuse.

For months she had been looking forward to this evening—ever since the first of the weekly lessons in "How to Win Your Man" had arrived in the mail. "What marvelous lessons they had been! Who would have believed that the Institute of Practical Romance could know so much about men? And how sound had been its instructions, not content with merely explaining, but detailing just she select some unsuspecting man upon whom to practise.

Poor Elmer! After all, was it quite fair to lead him on? Perhaps not, but wasn't everything fair in love and war? Besides, this would be her last exercise. After this evening she would be ready to start her real campaign, and she would need the experience gained by all those work she had done on Elmer.

It seemed like fate, the way one had followed another. Even the way that stunning picture in the Sunday rotogravure of C. Proctor Bassingwell, the best dressed man in the state. Then Bassingwell himself, looking every bit as handsome and aristocratic as the picture, stopping at Elmer's for gas the very next evening. She had identified him at once, had known just what to do to the only man with whom she could be completely happy.

And last, the day after that, the advertisement that fairly shouted at her, "How to Win Your Man"!

From that day on she had seen C. Proctor Bassingwell again. She had not dared to risk his seeing her, for she must impress him from the start. Courtship always proceeded more satisfactorily, the Institute maintained, in cases of love at first sight.

The car at the pump had now driven away, and Jennie quickened her pace. Elmer smiled as she approached—not the glad smile he used to have, but only a polite smile. Still, it was a smile.

"Hello, Elmer," she called.

Elmer waved a gasoline-soaked rag. Jennie shuddered. Hand holding would make a proposal easier, but a hand as black as Elmer's now was would be out of the question. She sighed.

Elmer misinterpreted the shudder and the sigh. "Hot feeling so good, Jennie?" he asked. "Probly some thing you ate."

"No, it isn't that. I'm just lonesome and blue."

"Too bad. Maybe you need tonic much."

"No, it's feeling so alone. No one to care for me. No one to share my dreams." She paused. According to the Institute, this should have been Elmer's cue to suggest himself as the solution to her problems. Elmer, however, merely looked embarrassed.

She could not stop now. She must receive a lesson she proposed before the diploma of the Institute could be hers. Then on to the conquest of C. Proctor Bassingwell. If Elmer were slow at taking hints, she must be more direct. "Elmer," she said softly, "you like me, don't you?"

"Sure," he replied. "Why not?"

"Very, very much?"

"Sure."

She must make it still easier for him to put the question he seemed too overcome to utter. "Elmer, why don't you ask me to marry you?"

Scarcely could she credit her ears as she heard his reply: "Well I'll tell you, Jennie. You know how I used to think you were just about perfect. But lately, I don't know. In the last two or three months you're seemed changed—like a woman of the world or something. We wouldn't be happy with each other. No, Jennie, I couldn't ask you."

"You mean you don't want to ask me?"...

"Well —"

"And I wouldn't have yet if you did ask me."

They glared at each other. A siren sounded close beside them. They turned to see a low-swung sports roadster that had glided up to the pump. Behind the wheel sat C. Proctor Bassingwell. "Break it up!" he barked at Elmer. "Let me have ten gallons." He turned to Jennie, raising his hat, and asked, "Is this fellow bothering you?"

Face to face with her dream man at last, Jennie could find no words. A lump rose in her throat. She gulped it down. The movement might well be mistaken for a silvery, feminine sob. Bassingwell slid from the seat of his car and held the door open. "Step in," he said, "I'll take you away from here."

Elmer dropped the gasoline hose and stepped forward. "Oh, no you don't!" he shouted.

"Ho!" The Bassingwell voice was low and resonant.

"Ho! And if you don't get back in that car, I'll bust you one on the nose."

"Come," said Bassingwell to Jennie. "The sooner we get away the better."

Action, not words, was now in order. Elmer swung his fist, but Bassingwell's head slipped aside ever so slightly to the left. The Bassingwell fist shot forward. Elmer knew no more.

When Elmer opened his eyes he felt strangely comfortable. His head was cradled in Jennie's arm. She was gently wiping his forehead with a dripping sponge. C. Proctor Bassingwell was saying, "It is best, Jennie," whispered Elmer, "I wish I had asked you to marry me."

"Are you talking! of now, Elmer?"

"Yes. Will you?"

"I will." After a silence Jennie added, "Promise me something, Elmer."

"Sure, Jennie. Anything."

"Promise me you won't enroll tomorrow for a correspondence course in the Institute of the Manly Art of Self Defense."

SELECTED RECIPES

LIQUID YEAST FOR BREAD MAKING

Prepare liquid yeast as follows: Measure 2 cups sifted flour and blend with a little cold water until smooth. Pour over this 16 cups of boiling water, and stir the flour and water thoroughly. Add 4 cups of finely mashed potatoes, 1 cup of sugar, and ½ cup of salt. Let cool until lukewarm then add 2 Royal Yeast Cakes, which have been dissolved previously in a little lukewarm water. Place this mixture in a warm place, not hot, and let covered over night. Use a vessel sufficiently large to allow the liquid to rise to about one-fifth of its volume.

The liquid yeast may be used 6 hours after preparing, but the best results are obtained if it is allowed to stand 12 hours before using.

Liquid yeast may be kept for a week in a cool place and used from day to day as required.

White Bread (4 Loaves) Made With Liquid Yeast

4 cups liquid yeast
1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons butter (or lard)
10 cups warm sifted flour

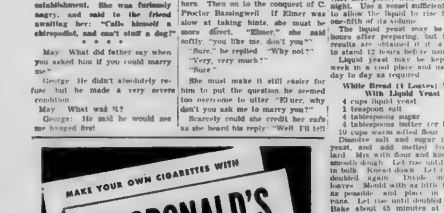
Dissolve salt and sugar in liquid yeast, and add melted butter or lard. Mix with flour and knead to a smooth dough. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Knead down lightly and let double again. Divide into four loaves. Mould with as little handling as possible and place in greased bread pans. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake about 45 minutes at 350 degrees F.

CHANGED THE WORDING

Travellers from Germany say the progressive intensity of the R.A.F.'s air raids on Berlin is reflected even in the way Berliners tell each other goodnight.

Early in the war they wished one another "a bombless night."

Now the expression commonly used is "Bleib Uebrig," which freely translated means "hope you survive."



RENDERS CONSTRUCTIVE COMMUNITY SERVICE

Local Lumber Dealers Supply Modern Architectural Plans For Home And Farm Buildings

(One of a series of articles about your community lumber merchant by F. C. Pickwell, well-known western newspaper writer)

Canada has made an enviable record for food production to meet essential requirements of our own and the united nations' armies over seas. Developments on the home front in this respect have formed a harmonious counterpart of the valiant services rendered by the navy, army and air force. This co-operative spirit in meeting urgent war needs has won the praise and admiration of allied countries.

The solution of these food problems brought about important changes in agricultural policy throughout Western Canada. Two outstanding advances were made by an intensified demand for the proverbial bacon and eggs. The first was the part the lumber firms have been indispensable at home and abroad. The result is that more people are now raising hogs and poultry than at any time in prairie history,—and on a fairly profitable basis.

Canadian bacon has won an established place in the British market. There is no reason to anticipate any serious decrease in demand during the post-war years, providing the element of quality is maintained. That is an essential in all our food exports and, when conditions end, we must be in a position to meet inevitable competition from countries now over-run by the enemy. Quality will be more important than ever before.

The handling and processing of eggs for export purposes has been one of the major revolutionary developments in Western Canada, resulting from the war. When submarine marauders were taking a heavy toll it became necessary to economize wherever possible in shipping space. That led to dehydration of certain food products. New egg-powder plants were established in Regina, Saskatoon and Edmonton. The powder was first shipped abroad in large barrels, but more recently has been packaged in one-pound cartons. One of the keys to a more efficient eggs to keep these modern plants busy.

This innovation is likely to have a marked influence in the poultry and egg business. Reduced to powdered form, and most of the heavy moisture removed, export marketing will be simplified and broadened. Stabilized on a greater extent than ever before, farmers will doubtless be encouraged to enlarge their equipment and specialize in poultry more extensively.

These developments naturally intensified demands on community lumber yards throughout the west. This trend would seem to have been anticipated by the dealers for they were in a position to collaborate constructively with farmers anxious to increase or modernize their poultry and stock production facilities, thus insuring profitable results.

The community lumber dealers were not only able to help materially all urgent needs for lumber and supplies for additional building, but could go much further in the matter of constructive service. Backed by their western associates in architectural department they had established and had available useful studs of the most practical and economical designs for farm buildings and poultry houses. The elements for facilitating in the British Columbia were borne in mind when the plans were drafted.

Through this service it was possible to supply rural customers at reasonable cost whatever was required in the way of detailed plans for large or small types of buildings. These provided alternatives, depending on how extensively farming and others wished to develop this branch of agricultural industry, which has made enormous strides within the last two or three years.

It might be pointed out that this community service naturally would not be possible if the local lumber merchant had to rely wholly on his own initiative. He is not a technically trained draftsman. But it has been made possible through the fact that the lumber trade, as a whole, its dealers in western Canada, is buildings. Detailed plans have been drafted for the exclusive use of community dealers servicing the public. The suggestions made are all low-cost ideas, based mainly on the need for economy in construction. Many of the smaller buildings detailed can be erected with short-length lumber pieces, and planned with such minuteness that they may be erected by farmers during quiet periods. This is a meritorious service.

The illustrated features covering hog and poultry houses in this story are typical of many other plans now available. These are western types as approved by the department of agriculture, and provide warm, dry and well ventilated quarters. This is a community service created by your local lumber dealer.

V.S.A. STUDENTS TO HOLD GET-TOGETHER

The Alumni Association of the Vermilion school of agriculture is planning to hold a V.S.A. get-together and dance in the Masonic hall in Edmonton on Friday March 3. It is expected that quite a number of graduates of the school from the Vermilion district will attend the function.

Laurie Bladen of Chauvin is the president of the Alumni, Edith Bladen is vice-president and Peter Wylie of Vermilion is the secretary treasurer.

SERENITY PREVAILS AT RATEPAYERS' MEETING

Mayor Morrison gave a general review of town affairs for the past year, touching on plant reserve fund and its purpose, and also advocated a similar fund for the town itself; he explained the setup in regard to electrical energy consumed at the C. W. A. C. barracks, saying that a certain amount was purchased at wholesale rates from the Canadian Utilities by the town and retailed to the barracks; the changes in the garbage collection system was reviewed.

The Mayor also advocated that a definite and progressive plan of public works regarding sidewalks and roads be drawn up by the council as a whole and carried out by the public works committee. He further thought that the cemetery should certainly be turned over to a board of directors and the by-law governing the charges of burials on the town be amended.

In closing his remarks Mr. Morrison stated that the days of dictatorial powers was over and he thanked the members of the town council for their co-operation, Mr. Part and Mr. Heck both and Mr. Wiebe for their efficient service.

Chairman Tom Taylor dealt with school board matters, drawing attention to the bank balance and stating that it was larger than expected due to the fact that some repairs budgeted for had not been carried out. He expected that salaries would be higher this year as two teachers had been added to the high school staff and commercial subjects were now being taught. The expense of this teacher was shared with the large school divisions. The public school was finally paid for, and he had hopes of some expenditure and shop work in the near future.

Discussion on school matters led to the following motion being passed: "That this meeting request the school board to go into the matter of the possible abolishment with the Vermilion school division, with a view to ascertaining the advantages to the children of the town and district, and that the information be given to the ratepayers."

Reports regarding school attendances and school costs per pupil were given by Principals L. H. Bassard and F. W. Walker. Each paid tribute to the co-operation of the teaching staff and to the school board. Mr. Bassard of the high school also advocated a full time janitor for the schools, his work instead of just devoting a half day daily to this work, stating that additional courses could be taught if this was done.

The meeting adjourned at 11:50 p.m.

AN OLD DEBT WIPED OUT —

In connection with the comment made upon the payment of $3500 as a compromise settlement of the Government's claim against the town covering a long-outstanding indebtedness of over $5100 for old age pensions, etc. The reason why it was not budgeted for appears to be that about a year ago Mayor Morrison opened negotiations with the department looking to an adjustment on a compromise basis. He interviewed Ottawa but the department declined... and stated it might consider $4000 subject to the 1941 account for old age pensions being paid. 1942 had been settled for but 1941 was outstanding. An interview with department officials followed and the Mayor then offered $2500 and the 1943 payment. This offer was eventually accepted and a claim which had its origin some 16 years ago was wiped out at a saving to the ratepayers of over $1400. The adjustment was reached long after the taxes for 1943 had been levied.

Among the assets of the E. L. & P. department is an item of $965. due from the town. This also is a very old matter. Some differences arose between the town and the department prior to 1939 and in that year, voted to sue or service to the school of agriculture. The council had practically written this account off but the claim was revived by the town under Mayor Robinson and in 1937 or 1938 a decision from the Council interviewed the Government with respect to its claims against the town of then nearly $16,000. The Government agreed to eliminate the sanatorium account or over $3000, the town agreeing to being given a credit for the 1943 owing to the plant, thus clearing the indebtedness to about $4000. It was assumed then that the town pay the balance of the above account (now outstanding by annual instalments of $500. These payments were not kept up. Having however been given credit for this item by its then adjustment, the amount became an indebtedness of the town to the plant. It will no doubt be paid this year with the last remnant of age-old liabilities wiped out

PPESERVES RATIONS INCREASE

OTTAWA.—Value of D coupons for preserves will be doubled, on and after February 3, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announces.

Because of the improved supply position housewives will now be able to purchase 20 fluid ounces of canned fruit per coupon instead of the original 10 fluid ounces.

Housewives will also be able to purchase 40 ounces of maple syrup, and corn coupons will now buy a gallon. This increase is effective until May 31, after which the quantity will revert to 24 ounces per coupon.

Likewise the ration of maple sugar is to be increased from half a pound to two pounds per coupon during the whole year.

Ration of jam, jelly, maple butter and honey butter increases from 6 to 12 fluid ounces, and molasses from 20 fluid ounces (one pint) to 40 fluid ounces (1 quart). Coupon value of corn, cane or any blended table syrup has been increase from 14 to 15 ounces, but cranberry sauce remains at a coupon value of 15 fluid ounces.

The alternative purchase of half a pound of sugar per coupon is unchanged

Many thanks are extended to Mrs. P. Long for donation of crib quilt and to the Busy Bees for donating 2 quilt tops.

The following is an extract from an article written by the Hon. Mr. Justice H. H. Shaw, K.C., Chairman, National Executive council

"Nothing in this war has been asked of Red Cross women workers in Canada that has not been accomplished in a very wonderful and enthusiastic way. I know they will mourn the dear friends of these "last months" in the same manful-ful manner, but in watching the season's greetings to all of our boys and co-workers this year I feel that it would not be a bad idea for us all, to be humble, to include in our New Year resolutions "I Will MEET THE SACRIFICES OF OUR FORCES IN BATTLE BY MAKING EVERY GIFT OF WAR SERVICE I MEAN AT HOME."

IT COULD HAVE HAPPENED HERE!

Slowly, angrily, the sergeant major paced around the butt of his cigarette in the ash tray and began to pack his kit.

Twenty years in the Army and now this. He might have known when the "Old Man" was so friendly that something was going to happen, but this was too much. Except for Army tradition he'd seriously consider "going over the top". Even that would be better than the task to which he had been assigned—drill instructor to 500 recruits.

With a mumbled curse he picked up his kit and quietly left quarters. It was more than an hour before rain time, but he hadn't the nerve to stay around. Soon the word would be on conversing his posting and life would be unbearable for the sergeant major.

A month passed—a month in which our drill master learned that the task to which he had been assigned wasn't really so bad. The members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps were quick to learn and how, as they marched in the parade square to await inspection by the Officer Commanding, they presented a smart appearance in their trim khaki uniforms.

BELIEVE IT, OR NOT

When payday arrived in Montreal recently, an expert Morse operator employed by the Canadian National Telegraphs collected exactly nothing. His wages were swallowed up in payroll deductions for income tax, unemployment insurance and the final payment for a $5c0 Victory Bond.

A film has been produced for troops in Canada and Overseas in which there is a collection of sonns made famous in this war.

Standing in front of the parade the sergeant major gave his charges one last word of warning

"In a minute or so", he began, "the Brigadier will arrive. I've wasted a lot of time on you and I want to see results. If one of you so much as bats an eyelash during inspection I'll hang your hide on a fence to dry."

A staff car, flying the O.C.'s pennant crunched over the gravel driveway and came to a halt. The Officer Commanding and his party alighted.

The chirping of birds in the hedges bordering the parade square was the only sound as the sergeant major approached the official party and saluted.

The Brigadier returned the salute, smiled, then in a voice audible to every one of the 500 girls on parade said, "And how is my brother Superior today?"

Veteran soldiers might have stood without a visible sign that they had heard the quip but not the girls who had been in uniform but a month. A few spontaneous chuckles drifted from the ranks then all 500 girls roared with laughter as a very very red faced sergeant major stood speechlessly by

That was almost two years ago, but the sergeant major has never been allowed to forget.

Other soldiers of similar rank may be greeted by the girls in khaki with a cheery "Good morning, Sergeant Major", but not the heathens drill master.

He rates a greeting which, when given in public, always brings raised eyebrows from those who do not know the story, for the girls, with a twinkle in their eye, salute him with "Hiya Mom".

VEGREVILLE SCHOOL DIVISION HOLD ORGANIZATION MEETING

The organization meeting for 1944 of the Board of Trustees of Vegreville School Division was held on Friday, January 21, with all trustees present.

The Board elected the following: Chairman—S. Hinton, Mannville
Vice-Chairman — T. Henderson, [illegible]

Finance Committee—S. Hinton, L.S. Cole
Property Committee—T. Henderson, T. Dalinsky
Alternate signing authority—S. J. Pawsyko.

Minutes of previous meeting and Treasurer's report read and accepted.

The Superintendent reported on the following matters:

1. Plans of school consolidation in the province and possibilities within the Division for future consideration.

2. Teacher situation: all schools operating but no replacements available.

The Board directed that need insurance be transferred to Lake Gilroy school.

The Board will ask the Council of the M.D. of Minburn to receive a committee of the Divisional Board to discuss the possibility of the M. D. instituting some form of health service in that part of the Municipality not now receiving such service.

Trustee Cole expressed the sympathy of the Board to Trustee Hinton in his bereavement.

Accounts and correspondence were dealt with and direction given on matters therein.

The Board adjourned to meet on Feb. 28th. Vegreville Observer.

India

IT IS UNFORTUNATE that in the minds of many people India is associated with stories of internal controversy and anti-British sentiment. As is often the case sensational events have received widespread publicity, while less spectacular, but equally important facts are not drawn to our attention. There has also been, from time to time, adverse criticism from outside of the Empire of Britain's method of dealing with what is known as the Indian problem. In spite of lack of co-operation by some sections of the population India as a whole has proven to be whole-heartedly behind the Empire in the fighting of the war and has contributed much both in fighting men and in war materials. Indian troops have fought with the Eighth Army in Africa and in Italy, and between them and the British and Canadian soldiers there has developed a fine spirit of comradeship and of mutual admiration. We are told that India's volunteer army now numbers two millions and that three hundred thousand of her troops have served overseas. In the African campaign five V.C.'s were won for the Indian Army four of them by native officers.

War Production is increasing

The Royal Indian Air Force had by 1941 reached four times its original strength and it has continued to expand at a rapid pace. It is interesting to note in this connection that members of the Royal Indian Air Force have been trained in Canada under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan and that a number of them have been stationed in the West. They, too, have shown great enthusiasm for the service and determination to help in bringing the war to a successful conclusion. India's war production has increased steadily and it is stated that orders are met to the value of fifty million dollars a month. Among her most important products is textiles, and war orders in this industry were estimated at nearly six hundred million dollars for 1942. Other essential industries produce armaments, chemicals, guns, shells, explosives and many other articles. Eighty thousand surgical instruments have been shipped to Russia from India. Interesting developments have recently taken place in the aluminum industry there, where virgin aluminum was produced for the first time early in 1943. This is now becoming an important factor in the world supply of this vital material.

People Prefer To Be Peasants

India has a population of four hundred million people. Although great progress has been made in building up industry there, a large part of the population is made up of peasants, many living at a very low level of subsistence. The development of railways, irrigation systems, and public health services has improved the lot of these people enormously, and efforts have been made to interest them in working in industries as a means of raising their living standards. It has been found, however, that they are greatly attached to their traditional way of life and that it will take considerable time to educate them to change it. According to a study published recently by the Royal Bank of Canada, many interesting facts concerning India have been presented. It is estimated that at the present time there are only about fifty thousand British civilians living in India out of a total population of one hundred and fifty million people. Of government services, only fifty-five hundred are British, and British investments there represent about eight hundred million dollars, which is considerably less than that invested in Brazil, Argentine and other foreign countries. There is religious freedom in India, and in all British India women have the franchise, have been elected to the legislature and have held cabinet posts. Britain has promised India complete self-government after the war, with no reservations as to its remaining a part of the British Empire, and it is to be hoped that it will take its place at the side of Canada and the other British Dominions of the Commonwealth in the years to come.

Surgical Glue
Blood Of Patient Can Be Used To Stop Bleeding
The edges of a wound can be glued together with a cement concocted from the patient's own blood, the technical journal Surgery, Gynecology and Obstetrics disclosed in Philadelphia. The method was devised by a woman surgeon Dr Mashtet K Kotsis. It is simple. The glue can also be used to make a skin graft patch when the edges of a surface wound won't meet, and 48 hours after they were planted the grafts are as much a part of the body as surrounding, normal skin. Even more vital, the experiments indicate that the new glue can be used to close and patch gaps in such organs as liver and kidneys, where large punctures often have been fatal. Newsweek

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—I was unable to get to my local store on the day when my butter coupons were to expire so I phoned Mr. Retailer and placed an order for some butter. The next day I called at the store to get my butter but the grocer would not honor the expired coupons, though I contended that I had placed an order for the butter when the coupons were valid. Was he right?

A.—The retailer was right. The purchase of rationed goods is not complete until coupons are surrendered. Retailers must not be penalized for the time of purchase and may not accept coupons that are invalid.

—o—

Q.—Does the price chart showing cuts of beef and the prices in the butcher shops include only the best cuts?

A.—No. Charts should cover all grades of beef offered for sale in that particular town.

—o—

Q.—My grocer allowed me to have only one can of vegetables when canned vegetables were made available to consumers a short time ago? Shall I have to wait for a long time?

A.—Retailers must exercise every care to make certain that such supplies as they have available for sale are distributed fairly and distributed among all. The retailers are expected to distribute their supplies in such a manner that they provide for the needs of all their customers. The number of cases a retailer decides to stock depends on his sales.

—o—

Q.—How can I secure information in regard to making over used adult underwear for children's wear?

A.—Write your nearest Ration Board Office to the Consumer Branch, Arcade Building, 196 Yonge Street, Toronto. They will be glad to provide such information.

—o—

Q.—I usually pay 35c to have my shoes repaired. Recently on a few weeks ago I was charged 55c and more recently 65c for the same thing in the same shoe repair shop. Can this repair shop raise prices in this manner?

A.—They certainly cannot. If 35c is the price he cannot raise it. The price for such services is based on the price charged by him during the basic period, September 15th to October 11th, 1941. Thank you for reporting this infraction.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' Money" on the Ration Book (the book in which you keep ration of your ration prices) mentioning the name of this paper to Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Regina, Saskatchewan.

Ship's History

A Fine Ship Of Royal Navy Transferred To Canada.

"Fortune Favors the Brave" is the motto of the recently-commissioned R.C.N. destroyer H.M.C.S. Chaudiere. It is an inheritance that came with that fine fighting ship, along with an impressive list of battle honors when she was transferred from the Royal Navy, in which she was known as H.M.S. Hero.

Launched in 1936 she is the sixth of her line. At the second Battle of Narvik she chased enemy destroyers up the Rombaks fjord. After a few rounds fired at one of the German ships beached just above the narrows she proceeded, in company with H.M.S. Kimberley, to the head of the fjord where she found three damaged enemy ships alongside.

As her boarding parties went away in whalers one of the enemy ships, which had been scuttled, heeled over and sank, another was set on fire by the stern and the third one, the "Hans Lodeman," was boarded and taken in tow, being replaced by the White Ensign. Salvage not being practicable, however, the Hero sank the ship with a torpedo.

In June, 1941, she picked up survivors from the minelayer "Latonia" and the tanker Empire Midland in Atlantic convoy. Then, braving the big guns of the enemy battleship to launch a torpedo attack.

Her list of battle honors includes Narvik, Malaspan, Cape Spada, Creta, Tobruk and Berlo and if "Fortune Favors the Brave" it is hoped to add still more battle honors to her impressive record in her new commission in the Royal Canadian Navy.

With The Troops

Odd Bits Of Information About The Armed Forces

One of the greatest sources of interest and pleasure to Canadian soldiers returning from battlefront areas are "overseas" flights used at night. They are uncommon in war time.

Members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps who have completed 18 months' service may now wear the green, scarlet and royal blue ribbon of the Canadian Volunteer Service Medal.

When a silver maple leaf is attached to the recently approved Canadian Volunteer Service Medal, it indicates the wearer has served outside Canada in some branch of the service.

Parcels addressed to troops overseas are still giving postal authorities much trouble. Many of them contain forbidden materials or are poorly packed, and are therefore delayed or withdrawn from delivery.

The Reserve Army in Canada is still keenly active, with units and personnel training regularly. Summer camps are again proposed for this year.

Job Of Gamekeep England Against Napoleon Invasion Is Abolished

A job that once was the most important in all England has been abolished.

For 140 years the job had been handed down from man to man. The last to hold it was one Gamekeeper Barton, who was paid £30 a year.

With his death municipal authorities in Rye, England, decided it was safe enough to abolish the job it was the job of standing on the cliffs and watching for Napoleon to cross the Dover strait to invade England.

Well-informed British sources are reported to believe—correctly—this confirmation—that Napoleon has probably called off the attack.

HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST
NATION WIDE CAMPAIGN
Appointment of Joseph Lichstein of Saskatoon, Sask., as chairman of the national health committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada, has been announced by W. F. Reid of Calgary, president of the organization. Mr. Reid said that the new chairman would immediately organize the Junior Chamber's nation-wide campaign against venereal disease, in collaboration with the voluntary effort of the Health League of Canada and the official program of the federal and provincial governments.
Mr. Lichstein's appointment and his acceptance of the post, which is a voluntary one, was received with satisfaction in Health League and government circles. A C.N.R. Express employee, he has devoted much leisure to public welfare and Junior Chamber projects and headed the first Junior Chamber campaign against venereal disease in Saskatoon three years ago.
The venereal-disease education program is the major wartime project of the Junior Chamber of Commerce since its conference at Niagara Falls early last summer, Mr. Reid reported.
Member groups across Canada will participate in a campaign to be launched with observance of Social Hygiene Day on February 2.
THE HARDEST BATTLES
The New York Sun repeats the warning issued by Lord Halifax, British Ambassador, who said that "it is going to be much easier to defeat the Fascist forces of Germany and Japan than to root out the philosophy which gave them being." It also fears that "the hardest battles still have to be fought, not with planes, tanks and guns, but with schoolbooks."

Oil Shipments To Spain Halted By United States

WASHINGTON.—The United States has suspended all oil shipments from the Carribean area to Spain for February. It was learned on excellent authority.

The step is understood to be part of a general reconsideration by the United States government of Spain's over-all position with regard to the war.

Spain has been allowed an extremely limited amount of fuel oil and gasoline from the Caribbean area, practically her only source of supply. The agreed quotas supply most essential needs but make it virtually impossible for Spain to gather any reserves.

Matters involved in reconsideration of Spain's position regarding the war include that country's failure to release Italian ships interned in her ports, to control adequately German agents operating out of her territory and reduce export of war materials to Germany.

The sudden step on Spain's part was the negotiation recently of an agreement with Germany providing 400,000,000 pesetas credit (about $40,000,000) to the Nazis.

The credit was accorded Germany as payment for debts incurred during the Spanish civil war.

This was a severe blow at Allied efforts to reduce strategic German imports, since Spain's trade of the past months Germany has received little from the Peninsular in the Nazis' lack of goods.

The most important material the Germans import from Spain is wolfram, ore from which tungsten is derived. The Allies have adequate supplies but have made vigorous efforts to prevent German acquisition of the vital metal, used to make armor-piercing steel.

The current action follows British protests to Madrid over activities of German spies and saboteurs alleged to be operating in the Spanish territory, especially near Gibraltar.

Study Association Of Trained Foresters Asked By Society

MONTREAL.—The Canadian Society of Forest Engineers, winding up its 36th annual meeting, called on the early demobilization of trained foresters from the armed forces to provide supervisory personnel for post-war forest projects.

The society also went on record as favoring the calling of a national forestry congress by the Dominion government soon after the end of the war.

Other resolutions asked the Dominion government to take an inventory of the forest resources of Canada and expand the use of aerial photography for the purpose, and urged expenditures for the investigation and supervision of forest insect attacks.

Heavy Bombing Of Europe Said To Be A Record

LONDON. — Thirty-one thousand tons of bombs—believed to be an all-time record for the period—were dropped on Hitler's Europe in January from the northern and Mediterranean theatres, an R.A.F. commentator said.

Twenty-thousand tons came from the Allied air forces in Britain, while planes in the Mediterranean theatre dropped 9,000 on Italy and more than 2,000 elsewhere in Europe, mostly the Balkans.

Some London air writers speculated that the 30,000 tons from Britain might in itself be a 25-day record but it was believed probable that figure was exceeded in July, when there were 11 heavy R.A.F. and six heavy United States raids on the continent, compared with a total of 13 heavy raids thus far in January.

The total estimates are necessarily rough because of incompleteness of reports and announcements on individual bomb loads.

The R.A.F. commentator said air operations supporting the Nettuno landings in Italy had prevented the Germans almost entirely from bringing up supplies and reserves in the daytime.

Recent Mediterranean Allied air casualties, including Nettuno, were "nicely under" one per cent of individual plane flights, he said.

Since Jan. 1 Allied planes in the Mediterranean have flown 29,000 sorties, 9,000 more than all those flown from Britain, with the minor exception of the coastal command. The hundred airfields were reported having two days of the Nettuno landing operations, against less than 100 formerly. Nine Germany planes were shot down for a loss of four Allied.

The commentator explained the German weakness as due to the fact that they have four times as many fighters on the western European front, trying to fight off the attacks from Britain, as they do in Italy, and that the quality of the fliers in western Europe is probably four times as good as the Nazis allotted to the Italian front.

IDLE FARM AREAS

Acreage Abandoned In Canada Shows Five Per Cent. Reduction

OTTAWA.—The Dominion bureau of statistics, which examines census of agriculture showed that the area of abandoned or idle farms in Canada in 1941 was 5,032,541 acres, compared with 5,289,166 in 1931, a reduction of five per cent.

The number of these farms in 1941 was 22,816, 219 fewer than in 1931. The value placed on the land was $22,290,114, compared with $36,450,378, and on buildings $5,890,988, compared with $6,358,346.

TAKES NEW POST

Air Marshal Coningham Has Assumed New Command In Britain

LONDON.—Air Marshal Sir Arthur Coningham, who directed British and United States air units based in northwest Africa in tactical operations in the Tunisian, Sicilian and Italian campaigns, has followed his old chief, Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, to Britain to head the R.A.F. second tactical air force.

Sir Arthur, former Middle East commander, is deputy to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied invasion chief.

In announcing Coningham's appointment, the air ministry disclosed he already had assumed his new command which is known as the Second Tactical Air Force of the R.A.F.

Britain's Mediterranean air units which Coningham left behind will be under the command since February, 1943, now are designated the R.A.F. No. 1 Tactical Air Force.

The tactical force is charged with close conjunction with ground forces while the strategic air force attacks objectives behind the immediate fighting fronts.

Argentina's Action Likely Closes Western Hemisphere To Axis Agents

WASHINGTON.—Official quarters here believed Argentina's break with the Axis would close the entire western hemisphere to Axis agents. Until January 26, Argentina had been the only American country still doing business with Germany and Japan.

In many respects, Argentina's action resembled that of Chile which did not sever relations until last January. In both instances the governments involved acted only after they had been taken to task by the United States.

In October, 1942, then Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles charged that both Argentina and Chile, by granting a haven to Axis spies, were stabbing their sister republics in the back. Chile broke off with the Axis three months later.

WORTH STUDYING

Manufacture Of Higher Percentage Of Farm Implements In Canada

OTTAWA. — Implement manufacturers should study the possibility of manufacturing a much higher percentage of Canada's farm equipment needs in Canada, the war expediture committee said in a report tabled in the House of Commons by Hughes Cleaver (Lib., Halton), Ella Grace.

"In view of our tremendous industrial development brought about by the war, and in view of the dominion's position which Canadian agriculture now holds with respect to food production, it is unthinkable that Canadian manufacturers should continue to supply only 38 per cent of the farm implements used in this country," said the report.

"Your committee is of the opinion that such an industrial expansion would fit in with our reconstruction policy and program."

Calls For United Nations Conference To Deal With Subject

LONDON.—Plans have been made for a United Nations conference to deal with cartels, Lord Woolton minister of reconstruction, disclosed in the house of lords.

The disclosure came after Lord Strabolgi, a Labor peer, warned that unless some provision was made the United Nations probably would find the leaders of Germany's monopoly finance trying to re-establish contacts with "their old friends in Britain and the United States even while the Allies were busy rounding up war criminals and disarming Germany.

POLISH DISPUTE

Russia Rejects Offer For Mediation By United States

WASHINGTON. — Soviet Russia politely but firmly rejected an offer by the United States to try to get Moscow and the Polish government at London on speaking terms again.

The Russians do not feel their reply said, that the situation has yet ripened to a point where the good offices of the United States could be used to advantage.

State Secretary Cordell Hull, who disclosed the Russian response at a press conference, reported it contained an expression of gratification for the United States action, which was made at the request of the Polish government.

The American note, presented in Moscow by Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, avoided making any proposal of mediation in the territorial dispute between Russia and Poland.

Peace Policy For The Empire Must Now Be Planned

LONDON.—The time has come for a joint effort by Britain and the dominions to work out an agreed plan for the future of inter-imperial relations, imperial foreign policy and imperial defence as the Empire will speak with one voice about the peace settlement and post-war organization of the Empire, the Earl of Listowel said here.

This should be the main task of the forthcoming conference of Empire ministers the Labor whip in the house of lords told fellow peers after Lord Halifax British ambassador to the United States said in a Toronto speech that unified Empire policies for defence and foreign affairs were essential to the Empire's future strength.

Lord Listowel noted also the desirability of regular co-operation as advocated by Prime Ministers Churchill Curtin and Hosuto and wondered what had been done to implement the British government's intentions in this regard. He was anxious particularly to know whether approaches had been made to the dominions and to foreign countries.

Viscount Samuel also raised the question of imperial relations. He said Commonwealth questions had a considerable bearing on Anglo-American relations and added that what he called British imperialism was a formidable obstacle to close and friendly understanding and co-operation between the United States and the United Kingdom.

Replying for the government, Viscount Cranborne, dominions secretary, said questions of an extremely complex character must be put into cold storage until the war was over and full attention could be given them.

Sees Great Need For A Livestock Policy In West

REGINA.—The destruction of livestock in European countries during this war intensified Canada's need for maintenance of a strong livestock population, said Prof. J. W. Grant MacEwan, professor of animal husbandry and director of the school of agriculture, University of Saskatchewan, in a dinner address in the King's hotel. Prof. MacEwan spoke to the community pasture managers of the province who had assembled in the city for a conference.

Maintenance of Canadian flocks and herds was of special importance in the light if the ravaged position of European livestock because of the length of time required to rehabilitate such livestock, Prof MacEwan said. He referred in particular to the destruction of herds in that part of Russia overrun by Germany, and the annihilation of Belgian horses in Belgium of pure-bred horses in France of black and white cattle in Holland, and of big herds in Denmark from which Britain obtained most of her bacon in pre-war years.

During this war the Canadian livestock population had increased, and western Canada had demonstrated a greater capacity for livestock production than many realized was possible. But the duration of food could be adequately arranged there would be need for all the food producers Canada could be raised in western Canada during the next 50 or 100 years Prof MacEwan said, basing the statement on the fact that even in peacetime, a large percentage of the population of the world was underfed.

Prof MacEwan emphasized the need for enduring livestock policies. Such a policy included a plan for the security of the people, domestic and foreign needs for food, and provision of work for a bigger population.

Such a lasting livestock policy led to a greater degree of diversification in the industry, involving more grass, better feed reserves, assurance of markets, and raising of the livestock classes of breeding in a proper relationship. To make the plan successful, the country should not make upon farm trade, or deny a just share of assistance to livestock producers.

Prof MacEwan then discussed the place of each class of livestock in post-war Canadian agriculture. He favored continued high production of dairy cattle and pigs, and possibility of great increase in sheep production, with a change in the beef cattle situation

Board of Trade Notes

The highest membership in the records of the board of trade are indicated from preliminary returns from the canvass now being energetically carried out by the various committees. Definite figures will be given next week.

The need of a large and energetic organization of this kind is clearly seen by all progressive business men and farmers.

The slippery condition of the river valley roads, both on the north and south sides was again brought up, and the Vermilion Valley M. D. and the town will be approached to keep sand or cinders on hill the road. This has been done several times this winter already but apparently has to be kept up.

The vice-president, Jas. D. Adam, was in the chair and welcomed Mr. Jim Pittrich, Searle Grain superintendent, who was introduced by Mr. Jory, and also Mr. Harry Elliott who was making his first appearance at a regular meeting of the board.

Members present.

Meeting next week on Wednesday at 12:30 noon.

Former Chatsworth Boy Dies At Toronto, Ont.

Michael Neuman of Toronto passed away in that city on January 16th, at the age of 29 years. He was a former Vermilion man living in the Chatsworth district from 1927 to 1936. He leaves his father and brother George on the farm at Chatsworth, and his mother and eight sisters in Toronto.

OBITUARY

MRS. JUANITA JEAN DOYLE

The sincere sympathy of many friends is extended to the family of the late Mrs. F. H. Doyle who passed away in the Lacombe hospital on Friday, January 28th following a lingering illness.

Born at Vermilion on March 3rd, 1912, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Graham Ganton of Union District.

On April 4th 1933 she was united in marriage to Thomas R. Doyle at Vermilion where they resided until 1936 when they moved to Camrose. They made their home there until 1942 when Mr. Doyle took over the Mobil oil station in Ponoka, and moved there with his family. While resident in Ponoka but a short time she deceased had gained many new friends who regret her passing.

She leaves to mourn her loss her loving husband and two children, Robert, age 10 years, and Judy, age 8 years; her parents Mr and Mrs. Graham Ganton of Vermilion; also eight sisters and three brothers. Mr. Doyle and her mother were at the bedside when she passed away.

Mrs. Doyle was an ardent Christian, and never failed to practice each principles through the four years of illness which she endured.

The funeral was held on Monday, January 10, from the Baptist church, Ponoka. The Rev. F. Ahrens conducted the service which was largely attended by relatives and friends.

The floral tributes were beautiful carrying a message of affection and sympathy to the mourners.

Among those sending offerings were Daddy, Bobby and Judy, Mother Father, brothers and sisters, Mildred, Howard, and family, Harvey, cousins and family; Bill and Lot Doyle, Mildred Tom and Marion Doyle, Miranda, Mrs Tomerman, Isobel and Gordon, Ponoka, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Watling ton, Mr. Whitmore, George Ekhoon (uncle) Mr. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lloyd, Ponoka; Mr. and Mrs. Chas Johnston, Ponoka, Mrs. Marjorie and Eleanor, Edmonton, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Lyons and family Ponoka C. B. Horsch and family, Camrose, Mr. and Mrs. J. Perkins and family, Camrose; Mr and Mrs Bernard Lloyd, Ponoka, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Beach and family, Ponoka; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Clarke and I. Ponoka, Bill and Elizabeth Peacock Ponoka, Mr and Mrs. L. G. Clapson sr., family, Camrose.

The pall bearers were Messrs Lloyd Lyons Clarence Lyons Jack Johnston Charles Johnston, John W. Peacock and Wm. T. Peacock.

Interment took place in Forest Home cemetery Ponoka Nelson's Funeral service had charge of arrangements.

Canadian Women's Army Corps personnel are now being trained as wireless operators for employment in fixed wireless stations.

Stage Door Canteen in New York is still inviolate to servicemen. None of the feminine members of the organization are allowed inside.

MILITARY WEDDING HELD IN R.C.A.F. CHAPEL, ROCKCLIFFE

DeFOREST—AMOS

All three services were represented at a wedding which took place at half past one o'clock on Friday, January 28, 1944, in the chapel at No. 7 Manning Depot, Rockcliffe, Ontario.

The bride was AW2 Margaret A. Amos, R.C.A.F., Women's Division, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Amos of Vermilion, Alberta, and the groom was Able Seaman LeRoy DeForest, R.C.N.V.R., Halifax, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. DeForest of Vancouver, Flight Lieut. Van Gorder officiated.

Given away by Section Officer Rainey, the bride was attended by AW2 Lillian Amos, R.C.A.F., (W.D.) of Ottawa and the best man was Sgt. Henry Bennett, C.M.S.C.

The chapel was beautifully decorated with dogwood for the occasion and as the bridal party left, members of the bride's squadron formed a guard of honor outside the chapel.

The bride and her attendant wore their uniforms. Following the service a reception was held in the W.C.A. Hostess House after which the happy young couple left for a honeymoon trip to New York.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(This paper does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents.)

Vermilion, Alta., Feb. 1, 1944.

Mr Editor:—

As a ratepayer I desire to draw to the attention of the ratepayers, to whom my mind was a small matter, taken up at the ratepayers meeting on Friday evening last.

During a discussion on power plant remuneration and duties of an employee, namely, Mr. Welsh, the first part was answered and the meeting informed that he received $50 per month. The superintendent then informed those present that Mr. Welsh was in fact a head man during his time on duty, and he had no responsibility. His such as shift engineer. This was to explain why he did receive more salary. But when the superintendent was interned that Mr. Welsh had been running the night engineer's shift for the past week and prior to that on other shifts as relief engineer at about half pay, this threw the whole pertinent off balance. He explained that he, as the superintendent, was responsible for anything that might happen in this case.

The steam was apparently still rising rapidly and the Superintendent stated that things were getting pretty tense, and he then recited an incident in which to prove Mr. Welsh unreliable. (He did not say whether he was there at the time it happened or it was reported to him.)

Now as for questions getting answered, I did not hear a question of that nature even hinted at during the whole evening. Public officials should be elected or paid sufficiently to give a detailed report of their stewardship and any question seeking further light on any particular point is in order and is quite personal.

For the aftermath of the meeting I have been informed by Mr. Welsh that he was called in by the superintendent and told that his services would not be required any longer, it being the wish of the board to get his wife's teaching ticket. From the road it looks like a pure case of spite. No doubt other excuses will be made by the officials in charge. If the action taken by the E.L. & P. Supt. in this matter is condoned by the E.L. & P. committee we approved by the council, then it is high time to start immediately and get two new members on our council board, who have at least an idea of justice and fair play.

Mr. Welsh has served the town for over 20 years and during this time has filled the positions of superintendent, engineer and chief electrician—Think it over Mr Ratepayer.

Another point that I am referring to, and it is not from what was said but from what was "not said". In the concluding remarks of the Mayor he made reference, that decided and opposing views had been expressed during the year, and from the inference in his remarks the division of harmony still exists.

Situations like this have arisen before and if freely on again will recause usually being from a small pressure group developing among the members. The result being stalemate with no co-operation and no progress; this has been the record of the past.

Under the circumstances it might be the better part of wisdom for the ratepayers to start on nomination day by obtaining candidates who will obtain co-operation on behalf of the town and its elected councillors, for then and then only will the ratepayer receive the benefits desired by the individual and collective pooling of their best thoughts and ideas in the town's best interest.

Mr. Ratepayer, if the foregoing is worthy of a second thought give it and act.

Yours,
D. a Live.

ELKS HALL RE-DECORATED

Contractor Frank (Tish) Welsh completed the interior decorating of the spacious Elks hall this week, and the Elks have received many congratulatory comments on the improved appearance of the building. The ceiling has been painted white, the walls and pillars cream with a black decorative strip along the bottom. The result reflects great credit on Mr. Welsh as the painter and on the Elks as owners of the building for seeing that it is kept in such fine shape.

Ronnie Barwick and Billie Pilsbury put on the finishing touches by tastefully decorating the orchestra stand.

SEAGULLS CHALLENGE TRANS-CANADA PLANE

NEW YORK — Recently a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane, after having been grounded for three days by bad weather, took off at La Guardia Field en route to Toronto, and immediately flew into a flock of about 100 seagulls. The pilot, Capt. W.D. Aitken, landed the plane safely and discovered that the de-icing equipment on the right wing had been damaged by some bird the plane had killed. On the following day, an anonymous bird lover called Bill Murree, T.C.A. station manager at Laguardia Field, and complained about the injury to the seagulls and suggested that something be done to prevent planes hitting birds.

Students Double Quota In War Stamp Drive

Over $2000 Raised to Date

Vermilion high school students who set out the first of this month to sell $1000 worth of war savings stamps, have more than doubled that figure in 10 days of active salesmanship. Their grand total on Wednesday at noon was $2015.

The entire plan was conceived and carried out by the students themselves and they deserve the highest praise for a worthy effort, successfully well carried out. They will continue their campaign for the remainder of the month and the same generous support for them in their efforts is asked of the public.

TWENTY RINKS PLAYING IN LADIES' BONSPIEL

Twenty rinks are participating in the ladies' bonspiel which started Wednesday morning and is scheduled to be wound up this Thursday night. Ten of the rinks are visitors coming from Edmonton, Vermeville, Mannville, Islay and Lloydminster.

Unfortunately the start of the bonspiel was the signal for a drop in the temperature, Wednesday and Thursday being the two coldest days so far this winter. A banquet was tendered the visitors at the Boston cafe on Wednesday evening at which 81 ladies were present. A full report as to the rinks will appear in next week's Standard.

NEW CAR LICENSES WILL BE OUT MARCH 1

New motor car licenses for 1944 will be available to applicants soon after March 1, according to information received by the Alberta Motor Association.

The plan is to make the licenses available some time before the usual rush that occurs in experienced at issuing agencies just before the opening of the new license year on April 1.

Provincial officials have stated that the federal 3A gasoline ration books will be issued at the same time as the provincial motor license is taken out. A similar method was carried out in 1943.

While the response to the earlier issuance of licenses was not large last year, it is expected that there will be an improvement this year.

This year, paper stickers for the windshield and rear windows will be issued instead of the metal plates. Supplies of the paper stickers are to be distributed to government issuing agencies and branches of the A.M.A. at Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge during February.

As in past years, motor car owners may obtain their car and drivers' licenses at the A.M.A. branches.

"FOREVER AND A DAY" AT COLUMBIA THIS WEEK END

"Forever and a Day" is the picture which Herbert Wilcox and his Pinebrook Hardwood has conceived as a gift from the motion picture industry to the charities and philanthropies, the War services of each respective country in which this picture is distributed.

Every major company participated in its production and seventy-eight screen stars of British origin, residents at the time of its production at Lolly sand, screen directors and twenty-two leading authors collaborated in writing the story, its direction and production. All of these gave their services free.

In the United States, the producers of "Forever and a Day" singled out the "March of Time" philanthropy as the one to receive the profits derived from the exhibition and distribution of this picture, and on his birthday, January 29th President Roosevelt received one single gift, a cheque for $2,000,000 to help him in his campaign against infantile paralysis. The cheque was in turn handed over to Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis

Now this great picture which made the gift possible, is coming to our own Columbia theatre this week end, Friday and Saturday only, Feb 11 and 12

Thursday Morning Coldest of Winter

36 Degrees Below Zero

The mercury fell like a rock sometime between the hours of Wednesday night and 9 a.m. this Thursday morning when it hit the low spot of the winter, registering 36 below zero, at 10 a.m. Thursday it was still 30 below.

While it has been colder all week the thermometer didn't start to really sink until Tuesday night and on Wednesday morning it was 22 below, thus posting the stage for its big Wednesday night drop. It below had been the coldest registered previously.

This sudden dip rather spoils a winter that has so far been below zero temperatures registered on but a very few days.

The above readings are taken from the government-tested self-registering thermometer owned by Bill Dewey on the south side.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FEBRUARY 13

JESUS ON THE MOUNTAIN AND IN THE VALLEY

Golden text: I believe; help thou mine unbelief. Mark 9:24.

Lesson: Mark 9:2-29

Devotional Reading II Peter 1 12 21

Explanations and Comments

On the Mountain. Mark 9:1-8 About a week after Peter's avowal at Cesarea Philippi that Jesus was the Christ and Jesus' announcement of His crucifixion (a statement so tense and incomprehensible it must have constantly occupied the thoughts of all), Jesus took the three privileged disciples and brought them up into a high mountain apart by themselves. The date is in fact, a blueprint and implies back to the reservation on the passion and saying, "If you desire to understand what follows, remember what went before."

While Jesus was praying upon the mountain he was transfigured before them. And there appeared unto them Elijah with Moses and they were talking with Jesus. They were using him in proper perspective. He had told them that he was the Messiah; now they had adjusted their minds to the fact. Jesus was greater than the founders and heroes of their religion; Moses and Elijah came to talk with him—to pay him homage.

From a cloud there came a voice: "This is my beloved Son hear ye him." In other words, "Cease your rebelling and accept his interpretation of my task and destiny."

On the Way down from the Mountain. Mark 9:9-13

In the Valley, Mark 9:14-27 It was a changed atmosphere that met Jesus on the valley below, where failure and disappointment reigned. The less disciples were standing in great perplexity near an afflicted boy and his father. Scribes were questioning them, and we are probably justified in thinking that they were blaming the disciples for their failure to cure the boy.

Jesus made them bring the boy to him, and while he lay screaming at his feet asked the father how long the boy's affliction had lasted. From a child" the father answered, and told how the boy had fallen into fire and into water, "but if thou canst do anything have compassion on us, and help us," he cried.

"If thou canst"—the "if" is in yourself; you mean do your part. It was not a question of Jesus' power, but of the man's faith for all things are possible to him that believeth. The father met the challenge. "I believe; help thou mine unbelief," he cried.

The excited crowd about them was growing larger, and Jesus turned quickly to the boy. Humoring the people's belief that the demons was caused by an evil spirit Jesus ordered it to leave the boy and enter into him no more. After a wild shriek, the boy lay before them as one dead. And indeed, the crowd cried out that he was dead. But Jesus took him by the hand and raised him up

Bishop Of Arctic Says Eskimos Could Be Useful In War

Eskimos will be able to render vital service to post-war development of Canadian civil aviation" if they are trained to handle mechanical jobs, Rt. Rev. A. L. Fleming, Bishop of the Arctic, told a service club in Montreal.

Eskimos are noted for their mechanical ability," he said, "and I am certain that, if they were trained, they could become radio engineers, mechanics and drivers at the far north air fields after the war."

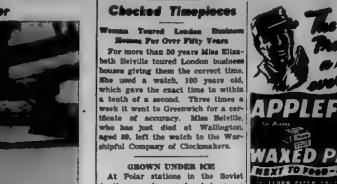
Dominion Entomologist

H. G. Crawford Will Succeed The Late Dr. L. S. McLaine

The appointment of H. G. Crawford as dominion entomologist in succession to the late Dr. L. S. McLaine was announced by the agriculture department.

Crawford joined the entomological branch in 1916. He is a member of the American Association of Economic Entomologists and of several other societies.

Trans-Atlantic Flier



Grant MacDonald, noted Canadian artist whose sketches of members of Canada's armed forces and Canadian transportation workers have won acclaim throughout the Dominion, chose Captain J. M. Barclay, Trans-Canada Airlines pilot, as the subject of this drawing. Captain Barclay flies one of the big Lancasters in the Trans-Atlantic service operated by T.C.A. for the Canadian Government, carrying mail to and from the members of Canada's Overseas Forces. He established a trans-Atlantic record when he and the members of his crew made a non-stop flight from Montreal to Great Britain in 11 hours and 56 minutes with Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, and H. J. Symington, K.C., president of T.C.A., as passengers. This was 30 minutes faster than the previous record which had been set by one of Captain Barclay's fellow pilots, Captain R. F. George.

Affiliate Schools

South Africa And Canada To Have Interchange Of Teachers

The first affiliation between schools in South Africa and Canada has been arranged by Major F. J. Ney, of Toronto, executive vice-president of the National Council of Education of Canada, who is visiting Cape Town.

The famous Diocesan Bishops' College of Rondebosch has been affiliated with Bishops' College, Lennoxville, Que.

The affiliation will provide for interchange of teachers and scholars, other for holidays or on mutual scholarships.

Aids Marksmanship

Training Device Has Range Of Less Than One Inch

A new training device to improve the marksmanship of Canadian soldiers is in use today at Army Basic Training Centres.

Known as the Swift Training Rifle, it looks like a rifle, even acts like one but has no barrel, no magazine, fires no bullets. And, it has a range of less than an inch.

Public relations office, Military District 10, headquarters at Winnipeg, said that training officers are enthusiastic about the new "weapon".

The rifle by means of an ingenious arrangement of springs and sharp pointed pins, has done away with most guess work in early rifle instruction.

Built of wood, the Swift has the heft and feel of a genuine rifle. Pressure of the trigger releases a small, two-pronged rig, which darts out of the "muzzle", perforating a tiny, wax-model paper target from less than an inch from the nose of the rifle.

This perforation tells the tale. The upper prong punches a hole where the bullet would normally hit, while the lower prong, striking at exactly the same time, shows whether the weapon is being canted to left or right, whether elevation and trigger pressure are right or

Stimulate Research

United States To Encourage Experimentation

The War Production Board gave United States industry a green light on experimentation with aluminum in post-war models of civilian goods.

The decision is expected to stimulate research looking to the development of lightweight automobiles, refrigerators and other durable goods items.

The board said it would approve requests for small quantities of aluminum provided the experiments "can be carried out without diverting manpower, technical skills or facilities from activities connected with the war effort.'

Woman Timed London Business Houses For Over Fifty Years

For more than 50 years Miss Elizabeth Melville toured London business houses giving them the correct time. She used a watch, 100 years old, which gave the exact time to within a tenth of a second. Three times a week it went to Greenwich for a certificate of accuracy. Miss Melville, who has just died at Wallington, aged 80, left the watch to the Worshipful Company of Clockmakers.

GROWN UNDER ICE

At Polar stations in the Soviet Arctic cucumbers and salad greens are being grown underneath the ice, says the Toronto Star. The beds are heated electrically and lighted by 300-candlepower bulbs from current produced by windmills erected above the ice. The Arctic blizzards have thus been brought into service for the expansion of the habitable area for mankind.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

"DRY ROT"

— By —
MABEL MOORE
McClure Newspaper Syndicate

The little widow Mason was going to call on the Ryersons. Walking briskly up the long hill toward the most pretentious house in town, she softly whistled a gay little tune. Perhaps th keep up her courage. For she had been snubbed—oh, definitely snubbed—by the Ryersons.

She looked back, lovingly, at her own cottage—pink rose trellis in front, hollyhocks showing high at the back — remembered how pleasant Jeff Ryerson had been, showing it to her the first time.

"It was our own home, he had said. "So we know how convenient it is."

Mrs. Ryerson was cordial too. "I'm sure you'll be happy here, my dear, for we have loved it so."

During the formalities of business, seeing her often, they spoke of paying cards, inviting her to dinner soon, and coming back to see her, too —in their old home.

Later, from others, she learned that it had been Ryersons' "old home," for about two years. Jeff was a dealer in real estate and had lived in many houses.

This one he had acquired dirt cheap from the sole heir of his former owner—a nephew, who seemed unconcerned that his poor old aunt had died there. No one knew much about the old woman. She had told people she wanted to be alone. Her mind had wandered vaguely. She was "queer", they said.

"Crochet", explained the callous young man, obviously relieved to have Jeff Ryerson take charge. Some of the neighbors were so shocked that they said they were glad of it, later, when they read that he had been killed in an accident.

Still, they hated to see Jeff getting the best of a deal. It worried them, to have the widow take such a fancy to the house. And, when she arrived with her three children, after settling her cumbersome mountain ranch, everyone in town had started talking care of her. She was that kind of a woman. Not helpless, but friendly and appreciative. Cheery brown eyes glowing with health and good humor', a sweet, trusting smile.

"I want to put the children in school," she announced, "and go to church, and join the Women's Club."

Judge Harley, an old friend of her family and the town's leading legal authority, gave her business advice. She could pay a little down on a home, and turn over the ranch payments as they came.

The cottage was a neat white stucco—hardwood floors, tiled sink and bath. Not the latest, of course, but it looked like heaven. Mrs. Mason said, after the rambling old pine shack she'd left.

Judge Harley tried to warn her. "Jeff's a great hand," he said, "to spruce up the looks of a place and leave the dirty work for someone else."

But she didn't hold anything against the Ryersons when the neighbors, helping her move in, began noticing things out of order. A broken shade. A missing light fixture. A cracked window pane that needn't shown while Mrs. Ryerson's curtains were up. And a workman getting a drink of water at the sink, felt the floor give under his feet.

"Looks like, Miz' Mason," he exclaimed. "It's likely a patch of dry rot. Water been seeping in under the linoleum, I'll bet."

She should have noticed that, he said, for the spot had been covered over before with a square of a different design.

But the little widow had laughed. "It's a good thing to put a new surface down!" And patting the oldest boy on the shoulder, "Bob and I are handy with tools. We'll fix it up one of these days."

Bob'd have been surprised to know that he and his mother, not the Ryersons' real reason for selling, their sense of guilt the reason for their subsequent coolness. Jeff took to turn out other spots of it in the cottage, and before he was through it had cost three hundred dollars.

With the late afternoon shadows making a leafy pattern against the Ryersons' imposing residence, it looked less forbidding as little Mrs. Mason lifted the knocker. Jeff himself opened the door while his wife stood, hesitating, behind him. Uncertainly, they both invited her in.

Mrs. Mason shook straight to the point. "I thought I'd feel better about this," she said, "if I came and told you myself. You remember that little leak in the floor, right by the kitchen sink?"

They remembered. Jeff cleared his throat to speak, but he wasn't given a chance.

"Bob and I found some oak floorings in the garage, and we thought we'd use some of it there," she went on. "At first I wouldn't let the boys touch that lumber because I figured it belonged to you, Mr. Ryerson, and you might come back for it some time."

"Oh, no, no!" Jeff's tone was magnanimous. "Anything you find on the place belongs to you, of course, Mrs. Mason."

"That's what Judge Harley said, too. He said 'Finders, keepers' in a case like this. It's a relief that you think as he does. You're sure you do?"

"Certainly," said Jeff. "But why?"

"Because," smiled the widow, when Bob and I ripped up that linoleum, we found two loose boards underneath. We could life them right out. Beneath we could see them right out. They've been there for years; it was full of rust. But the money inside was all right."

"Money?" Jeff's voice was a whispered croak

Mrs. Ryerson was stiffly alert. "What did the little widow Mason say? It will sure come in handy now—getting settled and all. Three thousand dollars in bank notes!"

"By golly, old boy, I couldn't believe it when I heard you were in the hospital. Why, last night, I saw you dancing with a pretty blonde."

"Yes, so did my wife."

Hesperk what do you think of a man who marries for money?"

"I think he earns every penny he gets"

PLAN IN BRITAIN

The area under flax in Britain has been increased from a few hundred acres in 1939 to over 50,000 acres in 1943 Northern Ireland has also made a remarkable increase in acreage from about 20,000 to 80,000. From this effort have come large quantities of high grade wing fabric for aircraft factories

Versatility Of Glass

Can Be Substituted In Many Ways For Scarce Materials

The necessity of finding substitutes for scarce materials has led to so many new developments in the use of glass that this offspring of sand hardly knows itself now.

Glass fuses in plain-knitting for cork as an insulator, and many prove to be superior to cork in life preservers.

Glass sutures are used instead of silk for some surgical work.

Glass that can be sawed and milled like lumber is being developed for use in post-war homes.—New York Herald Tribune.

Intelligent Animals

Deer Can Be Added To Those That Really Think

It is sometimes questioned whether animals do think, and it is contended that they merely copy what they have seen a human being do. The horse is said to be the most intelligent of animals, with the elephant and the dog coming next. Of all the performing animals, the seal and the chimpanzee come nearest to an uncanny degree of intelligent tricks.

But who would suspect the deer of being a highly intelligent animal that really studies and solves its problems? Gordon J. Leverage, a student of the New York Ranger School, recently put deer to test with remarkable results

In his study on the protection of growing crops from the depredations of deer, Mr. Leverage reports how a buck dealt with an electrified barbed-wire fence. The animal first sniffed the wire then bounded back from the electric shock But it came right back and sniffed at the wire without touching it, then dropped to the ground and crawled sideways under the bottom strand where it provided 20-inch clearance. In another test a deer browsing on leaves tripped a trigger which squirted a weak solution of ammonia into its eyes. The net day the same animal crept up under the leaves and branches until the trigger was sprung and then, after seeing that no more water came out straightened up and ate the leaves.

Circus elephants are remarkably clever, and men who have handled working elephants in India would give a high place to the pig pachyderm An Englishman who was in charge of a group of elephants which were stacking heavy logs, reports that he once saw an elephant that could not pick up the fourth log on the pile The animal surveyed the situation for a few moments and after giving the pile a considerable kick from behind, picked it up and, with long grumbling it laid the log down on the ground, stood back and walked around the pile wondering if there was a hidden log. Satisfied that there was not, it picked up the log it had laid down and pushed it into place

Sugar For Canning

Prices Board Announces Spare "P" Coupons Become Valid July 1

The Prices Board has announced that sugar for 1944 home canning will be made available through coupons in the regular ration of 8 lbs. 8 ozs now being used by consumers.

The board said consumers will thus be provided with a standard allotment of 30 pounds of sugar per person for home canning purposes, but households wishing to do more canning will be able to supplement the amount by using their preserves coupons for the purchase of sugar.

Preserves coupons issued will be exchangeable for preserves coupons on application to local ration boards after July 1. A supply of sugar for preserves coupons

The first of the canning sugar coupons will become valid July 1.

The coupons from one to five will be valid for the purchase of one pound of sugar. If all the 1944 preserves coupons also are used to obtain canning sugar the total obtained will be 25 pounds for one person

Better Than Words

Actions Do More To Weld Nations Into Lasting Harmony

Uncounted millions of words have been written and spoken with the object of wedding the English-speaking nations by friendship and understanding into a degree of harmony that can stand the disturbing factors of peace as it does those of war.

Words in such a cause are fine, but we think that far more effective is such a little story as came from the Mediterranean the other day.

A ship carrying United States soldiers, said a Cairo dispatch, was attacked twice by enemy aircraft, and apparently was in great peril. But fighters of the Royal Air Force each time came to the rescue, drove off the Germans and saved the troopship. The soldiers, moved by their escape, chipped in $4,000 as an expression of their gratitude, the money to go to the dependents of any R.A.F. casualties resulting from the two actions.

Some time ago there was a story of United States soldiers at a ranch in Britain collecting a large sum of money among themselves to assure hospital treatment for a little crippled R.A.F. girl who they had come to know in the neighborhood.

Incidents such as these are far more powerful than the most eloquent words to bring these countries into the relationship of trust, confidence and mutual respect which all of us so much want to see. In no thoughtful sphere does de Hirsch ally speak louder than words.—Ottawa Journal.

Prime Minister's Deputy

Clement Attlee Has Taken Churchill's Place Very Many Times

Someone observed recently that no Minister can ever have served a more thorough apprenticeship to the Premiership than Mr. Attlee. During 22 of the 52 weeks of last year—more than a third—Clement Attlee actively deputized for the Prime Minister, and he wound up his onerous duty by broadcasting a New Year message for Mr. Churchill Though it is rather the fashion to underrate Mr Attlee, and to regard him as like Telemachus, "centred in the sphere of common duties," there can be no doubting either his sincerity or his devoted industry, says a writer to the Ottawa Journal. He is at his desk before 9 o'clock and attacks there busily engaged most of the time until long after dark. No number of the pretest Cabinets even the Prime Minister included, works harder or makes less fuss about it He personally is not demonstrative, he is utterly devoid of any theatricalism. His platform style is competently effective without being inspiring, and he fills the bill, knows his job, and so by no means lacking in humour He celebrated his 61st birthday last month and it is not forgotten that he spent four of those anniversaries in last-war khaki with the gunners.

A Public Menace

Pilots Who Stunt Are Dangerous To Themselves And Others

Captain F B Wilkins chief inspector of accidents for the air board has asked the public to report pilots who stunt or fly low over populated places To him the big fear is that the jackwarker of the irresponsible motorist is a public menace.

The schoolchildren watched student pilots perform breath-taking stunts over the city will agree with him Montreal has been fairly free of this sort of thing lately but every once in a while a flier perhaps flying over his own home or to impress a girl friend or relative, puts on a show that makes spectators gasp. We admire his courage and we envy his ability, but the responsible person should ask him to remember the danger and high spirits of youth. Let the boy friend or girl friend see it all—they'll appreciate it much more if he comes home all in one piece Montreal Star

LEAD IN AIRCRAFT

It should be noted that the new propellers on fighter planes of which so much is expected was primarily the invention of a British officer Group Captain Frank Whittle R.A.F. The British have consistently led in aircraft design which is one great reason why the R.A.F. is where it is today" 2004

TIE HOCKEY GAME LAST SATURDAY NIGHT

Lloyd. and Locals Score Five Each

Lloydminster and Vermilion scored five goals each on Saturday night in a really exciting and good hockey game the last crowd of fans on hand being well repaid for their attendance. Vermilion was in front most of the way but Lloyd tied it up and shortly before the final bell put themselves one up and local fans thought it was all over. However the players didn't think so and in prove it Les Whitburn came through and notched a very timely goal to make the score 5 all. No overtime was played.

The locals brought Manson and Clarence Barr out and they added a lot of needed experience to the team. Russell Carroll refereed

Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labor, announces that a recent Order in Council has extended to Aug. 1 1944, the blanket postponement of military training in the case of men employed in coal mining. Also, the period during which men engaged at coal mining will not be accepted for voluntary enlistment in any branch of the Armed Forces has been extended to the same date.

(An Order in Council of May 17, 1941, has provided that men employed as coal miners would neither be accepted for voluntary enlistment nor be required to report for military training under Mobilization Regulations up to Feb. 1, 1944. The effect of the new Order in Council is to extend this date for a period of six months.

BATTLEVIEW ECHOES

The first week of February went by and brought us a continuation of our lovely weather and hopes are held that the mild weather will continue throughout the winter.

School was not held here last week as our teacher Miss Betty Allen joined the C.W.A.C. and went to Calgary. School will re-open next week with Miss Currie as teacher.

The district was saddened by the news that Gordon Schiltz had been killed overseas in a plane accident. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. H.P. Schiltz of Wainwright and well known hereabouts.

A pleasant afternoon was spent on Monday at the home of Mrs. Lisa Walters, and the cause of it was a quilt. Mrs. Jensen, Mrs. Frissell, Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Osterburg were there. After the quilt was finished the hostess served a very tasty lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jensen and Mrs. Lisa Walters attended the show in Vermilion last Saturday.

Mrs. Louis Alexander who for the last couple of weeks has been visiting her mother Mrs. Taylor of Fabyan, has returned home.

Mrs. Etta Patterson has had a letter from Mrs. John Lewis who lived here until about 1925, enclosed was a snapshot of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and both look well and much as they did when they left Battleview.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyndon Fadden and children were visitors at the Friesell home on Sunday.

Barclays Bank (Canada)

A chartered bank is the custodian not only of your money on deposit but also of your secrets concerning that money.

A CHARTERED bank is an institution where the details of your bank account are kept secret.

It is called "chartered" because its permission to do business and the conditions and restrictions under which it may do business, are contained in a charter granted and kept up-to-date by parliament, the finest democratic free institution of government that man has yet devised. This charter is an Act of Parliament laying down all of the conditions which safeguard your money.

Ten competing chartered banks are the very opposite of a State Monopoly such as would come about if all the banks were rolled into one by nationalization. Under State Monopoly, if you failed to get accommodation at the one bank, you could not go to any one of nine others to seek it. You can today:

ISLAY

Mrs. R. Bell and daughter Janie went to Edmonton Sunday for a holiday.

Mrs. Inman is in Edmonton at the present time where she will undergo an operation. We are hoping for a speedy and well return.

We hear that Dan Kennedy has bought a very fine and expensive bull from Cross Bros.

Mr. and Mrs. Pard entertained at bridge Monday evening. Mr. and Mrs. John Mairs, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Purser, Miss Peggy Terrance.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mairs visited on Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. A. Anderson's.

Beecher Linton came home last week bringing a load of coal in his big truck for the folks at home. We took back a load of livestock. Beecher looks fine.

Well — the ladies ricks that took part in the Lloydminster 'spiel last week came home with prizes! Mrs. McRae won 6 out of 8 games and Mrs. R. Bell won 2 out of 4. Powerful muscles or lucky hands is showing. Some of these same ladies are going to Vermilion this week to curl in the bonspiel there. Some of the men participated in the bonspiel at Kitscoty last week but their luck wasn't quite top-notch. Though we heard some arguing about pictures, so we think they are in the picture somewhere if we know, where to look for them.

Islay spiel is in full swing this week.

Recuar A.T.A. meeting of Islay-Kitscoty sub-local will be held in Kitscoty Feb. 19th at 2 p.m.

RATION BOOK NO. 4 IS DUE IN MARCH

EDMONTON.—When ration book 4 is issued to Canadian consumers during the last week in March there will be spare coupon sheets but this does not necessarily signify rationing of new commodities, stated Howard L. Ross, Montreal, Ration Administrator. "Emergency coupon sheets are placed in ration books as a prudent measure to meet exigencies", he said.

Printing ration books is the biggest printing job done in Canada, and ration book 4 was in the hands of the printers on Dec. 1. This means planning for nearly a year ahead when flexibility which may arise cannot be anticipated. Additional coupon sheets in ration books cost a trivial amount compared to what the cost would be to print and distribute supplementary sheets, he pointed out.

Mr. Ross, who organized local ration boards in Canada, praised the work they accomplish in their communities in handling individual problems and in equalizing rationing. There are 600 local ration boards in Canada, and 52 in Alberta.

BOWTELL BULLETIN

The ladies are certainly seeing this winter, the weather being so nice Another quilt was finished at Mrs. Kozobuk's and the next one will be put up the day of the meeting at Mrs. Kozobuk's.

Miss R. Smith spent the week end in Edmonton.

Miss Daisy Maggs was a week end visitor at the Knutson home and Mrs. Knutson was a Friday visitor at Mrs. Eberwein's.

Mr. and Mrs. Repp had as a visitor this week Mr. Jack Morrison.

It was very pleasing to have Mrs. Scott back at our quiltings after a long absence.

The well drillers were busy for three days at the McClellan farm.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs. Lind's brother Bill Searle is quite ill. Grandma Searle left recently to be with him

Grandma Garnier is improving nicely now from an attack of the flu.

The teacher is planning to put on a drive to raise funds for the Junior Red Cross. Watch for particulars.

Did we hear rumors talks of some card parties under the auspices of the ladies club?

Not much news this week but one of our readers far away wrote and said that the highest bit of news is always welcome to us away from bowtell.

Yes folks, the latest is that the Semple baby has two heels

Barney Powell and Frank Minard visited Sunday at the Robinson home.

We understand that you have to make an appointment at least three days ahead with the dentist, but what we would like to know is how are you going to know three days ahead—of a toothache?

The weather is fair and mild with light snow flurries.

Wm. Telford has purchased the Alberta hotel and entered into possession on Tuesday

Ship Bill Telford won the Grand Challenge event in the Ft. Saskatchewan bonspiel, also 2nd in the Merchants, and 3rd in the Policeman competition. His rink was Slater, Alf Jones and Joe McKone

To Use Electric Pumps On Vermilion Wells

Another step in the progress of Vermilion oil field's development has been evidenced by the extension of electricity to be used in connection with pumping the wells

This new departure in well-pumping, which is introduced for the first time in the west, is through the installation of a power line tapping the Canadian Utilities lines at Dorradaile.

Through this departure introduced by Hollingsworth Oils their wells will be pumped with electric motors instead of the gasoline engines which are now used. This company has proceeded in drilling Vermilion field and now through the efforts of D. R. Hollinsworth the 3 wells they are handling in the field will have the advantage of modernized service.

The new power line will extend for about 1½ miles from the Canadian Utilities line to the Hollingsworth lease, where from a central point where the transformers are installed the "juice" will extend to the wells in operation and can also be used on the new well which is to be started in the spring. It will also supply modern illuminating and power service to other buildings on the lease.

Mr. Hollingsworth believes the new departure in supplying power for the pumping units will not only prove much more satisfactory in the way of service, but more economical as well. First cost of the motor installations will not be heavy and the upkeep charges will be very favorable in comparison with the gasoline and at the same time give practically continuous service.

Modern practice has been followed in the installation of the new line, which is adaptable to supplying power by centralizing on each quarter section.

This progressive step initiated by Mr. Hollingsworth for his company, brings the field along the pathway of efficiency which is the true testing point of the successful handling of oil field production. —Western Examiner.

CLAYMORE CLIPPINGS

The weather has turned colder and February may bring some real winter. January was one of the mildest winter months in a good many years. Everyone hoped that it would keep mild but no one can complain if we do not a little cold weather now.

Miss Vivian Voss of Lashburn, Sask., spent last week end visiting her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. V. Voss.

The school children had a bit of excitement last week when a runaway team went dashing past on the high way. One of the boys gave chase on a bicycle. The team was caught up near the Lynch farm and they had done no harm except to break a whiffle tree. They were soon returned to their owner.

Floyd Antrim spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Antrim.

Mr and Mrs. H. Williamson were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. Voss on Sunday.

Mrs. C. Chesman has gone to Cross field to visit her mother for a few weeks.

Men Of The Hour

HISTORY HAS SHOWN the importance of leadership on the course of world events. In the past turning points in the affairs of nations have, as a rule, been linked with the name of some great personality, and it is realised that the destinies of many nations today are closely bound up with the men who are their leaders during these critical times. It is generally agreed that it was the magnificent leadership of Prime Minister Winston Churchill which brought Britain and the Empire through what he himself said might be "its darkest hour." President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Generalissimo Chiang Kai shek are others who guided their countries through these difficult times with great courage and wisdom. On the other hand, is seen in the Axis countries today the unhappy fate of nations who are the victims of evil and unscrupulous leaders

* * * *

Leadership For United Nations

Qualities of leadership involve many things. Among them are the ability to inspire others with loyalty and to command their confidence and respect. It is apparent that the United Nations have been fortunate in having many fine leaders both in public life and in the armed forces, and they have contributed greatly towards the success of the Allied effort. At the present time much interest is focused on the invasion of the continent of Europe and on the men who were chosen to direct this great operation. They are: General Dwight Eisenhower, the Supreme Allied Commander; Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, who is Deputy Supreme Commander; and the three British operational chiefs, Admiral Ramsay, General Montgomery and Air Marshal Leig-Mallory.

* * * *

Three Reasons For Selection

It is said that there were three reasons for the choice of these men as leaders of this difficult and critical undertaking. The first was that they are men who have already been tried and tested in modern warfare; the second, that they have all worked and fought together and so ensure complete integration of the three arms as the first essential of success; and the third, that all have built up a system of close personal co-operation with these forces from the high ranking officers down to the lowest rank. It is believed by many that the storming of the fortress of Europe will bring victory over Germany very close, and in the choice of leaders for this venture the best possible conditions for success have been made.

Winston Churchill

Tribute To The Man Who Directs Britain's War Effort

Winston Churchill is an old Tory He is an old Liberal He is a rank imperialist. He is a fervent democrat. But mainly he is one of those men who cannot walk into the House of Commons, or any house or place without creating something of an electric shock. He does not do this because he is Prime Minister—he is Prime Minister because he can do it.

It is Prime Minister because he has made and projected an image of what the British people wish to be in this war: there he stands and there they stand, in courage as sure that it need never plume itself; in faith as strong as the British earth from which it springs; in cheerfulness that passes smiling into the dark Valley; in honesty of purpose, in loyalty to even the most misunderstanding of friends.—New York Times.

Recovers Speech

Glengarry Woman Who Attended Bonnie Prince Charlie Wins Gift Of Speech Restored

Five months ago a 32-year old Glengarry mother lost her power of speech following a serious illness.

With a friend she went to see the film The Nelson Touch' (titled Corvette K225 in Canada), the story of a R.C.N. corvette on Atlantic convoy written by Lieut John Moffatt, formerly of the Montreal Gazette. As she left the theatre the woman turned to her friend and said 'I wasn't that a fine picture?'

Her companion was astonished and together they visited the woman's doctor who found that her speech was again normal and likely to remain so.

The film doctors said, must have stirred some latent interest in her and restored her power of speech as a direct result.

Only Thing They Know

Changing Ideas Of Young Nazi Group Will Not Be Easy

Two German prisoners of war committed suicide in an internment camp in Kansas and the circumstances threw a revealing light on the twisted and malicious Nazi mentality.

One of the men, a private, slashed his wrists while in protective custody at his own request. The other, a captain apparently had been "sentenced" by a prisoners' "kangaroo court" for "making remarks against Hitler." The fellow prisoners took him from his own quarters, put him in a room provided with a length of rope and the German obligingly hanged himself.

Those incidents are significant as showing that the Hitler Youth and the young Nazis is carried with them even into captivity on another continent. The younger German soldiers never have known anything but Nazi propaganda. They have grown up under Hitler's diabolical influence and are worthy disciples of that monster of evil. They believe implicitly in a German victory, in the German right to dominate the world by force, in all the hideous doctrine of "superior" Germanic blood.

Those who hold that, once the German armies are beaten, "good" Germans will take over the situation and banish Hitler and all his works ignore the potentialities of trouble in this formidable Young Nazi group, many of whom are "bound to survive defeat, hitler but not convinced. To change them over to a decent outlook on life, to rid them of hate and prejudice and their superiority complex, is a task that will test the ingenuity of the peace-makers, but they must be made harmless if German myself is to be tamed.—Ottawa Journal.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—When I went to buy some strawberry jam my grocer told me he didn't have any. Why is this when jam is rationed and I have coupons?

A.—The mere fact that you have coupons does not mean that you will always be able to secure a supply of any rationed item. The ration program is designed to make as equitable a distribution as possible of goods in short supply. It cannot create new supplies.

—o—

Q.—I purchased a jar of jam this week which had no weight marked on the label. Is it compulsory for the weight to be marked on the label?

A.—By Government order the weight must be moulded in the glass of the jar . . . so it is not necessary to print the weight on the label also. The weight is marked in fluid ounces. If you find the jar of the weight is not shown let us hear from you again.

—o—

Q.—What is the price of the Blue Book, which is used for keeping record of prices paid for commodities?

A.—There is no charge for the Blue Book; we are sending you a copy's name and address.

—o—

Q.—Is there any price ceiling on hair dressery services?

A.—All sales of used passenger cars are now governed by ceilings, whether sold by dealers or individuals. Full information concerning ceiling regulations may be obtained at any office of the Board.

Plum Puree

British Scientist Discovers How To Make Jam From Powder

British housewives have been told that they may soon be making jam from powder, at all times of the year.

A scientist of a research station in Somerset has announced that he has discovered a powder made from plum puree, which keeps indefinitely.

Three ounces of the powder with sugar added, after a few minutes of boiling, becomes two pounds of jam. Only plum powder has been used so far, but the scientist believes the process is possible with apple and blackberry and probably any other fruit.

Advantages of the new invention in wartime England are: Saving of storage space; saving of sugar, since the jam would be made for quick consumption; jam can be made wherever sugar surpluses are available.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

V.D. AND COMMUNITY CONDITIONS

A critical examination of community conditions which foster delinquency and the spread of venereal disease was urged as a part ordinary citizens could play in the campaign to rid Canada of syphilis and gonorrhoea.

"Delinquency and disease are but symptoms of community neglect, the Health League of Canada said. 'Not only should unsavory community conditions be attacked, but wholesome activities should be offered in their place," the League said.

At the epochal first national venereal disease control conference in Ottawa, it was emphasized that at best wholesome recreation had to compete with unwholesome pastimes for the attention of young people.

"The war on venereal disease must begin in the home," the Health League declared.

"There must be a strengthening of family life and greater acceptance of responsibility by parents. Parents must do more than teach youth by precept and example. They must give children much more of their time than has been the practice of many homes. Moreover, there must be an acceptance of communal responsibility.

"The community as a whole must give much more attention than in the past to the needs and rights of young people for wholesome conditions, and for recreation 'in the right place and at the right time.'"

The League cited the warning by Brigadier J. C. Meakins, R.C.A.M.C., at the Ottawa conference, that a dull, boring Sunday had a tendency to drive young people into unwholesome

Royal Astronomer

He Knew What Would Happen If The Job Was Better Paid

James Bradley, who discovered the aberration of light and the "nodding" of the earth's axis, was appointed Astronomer Royal in 1742, in succession of the famous Halley.

One day Queen Wilhelmina visited the observatory at Greenwich where Bradley conducted his work. She graciously chatted with the astronomer for an hour, and noticing the frayed condition of his clothing, she tactfully inquired as to the adequacy of his income.

Bradley informed her of the size of the honorarium paid to the Astronomer Royal—about five hundred dollars a year.

"But surely," the Queen exclaimed, "that is scarcely sufficient. I shall do my best immediately to see that the royal astronomer is better rewarded."

"Your Majesty," Bradley replied, "I beg you not to do that."

"But why?" the Queen asked in perplexity.

"Because, your Majesty, if you should make the position of royal astronomer at Greenwich profitable, I am afraid no scientist will ever get the position."—Strand, London.

Second Language

Says English Will Be Taught In Most Countries

Without being "reduced to 850 words for the mentally weak," English will become the second language in many countries, Rev. Dr. James Ba... of English Speaking Union at Toronto

Hindicott, who taught English in China for nine years, said English was becoming the second language of educated Chinese up to the outbreak of war.

He did not agree with Prime Minister Winston Churchill in the latter's advocacy of "basic English."

"Let the basic English alone," he advised, let the language grow naturally. In 25 years, in virtually every country, English will become the second language taught. The way to this situation is not to limit words, but to improve the techniques of teaching English," he averred.

Farmers Want Fixed Price For Coarse Grains

OTTAWA.—The Canadian Federation of Agriculture said in a brief presented to the federal cabinet that the Canadian wheat board should be authorised to act as the sole marketing agency for coarse grains, with initial payments to growers based at present ceiling prices without disturbing domestic equalization payments now in effect.

The federation said it was important that farmers be assured of a price guarantee for oats and barley before they begin seeding. Otherwise there would be the danger of too great a switch from coarse grains back into wheat production, at a time when grains were the most needed to maintain livestock production.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King and eight other cabinet members heard the brief and promised consideration of it.

In the submission presented to cabinet members, read by H. H. Hannam of Ottawa, president, the federation also recommended:

Special provision for rural housing in any housing plan adopted; short-term interest rates should be made available to extend the necessary credit for equipment of farm homes.

The number of agricultural agents to advise farmers in proper farming methods should be increased by the provision of federal encouragement by grants in aid.

Rural health, educational and electrical services should be extended to those of the cities, and federal social security plans should be broad enough to make farm life more attractive, with more economic security.

Little Change In Wheat Outlook For This Year

SASKATOON.—Little change in the wheat outlook for 1944, a tightening of the feed grain situation with prices likely pressing on ceilings and a generally favorable position for livestock was predicted by Hadley Van Vliet, professor of farm management at the University of Saskatchewan.

Addressing delegates attending the inter provincial dairy conference, Mr Van Vliet said "The overall increase in agricultural production during the war of from 40 to 50 per cent. had been mainly in livestock production, which had increased 85 per cent."

He suggested that a critical position in the livestock situation was now being reached, for the pressure of large supplies was beginning to be felt.

The outlook for both wheat and livestock, he said, could be pictured best only from the long-term point of view and he foresaw a gradual diminuse in the demand for livestock and a favorable market for wheat, based on a reduction of present surpluses and an increased de-

A resolution asking the federal government to establish a floor price on poultry products on a parity basis with other agricultural products, was adopted at the annual meeting here of the Saskatchewan section, Canadian Produce Association.

It asked that the floor price be established for "a period of at least four years."

The meeting disagreed with a proposal made at the national poultry conference in Ottawa that a long-term contract be negotiated with Great Britain for the purchase of Canadian eggs.

W. A. Landreth of Winnipeg, a national director of the association, said a long term contract at set prices was not the solution for disposal of surplus poultry and eggs produced.

"We should be able to clear away much of the mystery that bedevils the marketing farm products and when that has been done and the producer is paid strictly on a basis of quality, we shall be on an even sounder basis than at present," Dr. F. H. Auld, deputy minister of agriculture for Saskatchewan, told a luncheon meeting of the association.

He approved a proposal that "all poultry in all trading from producer to consumer be sold on grade."

WHEAT PAYMENTS

Participation Certificates On 1940 And 1941 Wheat Crops To Be Met

OTTAWA.—Payments on farmers' participation certificates on the 1940 wheat crop will start in March, Trade Minister MacKinnon said in the commons. Payments on certificates for the 1941 and 1942 crops will start immediately after 1940 payments are completed, he added, but he said he could not say when payments would be made on the 1943 crop.

Answering a question from John Diefenbaker (P.C.-Lake Centre), the minister said payments will be made on all certificates and that farmers who have lost their certificates will not suffer. The wheat board had duplicates of all certificates. However, farmers who had lost certificates might have to wait a little longer for their money.

Mr. MacKinnon said the wheat board was a tremendous accounting problem" due to the recent taking over of all wheat stocks, in addition to its regular work.

Says Must Make Effort To End War This Year

A SOUTHEAST ENGLAND TOWN —Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery told his troops that they could finish the war in Europe this year "and we must."

"I want you men to know," said the commander of British ground forces in the invasion command, "that I never put an army into battle until I am quite certain it is going to be a good show. We won't have any question of failure. If there is any question we won't start. . . .

"This war began a long while ago I am getting fed up with the thing I think it nearly time we finished it. We could not see at the beginning how it would end. That is not so now. Definitely not.

"Today we can see how this business is going to end. The only thing we cannot see is exactly when. But I should say we must make a great effort to finish it off this year. You and I will see this thing through together."

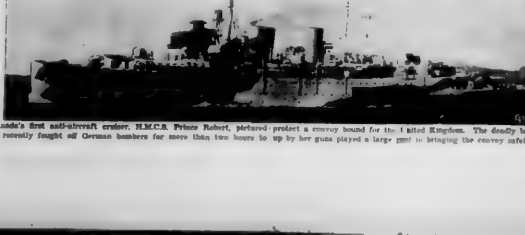
CANADA'S FIRST ANTI-AIRCRAFT CRUISER FIGHTS OFF NAZI BOMBERS OVER TWO HOURS

A prize of $25, offered to the first man in H.M.C.S. Prince Robert to spot an enemy plane was won by Able Seaman Robert Brookfield of Edmonton, Alta., a lookout. Brookfield is shown above being congratulated by Capt. J. M. Hope, R.C.N., commanding officer of Prince Robert, who put up the prize, just as the ship sailed from Canada to link up with units of the Royal Navy.

Anti-aircraft guns aboard the Prince Robert fire a barrage when some 32 enemy planes in attack from starboard quarter. The large explosion in the water is one of the bombs dropped by the attacking planes. The Prince Red after a battle that lasted exactly two hours and all of which reached port safely although two were damaged.



Canada's first anti-aircraft cruiser, H.M.C.S. Prince Robert, pictured product a convoy bound for the United Kingdom. The deadly barrage put above, recently fought off German bombers for more than two hours to up by her guns played a large part in bringing the convoy safely through

BUTTER RATION

Difficult To Maintain If Present Decline In Production Continues

SASKATOON, Sask. — Unless the continued decline in domestic butter production is arrested, "it will be difficult to maintain the present ration of eight ounces per person per week," J. G. Hopkins, associate director of the dairy products marketing service and chairman of the dairy products board, said in an address prepared for delivery here.

Speaking at the inter-provincial dairy conference, Singleton pointed out that while distribution of butter in 1942 was about 29 000 000 pounds greater than in 1941, distribution in 1943 was approximately 25,600,000 pounds less than during 1942.

Singleton said there has been only an 11 per cent increase in milk production since the beginning of the war, despite large increases in milk for fluid consumption and in quantities of dairy products manufactured. He contended it was quite obvious that all the dairy products Canada could produce during 1944 would be required, and he foresaw need hesitate to produce the maximum, for fear of lack of markets

BIGGEST MONTH

European Objectives Got 18,800 Tons Of Bombs In November

LONDON.—Rocking Germany with the greatest weight of explosives ever hurled against the Reich in a single month, the R.A.F. dumped 18,000 tons of bombs on European objectives—well over 8,000 of them on Berlin itself—in January despite the fact it is one of the worst flying months of the year, the air ministry an' announced.

Its regular monthly review said 18,800 tons landed on German targets, 500 more than during the previous record month of August 1943

January is the second highest month in the total tonnage of bombs dropped on Europe. British planes hit the continent with 19,000 tons last August, but 2,000 of those were directed against Italy preceding the invasion from Sicily.

"The United States, when it removed coffee rationing took a gamble," Mr Ross said. "It is impossible that shipping and fluctuations in world supply factors might force resumption of the coffee ration in that country."

Canada Is Not In Position To Discontinue Coffee Rationing

VANCOUVER There is no likelihood Canada will follow the United States in discontinuing coffee rationing, Howard I. Ross, administrator for consumer rationing, said in an interview.

"The United States, when it removed coffee rationing took a gamble," Mr Ross said. "It is impossible that shipping and fluctuations in world supply factors might force resumption of the coffee ration in that country."

Irrigation Would Help To Develop Western Farms

OTTAWA. — John R. MacNicol (P.C., Toronto Davenport) said in the House of Commons that eastern Canada must rally to support of the west in assisting the development of irrigation and power projects to make possible 30,000 additional prairie farm homes.

Projects he proposed for prairie betterment might cost $100 000,000, he said, but the money would be well spent for the benefit of Canada as a whole as well as of the west.

Last summer Mr. MacNicol travelled some 9,000 miles in the west examining possible irrigation projects, river flow and power sites and I am convinced the west has not had a square deal, and as an eastern member it is my duty to raise my voice in an attempt to see that it does get a square deal," he said. He spoke in continued debate on the throne speech.

Mr MacNicol said the failure of prairie farmers due to drouth had been the main reduction of much business in Canada Eastern Canadians especially had not been fair to that country.

Southern Alberta rivers should be harnessed. Under treaty regulations with the United States, into whose territory the rivers flow, it was implied that if one country did not attempt to conserve the waters the other could have them. Water was allowed to run away on the Canadian side, and useless action were taken because it would be used the United States had built reservoirs south of the border.

The South of the South Saskatchewan river, 300,000 acres instead of 200,000, could be irrigated if water were available. There should be irrigation up to Medicine Hat and an irrigation canal should be completed to that point.

West of Saskatoon, north of Cabri, Sask and on to Tramping Lake 2 500 000 acres could be put under irrigation. If 3,000 000 acres in the west were irrigated it would mean 30 000 farms producing with an average of 100 acres to a farm. There could be industries in the west if power were available There could be a 120,000-horsepower project at Fort a la Corne, Sask.; 156,000 horsepower at Riverhurst, and about 75,000 near Saskatchewan Landing.

CANADIAN CATTLE

May Be Required To Help Rebuild Herds in Netherlands

TORONTO—If present livestock conditions in the Netherlands become worse after the country is liberated dairy cattle imports largely from Canada and the United States will be necessary to rebuild herds, L. A. H. Peters said here in an address prepared for delivery at the 43rd annual meeting of the Holstein Friesian Association of Canada.

Dr. Peters, agricultural attache to the Netherlands embassy in Washington, said the sub-committee of the Inter Allied Committee on Post-War Requirements in London has indicated Canada would be expected to supply 25,000 head of cattle a year for a two-year period.

During 1935 to 1937 total cattle stock in the Netherlands was 2,611,000 while milk cows numbered about 1,440 000, Mr. Peters said. Latest information available showed a decline of 23 per cent. in the total figure, and 18 per cent. in milk cows.

A NEW SYSTEM

Grading Plan Will Eliminate One Dollar Premium On Hogs

OTTAWA The only premiums to be paid by the Dominion government on hogs after a new system of hog-grading classifications is made effective on fifty will be $3 a head on grade "A" animals and $2 on grade "B-1". Agriculture Minister Gardiner said in the commons

Under the new grading plan, announced recently Mr Gardiner said there will be a premium on good-quality hogs, now being paid by packers will be discontinued The $1 will become part of the price paid for 'A' and 'B' grade hogs, divided between the two in some proportion to be determined.

INCREASE BOND PURCHASES

It is the natural desire of all self-respecting people to improve their standard of living and during war time while the average gets through in the easiest manner, even to buy non-essential articles and commodities which are greatly increased in price, thus creating an unhealthy condition in the market and in their own affairs.

The increased income during a period of war must be considered as an actual saving and individuals who also considers it in the light will of course change that when conditions are again normal, it will be necessary for him to get along on a lower income basis, therefore, it will be necessary for him to systematically employ this increase in income as long since as at the time when adjustments will be necessary to continue his standard of living. The best time for such purchase, which will be the most good for the war effort, him is now, actually, is to buy Interest Bearing War Savings Stamps (effective at 1 cent).

Those who have bought one or two Bonds and who consider that they have done their share, must not lose sight of the fact that the Allied Nations have only recently begun to win this war. There is a long, tough road still ahead of us and as we progress the cost will be even greater than at present. The increased tempo of the war, the occupancy of devastated territory, the movement of armies, supplies and equipment the replacement and increase of machinery and the materials of war, the care of the wounded and homeless and many other aspects of the war, must be taken care of so let us not be content, but let us all be prepared for continuing the purchase of our share in Victory, and Security.

BUY BONDS, BUY OFTEN.

Writer was too busy last week to send in news but the mail came earlier too.

A few late items but we'll endeavour them: Mr. and Mrs. J. Bathe and family were visitors to Mearey, John Kent and Elmer Isley Sunday on Thursday, Jan 30th.

Andy Carlson was a Calgary visitor for a few days. While in the city he saw Lloyd Howard and Norman Smith.

Gnr. Laurence Graham, overseas, was home to thank those in Vermilion who so kindly sent him a box of chocolates. They were greatly appreciated and he got them in time for Christmas.

The club met last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clifford Crothers with 16 members but due to sent, also several visitors making 21 in all in attendance. Thirty two pieces of finished work were handed in and a lot of unfinished to take home. Mrs. Crothers assisted by her daughter Mrs. Smith served a dainty and tasty lunch. Mrs. Mendel and Mrs. Elmer Isley of Triangle and Mrs. Albert Smith, Rosemond, were visitors and we were glad to have them. The next meeting is to be at Mrs. Garnett's. The club donated some money to get reading matter for the armed forces. Don't forget to bring a useless talks and leave them at Mrs. Blake's this month.

Preston school held their annual meeting Saturday last, with only the trustees attending. Same ones taking office for another year: J. Walling, Jos. J. Wilson and Cliff Crothers chairman to chairman and John secretary.

This "Times" Digest of Central Telephone on will hold their annual meeting at Preston school on Friday, Feb. 18th. Turn out all you who have phone and support your interest and give encouragement to those who are it, either.

Several from our district took in the show Lassie Come Home at the Columbia theatre last week from the point of view of the writer it was a lovely show. The way the starving and lonesome dog found and Lassie was a clever dog.

LAC Russell Crothers [illegible] Gnr Tommy Riley met while walking in London. Our writer knew the other was anywhere near—this old world isn't so big after all. Both were very pleased to see someone from home.

Mrs. George Lawyer is staying in Vermilion for a few days xmas.

We will close with a Scotch joke—Something is not right with Dougie—son's son was home on leave and the old man was wanted to do the right thing by the young man—so on Saturday night, the latter trudged to the village tavern where Mac handed over a struck and asked it to be filled with whiskey. This was in one of those self-premises licensed houses common enough in the old land. When the bar man had filled the crock Mac and desire found that he had left his pocket book at home. The son while heard that he would provide the cash but Mac hastily whispered back, No, no my lad. The money not being forth-coming the bar man poured out the whiskey and the two Macs left for home. Diana fish reveal remarked the old man with a smirk of satisfaction, but wait till we get home as see me squeezin out the sponge!

Stagette Notes

The card party and dance held in the Elks hall on Wednesday, Feb 2 was a decided success both financially and socially. The girls were gratified to the exceptionally large attendance there were thirty six tables of cards in all some of bridge and some of whist.

The prizes were awarded as follows

Bridge Ladies 1st — Mrs. A. M. West (Gent's 1st—Mr. Duncan; Consolation Ladies — Mrs. L. Bassett; Consolation, Gent's—Mr. A. Kinney.

Whist Ladies 1st — Mrs. Jack Wiebe, Gent's 1st—Mr. Frank; Consolation, ladies—Pauline Lang; Consolation Gent's—Mr. A. McMillan.

After the cards sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee were served at the tables and during the clearing away a community sing-song was enjoyed. This was the first Bridge Club of the Stagette club and Mr. West, Mrs. West accompanied at the piano.

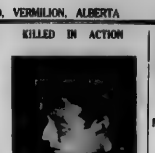
Dancing for members only after eleven and from all reports a very merry time was had from then until 1:30

The girls have expressed a vote of appreciation and thanks to those who lent assistance in various ways — particularly to Mrs. Bernard Klein, Ronnie Barwick, Mr. Pilkie and the Salvation Army. Thank you ladies for the use of your tables and cards.

Proceeds were donated to the Maid stone Street school, the special project for which is National Stagette clubs across Canada.

The regular weekly meeting of the club was held Tuesday, Feb. 8th when a lovely sliding party was decided upon next Friday evening — weather permitting

KILLED IN ACTION



Flight Sergeant Gordon C. Munro who was killed in action at 6.15 o'clock on the morning of January 21st following a big raid over Germany. He was navigator of the bomber crew and had the homeward course all charted before he was killed. The bomber reached home safely and Gordon was buried in the cemetery at Cleveland. Left to mourn his loss is his young widow, the former Doris Wright, one sister Mrs. L. Bodmer of Patricia, Alberta, and one brother Kenneth at the R.C.N. Naval College, Fredericton.

BOARD OF TRADE URGES ACTION ON CEMETERY

The board of trade went on record Wednesday as urging the town council to take immediate action on the formation of a board of directors to take charge of the cemetery. The matter of the cemetery's neglect was brought up by Mr. J. Waring and in a brief discussion, the consensus of opinion received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Robinson. Pred is pleased with the Old Country as far, and finds many customs strange as left hand travelling and English money both amusing and confusing.

RED CROSS IN NATIONAL APPEAL FOR $10,000,000

Campaign Starts February 28th

The Canadian Red Cross will make a national appeal for $10,000,000 in voluntary contributions throughout Canada starting on Feb. 28th.

In previous appeals the people of Canada have more than supported the cause and the generous response of the Canadian people in the last appeal showed their open-heartedness and understanding of the Red Cross task.

The Red Cross is an international organization and under the Conventions of Geneva, is required to obtain its support by voluntary subscriptions to preserve its rights, privileges and immunities guaranteed under international law.

The national appeal in March was planned with the fullest co-operation of the Dominion Government to avoid disruption or phase of the National War Finance Committee. And too, the American Red Cross is making its national appeal during the same period making it a continent wide campaign.

The largest work facing the Red Cross during the current year is supplying food parcels for Canadian, British and Empire prisoners of war in Europe and the Far East. The Society now has five packing plants in Canada with a weekly production of 100,000 parcels. Of this amount 70,000 Red Cross donates 30,000 weekly for prisoners in Europe, the remainder being paid for by the British and the American Red Cross Societies. Provision has also to be made for food, drugs and other supplies for Canadian prisoners in the Far East. These two objectives alone will require $5,500,000 during 1944

The work of the Canadian Red Cross has never been greater, and the need has never been greater. This year, it is hoped, will be victory year, but the work of the Red Cross does not end with cessation of hostilities—it continues wherever there is human suffering

Delegation Asks For Additional Parking Space

Whole Question Under Review by Town Council

Alex. Stone and Gordon Larson attended the board of trade meeting on Wednesday and asked that steps be taken to provide additional parking space in the town, as such space is at a decided premium on Saturday nights. Mr. Stone who acted as the spokesman, thought that this might be obtained in one or more of three ways, for example, by more attention being paid to the manner in which cars are parked, one car often taking up the space of two and more often two taking the space of three; by curb instead of centre parking; or by providing a parking space such as a portion of the town park.

Quite a general discussion followed and Mr. Mercer stated that the whole matter of parking was under consideration by the town council. Mr. Cooper thought that the board might pass an expression of opinion which should prove helpful to the council and the matter was finally referred over to the Ways and Means committee of W.P. Pilkie, T. Watts and A.K. Dudley to bring a recommendation at the meeting on Wednesday next.

More Lovingly Asked for Parking

As a result of a motion passed by the board the town council is being asked to make provision whereby offenders of parking regulations can pay a small fine without a court hearing, also to provide a warning for first time offenders. Furthermore the town will be asked to put up more "no parking" signs in prohibited areas.

The meeting proved a very interesting one with plenty of views being expressed. In spite of the many away at the Manatoba bonspiel there were 30 members present and A.E. Kaiser was in the chair. Alex Stone and Gordon Larson from the south were also present and as was Preston Sharp from Calgary and Douglas Thorahill of Burns and Co., Edmonton, the latter being introduced by Thos. Mould.

Luncheons will henceforth rest board of trade members the, the price being 50c per. As there are no "nicked-nackers" among board members, it is not expected that this will have an adverse effect on the splendid weekly attendance.

Committee reports were left as follows: Mr. Bailey re high school stamp drive, H. W. Brown re farm municipal district, J. Wenzel re Salvage and A.J. Cooper re airport.

Meeting on Wednesday next at 12.10 noon. Business will include report of membership committees; consideration of re-organization of Ways and Means committee re town parking, and new business that might transpire.

NEEDS OF U. K. INFLUENCE MEAT RATIONING HERE

OTTAWA — Answering inquiries following a statement by the Minister of Finance in the House of Commons, that consideration could be given to the possibility of abolishing meatless Tuesdays, or otherwise easing meat rationing, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board stated that the question must be decided in relation to the needs of the United Kingdom.

The Board further explained that the present surplus in Canada has been due to a temporary bottleneck in transportation in Canada and in shipping, and the problem now under consideration is that of moving the surplus as quickly as possible to the United Kingdom.

Meat rationing was imposed primarily for the purpose of creating surplus meat supplies to fill the urgent needs of the United Kingdom. Present regulations will remain in force so long as those needs continue and providing necessary transportation arrangements can be worked out.

However it is should develop that any type or grade of meat cannot be taken by the United Kingdom stores will be taken to divert the surplus to the Canadian domestic market, the [illegible] said.

GEO. E. GARLAND PROMOTED TO RANK OF CAPTAIN

It was announced at headquarters of M.D. No. 12 in Calgary, that Lieut. George E. Garland of the staff of No. 13 District Depot has been promoted to the rank of Captain Capt. Garland succeeded for a number of years as O.C. commanding C squadron of the 19th Alberta Dragoons, N.P.A. unit at Vermilion. At the outbreak of the present war he enlisted in the Edmonton Regiment as a private and was discharged in March 1940 for medical reasons. He was re-appointed to a commission with No. 13 District Depot in August of 1942 and has served there continually with that since in Calgary.

REFUSE REDUCTION IN GASOLINE PRICE

There will be no reduction in the price of gasoline, though the retaining rating of No. 1 grade motor gasoline has been cut, according to information received by the Alberta Motor Association.

Also, it has been stated that the price of motor gasoline in Canada is now what it would be on an economic basis and that it is cheaper in the country than it would have been when it was selling at 11 cents a gallon higher but on the present outlook the price is likely to remain as it is.

The present cut in crude refining is said to have been necessitated by decreased war requirements of aviation gasoline.

SEVEN A.O.S. BOMBERS SPEND WEEK-END ON VERMILION AIR FIELD

Forced Down by Storm Saturday

Seven training planes from the No. 2 A.O.S. in Edmonton landed on the Vermilion air field Saturday at noon, after being unable to land in the city due to a heavy and sudden snow storm which caught them in the air. They were ordered to fly to Vermilion where they found visibility good and made safe landings. They spent Saturday night here and took off on Sunday as the weather had cleared.

The snow storm that prevented the fliers from landing in Edmonton reached here about two hours later, being carried eastward by a strong wind.

Grand Challenge In Ladies' 'Spiel Won by Edmonton Rink

Twenty Rinks Participate: Coldest Weather of Winter

The Vermilion Ladies Curling club picked the two coldest days of the winter for their bonspiel last Wednesday and Thursday, but nevertheless the twenty rinks entered were all on hand, and stuck to it with the final game in the Challenge being the highlight of the spiel.

The final of the Grand Challenge brought the Schaeffer rink of Edmonton against Mrs. D Burk of Mannville. The rink rink got away to a flying start and at the end of the 2nd end were up 16 to 0. Nothing daunted Mrs Burch scored 2 ones and then came back with a big 6. Counting those the Mannville quartet were leading by a lone point Mrs

GRAND ICE CARNIVAL ON FRIDAY, MARCH 3

Under Auspices Vermilion Schools

Vermilion public and high schools are planning a fancy dress carnival which will be held in the arena rink on Friday evening March 3rd. There will be plenty of races, chiefly of fancy costumes, and probably some other attractions now being arranged. Much for more detailed information in next week's standard but rest assured that a big time is being planned for everyone. 42-4a

JUNIOR I.O.D.E. MAKE USE OF OLD FELT HATS

More Needed, Ladies' or Gents'

The Junior I.O.D.E. have washed, packed and shipped 70 felt hats which are being used to make jerkins for our navy men. We wish to thank the people who donated the felt and we would like to collect more felt hats if they are available. Search the attic or that old trunk again, there might still be the odd old hat tucked away.

High School Students Aid Food Industries Stamp Drive

Following the board of trade meeting on Wednesday Feb. 9th, it was decided that the V.H.S War Savings stamp drive should be turned to aid of the Food Industries Stamp drive. It was felt that the V.H.S drive had been very successful at the expense of the local food merchants drive. The seller and buyer will be co-operating to put over the Food Industries drive. To this $227 worth of stamps have been sold on behalf of the merchants. Incidentally sales for the Food Industries drive are not shown on the thermometer.

The V.H.S students would like to bring to your attention the broad message CJCA on Sunday last at 9 p.m. The chairman of the drive, Nelson Crowell, during an interview at that time, cleared up all existing misleading standing resulting from the previous broadcast.

Medicine At War

CASUALTIES ARE INEVITABLE in time of war, but it is encouraging to know that because of the great advances made in medical science in recent years the mortality rate among our wounded is very low. Statistics given out by the British Ministry of Information show that in this war there is much less than one-fifth the number of wounds than there was in the First World War. At that time there were 40 deaths for the 100 wounded in Egypt and Palestine was 2.11 while out of nearly 30,000 battle casualties admitted to hospitals in the Middle East during the year ending March 31, 1943, the death rate was only 2.1. Another comparison which has been given is that of a British hospital in France where 1,200 severely wounded patients were treated towards the end of the last war. Of these 113 died. During the recent campaign in Tunisia, there were only five deaths in a hospital which had 1,700 cases.

* * * * *

Many Advances Have Been Made

The decline in the death rate among the wounded is a tribute to the progress made in the field of medicine since the last war. Outstanding among the new discoveries are the sulphonamide drugs and the drug penicillin which have proved so effective in preventing infection and in healing wounds. The use of airplanes in dealing with casualties is also an important development. Facilities are provided not only for evacuating the wounded quickly by air, but also for conveying doctors and medical equipment to battle areas. Nearly 15,000 sick and wounded were taken to North Africa by the Royal Air Force and the United States Army Air Corps during the Tunisian campaign, and the number of casualties were carried by air during the fighting in North Africa. It has also been related that on more than one occasion all the necessities for the establishment of a fully equipped hospital have been flown into battle areas.

Blood Plasma Saves Lives

Another important development, and one to which civilians are able to contribute, is the use of blood plasma for the treatment of those suffering from wounds or shock. Transfusions are considered vital for such cases, and trained blood transfusion units administ lering plasma to casualties before they are moved. Plasma is blood, and it can be kept for any length of time without requiring refrigeration. This is a very recent discovery and one which has been instrumental in saving many lives. Great quantities of this plasma are needed, and many thousands of Canadians are regularly donating blood for this purpose. Mobile operating theatres, which may be moved very close to the front lines are another important factor in the prevention of a high death rate from wounds. In carrying on these valuable services, great skill and courage is constantly being shown by the doctors and other members of the Medical Corps and to them goes credit for the saving of many lives for the fighting forces.

Air Commodore Says Fear Sharpens Judgment

Contrary to the general belief that fear is something to be ashamed of and nerves an inherent physical handicap to anyone who wants to fly, an Air Commodore writing in the British Medical Journal points out that:

"Fear within limits is not only a natural but a healthy emotion stimulating attention, sharpening judgment and evoking maximum effort . . .

Night bombing crews, he reveals are the greatest sufferers from "nerves" but as an experienced squadron leader told him: "The man I like to have is one with enough imagination to fear the worst and hope for the best."

The real danger to an airman is lack of confidence. It is a major cause of flying accidents, operational failures and psychological break down in air crews, according to this Air Commodore.

In the last 50 years a population equivalent to that of the United States has been added to the resident population of India by natural increase. NORWAY PAYS HER WAY

Because of the earnings of her merchant marine, the fourth largest in the world, Norway has been able to pay her own way all through this war. This is one of the Royal Norwegian Government in Exile which also managed to divert the war time shipping pool has paid interest and amortization instalments on Norwegian foreign loans.

THE BRITISH WAY

During the winter 1942-43 British domestic and industrial consumers of coal effected an economy of 11,000,000 tons in response to the government's request. This was 3,000,000 tons more than the advance estimate of saving.

Germany Took Delight in Bombing Until They Were Attacked

A distinguished member of the British diplomatic service who served six years in Berlin has said in the BBC's German program that it was no surprise to him to see from the German papers that the British raids on Berlin were described as "barbarous", "inspired by the Jews" and so on.

He said that before the war the idea of bombing cities was regarded as quite natural in German official circles. He remembered hearing an inquiry in him that London was "a magnificent target—a large ripe plum" and he "made a noise with his lips like a small boy confronted by a large juicy plum." The broadcaster further remembered being told about the excitement already gained in bombing Spanish civilians and he remembered Hitler in the crisis of 1938 threatening the use of the Luftwaffe. There was "no question of sparing civilians in Prague or London in any way."

Then came the war. Warsaw was bombed. Then Rotterdam, London Coventry. Finally, although he calculated the speaker declared, that England would rubbish the Luftwaffe, they allowed their armies of

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Somewhere in England, Jan 19, 1944.

To the Editor,
Vermilion Standard
Dear Sir:

Will you please convey my thanks to the people of Vermilion and district for the lovely parcel and cigarettes I received.

It is good to know we are so kindly remembered by the folks back home and these gifts are really appreciated.

Yours sincerely,

Vermilion, Feb. 14, 1944.
Editor, Vermilion Standard.
Vermilion, Alberta.
Dear Sir:

At the annual meeting of the Vermilion Branch of the Canadian Red Cross their very appreciation for the services so freely rendered by you and your staff was recorded by several members.

The secretary was instructed to write to you conveying the thanks of the Branch for the faithful manner in which all items of sewn have been published and to assure you that it is realized that any success which we may have attained is due in no small measure to the service which you have rendered.

Please accept our sincere thanks and best wishes for the future success of the Standard and office staff.

Yours sincerely,
J. E. Hamilton, Secretary,
Vermilion Branch, C.R.C.A.

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

Our weather quickly recovered from last Thursday's low but couldn't thaw (by 10th) there is a promise of coldest weather again. Since Sunday's snowfall some roads are quite heavy for car travelling and it is advisable for motorists who have to use side roads to carry shovels.

The Jr. Red Cross held a social evening at the school on Feb. 4th and quite a crowd turned out. The collection netted them $2.85 and since lunch etc., was donated there was no expense. This Friday, Feb. 18th the Juniors are sponsoring a whist drive and dance at the school.

The school children and Miss Cantell were guests of the Poplar Heights teacher and pupils at a Valentine party on Friday Feb. 11th. They were taken over by Joe Farhadi, Jr., in the truck and report a most enjoyable afternoon, skiing and sleigh riding on a hill near the school. Following this they adjourned to the school where games were played, valentines handed out and a bountiful lunch served.

We extend congratulations and good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Morlog who recently were guests of honor at a party held at Mr. and Mrs. Copper's on the occasion of Mr. and Mrs. Morlog's 25th wedding anniversary.

The district tenders its deepest sympathy to George and Mr. Nestman and to the Nestman family in Toronto on the passing of Michael Nestman.

Mr. and Mrs. Fooks, Jimmie and Keith spent the week end of Feb. 4th to 6th at Jim Thompson's. Jimmie, Keith and Eugene Lachance were also visitors there this past week end.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Bauer, also Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Hutchinson are on the sick list.

We have been requested by Miss Edna Hutchinson, teacher of the Oban town school, to report that the raffle which was to have been held at the town school on Friday, Feb. 18th has been postponed until Feb. 25th. A social is being held on the 25th and the 4th, bun or chocolate, which is being raffled to raise funds to buy a radio for the school, will be drawn for then.

The annual school meeting was held at Chatsworth on Feb. 8th with J. J. Hope, H. J. Davies, E. Thompson and R. Good in attendance. Mr. Hope having retired Mr. Good was elected chairman.

Mr. J. J. Hope Retires as Trustee

After twenty - seven consecutive years as school trustee, twenty-five of those years as chairman, Mr. J. J. Hope has retired from that position. He refused to accept re-nomination at the annual meeting held Feb 8th. He has been in attendance at every annual meeting held since the formation of the school district and has been vitally interested in all educational matters from both pupils' and teachers' standpoint. His record consideration has been given to every matter pertaining to the betterment and progress of the school.

SETTING AN EXAMPLE

There are some things about this British Empire concerning which the citizens thereof should occasionally remind themselves. Every one knows, of course, that the self-governing dominions are free and equal partners with Great Britain; that they have full control over their domestic and foreign affairs; that they have their own representatives at foreign capitals and that they entered the war entirely of their own volition.

It is pretty well known that no part of the Empire pays a penny of taxes to Great Britain. But how many know that in 1940, with the war raging, parliament at Westminster provided that £11 million sterling, which had been loaned to the colonies, would be converted into a gift, and, that right now £50 million, spread over ten years, is being paid to the colonies to develop their resources and improve their standards of living.

British colonies buy only 25 per cent of their imports from Britain. Over half their trade is with foreign countries. They are perfectly free to trade where they will. Twice as much British capital is invested in Argentina, which is not in this war, as is all British colonies put together. In India there are less than 1,000 Europeans in the civil service and less than 500 Europeans in the police force.

There have been mistakes and regrettable incidents in colonial administration, but, as Herbert Morrison, Socialist member of the Churchill government, pointed out not long ago, they have for the most part been mistakes of neglect and inertia, lessness rather than of greed and cupidity. What the world is striving for is to put international relations on as harmonious a basis as that which now exists among the nations of the British Commonwealth.

The Ratepayers' Meeting

It was very gratifying to note the goodly attendance of ratepayers at their annual meeting on the 28th to hear the Mayor and members of the town council, the school and hospital boards give account of their stewardship for the year 1943, and these respective bodies must have been pleased at the interest the ratepayers were taking in the administration of their civic affairs. It was quite manifest that those bodies were imbued with one idea, that of giving the best service within their powers at the minimum cost to the taxpayers.

• • •

As for the town council, their financial statement was about the most encouraging and heartening presented in many years. It is especially noted that there has been a general improvement extending back the past six or seven years resulting mostly from the policy adopted by the then council, or making the ratepayers tax conscious. Taxes have, as a rule, been lowered with no serious detriment of the public services of the town. There was no criticism for not spending more money as no doubt it is generally recognized the council was doing all they could under the existing system which is still practically as it was 25 or 30 years ago, and that is not good enough for Vermilion!

Regardless of how aggravated the health question may become, nothing can be done until the law is over-ruled, except possibly to put our house in order so that when the opportune time comes, we may be prepared to embark upon this much needed installation. And to put our house in order, the thing to do is, one way or another, to clean up our debenture indebtedness, see that there is no overhang of taxes and no undue expenditures made on public services in other words, conserve our civic energies to the limit. There may or may not be public moneys available for this municipal commodity, which may well be questioned, so that in all likelihood the town will be asked to contribute its share toward the cost to borrow a matter of $75000 or $150,000 will demand an A-1 credit rating, no matter whether we borrow from the government or private sources. At this it will be quite an obligation to wipe off!

The Mayor suggested the formation of a municipal reserve fund. This would seem a good suggestion, and deserve the attention of the council. It is not expected that there will be any surpluses to the credit of the fund for a few mills to our taxable tax base for the purpose. If the assessor values alone could be made to stand, $15,000 — amounts to about $15,000 — a very substantial saving in a very few years. It might be possible, if permissable, for the plant fund to buy in the school debentures outstanding. The interest saved the plant debentures entirely wiped out as well as the hangover of the government claims against the town for old age pensions and so on and that at a considerable saving to the people. The Mayor deserves thanks for his efforts in effecting an acceptable compromise.

It will be noted from the statement that the amount of uncollected taxes is now reduced almost to a minimum in contrast to what this item used to be in the good old days or between $25,000 and $30,000 or more. From now on, the town will have to be financed very largely upon the taxes collected, making it imperative on the part of the council to be judicious in their expenditures and the ratepayers in their demands for improved or enlarged public services.

• • •

The cemetery question has been rather unsatisfactorily dealt with by one council body after another and it is satisfying to note a change in the administration is under advisement. The suggestion seems a practical solution of the problem.

• • •

It would appear that the town is as far as ever from a water and sewer system. At the same time, this is a most important matter even if viewed only from the standpoint of public health. As the town grows, this service tends to grow more and more difficult and costly. And satisfactory health conditions simply cannot be had under the existing system which is still practically as it was 25 or 30 years ago, and that is not good enough for Vermilion!

Regardless of how aggravated the health question may become, nothing can be done until the law is over-ruled, except possibly to put our house in order so that when the opportune time comes, we may be prepared to embark upon this much needed installation. And to put our house in order, the thing to do is, one way or another, to clean up our debenture indebtedness, see that there is no overhang of taxes and no undue expenditures made on public services in other words, conserve our civic energies to the limit. If the assessor values alone could be made to stand, $15,000 — amounts to about $15,000 — a very substantial saving in a very few years. It might be possible, if permissable, for the plant fund to buy in the school debentures outstanding. The interest saved the plant debentures entirely wiped out as well as the hangover of the government claims against the town for old age pensions and so on and that at a considerable saving to the people. The Mayor deserves thanks for his efforts in effecting an acceptable compromise.

It will be noted from the statement that the amount of uncollected taxes is now reduced almost to a minimum in contrast to what this item used to be in the good old days or between $25,000 and $30,000 or more. From now on, the town will have to be financed very largely upon the taxes collected, making it imperative on the part of the council to be judicious in their expenditures and the ratepayers in their demands for improved or enlarged public services.

• • •

The cemetery question has been rather unsatisfactorily dealt with by one council body after another and it is satisfying to note a change in the administration is under advisement. The suggestion seems a practical solution of the problem.

• • •

It would appear that the town is as far as ever from a water and sewer system. At the same time, this is a most important matter even if viewed only from the standpoint of public health. As the town grows, this service tends to grow more and more difficult and costly. And satisfactory health conditions simply cannot be had under the existing system which is still practically as it was 25 or 30 years ago, and that is not good enough for Vermilion!

Regardless of how aggravated the health question may become, nothing can be done until the law is over-ruled, except possibly to put our house in order so that when the opportune time comes, we may be prepared to embark upon this much needed installation. And to put our house in order, the thing to do is, one way or another, to clean up our debenture indebtedness, see that there is no overhang of taxes and no undue expenditures made on public services in other words, conserve our civic energies to the limit. There may or may not be public moneys available for this municipal commodity, which may well be questioned, so that in all likelihood the town will be asked to contribute its share toward the cost to borrow a matter of $75000 or $150,000 will demand an A-1 credit rating, no matter whether we borrow from the government or private sources. At this it will be quite an obligation to wipe off!

• • •

The Mayor suggested the formation of a municipal reserve fund. This would seem a good suggestion, and deserve the attention of the council. It is not expected that there will be any surpluses to the credit of the fund for a few mills to our taxable tax base for the purpose. If the assessor values alone could be made to stand, $15,000 — amounts to about $15,000 — a very substantial saving in a very few years. It might be possible, if permissable, for the plant fund to buy in the school debentures outstanding. The interest

PLAN TO MAINTAIN HOG PRODUCTION During 1944 and 1945

Every good quality hog that can be produced during the next two years will be needed.

The current bacon contract is for two years. It guarantees bacon prices and the delivery of 900 million pounds of bacon over the contract period. To help Britain maintain her present weekly ration of 4 oz. for each person Canada will try to deliver 600 million pounds of bacon this year.

IMPROVE QUALITY

Quality premiums of $3.00 for each Grade A carcass and $2.00 for each Grade B1 carcass have been authorized. They increase the net profit in hog production and emphasize the urgency of improving quality to protect the liver-the-war position on the British market.

Hog Production is Profitable

After allowing reasonable feed allowances and liberal overhead charges to cover all possible costs the following net returns can now be expected from feed grains fed to hogs:

Wt. of Hog Live Lbs.	Selling Price per 100 lbs. dressed	Value of Hog	Quality Bonus B1 Grade	Returns per Hog	Returns for grain	Value of grain per 100 lbs.
200	$15.00	22.50	2.00	24.50	17.50	1.75
200	15.50	23.25	2.00	25.25	18.25	1.83
200	16.00	24.00	2.00	26.00	19.00	1.90
200	16.50	24.75	2.00	26.75	19.75	1.98
200	17.00	25.50	2.00	27.50	20.50	2.05

Grade A hogs on which $3.00 Quality Bonus is paid will return an additional 10c. per hundred for the grain used.

BOWTELL BULLETIN

We wish to extend our sympathy to the district's deepest sympathy to Mrs. G. Munro in her great sorrow and also to Grandma Watts and Mrs. Lloyd who were bereaved by the death of their son and brother, Wilbert, in Winnipeg.

Despite the cold day (both Fahrenheit and in the home of Mrs. Mc Illmurra to attend the Busy Bees quilting. While the business was in progress the ladies finished another quilt, making the 12th completed this winter. It was decided to make a wool comforter and tickets will be sold on same with proceeds in aid of war work. Mrs. Earl has kindly offered to put the pieces together. The ones are meeting this week at Mrs. Robinson's.

The March meeting of the Busy Bee club will be held at the home of Mrs Debord. Lunch will be served by Mrs. McClellan and Mrs. Erickson.

Mrs. Walker was a visitor on Wednesday afternoon last week at the home of Mrs. Marshall.

Friends of Mr. Tim Erickson will be interested to learn that she is again teaching school. Mrs. Erickson lived beside the Bowtell school quite a number of years ago and then moved to the prairie where is a former Alberta school teacher.

The teacher and pupils of Bowtell are sponsoring a card party and table of miscellaneous articles to be held on Friday Feb 25th. Please keep this date in mind for the proceeds are in aid of the Jr. Red Cross.

We are pleased to have Grandma Pill back in the district again

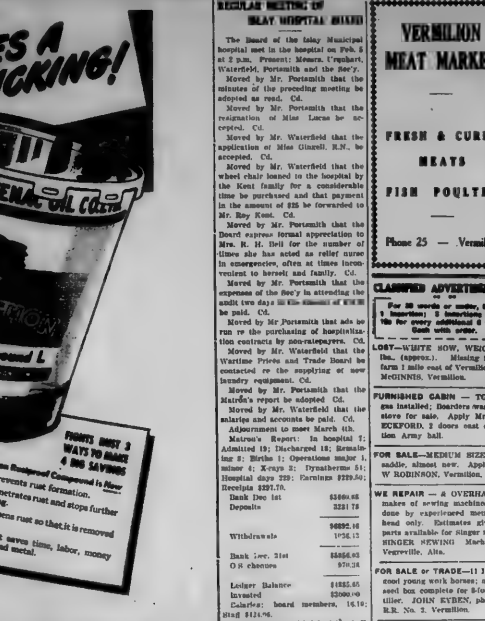
Now RUST TAKES A LICKING!



Good News for Every Farmer!

RUST robs the farmer of more than half the money he puts into farm machinery. For rust wears out farm machinery faster than actual use.

Marathon Rustproof Compound provides a sure way to stop losses due to rusting. It not only prevents rust formation, but it penetrates existing rust and stops further rusting. It "kills" rust, everywhere!

And Marathon Rustproof Compound is easily applied by brush or, when diluted with kerosene or painters' naphtha, by an ordinary insect spray gun. One application will prevent rusting for many months longer than any old-fashioned method.

Save the time, trouble and expense of delays caused by rust, this new, easy, inexpensive way. Save the labor of sharpening rusty cutter-bar knives; avoid the irritating work of trying to get rusty plows and cultivators to move properly. Save money and metal all around the farm, every day, with Marathon Rustproof Compound.

FIGHTS RUST 3 WAYS TO MAKE 4 BIG SAVINGS
Marathon Rustproof Compound is New!
1. It prevents rust formation.
2. It penetrates rust and stops further rusting.
3. It loosens rust so that it is removed easily.
4. It saves time, labor, money and metal.

Mrs. Cameron Dow New Advisor

OTTAWA — Mrs. Cameron Dow president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada has been named rural advisor to the Consumer Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Mrs. Dow who is well known among rural women across the country, will bring to the Consumer Branch her wide knowledge of rural thinking and rural ideas", Miss D. Sanders, Branch Director, announces.

A farm woman, Mrs. Dow is appreciative of the problems of tens of thousands of others like herself who cope with special conditions and at the same time manage to find opportunity for her giving leadership to community activities supporter of price control, Mrs. Dow says: "If we had inflation to any extent in this country it would make paupers of the farmers." Recalling World War I prices she comments, "True, we sold potatoes for 15 a barrel but the flour we bought went up just seven times in price in some years I think price control in this war has been our salvation."

Fifty million ration coupons become valid each week in Canada.

TRANS-CANADA AIR LINES OPENS NEW TYPE OFFICE

MONTREAL — Increasing wartime traffic has compelled Trans-Canada Air Lines to provide larger office space in Montreal and the premises, now in operation, have inaugurated a change in decoration and equipment new to Canadian transportation. Described as the most up-to-date airline office in Canada, all space, both public and service, is strikingly decorated in the modern idioms associated with the air lines. Prevailing colors are grey, green, blue, dark-blue and terra cotta. A striking feature is a large mural covering the entire wall behind the counter, executed in carved linoleum and painted to dramatize the route of Trans-Canada Air Lines across the Dominion, with a suggestion of future transoceanic routes. The present route is shown in textured glass of brilliant scarlet, with stopping points indicated by projecting discs in contrasting blue and white.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FEBRUARY 20

JESUS TEACHES TRUE GREATNESS

Golden text: The Son of man also came not to be ministered unto but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many Mark 10:45.

Lesson: Mark 9:30—10:45.

Devotional Reading: Philippians 2 1 11

Explanations and Comments

The Disciples Dispute as to Which of Them is the Greatest, Mark 9 30-34. On the way from the Mount of Transfiguration to Capernaum Jesus sought to prepare the disciples for the and days to come, and told them plainly that he was to be killed to death by his enemies, and would rise again after three days, but they failed to understand what he meant and feared to ask him. The little incident and his words make that they began to dispute among themselves over the question which of them was the greatest and would have the preeminence in the kingdom which they persisted in thinking that Jesus was going to establish. Jesus noted their angry looks and at Capernaum questioned them about their dispute. They held their peace for under his all-seeing eye they saw the shamefulness of their contention. Then Peter was ashamed to acknowledge their great folly.

In What Greatness Consists, Mark 9:35-37. Jesus sat down and, calling all the disciples to him, used the occasion to teach them that in humble service true greatness lies. "If any man would be first, he shall be last of all," he taught them. Taking a little child, he set him in their midst and then he took him in his arms as he said, "Whosoever shall receive one of such little children in my name receiveth me and whosoever receiveth me, receiveth not me, but him that sent me." The child in its need of care and dependence upon others represents the great multitude of human beings needing help and guidance and loving care.

Not in quarreling over rank, but in helping little children to grow up into the fullest, most outreaching manhood and womanhood would men really justify their place in the world. The selfish man is asking what he can get from the world, the serving man is asking what he can give to the world, and to Jesus greatness is essentially power of service. The man who is so busy training a little child that he forgets all about his own claims to recognition has already become great To the disciples it was a new standard

Japan Unable To Get Adequate Supplies To Outlying Islands

Don't be too surprised if the Japs abandon their remaining footholds in New Britain, New Guinea, and the Solomons in the near future. And if the move won't be entirely the result of the U.S. pincers movement on Rabaul. The truth is that the Jap shipping situation is becoming critical Military estimates place Jap shipbuilding at a maximum of 1,200,000 tons annually (including wooden ships) while bombs are running at a rate of 2,000,000 tons a year The 135,000 Jap troops in the Southwest Pacific are already short of supplies the Australians recently captured a number of prisoners in a half-starved condition These troops cannot live on the land and will be left to surrender or die This does not mean however that the inner perimeter of Jap defences will be any easier to crack Newsweek New York.

British Plans Pre Fabricated Houses For Post-War Emergency

The British government has drawn up plans to build thousands of prefabricated homes, designed to last about ten years, to meet the demands of the nation's civilians and homecoming soldiers immediately after the war

Housing experts in the Ministry of Works and Planning decided on the short life post-war homes, on the ground that it would be impossible to erect enough sturdy places immediately after peace comes. Sturdy, well-built homes will be built on a long term policy when conditions are more suitable.

Brahmin Priests Pray To Hindu Sun God For Peace

Prayers of 2,000 Brahmin priests rose from the sandy shores of the Jumna river to the Hindu god of the sun petitioning him to end chaos in the world and bring order and happiness to man.

It was the first time in 200 years that such a ceremony of Brahmin scholars and priests had assembled to perform this mahayajn or "great sacrifice" for the purification of the world.

The last time was in the 17th century at Benares when the Hindus persecuted by the Mohammedan Mogul Aurungzebe, recited 10,000,000 verses of praise to the sun god for purification.

Aircraft Production

The Program In Britain May Be Increased

Aircraft production, which stops the early days of the war has the first priority on British labor, soon will undergo a reduction in its personnel because the "program is in such a healthy state," the London Daily Mail said.

"Thousands of men and girls long employed in the aircraft industry," the newspaper added, "soon will be called into the services or will be transferred to other war work. The production program is in such a healthy state and the labor position has been so successfully dealt with that the industry can afford to dispense with some workers.

"This follows the biggest output year in British aircraft production history."

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

GOOD-BYE, MR. GABRIEL

By WATKINS E. WRIGHT

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Young Widow Brady's larger than most in that section of the market. Mr. Gabriel was making, and looked appealingly across the breakfast table at her very newest husband. He grinned at her and said, "Pretty awful, isn't it, honey?"

"It's terrible," she said. "I can't stand it any longer. I didn't sleep all night, and now he's begun all over again. Darling, we'll just have to get rid of him."

"Gosh! Anne, how can we do that?" Ben looked distressed.

"We could kill him, and—and—serve him at the church supper," Anne suggested somewhat timidly.

"Don't be silly," he said. "No one would ever be able to eat him. He's probably tougher than shoe leather, he's such an old guy. Besides, Aunt Lucy gave him to us for a wedding present. She considers him the finest Plymouth Rock rooster ever hatched."

"Well, he's certainly the loudest," said Anne. "If he were blowing his namesake's trumpet, he couldn't make any more noise. Oh, darling, do we have to go on like this?"

Ben tried to do some constructive thinking while Mr. Gabriel went on shattering the morning's stillness with one crescendo after another. "Look, honey," he said with emphasis. "I'm driving over to Macon to see a man about rescuing his beautiful 7-12 tak: Mr. Gabriel with me. I've a hunch Mammy Dicy would like to have him."

"Oh, that's marvelous, darling!" Anne exclaimed. "Mammy Dicy will adore having him! We'll explain to Aunt Lucy somehow, if it's ever necessary."

"He sooner said than done!" And when Ben departed shortly thereafter in his roadster, Mr. Gabriel went with him. Safely nailed in a box, he appeared quite unconcerned that the ambitious task of selling two million dollars worth of War Savings Stamps.

"Mean you are going to help sell bonds, chant, you will have the opportunity of helping along the war effort by buying them from him as many war stamps as you possibly can. Here is a recipe which will effect a saving and will help you to buy stamps:

SPICED POT ROAST

4 lbs. chuck roast
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons cinnamon
2 teaspoons cloves
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 cups tomato juice
1 large onion, chopped
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper and cayenne

Heat the fat in a heavy, deep saucepan or Dutch oven; mix together the flour, cinnamon, ginger and brown sugar, rub it on the meat and sear on all sides in the hot fat. Add what fat or drippings remain in the bottle; add all the remaining ingredients. Cover and simmer gently for three hours or until tender. If the meat is raised from the bottom of the pot, there is no danger of burning and the meat is more tender You can thicken the gravy if desired by tied together make a good roch.

BUFFINS CAN HELP KEEP YOU REGULAR

You — by eating several delicious ALL-BRAN's ALL-Bran muffins every day, and drinking plenty of water, you may help prevent constipation due to lack of "bulk" in your diet!

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN MUFFINS

1 tablespoon shortening	¾ cup sifted flour
½ cup sugar	2½ teaspoons baking powder
1 egg	½ teaspoon salt
1 cup Kellogg's ALL-Bran
¾ cup milk

Blend shortening and sugar; beat in egg; add ALL-Bran and milk; let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans ⅔ full and bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 8 large muffins.

ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in London, Canada. Your grocer has it, in 3 convenient sizes.

She smiled sweetly. "But I'll make it up to you. I've brought along a crisp new twenty-dollar bill for you to purchase something else."

"Oh, Aunt Lucy!" said Anne, thinking of a number of things she wanted. "But that's not why I did that. You see, we—" she got no farther. A sound from the rear of the house shattered the momentary silence.

"There he is now! That's Mr. Gabriel!" said Aunt Lucy rapturously. "Come along, children, I must see him this minute."

In a remarkably short time the trio were standing beside the coop. Aunt Lucy stooped and began carrying on a somewhat incoherent conversation with Mr. Gabriel. The she slightly, smiled and touched her nephew and his wife. "I know how attached you are to him," she said, "but I just must have him back. You'll never know how awful it is to wake up in the morning and not hear Mr. Gabriel crowing.

"Come on inside now," she went on, "and I'll get you that twenty-dollar bill. I'll put it in my petticoat. You never know what may happen in a big crowd."

Big Blue Mascot

Aircraftman Radar Of Royal Canadian Air Force

AC1 Radar is a model member of the R.C.A.F.

He loves his station and everybody on it.

He is particularly fond of his flight sergeant.

And he has never been known to complain about anything.

The fact that he is a Great Dane may have something to do with this, but heaven help the person who refers to him as a mere dog. He is AC1 Radar—trade, Mascot posting, a Royal Canadian Air Force Bombing and Gunnery School near Lethbridge, Alberta.

He must be almost two hundred pounds of bone, brawn and enthusiasm; the whole done up in appropriate Air Force color the blue that is rare among Great Danes

The big blue mascot enlisted last September and made his first appearance at the Gunnery School's first parade, since when no parade is complete without him He wags proud approval as "WAGS" receive their Air Gunner's wing, he surveys each march past with a critical eye, and is always on hand to take senior officers out for a little fresh air and exercise on the other end of his leash.

His quarters and office are at the station fire hall where his P.T is a strenuous routine of trying to race the fire crew from their cots to the hottie; add all the remaining ingredients. Cover and simmer gently for three hours or until tender. If the meat is raised from the bottom of the pot, there is no danger of burning and the meat is more tender You can thicken the gravy if desired by tied together make a good rock.

British Scientists

Discover Method To Double The Size Of Fruit And Vegetables

In a laboratory outside London, British scientists have discovered a way to double the size of fruit and vegetables, and of flowers, and to increase their quality and their ability to resist disease. The secret, they say, is in the use of a chemical called colchicine, which is extracted from the bulb of the autumn crocus. Experiments with colchicine are already being carried out in the United States, and it is believed that it will make a big difference to the food supply of the world.

MAY CHANGE LAW

Britain's reactionary Minister of Transport, Leslie Hore-Belisha, is the man who is going to change the law of the road in a big way in the way out. Defense Of Youth

Home, School And Church In The Safeguard Of The Young

Home, school and the Church are the great triple alliance for the defense of youth, declares The Christian Daily News This is no artificial alliance, but a natural one so natural one, so natural that society would not be normal without it Given the family as a basis for activity the school and the Church come in providentially to supplement its works, to strengthen its great purposes All three work together with a common aim, the progress of the youth for manhood and womanhood

It must be obvious that there should be the utmost harmony between the three members of this triple alliance, and they should always work together. It would never do for the school or Church to be put in the position of having to remake the family or the home Because of their failure to instill into the minds and manners of their children a proper idea of what is right and what is wrong. On the other hand, normal parents who surround their children with reasonable spiritual and social safeguards at home should expect to have them seconded and approved at school and at Church.

Atmosphere is an intangible thing, but it is a great influence on life More depends on it, in the shaping of human life and conduct, than is generally admitted Long before children are conscious of laws, rules or conventions, they are reflecting in their lives the atmosphere, religious, moral and social, in which they live How often it is said, in explanation of the good or badness of a child, that he could hardly have escaped being what he was because of "the atmosphere in which he was brought up."

To the whole triple alliance their is assigned the task of creating the proper atmosphere for youth in the world of today It is the atmosphere in which the Church and school, in union with the family, must find a way of developing to the highest degree and power. It was over "atmosphere" that led to the paganiatic follies in Germany that followed the rejection of the Christian Church by Nazi authorities This triple alliance must flourish in the hearts of all men and must permeate post-Armistice days if war is ever to be banished from the earth St Catharines Standard.

Stagette Notes

A very happy time was enjoyed on the Tuesday night sleigh ride. The little turnout was in full force topped out in their warmest rig so weather was a matter of small consequence. As the girls raised their voices in some many residents rushed out upon their doorsteps—whether in night or otherwise we cannot say.

At 9.30 we arrived back at the club rooms with appetites hearty enough to do full justice to the pork and beans, buns and coffee. The driver's thanks was rendered in woman and tame in for their share.

We were very pleased to have with us this week Mrs. Sanderson (nee Dorothy Heidebrecht, now of Prince Albert, Sask., and Mrs. H. Meech, Hilformerly Jennie Korbie.

Many thanks to Mrs. English and to Mrs. Neale Taylor who so kindly prepared and baked the beans. Ladies they were delicious!

Trucks Are Not for Joy Rides

EDMONTON.—Affirming the need to conserve truck operating, manpower and tires, R. Bruce Hall, Enforcement Counsel of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in Alberta, has issued a statement to remind truck operators that there are penalties under the law for using trucks for joy rides, and pleasure purposes such as going to dances.

"There is evidence that trucks are being used for unessential purposes", Mr. Hall stated. "Use of trucks in an emergency is condoned by the Board. But wasteful and unnecessary use of trucks is distinctly contrary to the regulations which prohibit the use of trucks, including farm trucks for pleasure purposes."

Vermilion Refinery Company Installs Petreco Electrical Dehydrating Plant

The Vermilion refinery of a PETRECO electrical dehydrating plant is the Dominion of Canada has been made by the Vermilion Refinery Company Limited, at Borradaile, Alberta, Canada, a subsidiary company of France Oils Limited, for dehydrating 16 degree gravity crude from the Vermilion oil field. This plant was put into successful operation on Monday, Feb. 21.

Mr. C. O. Brown, managing director of Franco Oils Limited and Vermilion Refinery Company Limited stated that the efforts and co-operation of Mr. G. B. Cotterelle, Oil Controller for Canada, and Dr. G. S. Hume, Dominion geologist, expedited the introduction of this new process in Canada. The wide demand for this type of oil clearing mechanism was so acute that without this assistance Mr. Brown said "the oil development in the Vermilion area would have been seriously delayed".

The heavy viscous oils of the Vermilion field have presented a difficult dehydration problem and various treating systems proved unsuccessful before arrangements were made with Petreco Corporation of Canada, Limited, a subsidiary of Petroleum Rectifying Company of California, to install the PETRECO electrical method.

PETRECO dehydration is widely used throughout the oil fields of the United states and also in South America, and the process has been especially successful on the heavier gravity crude oils. A brief description of the method is as follows:

Emulsified crude petroleum oil carrying anywhere from 20 to 60 per cent water in the oil in the form of emulsified particles is first heated to the required temperature to reduce the viscosity of the mixture, and then pumped through the electrical unit in a continuous stream. The wet oil is distributed in the interior of the dehydrator tank between two electrodes charged with a high potential alternating current for the purpose of rupturing the enveloping films surrounding the emulsion particles, coalescing the freed water particles, and then separating the water from the oil by gravity. The separated water is drawn in a continuous stream from the bottom of the unit and sent to a waste water disposal. The treated oil is withdrawn in a continuous stream from the top of the dehydrator unit and discharged directly into shipping or clean oil storage tanks.

In order to meet the power requirements of the Borradaile plant the Vermilion Electric Company has introduced for the first time electrical service in the Vermilion field. The construction of a 34½ mile line by the Canadian Utilities has already been completed and some of the operators in the field have now made extensions to their well sites where pumping of the wells will be done by electric motor equipment in place of gas engines.

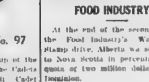
SWEETGRASS OIL PLANS 15 WELLS IN VERMILION FIELD

(Western Oil Examiner)

Sweet Grass Oils, one of the new Toronto companies interested in Vermilion area, has received a contract for an extensive drilling program in that field to be carried out by General Petroleums, Ltd., Calgary drilling contractors.

The initial program calls for drilling 15 wells and the first will be started as soon as possible on the N.W. ¼ or 29-50-5W4. This offsets the Canmar acreage and wells on the East, and West, but length of the Vermilion Consolidated conditioning plant at Borradaile, which will simplify their transportation problem.

The company is said to be fully financed for the drilling program, and it may be expected that the pay-zone will be found about 1500 to 1600 feet in the Canmar wells, No. 1c, No. 16 and No. 28.



Vermilion Squadron No. 97

The following is the setup of the Air Cadets of Canada. The Cadets are enrolled with the Air Cadet League of Canada who operate through a local committee which consists here of Mr. J. Warner as chairman, Mr. T. Watts as secretary and the following committee members Mr. Harrison, Mr. Iwasdell and Mr. Robson. The officers of the squadron are enlisted with the R.C.A.F. under a special reserve known as the air cadet corps. These consist of D. Taylor as Commanding Officer, Mr. J. Rising too as Adjutant; Mr K. Macdonald as Flight Commander; Mr. F. H. Walker as Specialist Officer. They are given the ranks corresponding to those held in the R.C.A.F. with the exception that the letters 'A' are placed before the rank indicating the air cadet training.

Pictures of Former Cadets Wanted

The Commanding Officer would like to have a picture of all former air cadets now serving with the R.C.A.F. As the addresses of many of these boys are not known to the C.O., parents are requested to pass the information along so that records may be complete.

Many friends and acquaintances of Lieut. Jack MacKay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil MacKay of Vermilion, were interested to see his photo in the rotogravure section of the Toronto star this week. Lieut. The Italians are giving Jack a very hearty welcome

GORDON PAKE RINK WINS CHALLENGE AT MANNVILLE

Laverty Quartet Second

The Vermilion rink composed of Skip Gordon Pake, Tom Watts, Lloyd Harris and Bob Bell upset the old dope bucket and won the premier event of the Mannville bonspiel last week, the Grand Challenge. To win the big competition Gordon and his "boom an' stane" artists defeated another Vermilion rink consisting of Chas. Laverty, Father O'Sullivan, Joe Leddy and Whitey Wilson.

The Elmer Stewart rink ran up five wins and was the longest undefeated rink in the spiel, ending up with 3rd in the Challenge and 4th in the Merchants.

LADY CURLERS ARE BIG WINNERS AT MANNVILLE

Take Merchants and Second in Grand Challenge

Vermilion lady curlers carried off the bulk of the jewelry at the Mannville bonspiel this week, winning the Merchants competition and also 2nd in the Grand Challenge.

The Vermilion rink of Skip Kae McLean, Kae Part, Hilda Crane and Dora Henderson won the Merchants competition, defeating Mrs. Burch of Mannville in the final.

Skip Lila Beresford dropped a thriller 9-8 last game in the final of the Grand Challenge to Mrs. Bennett of Mannville, thus bringing home second prize in that event. The Vermilion rink was completed by Lila Beresford, Mabel Wilson, Doris Caron and Mrs McKenzie.

Mixed Vermilion rink composed of Mrs. Corley, Mrs. Atkinson, Mrs Rigee and Mrs. Bell also participated Eleven rinks in all were entered. A sumptuous banquet was served the first night and a very fine time enjoyed

STUDENTS HELP IN FOOD INDUSTRY'S DRIVE

At the end of the second week in the Food Industry's War Service Stamp drive, Alberta was second only to Nova Scotia in percentage of its quota of two million dollars for the campaign.

The third week's results show sales of $9,236 for North Alberta, making a total of $35,709 for the first three weeks of the campaign, or about the quota of $12,000 for the month with several accounts still outstanding.

With several full days yet to go it is anticipated that North Alberta will far exceed their quota in this all important endeavor.

CANADIAN RED CROSS Urgently Needs $10,000,000

The Canadian Red Cross National appeal for $10,000,000 opens on Feb 28th, when the people of Canada will be asked to contribute just as much as they possibly can to make this objective a certainty.

Coming into the fifth year of a widespread war, with more of the Allied countries desperately in need of supplies and comforts as all kinds the Canadian Red Cross is stepping up production in every department in more populations to keep pace.

This year there are more prisoners of war $5,500,000 must be spent on food parcels alone, with an additional $1,000,000 for parcels for Allied Red Cross Societies

Canada's Red Cross is of extreme importance with the advance of our armed forces, and $750,000 will be required to keep this vital service continuing at top speed, as it must.

Hospital supplies and comforts for the Forces require $3 000 000

With a growing feeling that the war may be coming to a close there is every greater need for local support on Red Cross supplies. The people of the occupied countries have been subjected to unspeakable horrors and have literally nothing. With the ending of hostilities Canadian Red Cross will be faced with a tremendous task of active par services.

Peacetime conditions must be kept up with regard to clothing and first aid outpost hospitals and public health. To meet all essentials of Canadian Red Cross must raise $10,000,000

There has never been a time in history as Canadian Red Cross who there was a greater need for public support from local branches. Let us over the objective was reached

Cheer!

This year the needs are greater than in the years in the living link between Canadians at home and all overseas. Keep merry on the march

BACON SHOW ARRANGED FOR VERMILION IN MARCH

A Wiltshire Bacon show will be held in Vermilion on Monday, March 13th at 2 p.m. in the Elks hall

District Agriculturist C. H. Buck Ingham, who has charge of arrangements, advises that ten carcasses of hogs raised in the district will be brought back and displayed at the show. This will give local raisers of pigs an opportunity to see their own animals handling on the rail.

The demonstration will be handled by expert hog graders who will discuss swine production problems, feeding diseases and nutritional troubles will also be taken up.

GRAND ICE CARNIVAL ON FRIDAY, MARCH 3

Under Auspices Vermilion Schools

Vermilion public and high schools are now planning a fancy dress carnival which will be held in the arena rink on Friday evening March 3rd. There will be plenty of races, chariot and fancy costumes, and probably some other attractions now being arranged.

The complete program as far as races and classes for costumes are concerned appears on the back page of this Standard

C.W.A.C. BANDS TO MAKE COAST TO COAST TOUR

Start at St. John's N.B. on March 22nd

The Canadian Women's Army Corps Military Band and Pipe Band will commence a coast-to-coast tour in St. John, N.B., on March 22, 1944, it was announced today at Headquarters M.D. 11.

The two bands will travel together under the command of Lieut. C.W.A.C. officers and seventy-eight other ranks, including a recruiting sergeant. 50 members of the Military Band under the direction of Sgt.-Major (W.O.1.) Nadia Szajkis of Vegreville, Alta., and 27 members of the Pipe Band under the leadership of Pipe Major Lillian Grant of Victoria, B.C.

Following a two week stay at St John, the bands will tour eastern Canada and will arrive at Vermilion on October 9th, and in Calgary on the 15th, 1944. A program for the first appearance in several Alberta towns will be announced at a later date.

VERMILION WINS 7 TO 5

De-feat Lloydminster in Good Game

Vermilion's senior hockey team defeated Lloydminster 7 to 5 in a game at the arena here Wednesday night by a 7-5 score. The game was a fast shifting with neither team kept the lead at any time. Vermilion was ahead at the end of the first two periods 3 to 2 and 5 to 4 respectively. The last period was a thriller, both teams fighting hard for victory. Vermilion scored two goals in the last period to win the game. Vermilion's line-up was as follows: Goal, Bill Hall; defence, Bill Hall and Bill Hall; centre, Bill Hall; wings, Bill Hall and Bill Hall; spares, Bill Hall, Bill Hall, Bill Hall

The Paper Industry

AMONG THINGS WHICH Canadians are asked to conserve at this time is paper and in most communities there has been some evidence of a paper shortage. Many newspapers have been reduced in size and number, merchants have discontinued the wrapping of purchases. In addition, some articles made from paper have disappeared from the market, or are now available only in limited quantities. In this, as in many other ways, we have been inconvenienced less than people in many other parts of the world. For some time the paper shortage in England has been acute and the greatest care has been taken there to avoid waste of any kind. Paper is always an important item in salvage collection here in Canada, and a great deal of paper has been reclaimed through this channel

* * *

A Stimulus To National Life

Pulp and paper is of vital interest to us here, for in peacetime it is Canada's greatest industry and one half a million people depend upon it for a living. The capital invested in it exceeds that of any other peacetime undertaking and it is second only to gold as a producer of foreign exchange. Another fact which contributes to its importance is that it stimulates many other industries. Power developments, transportation systems, heavy machinery and chemicals are among the many facilities upon which the production of pulp and paper depends. It is estimated that the industry spends 40% a year on transportation alone. Agriculture also benefits from it, for it provides part time employment for many farmers and it also creates a market for large quantities of farm products to feed its workers

* * * * *

Many Essential Uses Outlined

It has been said that one of the necessities of a democracy is that its indispensable uses be widely known, and for this, paper is indispensable. In a recent address, Mr. Paul Kellogg, acting president of the Newsprint Association of Canada, discussed the many essential uses to which paper is put, and said that it could truthfully be called "currency of civilization." At present the products of the Canadian pulp and paper industry are being used extensively for war purposes, for they go into the manufacture of small arms ammunition, shells, mines and many other materials of war. Paper is also used for containers for many of the supplies sent to the armed forces. This and the effect of the manpower shortage on the supply of pulp and paper, accounts for the present shortage here. Mr. Kellogg suggests, however, that in view of the important part which it plays in our national economy, much can be expected from the pulp and paper industry in the post-war period.

Drying Blood

Britain Supplying Blood For Transfusion At Rate Of 2,500 Bottles A Week

Britain's Medical Research Council is drying human blood for transfusion at the rate of 2,500 bottles a week. The Council co-operates with the Ministry of Health's Regional Transfusion Service and the Army Blood Transfusion Service. All blood is dried by volunteers, and Britain began drying blood for this purpose in 1939; by 1943, 36,000 bottles were ready. The Germans were relying on "whole blood" until the beginning of the Libyan campaign.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—Is it right for a store to refuse to deliver an order for food unless I give an order of $3 or more?

A.—No dealer is compelled to make deliveries. As a matter of economy the Board has ruled that except in a number of specified cases retailers are forbidden to make deliveries of orders of less than $1. In order to conserve manpower, gasoline and rubber, the Board has asked the consuming public to carry as many articles as possible, and has asked the merchants to co-operate by cutting down their deliveries. In wartime every one must do their part to assist in conserving materials and labour.

* * *

Q.—I was told at my grocery store that I could not have a certain article unless I gave a large order. Is this right?

A. Definitely not! The Prices Board has ordered discontinuance of the practice by merchants of refusing to sell goods in short supply to customers unless they also buy other goods. Sale of goods must not be made on conditions upon the purchase of other goods. Thank you for giving us the name of your dealer. The matter is being investigated.

* * *

Q. Is there any law governing the size of butter pats as served in restaurants? They seem to vary in size at different places and in some places you can get two or three pats in one sitting.

A. According to the regulations of the Board, restaurants must serve one butter pat, weighing one-third of an ounce, with each meal. Please forward specific information regarding the size and number of butter pats you received and the cases will be investigated.

* * *

Q. Is it against Board regulations for my grocer to put away certain goods for me, for instance, for a farmer's wife who is a regular customer?

A. There is no regulation prohibiting a grocer from first meeting the needs of his established customers before filling orders for others.

Q. My butcher charged me what I think was an excessive price for a leg of spring prices for various cuts of lamb and beef over

Chaplains On Active Service Usually Had A Status Which Was Not Quite That Of Combatants

Casualties In The Army Chaplains' Corps Have Been Heavy

Chaplains on active service usually had a status which was not quite that of combatants, but such does not appear to be the case in this war Reports from Great Britain state that the casualties in the Army Chaplains' Corps have been so disproportionately heavy that five hundred more padres are needed. The number attached to British units has grown from 120 to 1,000, and all are volunteers, as the clergy are exempt from war service

Padres on the front lines today are as liable to the rigors of war as the men whom they accompany. They are trained to jump with parachutes and even go on combined operations with Commando forces. Untrained, they face all the hazards of invading beaches, warfare in jungles and deserts Seven British chaplains are missing thirty-eight of them have been killed in action or died of wounds and 139 have been taken prisoner In battle they perform first aid and serve as stretcher bearers behind the lines they act as welfare officer comfort spiritual adviser and friend

Maybe the Rev J. E. Gough Quinn was typical of the value of front line padres. He was killed during the prosecution landing at Salerno in Italy last September Before that he won the MC at Dunkirk, was among those besieged for five months at Tobruk in North Africa, was later wounded in Tripoli and taken prisoner, but escaped Hamilton Spectator.

Decline In Prairie Chickens And Partridges In Western Provinces

A serious decline in the prairie chicken and Hungarian partridge population in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, was reported by Hon. Elmer Roblin.

The report based on a survey conducted by 687 observers in the prairie provinces, attributes the decline to excessive mortality among the young broods, due to cold, wet weather last summer.

In Saskatchewan 52 observers reported an increase, 140 a decrease and eight no change. An increase was reported by 30 observers in Alberta, 119 reported a decrease and 68 no change. Only five of the 146 observers in Manitoba reported an increase.

Idea Did Not Work

Scotch Woman Was Not Fooled By Genuine Officer's Explanation

Mrs. Lily McGaughie, who runs a little paper store in a Scottish village, thought she would know a Canadian accent if she heard one. She was right.

"Map of district? Can't speak English very well," said a handsome young stranger who entered her store. "Canadian," he added, in explanation.

Mrs. McGaughie told him she had to get the map from a back room and rushed to the 'phone there. The police, who arrived a few minutes later, told her she was correct about her misgivings as to the prospective customer's accent. Her "Canadian" was an escaped Luftwaffe officer.

Queer Ideas On Oatmeal Value

The great Samuel Johnson evidently had a poor opinion of oatmeal porridge. "Oats", he said, "are fed to horses in England but in Scotland they support the people." And Boswell retorted "Yes, but where can you find such horses as in England, or such men as in Scotland."

Though connoisseurs of food, Johnson and Boswell were ignorant about nutrition and Johnson frequently suffered from illness caused by faulty diets. Nevertheless Boswell was close to the mark when he attributed the sturdiness of the Scots to their liberal use of oats.

The crofters of Scotland in those days did, indeed, subsist largely on oats. Oatmeal porridge made their morning and evening meal and oatcakes were their only form of bread. The oats provided them with energy, with important minerals and with generous amounts of the important vitamin thiamin or B1, in which our modern diets are all too often deficient.

"We would be a better nourished nation if everyone started the day with a bowl of oatmeal or other whole grain cereal," says Dr. L. B. Pett, director of Nutrition Services at Ottawa

"Too many Canadians skimp on breakfast and when this important meal does not carry its share of the body-building foods, it is difficult to get all that is required in the other two meals."

Itching Scalp

A Simple Home Treatment

If your scalp has broken out with ugly rashes, pustules or irritations — JUST DO this with fingers-nails at that only serves to make it worse — and execute it: Go to your druggist today, get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil, and use one drop in a little tepid water, as directed. It's easy to use. Simply rub the liquid right into the roots of the hair. Do this at least once a day and about every fourth day shampoo using a good soap. Soon you should see results. Even if only mild symptoms of dandruff, itching, irritation—the treatment until relieved and the flaking, scaling dandruff has disappeared. Continue for 2 weeks, and if then you are dissatisfied, get your money back. Druggists everywhere sell Emerald Oil.

A New Labor Code Effective For Industries

OTTAWA.—Compulsory collective bargaining and arbitration of disputes in war industries and other occupations of a national type which were previously under the Industrial Disputes Inquiry Act was made effective by a new Dominion labor code tabled in the commons by Labor Minister Mitchell.

Departmental officials said the code will apply immediately to 2,500,000 of the 8,500,000 industrial workers in Canada.

It may be further extended by a provision enabling any province to introduce legislation making the code applicable to all workers in provincial jurisdiction.

Other main provisions of the code are:

1. Establishment of a wartime labor relations board comprising a chairman, vice-chairman and not more than eight members.

2. Certification by the board of bargaining agencies representing the majority of employees in affected industries.

3. Compulsory negotiation between employers and certified bargaining agencies.

4. Conciliation procedure if negotiations for an agreement fail.

5. Prohibition of strikes during the selection of a bargaining agency, negotiation of an agreement, conciliation proceedings if necessary, and the life of the agreement after it is adopted.

6. A definition of unfair practices by employers, employees and unions.

Strikes or lockouts still are possible under certain conditions, but only after conciliation and other efforts have failed, and a conciliation board report has been before the labor minister for at least a month. Penalties for violations of the code are provided.

Penalty clauses include:

1. An employer who causes an illegal lockout is liable to a penalty of not more than $500 for each day of the lockout.

2. An employee who strikes illegally—a fine of not more than $20 for each day on strike.

3. A union or other organization authorizing an illegal strike fine of not more than $200 for each day of strike.

4. Persons or organizations contravening any sections of the code for which specific penalties are not provided in the code—a fine of $100, against an individual; a fine of not more than $500 against a corporation or trade union.

5. Persons offering bribes to those charged with administration of the code or officials who accept a bribe—a fine of not less than $500 and not more than $5,000, or imprisonment for not less than six months and not more than five years, or both fine and imprisonment

The wartime labor relations board will be responsible for matters of policy and such regulations are necessary to ensure uniformity in application of the code

The code gives all employees in industries affected the right to be members of a trade union or an employee's organiza ion

SERVING COUNTRY

Over 2,500 Canadian Indians Are Now On Active Service

OTTAWA.—That hardy warrior, the Canadian Indian, is represented by more than 2,500 volunteers on active service who wield their Bren guns as enthusiastically as their forefathers used their tomahawks.

Dr. H. W. McGill, superintendent of Indian affairs in the resources department, said the latest list of Indian volunteers showed 2,383 in the various fighting services, including some in the women's services. Practically every tribe in Canada is represented. The total is not complete as it represents only the enlistments known to Indian agents.

The available total of enlistments is "somewhat less" than that reported for the First Great War, officials said, but in the present war many Indians have been employed in essential work at home.

The majority has chosen to serve in the army, but there is a "sprinkling" of Indians in both the navy and air force.

Ontario, 1,062 Indians have enlisted, while Saskatchewan enlistments total 352, most of them Crees. Next in line, Columbia enlistments were 243, Alberta, 57; Manitoba, 156; Quebec, 164; New Brunswick, 166; Prince Edward Island 24, and Nova Scotia 92 while seven came from the Yukon Territory.

DISCIPLINE FLIST

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain.— German authorities have made hundreds of arrests as a result of the discovery of an underground plot to dynamite the great railway bridge at Bordeaux, long a target for Allied bombers, travellers from France said.

Air Crews Have Better Means Of Finding Targets

LONDON.—The R A F "blinder" force, superbrain of every major bomber command attack against a European target, is a prodigious in the battle's pre-invasion role

The force, which consists of British, Canadian and other empire fliers picked for their skill and experience, was formed Aug. 15, 1942 and took part in its first operation three days later. The force might have been created earlier, but it wasn't until then that British scientists, who had previously given all their attention to the invention and improvement of defensive weapons, were able to lend their assistance to the bombing offensive against Germany.

Details of their vital contribution must remain a closely guarded secret until the war is won but it can be said that crews have been provided with ingenious means of finding targets in the dark and when the ground is obscured by thick cloud.

Some of the most successful attacks recently have been made when every inch of the target area was obscured by unbroken cloud thousands of feet thick and when crews could hardly see the ground from the time they took off until they were back at their bases again

The Pathfinders, under Air Vice-Marshal D. C. T. Bennett, 33-year-old Australian, have the job of locating and lighting up the targets for the main force. Concentrated bombing would be impossible without extreme accuracy in timing, so science has provided the means of accurate navigation and of finding without delay targets which are invariably blacked out.

The Pathfinders use pyrotechnic bombs and flares of many kinds to indicate targets and where the bombs should be dropped, the type of signal used depending on the weather and visibility The Germans cannot mislead the attacker by copying the signals because they are constantly changed and such a great number of pattern and combinations are used that it would be impossible to have the appropriate ones available in time

The scientists also have overcome the difficulties of bombing through industrial haze and smoke screens. It wasn't until March 5, 1943, that bomber command was able to make its first really successful attack on Essen and the Krupp works, because of the haze in the Ruhr valley.

SOME REDUCTIONS

Blue Book Of War Damage Is Kept By R.A.F

LONDON.—If you saw the R.A.F.'s "Blue Book of Damage" lying on an office desk you would think some hungry accountant had just closed it and slipped out for a bite. It's not an impressive volume—plain, about three feet long, two feet wide and six inches thick (so far), but it is the most remarkable, most dramatic air book in history.

The big book has no title but junior officers around bomber command headquarters where it lies on a long green baize-covered table flippantly call it the "cookie book's." It is the favorite book of the bomber chief, Air Marshal Sir Arthur Harris. Between its blue, leather-bound covers is a diagrammatical record of the progress of the R.A.F.'s offensive against Germany. It shows in amazing detail the results of every bombing attack German attempts at reconstruction are also noted (for some months now bombing has far outpaced rebuilding).

On the outside edge of each page is a tab marked with a name like Berlin, Cologne, Essen Hanover or Brunswick Coventry is there, too, right at the start of the book. It is the yardstick for comparison Because Coventry was the first German attempt at saturation bombing.

The pages are detailed aerial photographs of German cities, and there is an overlay of drawing ink on each map When evidence is collected after each raid, experts paint out the sections, including by building, which have been devastated

On each left-hand page are black-and-white diagrams which show how many buildings and what sort, have been destroyed in every target city. They show the proportion of the whole industrial area which has been wiped out.

Will Loan To Britain Officers From Canada

OTTAWA.—A large number of Canadian junior officers will be loaned to the British army under a plan to go into effect immediately, Defence Minister Ralston told the commons

The Canadian army, he said, has a surplus of officers. This would allow many officers to get battle experience who would otherwise have little prospect for some time to come.

The transfers would be voluntary on the part of the officers and for a minimum period of three months. Their service would be restricted to the Mediterranean and European theatres in order to facilitate their return to Canadian service later

All those loaned would be trained infantry officers and the proposal was that there be one captain for every eight lieutenants loaned

Ex-army man Col. Ralston said he would not like to name the number, but a definite limit had been fixed.

Wife with British units the officers would receive pay, allowances and pension rights from Canada, on the British scale. They would not lose opportunity for promotion but while they were with the British army promotion would be subject to an British recommendation, subject to approval by Canadian army authorities

Howard Green (P.C., Vancouver South) asked why some Canadian officers could not be trained in the Pacific area with the Australians, since Canadian soldiers would eventually be fighting against the Japanese.

Col Ralston replied he was making no announcement, but some arrangements are being considered

Col Ralston said Canada had what might be regarded as a reserve of some 600 officers—in other words, subalterns a great many officers who have just been promoted, but I included older officers as well

Earlier Mr Green asked about the retirement of officers and Col Ralston said the "hard fact" had to be faced that some officers compared with others were not advantageously employed and could not do the job as well Boards were sorting out officers and seeking to find the best men for the job There had been and would be a substantial reduction in officers.

NEW ALBERTA FIELDS INCREASE OIL OUTPUT

Production from Alberta oil sources outside of Turner Valley was boosted to 222,001 in 1943, compared with 146,276 bbl. in 1942, and 94,066 in 1941. Previous reason for this 1943 increase was the development of the Taber and Vermilion oilfields, particularly during the latter half of the year. The Vermilion field is now capable of pumping somewhere between 750 and 1,000 bbl. per day, while the Taber field now has a potential of at least 1,500 bbl. per day.

It is expected that Taber and Vermilion will at least double and perhaps more than triple their 1943 output during the current year. The other minor oilfields should at least equal the 1943 yield in total. In addition there are reasonable prospects for expecting that the record scale geological and geophysical investigation carried out in Alberta in 1943, and the intensive drilling and survey work planned for 1944 will lead to the discovery of additional fields, all before year's end.—Western Business.

THE POWER OF YOUR HOME PAPER

The power of the weekly newspaper was amply demonstrated a few days ago when the Minister of Finance presented his budget to Parliament. Included in this budget was an appropriation of $325,000 for augmented the National Research Council into industrial utilization of farm crops.

Chemurgy—the research into conversion of surplus farm crops to industrial uses — was practically unknown in Canada prior to 1936. In that year Cecil Lamont, representing the Line Elevator Companies, visited the principal research centres in the United States. His report contended the Line Elevator Co. advised that a great field for expanded industries uses for surplus farm products was possible through scientific research. The Line Elevators then pioneered a campaign for establishment of a Western division of the National Research Council dedicated to finding new industrial and edible uses for farm products. The weekly newspapers were solidly behind the advocacy of this plan designed to bring greater prosperity to agriculture. Their judgment has been vindicated. Today we find millions of bushels of wheat and other grains being used for industrial purposes. The reduction in the burdensome wheat surplus has strengthened the Canadian wheat price from 70 cents per bushel to $1.25 plus what the participation certificates will finally bring the farmer. The manner in which the weekly press has advocated this chemurgy as an idea in 1938 has resulted in all political parties and farmers' organizations solidly supporting chemurgy. The Government is now making a substantial amount available to expand research into industrial uses for farm crops and has plans for the creation of Western laboratories of the National Research Council after the war. The power and influence of the weekly newspaper for good works is ...

Do Not Want Scarcity

For centuries the world lived in an era of scarcity. Now the people have the machinery, and the ability to produce in abundance. The years ahead will not permit us to hoard goods in the face of want. A civilization that is commodity rich and consumption poor cannot survive. The world of tomorrow must use its surpluses

Twenty New Box Cars Daily For the Canadian National

WINNIPEG.—Currently required to handle the ever increasing war shipments which make up the bulk of freight traffic, 2,660 new allotted to ton box cars are being delivered to the Canadian National Railways. The first has just been received from the Hamilton plant of the National Steel Car Corporation. It was a sample, built to specifications of the C.N.R. mechanical department. When the builders get into full production, 20 cars will be delivered each day.

Sixteen Years Ago To-day

Interesting Items Gleaned from the Files of the Vermilion Standard 16 YEARS AGO TODAY — 1928

Feb. 23, 1928

The resubmission of the by-law for the purpose of raising $23,000 by debenture for the erection of a fourroomed school and school site has been defeated. The vote recorded 104 in favor and 120 against. The first vote was 98 for and 86 against.

C. Raymond Taylor who has been visiting in Eastend for the past year, returned home on Friday last.

Next week Feb. 27, 28, 29 and March 1 is bonspiel week in Vermilion.

The mild weather received a jolt and 25 below was registered.

Thirty-two Years Ago Today

Feb. 21, 1912

The municipal obstacle light plant is expected to be on an operating basis in the early part of next week.

A business man in Vermilion was offered $150 for two lots on First street North by an outside party last Wednesday and promptly turned down the offer. The property in question was purchased a year ago this month for $500.

Property is moving and the demand for town lots is verging on a boom.

On March 10th Miss Gillies of Watson school and the Jr. Red Cross there will put on a blazo party and dance, do remember these dates.

Hazel Hankin helped Mrs. Tom Watt for two weeks when the latter seriously sprained both her feet on a loose board on her verandah. Mr. Bob Rankin celebrated his 68th birthday on Valentine's day, quite a milestone in one's life, and the greatest part of these years have been lived right here in our Woodvale district. Mr. Rankin being one of the RNR settlers in these parts.

Roads in the hilly parts around here are rather rough, with snow banks making the going hard, but the level roads are still open for car and truck travel. It has been more wintry the past few weeks but spring is very definitely around the corner. Some have started to drive. We would like to hear lately of Dorchester and Mary to Dorchester and Mary just call us through a call. Mary to Dorchester and Mary just call us through a call. Mary to Dorchester and Mary just call us through a call.

THE GREAT BRITAIN YOU TRULY ARE

• They have said she is isolated by the enveloping sea. But she has used it to join the hands of millions.

They have said she is fortified only by ships. They err. She is fortified by the strong hearts of her sons.

Proud in arms, with a mighty heart, Great Britain has withstood a thousand storms and will again. For hers is the strength of millions whose valour springs from a birthright of freedom.

Mother of parliaments, they call her . . . champion of justice and right.

We of her soil and of her blood and of her tutelage say this today: the world is in her debt for the part she has played in yesterday's era of peace and progress. It will be so in the peace and progress to come.

We of Canada salute the Great Britain you truly are!

THE HOUSE OF SEAGRAM

We of The House of Seagram are proud of the part we are playing in supplying Great Britain with vital weapons of war. Every Seagram plant in Canada and the United States is engaged in the production of high-proof alcohol for explosives powder, synthetic rubber and many other war-time products.

Over a recent month these intrepid pilots flew hundred miles a day at the end long T.C.A. plane were flying 22 hours last year.

BOWTELL BULLETIN

The ladies enjoyed dinner on Wednesday last week at the home of Mrs. Robinson when they met to quilt. This week a pot luck dinner is to be held at the home of the writer.

Don't forget that a card party and dance is to be held at the school this Friday with proceeds in aid of the Jr. Red Cross. A fish pond and a display table will add to the entertainment.

Frank Robinson and Tom Sherwood opened up the road by way of Mr. Kershaw's field, but we wonder how long it will stay open.

Quite a number of men are engaged in surveying on the Wright near and some say that we may have a landing field thereabouts.

Mrs. Perkins was a visitor at the Kreutzer home on Friday.

Donald Harrison was re-elected as school trustee by acclamation.

Some 22 persons enjoyed dinner at the McGinnis home on Sunday.

We must say folks that Mrs. McClellan is quite a sport journeying to the quilting on the coldest days—not forgetting Mac who does the driving.

Daddy Woodruff enjoyed lunch at the Debord home on Friday.

The writer would like to hear some expression of opinion re the store closing during the noon hours. It certainly makes things inconvenient for the farmer.

Mrs. Repp expects to get baby chicks from the hatchery this week.

Hilory Rhodes wishes to thank the people of Bowtell for the parcels he is receiving and which are arriving in A1 condition.

It is nice to hear that Jim Miller is home from the hospital

50th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. James Cavil, who were married fifty-eight years on February 16th, received the following poem, written especially for many by a friend in Vermilion —

You check up another mile today
On the road you've travelled together.
The way hasn't always been quiet
Nor sunny, at all times, the weather.
But hard the way or cloudy the skies
You have plodded on side by side
Sharing the going whatever comes
And taking it all in your stride.
As you watch the planes soar overhead
Do you find your thoughts stray back
To trekking up Vermilion Hills
With your ox team, Pat and Jack.
On a trail that wound 'round hills and holes
Through sawdrifts or drenching wet
But the campfire meals and spills on the road
Brought laughter that echoes yet.
Things must be vastly different in this changing world of now
Than on your far-off wedding day
But, I rather feel, somehow,
That you still can stand before us
An example, great to see,
That the modern can't improve upon
Or what marriage ought to be.

BOARD SAFEGUARDS QUALITY

OTTAWA.—Hidden price increases through degradation of quality in women's, misses, men's and children's wear are curbed through a new War time Prices and Trade Board order requiring manufacturers to label their goods with the WPTB license number, and style number. This will enable the Board's inspectors to trace garments to their source and investigate complaints of degradation. The order is effective on March 1.

"Inflation controls have made a valuable contribution to the welfare of Canadian farmers. Farmers stood to suffer more from inflation than any other class", said Senator Patrick Johnston, of Saskatchewan recently.

A.F.U. Held Meeting

AUBURNDALE

The Autumn Leaf Local of the Alberta Farmers' Union held their regular monthly meeting on Feb. 14, there being thirty members present out of a membership of 44, the largest of any organization that has held meetings here. Two delegates were sent to the A.F.U. convention which was held in Edmonton last month and their report took up most of the evening. Dissatisfaction was expressed by several members over the price they got for their hogs, because notwithstanding the three dollar bonus, they were actually getting less for their hogs than they got before the bonus was paid. On a count being made, out of 44 hogs shipped that week by members, only twenty had been graded select. Some members complained that their hogs had been shipped to the States, where no rail grading is done, yet they got a regulation rail grade receipt and cheque, signed by a Canadian government inspector, which caused some suspicion as to the reliability of the rail grading system. Three out of the thirty members present reported that they had not yet received their wheat acreage reduction bonus, in spite of what has been said over the radio about the bonuses being pretty well paid out. There is still much of the 1942 crop out in stooks in the fields, unthreshed, and what grain was threshed since the snow came is in danger of bealing, some loss on this account having been reported.

ROAD GRAVELLED TO TOWN

The road crew gravelling the highway from the Battle River towards Vermilion have pulled out, having finished this road, and Auburndale people are able to get to Vermilion now for the first time on a good gravelled road. The road from the the Battle River to Wainwright remains unravelled.

Sugar plantations of the Philippines and Netherlands East Indies are still in enemy hands and there is no immediate prospect of ending the sugar rationing .

The Picton Highlanders have 'adopted' a little crippled girl in Eastern Canada, and are paying for expert medical attention in an effort to cure the affliction that has injured her legs.

K. F. Pannell of the 49th Loyal Edmonton Regiment has been wounded in the fighting in Italy and is now in hospital there. An air mail letter written on Xmas Day has delayed his home here on Feb 12th. A few of the remarks are very interesting. He speaks of seeing smoke coming from the peak of Mount Vesuvius, of trouble of Capri rising straight up out of the Mediterranean, and of seeing many in that sea in December. He also remarks on how very sticky the mud is in Italy. He has seen quite a number of local boys. While in Africa he bought some eggs from an Arab and paid 15 cents each for them.

Another new member has been welcomed to the Canadian Women's Army Corps pipe band. She is Pte. Madeline Elizabeth Savage, of Dimonton, former corporal instructor at No. 2 C.W.A.C. Basic Training Centre, Vermilion. Private Savage enlisted in the C.W.A.C. on Jan. 26, 1942, in Edmonton, and following her basic training was kept on at the training centre as a platoon instructor. She took a keen interest in the Khaki Kora Kreole, the training centre orchestra in which she played the drums, and will be a drummer in the famous pipe band. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS'S PRESENTS HIMSELF AS THE MESSIAH

Golden text. Again the high priest asked him, and saith unto him, Art thou the Christ, the Son of the Blessed? And Jesus said, I am: Mark 14 61, 62.

Lesson Mark 11:1--12:44.

Devotional reading: Isaiah 23.1-8.

Explanations and Comments

Jesus Presents Himself as the Messiah. Mark 11:1-10. We have suddenly reached the last Sabbath in Jesus' early life, when he made his solemn entry into Jerusalem in a triumphal procession for which he deliberately planned. Hitherto he had feared that popular enthusiasm would hinder his mission, but now he no longer dreads interruption of his work, his hour has come, and he seeks publicity, courts the enthusiastic worship of the people. It is his dramatic assertion of his kingship.

When Jesus and his disciples had reached the neighborhood of Bethphage and Bethany, he sent two of his disciples to the village to secure for him a colt that had never been ridden, directing them to bring the colt from the fastening and if questioned to simply say that the Master had need of him and would return him. The colt was found tied in the street at the door of a house, the disciples were challenged as they unloosed him, and upon replying as directed, they were allowed to lead the colt away. They threw their outer garments upon the colt as a seat and brought him to their Master.

I beheld the procession descend the mountain bringing him," said the Egyptian to Ben Hur. "I heard them singing. They were beautiful with palms in motion. I looked everywhere among them for a figure with a promise of royalty—a horseman in purple, a chariot with a driver in shining brass, a stately warrior behind an orbed shield, rivaling his spear in stature. I looked for his guard. It would have been pleasant to have seen a prince of Jerusalem and a cohort of the legions of Galilee. Instead of a Caesar behind and swended, I saw a Man, riding an ass' colt."

The manner of his riding into Jerusalem was in keeping with all Jesus' appearing among men. The keynote of it was struck at the very beginning on that First Christmas morn, when the King came as a helpless Child, loaded with disabilities of place and family and position in the world. The stable and the manger and all the other conditions of that birthday of Jesus in Bethlehem announce the characteristics on the essential nature of his character and work. His life was consistent from the manger to the cross. He was the same Prince of Peace in his triumphal entry into Jerusalem as in his humble entry into Bethlehem" (Hugh Black).

BREN GUN

Their Bren guns sputtering volleys of leaden disaster, Canadian soldiers in Italy have proven that man for man they are fully equal to the best trained enemy troops.

A versatile weapon, equally useful for stationary and mobile firing, the Bren is a favorite among Canadians. Small, compact and easy to handle, it is particularly adaptable for troops advancing.

While it cannot make much impression against a tank or armour-plate, the Bren through long and constant usage has been proven most efficient where bodies of infantry troops face each other. It is capable of firing both single rounds and bursts.

Rules Are Tightened

Germany Has Issued New Orders Governing Postal Censorship

The chief of the German high command has issued a second emergency order, supplementing the existing rules of censorship of postal communications from Germany to neutral and belligerent countries.

The sender must now show to an official at the post office a special control card issued by the police authorities, in addition to the official certificate bearing the sender's photograph as heretofore required. The sender's communications with addressees residing abroad are entered on the control card. Applications for it can be made by all persons over 16 years of age residing in the Greater German Reich.

Furthermore it has been ruled that all communications, apart from postcards, be limited to two letters or two pages each per month. Each page must bear the full name and address of the sender.—British Overseas Press.

PEOPLE EAGER TO LEARN ABOUT VENEREAL DISEASE

Eagerness of the Canadian public to learn how the present spread of venereal disease may be controlled was indicated by attendance at numerous community meetings on Social Hygiene Day, February 2, the Health League of Canada reports.

Generously publicized by the press and the radio, and by public-spirited advertisers, the Social Hygiene Day meetings drew capacity audiences, and in some cities hundreds were turned away. For those unable to attend the special meetings, other opportunities will be offered.

In many cases mayors and other civic administrators are giving strong support to the efforts of the Health League, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and other supporting organizations in the bring school public appreciation of "Canada's major wartime public-health problem."

"HORSES"

HELEN THOMSON

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

There is nothin' a circus man hates worse than some dressed up gunt who strolls around the lot pokin' everything with his gold-headed cane and laughin' to himself as if the whole outfit is a fifth rate, moth-eaten show tryin' to be a first class circus.

This one showed up on a Saturday afternoon when we were in Newcastle. He had his cane under his arm and his hands in his pants pockets with the coat pulled back so he could show off the big heavy gold chain across his flowered waistcoat.

"Somethin' I can do for you?" I asked him, wishin' I could reach over and tie that fancy stick of his around his windpipe.

"I hardly think so," says he, lookin' an elbow in my ticket window. "I never cared much for shows like this here."

He pulled out a big gold watch. "I've got two hours to kill before train time and I thought I might find somethin' a little amusin' here, but I guess not."

He put his thumbs in his waistcoat pockets and rocked back on his heels. "I'm a speculator with horses," he explained, lookin' at me as if he expected me to keel over with the honor of havin' him on the lot. "I'm takin' this train tonight to the races at Saratoga." He gave me a sly smile and lifted his eyebrows. "And I don't mind tellin' you that I'm expectin' to come home with a nice piece of money."

"Then," I said, tryin' to keep civil, "it would be some kind of a horse race that you would like."

He nodded without lookin' at me, as if talkin' to circus hands was somethin' that about put him to sleep.

"It wouldn't matter if the horses was slow ones? You could pick the winner just the same?"

Mr. Slicker nodded again and yawned. "Maybe we can fix you up with a little amusement." I called to Joe and Bill who had been watchin' from the Wonder Mural. "This gentleman wants to see a horse race," I told them.

I was in the middle of sayin' that maybe Mr. Slicker might like that act where a black horse and a white one race around the rings five times, when he interrupted. "Can you get anybody to put up money? You know," he explained, as if the three of us was each about seven years old, "to speculate on a horse race you have to have bets."

Bill and Joe and I huddled for a minute, then I did the talkin'. "We don't know very much about horses," I said, tryin' to sound a little timid. "It's a toss up with us wether the black in this act we was tellin' about is the fastest or wether it's the white. We can't say which horse has won the most times in the past for we haven't any record. So you pick the horse you think will win, and the three of us will bet three bucks that he won't."

Mr. Slicker snapped to it with a bang. "Three hundred dollars?" Not bad, I told him. Not bad at all. He paused and smiled that sly smile of his. "But how do I know you won't fix it some way?"

"Look," I said, "we couldn't have fixed it yet because we didn't know that there was goin' to be a race until you picked your horses."

Mr. Slicker guessed that was right. "And you stay right with us after you pick your horse so you'll know that we haven't had a chance to do any fixin'."

"Suits me. Suits me," Mr. Slicker announced, tappin' the ground with his cane like he was all full of business. "Now let's look at the horses."

He sure took a look at those horses. He did everything but crawl down their throats.

"My money's on the black," he said, cuttin' a big cigar. "Main thing wrong with the white is that she's got too much wind under her. That means," he explained for our benefit, "that her legs are too long for her body."

"But what if it's a draw?" I asked.

Mr. Slicker snorted. "Won't be any draw. I said the black will win and I know my business."

Well, there we were in the house. Mr. Slicker was chewin' that cigar for all he was worth. He pretty near fell out of the box followin' the horses around the far ring.

First the black was ahead twice around and Mr. Slicker was tickled as all on the back. Then the white came up, and he chewed a couple more inches off his cigar. Then black was still ahead and from the way Mr. Slicker was standin' up yellin' Ten yards from the finish the black was still ahead and from the way Mr. Slicker was actin' we thought he was goin' right out on the track to make sure of his three hundred by carryin' the black across the line. But at the finish the horses were neck and neck—even Mr. Slicker didn't try to argue it. He just fell down into his seat like he had been hit in the stomach. And he was one poor man when he paid off.

We stood there watchin' him stagger away through the crowd.

"Wonder what he'll say when somebody tells him some time that about every circus in the country has had a black and white race—and that they always end up a draw because the horses are trained that way," he said.

"I guess we do that so's no matter which horse a customer picks for the fastest, he's not wrong. Of course," I added, countin' through my share of the three hundred, "once in a while there's one that's disappointed anyway."

RENDERS CONSTRUCTIVE COMMUNITY SERVICE

(One of a series of articles about your community lumber merchant, by F. C. Pickwell, well-known western newspaper writer)

"Mid pleasure and palaces though we may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home."

This wonderful old song has grown in popularity ever since it was composed over a century ago by John Howard Payne, an actor-dramatist. It will continue to be sung with equal fervor by coming generations. Why? It touches a responsive chord in the heart of us all.

Behind the sentiment which influenced the author was based on an unquenchable instinct: love of home and companionship. There is nothing more sacred than the alluring contentment of one's home—the foundation of Christian civilization and individual progress.

That same spirit inspired the homebuilders who developed the Prairie Provinces. Most of these are modern and comfortable. They do not look like the product of universal failures, as noisily proclaimed by socialistic politicians, but they provide a healthy illustration of Canadians who have made good—and still prefer to manage their own affairs

Considerable credit must be given to community lumber dealers for the impressive progress made in western home buildings. There was a time when the designing or construction of a home became quite a problem. Beyond cities, few if any architects were available for technical advice. This difficulty was solved in 1916, when the Western Retail Lumbermen's Association opened a Building Department to assist members in their drafting and estimating problems. Some ten thousand plans have since been drawn for the exclusive use of their customers in towns and the country

The primary purpose of this important innovation was to enable community lumber dealers collectively to render the valuable technical service to customers. Through that constructive co-operative effort it is now possible for anyone to choose from a varied collection of modern and original designs for homes or farm buildings. On the other hand, any special individual's ideas covering plans for a new home may be submitted and finally drafted by experts. All that is necessary is to come to your dealer and give him an idea of what you have in mind. These can then be submitted to the Association and the Building Department will embody them in a new set of plans. These are then altered to suit western climatic conditions a vital factor in any home.

Anyone who has gone through the ordeal of building that "ideal home" will at first admit at times will appreciate the wisdom of first having plans expertly drawn by a specialist with the approximate cost for work and material. Otherwise, you are heading for trouble by the time the necessary and costly alterations, to say nothing of disillusionment, are made. Time is saved right from the start by securing detailed plans and sound technical advice. The investment and personal aspirations are too important to risk any chances.

Take the local lumber merchant into your confidence.

Frequently when sketches are made for special plans of a home by the architect, after a thorough study, may suggest certain improvements which might be made. In such cases the changes are re-sketched and revised to meet the prospective builder. That results in better value and complete satisfaction.

Bear in mind that your lumber dealer will take up the problem enthusiastically, and take pride in assuming some responsibility for a fine structure in his community.

Germany's Reserves

May Be Made Up Mostly Of Older Age Groups

Nazi Germany must be nearing the limit of her manpower resources just as the time when the British Navy is reaching the peak of their power are preparing the heaviest blows that have yet, in the summer of 1943 the German Army was believed to number about 8,000,000 men. By calling women, children, girls, boys and forced laborers from Italy, France, Russia and Poland to man the factories and till the fields behind the lines, it is probable that it has been kept close to that figure

Nevertheless it would be surprising if the German Army were as good today as it was when it marched into Poland or even as strong as when it swept into Russia in June, 1941. Young men between 18 and 20 make the best soldiers, and it is in that age group that losses have been heaviest, if the experience of the First World War is being duplicated. The records show that for every 100 men in the preferred age groups drafted in 1918 there were only forty-six in 1917 and twenty-eight in 1918.—New York Times

MRS. FREDERICK WAITE HONORED AT SHOWER

Mrs. F. J. Richardson was hostess at a shower last Saturday evening in honor of Mrs. Frederick H. Waite, (nee Nadeen Cooper), who, with her husband was spending a week in Vermilion visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Vernon H. Cooper.

Present at the shower were many of the members of former V.H.S. classmates of the young bride. Three classmates are now well scattered and only one is still in Vermilion. During the evening Mrs. Waite was presented with a hospital basket of pretty and useful gifts. Games and contests were enjoyed, and the hostess served a dainty and delicious lunch.

NEWLYWEDS HONORED BY SHOWER AND DANCE AT AUBURNDALE

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Fletcher of this district, who were married recently, were the guests of honor at a miscellaneous shower and dance held in the Auburndale local schoolhouse by the people of the district in honor of their wedding. The young couple were presented with many beautiful and useful gifts for their new home in the Pleutel district. Vernon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fletcher of this district, and his wife, Margarette, is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Carson, also of this district. Music for the entertainment was supplied by Mr. Charles Ford, the pianist, and Mr. Jack Veitch, the violinist, who were assisted in turns by Mr. Henry Ryben at the piano and Mr. Roland Arthur with the violin. Mr. Charles Ford sang a solo, accompanying himself on the piano and Messrs. Veitch and Roland Arthur rendered violin solos accompanied on the piano by Mr. Henry Ryben. Refreshments were served and the party closed with the singing of "The Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the King".

CANTON-WATSON RED CROSS AUXILIARY

The February meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. Haan on Wednesday Feb. 9 with ten members present and Mrs. MacFarlane a very welcome guest. We really should say eleven members, as young Joan Green, accompanying her mother, helped to put the quilt together and did some work on it before the members arrived.

At the January meeting an officers were elected as there were not enough ladies present, so after the quilt was finished the following new officers were elected: Mrs. M. Watson, president; Mrs. L. Green, vice-president; Mrs. F. Van Wageningen, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. C. M. Macbrair, representative. The blankets made out of washed woollens which were sent away last March, were received and were distributed. Three blankets and a rug were donated to the Red Cross.

The next meeting will be on March 9th at the home of Mrs. Iran Lewis, as usual a quilt will be worked then.

A quilt was made on the 16th at the home of Mrs. G. McGrath by the local ladies. Mrs. McGrath made the quilt out of wool, left-over flannelette and blocks from the Auxiliary.

Mrs. MacFarlane very kindly donated a lovely handpieced quilt top, which will be worked at one of our future meetings.

A big box of finished articles, 44 in all, was sent to Vermilion. The collection brought $1.30 and $1 was received from a friend of the Auxiliary.

FLT. LTNE. MANNERS PRESUMED KILLED IN ACTION

Flying officer Frank Manners, reported missing in September, 1942, is now officially presumed killed in action. The information came through Red Cross channels, quoting German reports. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dawson Manners, are living in Edmonton, B.C.

P/O. Manners was born in Edmonton and received his education at Vermilion high school. He was employed by the Yellowknife Supplies Ltd., N.W.T. prior to enlistment, and went overseas in October, 1942. He had completed many operational flights over Germany and was first reported missing in September.

A younger brother, William (Bill) Manners is now serving overseas with the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps.

Fats in large quantities are still required for essential war purposes and the need for continuing to collect them is as pressing as ever.

CHEMICAL FORWARD LINE PROVES BIG ATTRACTION

The three Chin brother of Lucknow, Ont., are the main reason why the juveniles of that town are at the top of their league. The three Chin boys are Chinese, sons of a restaurant proprietor of that town. They have played two league games without a loss and three lads have scored 61 goals and chalked up 86 assists. Incidentally two of them have not drawn a penalty all season and the third brother has spent only six minutes on the fence. The boys are all, 16 years, Albert 15 and George 11

Stagette Notes

The girls met as usual on Tuesday night in the rink room. Most of the knitting seems to be coming along fine and several have reached the heel stage of the sock or mitt-end-only, and this kept our more experienced knitters busy.

The girls voted a donation of ten dollars towards the prizes for the school carnival March 3rd and in addition plan to add the entertainment by accepting the challenge of the local firemen to a game of broomball to be played after the races.

Plans were made for our annual St. Patrick's ball to be held March 17th. Any novel ideas will be welcomed.

Very soon the girls intend to raise the town for donations of old magazines, books and paper stories to be forwarded by the local I. L. representative to Edmonton from where they are distributed to service men. Anyone having anything to contribute please notify any of the stagettes and someone will call.

See that your Sub. is paid ahead!

V. H. S. NOTES

Here we are coming into the last lap of the War Savings drive. The students have expressed appreciation for the aid given to Pool in Canada's drive. The Stamp sale will cease at 4 p.m. on Saturday, February 26th. Will the week amount to $200. Total sales are $177. Try it boy, stamps on the last day of the drive.

DANDELIONS IN BLOOM TRA-LA

Yes sir, dandelions are in bloom, not just one or the yellow beauties (?) but a whole heapped of them, and even they like the first crow, look nice at the time of year Harbingers of spring. Maybe, but this is doubtful as the pesty flowers are blooming in the recently built tractor repair shop of R. H. Norton, where some artificial heat has brought the plants to life a little earlier than usual. The dirt fiend seems to be as hard and dry as cement but the dandelions are apparently flourishing in spite of it

Regular Army trucks are now being equipped with new detachable fittings that can convert them into unbalances with a minimum of delay. The fittings are harness like in appearance and stretchers are slung from them

NATIONAL WAR LABOUR BOARD

Incorporation of Cost of Living Bonus into Wage Rates

THE ATTENTION of all employers in Canada, subject to the Wartime Wages Control Order 1941 (P.C. 9384), is directed to the provisions of the Order requiring them to establish for each of their occupational classifications, one above the rank of foreman, a single wage rate or range of wage rates as prescribed by the rules set out in Schedule "A" of the Order by adding to the previous authorized single wage rate or previous authorized range of wage rates the amount of previous authorized cost of living bonus, and that such established single wage rate or range of wage rates shall be effective for the first payroll period beginning on or after February 15, 1944.

Employers who may not be paying the authorized cost of living bonus as required by General Orders of the National War Labour Board, issued under dates of August 4, 1942, and November 5, 1943, pursuant to the provisions of the Wartime Wages Control Order, P.C. 9963, are required to include such amounts of cost of living bonus in the establishment of wage rates of their employees under P.C. 9384 effective for the first payroll period beginning on or after February 15, 1944, as stated.

W. H. WILLIAMSON TO DRILL WELLS AT IMMIPEG

M. H. Williamson, well known local oil well driller, has received a contract from an American syndicate to drill three wells some 3 miles north, and 1 mile west of Insinger. He plans on commencing preparatory work this week.

Geologists spent considerable time in this area, last summer and fall and indications are extremely favorable.

ELECTION RESULTS STILL INCOMPLETE

One Poll To Hear From

Returns are not quite complete in the election held for councillors in the new municipal district of Vermilion River No. 150, there being still one poll in the L.I.D. to hear from However this is not expected to change the present standing of the candidates and the leaders in the eight divisions are Clay, Teesman, Benton, Quist, Casterton, Hillsby, Braithwaite, Lawrence.

Voting is reported as being exceptionally heavy in the northern part of the enlarged unit, especially around Marwayne and Derberry, with the south half polling a much lighter vote. Complete returns will be carried in the Standard when available.

The first meeting of the new council is scheduled for the Alberta hall, Lloydminster, on Friday, March 10

GRAND CARNIVAL THIS FRIDAY, MARCH 3

Plans are complete for the grand carnival at the Vermilion arena on Friday evening March 3 and everyone should make it a point to attend. There will be costume judging, races for all, a drill by public school girls, prewee hockey and broomball. The costume judging starts at 7.45 and from then on there will be something doing every minute.

RATIONING OF MEAT P SUSPENDED

Temporary suspension of meat rationing and meals on Tuesdays in Canada, effective Tuesday at mid night, was announced that day by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Ilsley. No coupons will be needed for meat or restaurant meals between those times.

"Rationing will be introduced as a means of building up surpluses of meat for export to Britain and the present acute shortage in Canada is due to a bottleneck in transportation and shipping," said the prime minister in a simultaneous statement.

"As soon as these conditions are eased and more supplies can move from the west into eastern Canada it will be necessary to use rationing again to create an equal supply of the reduced domestic sale cause for economy."

All machinery for meat rationing will be retained. It has been understood, however, that the present coupons that have not expired. The meat trade was asked to retain coupon value charts and under meat rationing documents

Vermilion Squadron No. 97

The local squadron of the air cadets held their usual Monday parade with 24 cadets present in addition to the officers, for the evening were air-craft recognition, and signals.

On Wednesday a spitfire pilot recently returned from operations, Fl. Sgt. De Nanteuil will visit the squadron and it is hoped that in spite of the local hockey game a good number or cadets will turn out as we are looking for a very interesting evening.

A church parade has been called for Sunday morning at 930 hours at the Canadian Legion hall from whence we will proceed in the C.W.A.C. barracks to join in with them in their church parade. A good turn out is hoped for.

Canadian Red Cross Needs Your Help

Be Generous! Give Freely!

From the beginning of this global war, the Canadian Red Cross has, through the support of its loyal volunteers, shouldered the responsibility of caring for the wounded and needy, bringing comforts and supplies to the Armed Forces; seeing to it that aid and succour is available on all battle-fronts, and turning out clothing and surgical supplies in astronomical quantities.

Now with the most critical phase of war looming up, there is a call upon the energies and resources of Canadian Red Cross workers, unique in all history. It is not only for the crisis at hand, that vast preparations must be made, but for the aftermath.

For Canadian Red Cross service, contrary to some erroneous belief, will NOT cease down after the battle is won. . . . The Armistice signed. In reality the drain upon resources will be expanded many times over

This is not like the last Great War, when some of the countries in Europe went unscathed. Europe is devastated—ravaged — stripped of its possessions as by a swarm of locusts. The peoples of Europe are homeless. Their possessions are what they can carry in their pockets—or a pitiful little bundle. They have nothing!

Not one item of supply turned out by Canadian women volunteers in Canadian Red Cross workrooms shall go to waste. Every smallest strip of material available will go toward the making of clothing and hospital supplies, and all the manifold necessities of just everyday living

The Canadian Red Cross is asking for Ten Million Dollars. This money will be dispensed with scrupulous care. It will be made to go a very long way. When you give—give for now—and what comes after. Canadian Red Cross needs your help. Be generous!

ELKS CONTRIBUTE $26,000 TO 'SAVE THE CHILDREN' FUND

To rebuild British children bombed out of their homes as well as children rendered destitute by the bombing of their homes because of the war, is the aim of the Save the Children Fund, to which the Elks of Canada at their annual convention in Edmonton contributed $26,000 Fifty cents per capita of the Elks' membership was donated.

Many members of the Elks' lodges made considerable contributions to the work of the Fund during the past year, and the Elks' convention was the occasion of the presentation of many cheques to the Fund. The Elks' contribution brought the total amount up to the $1,000,000 mark and over a million dollars has been contributed by Canadians to the Fund to the present time. The Elks' contribution is the largest amount contributed by any one organization in Canada.

The presentation of the Elks' contribution was made by Grand Exalted Ruler Bruce A. Campbell of Toronto.

Food Production

PROBLEMS OF AGRICULTURE now, and in the post-war period, are of great interest at this time Lord de la Warr, chairman of the Agricultural Research Council of Great Britain, toured Canada recently, and was present at the eighth annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, held in Quebec city. During his visit to this country, Lord de la Warr addressed a number of public gatherings, and he expressed the opinion that farmers have it in their power to bring about the lasting peace and the state of plenty which are among the things for which the United Nations are fighting If, however, agriculture is to be encouraged to bring its potential production capacity to the maximum, he believes that farmers must be guaranteed fair and steady prices and that conditions of world trade must be improved.

o o o o o

Many Measures Are Suggested

A recent report tabled in the Canadian House of Commons by the Advisory Committee on Post-War Reconstruction contained an interesting section dealing with the future of agriculture This part of the report was prepared by a sub-committee under the chairman ship of Mr. Donald D McKenzie of Winnipeg, Chief Commissioner of the Board of Grain Commissioners It emphasized, as did Lord de la Warr, the need for improvement in world trade conditions, and for measures which will assure financial security for farmers. It also points out the value of co-operation in agriculture. Other measures recommended included classification of farm lands by means of soil surveys; increased cultural and recreational facilities in rural areas; the encouragement of research to find new uses for farm products, and a farm housing plan

o o o o o

Problem is Now Fully Realized

The measures mentioned above are only a few of those contained in the report which drew attention to the need for improved systems of rural credit, and dealt with many aspects of foreign and domestic marketing problems. Findings of the United Nations' Relief and Rehabilitation Administration showed clearly the importance of food production in restoring the world to peace and order, and Canada, as a great agricultural country, is able to contribute much towards the essential undertaking. It is apparent, however, that many problems will arise and it is to be hoped that they will be worked out wisely, and that a proper balance may be established between the demand for food, and agricultural production. In the past, failure to establish this balance has been the cause of many of the world's difficulties, but now that the problem is fully realized, means may be found for solving it successfully

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q—As a rural housewife, I find the distribution of non-rationed articles that are scarce most unfair. The stores in towns put things on their shelves at intervals but it is almost always the country people who go without, as sometimes they only go to town once a week. Would not the rationing of all scarce foods be the solution?

A—Scarcity, as stocks of some of these articles are insufficient to provide more than the normal turnover and limited rations Moreover, rationing is a difficult and costly procedure, both in the sale of foods to and to expand. Further rationing would also add to the trials of retail merchants.

o—

Q—I read somewhere that the price of hand fixed ceilings for the sale of horsemeat. Surely this does not mean that it is to be placed on sale for human consumption?

A—Of course not. The ceilings in question apply to the sale of horse meat to fur ranches and others for animal feeding.

o—

Q—I entertained two soldiers for a weekend and they left me their unused ration cards. Can I cash these at my store?

A—No. They are merely applications for the basic ration documents to be accepted by merchants. They should be retained at your Local Ration Board for coupons covering the quantity of your choice. These coupons should be presented to your dealer.

o—

Q—I operate a small truck occasionally. Is it necessary for me to have signs on the truck giving my name and address?

A—Yes. Signs should be painted on both sides of the vehicle giving the name and address of the truck owner.

o—

Q—Are the "D" coupons that can be obtained for corn syrup on the surrender of sugar coupons good for corn syrup or honey?

A—The extra ration for corn syrup is for baby foods, invalid and age, however, if for medical reasons, other persons need more corn syrup in any diet after she is two years old, the medical certificate was presented to a Local Ration Board.

o—

Please send your questions or your opinions on the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mentioning the name of this paper, to Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Regina, Sask., or your nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office.

Mirrors Too Have Come To War In A Big Way

"Oops, she's gone and had luck, I guess." How familiar is this ejaculation when someone breaks a mirror. The seven years and luck superstition goes back many years. The Romans believed that health moved in seven year cycles. As a mirror reflected the appearance of an individual, they thought that if a mirror broke that meant the health of the person was broken too, for seven years.

Mirrors as they are known today were invented by the Venetians early in the 13th century. In the 17th century the process of silvering glass was brought to England. In those early days, this process was much a closely guarded secret that any person breaking into a mirror factory was banished from the kingdom for seven years. This is another version of how the superstition arose.

The first mirror was a quiet pool in which ancient man saw his own likeness. The early Greeks made their mirrors of polished bronze while the people of Egypt gazed at their own reflection in highly polished metal hoofs.

But today mirrors are not used only to see if milady's nose is in place or if her powdering, too, have gone to war. They are used in the manufacture of telescopes and microscopes. When a British or American submarine lets loose a "tinfish", blowing an enemy ship out of the water, it is through a mirror reflection that the submarine-periscope works. Fast action cameras which Canadian forces use in reconnaissance have mirrors in the range finders. Reports say that a German fighter brought down in the Battle of Britain had a cabin lined with mirrors. These give the pilot a rear-view of all oncoming fighters.

INDIA'S RICE CROP

According to the first all-India rice forecast, India's total rice crop will be a record one, exceeding 29,500,000 tons, as against her pre-war consumption figures of 27,500,000 tons, made up of 26,000,000 tons produced in the country, and 1,500,000 tons imported from Burma.

A Bargain in Bread

Supposing you went to the grocer's tomorrow and saw a sign over the bread display that read—

SPECIAL TODAY
Extra Vitamin B1 Calcium and Iron
— FREE with each loaf

could you resist a bargain like this? Yet that very bargain is offered, though not advertised, every day in every store where whole grain bread is sold alongside white. The same bargain can be picked up among the cereals too, for whole grain cereals provide those same extra food elements.

Canadians are being urged to eat more bread. If we are to do so we should make sure that it is bread that is rich in the whole wheat bread.

Adult daily requirement of Thiamin or Vitamin B1 is placed at a minimum of 500 International Units. Generous use of real whole wheat bread helps secure this essential, as it is the richest bread source of B1. A single slice of 80 grade flour (85% extraction) gives 100 units. Enriched bread yields only one sixth of the vitamin potency—S I U

Recent surveys show the average Canadian diet low in calcium content —yet in respect to calcium, the use of whole wheat bread can step up the family's supply of this important mineral by 6%, which may make the difference between an adequate daily supply and a diet below par in this respect.

Moreover, whole wheat bread has more nicotinic acid and iron than the white bread or enriched bread.

Don't forget what a great deal more you get for your money when you buy whole wheat bread!

Contributing To Victory

Many Of Edison's Inventions Being Used In Present War

February 11, marked the 97th anniversary of the birth of Thomas Alva Edison. During his life, Edison was a man of peace, and his invention led to better living. His contributions to industrial progress helped pave the way to a more abundant and comfortable life for millions of people. And the basis of his work was research aimed at and intended to produce this result.

However, upon this anniversary of his birth, the people of the world find that they must rank him as one of the great warriors in the present global conflict. Years ago he invented a tiny tube in which he produced the "Edison effect". We know it now as the fundamental discovery from which has sprung the science of electronics, with its myriad uses. It is one of the greatest weapons of war, but not the only invention of Edison's that is contributing to victory. Through all the uses of electricity, right down to the huge plants where it is produced, the works of Edison are evident. On ships at sea, in the giant bombers, in the communication systems that save countless lives in the Asiatic jungles, in the defence networks of England—in any theatre of war activity—major devices and implements are to be found which had their origin in the mind of Thomas Edison—Kingston Whig-Standard.

BRITAIN'S ARMY

In the last war, Britain put into the field an army of 5,000,000 In the present war, her manpower regards the Army, Navy and Air Force is very much greater. In addition, the output of her war factories today dwarfs production of 1918 This achievement has been possible only by using the services of her women folk on a scale which far surpasses that of any other belligerent—including Germany

THE FIGHTING FRONT

Great Britain has a population of 48,000,000 and is an island situated, at its nearest point, within 20-odd miles of the German army. Those two simple and well known facts carry implications which are worth reflection at the present juncture of war

Britain Takes All Dairy Products We Can Supply

OTTAWA. — Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced in the Commons that a contract is being negotiated under which Britain will take all the cheese Canada can provide during the next two years.

Mr. Gardiner outlined government policies for dairy products during the year starting May 1, and announced subsidies to be paid for fluid milk, cheese, butter and concentrated whole milk.

The new subsidy levels will be on a lower plane for the first five months of the year starting May 1 than they were during the last seven months of the preceding year, the minister said, but on the basis of the months of 1944-45 they will be on the same level as in the corresponding months of 1943-44.

Any surpluses of butter or canned milk which may result from the dairy policies can be marketed in Britain, he said.

Authority is being taken through the food board to direct plants to depend on the same sources for milk supply as in a previous year, the minister announced.

The basic subsidies from May 1 to Sept. 30 will be 35 cents for 100 pounds except in some areas where it will remain at 25 cents, the price paid in the same months last year. Other subsidies for the May 1-Sept. 30 period, which will be paid in the same months in 1943-44 in brackets, follow:

Milk for cheese, 20 cents per 100 pounds (nil); butter, 10 cents a pound butterfat (eight cents a pound butterfat paid from May 1 to Sept. 30, 1944); concentrated whole milk, 15 cents a 100 pounds (nil).

"We have large supplies, along with the flour under prices already provided through our agreements and otherwise for dairy production," he said, "if weather is favorable, in a record production in dairy products in 1944," the minister said.

"We feel we had justified in urging the highest possible production of cheese in the cheese-producing areas, the highest possible production of butter in the butter-producing areas, the utilization of duplex plants for cheese in summer and butter in fall and winter seasons where duplex plants exist, and the production of whole milk tributary to cities and processing plants turning out commodities desired in our war effort

NOT MUCH SUCCESS

Japanese Trying To Salvage Repulse And Prince Of Wales

CHUNGKING. — Marcus Cheng, Chinese evangelist who escaped from Singapore by junk last year, said the Japanese were striving to salvage the British warships Repulse and Prince of Wales, sunk off the coast of Malaya in 1941, but have had little success.

Cheng said the Japanese shortage of shipping was reflected in the failure of Japanese-made goods to appear in Malaya Nor have they been able to export rubber, huge quantities of which lie idle and unused

He said British-led guerrillas, operating from the jungle, were a sore trial to the Japanese. The guerrillas were reported well-equipped and well organized. They include Britons Australians, Indians and Chinese The largest number are Chinese, who have joined to avoid conscription by the Japanese, he said.

Cheng said Japanese policy toward white prisoners was and is one of deliberate degradation.

Report Is Made On Employment After The War

OTTAWA.—When peace returns and the transition from war to peace economy is completed, there may be available to Canadians from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 unfilled time jobs, said an interim report on rehabilitation tabled before the commons reconstruction committee

The report was prepared by Dr. G. M. Weir, acting director of training in the pensions department, and tabled by Pensions Minister Mackenzie.

Questioned by newspapermen, Dr. Weir said later it appeared safe to assume there will be about 500,000 jobs additional to those available in 1939 after the transition from war to peace.

Replies to questionnaires had been on different bases, he said, and it could not be said exactly what number of the total of between 1,000,000 and 1,500,000 "available" jobs could be called "new" jobs.

An official summary of the report said it was based on the opinions of more than 50,000 people in Canada and on a questionnaire filled out by 347,000 persons in the armed forces.

Based on the opinions of these Canadians, the report said, it is believed:

1. That full employment in the post-war period is feasible;

2. That rehabilitation opportunities will be increased by about 50,000 with need for doctors and dentists being the last;

3. That construction and building, manufacturing and agriculture will offer the greatest opportunities for employment for men in the armed services; and that the three principal fields for women will be in professional, personal and miscellaneous service, vocational and clerical work.

Dr. Weir said his report is based on assumptions that growth of population and industrial development after the war will continue at as rapid a pace as in the past; that fairly full employment and gradually increasing standards of living will be realized; that government controls will be relaxed; but that there will continue to be government direction and an extensive program of public works if needed.

The report also assumes he said, that social services will be developed fairly rapidly; that post-war expansion will not primarily involve increases in jobs arising from "boom" conditions; that there will be effective conversion of war industries to peace-time pursuits; and that, in order to provide full employment, a reasonably high national income must be maintained to assure decent standards of living and adequate social services.

Mr Mackenzie said in a statement to the committee that on the basis of the survey it is estimated that provision should tentatively be made for the vocational training of close to 200,000 young people now in the armed forces.

The minister said the comments and conclusions in Dr. Weir's report merely suggested the extent of the problem and the scope of the partial inquiry already made

While "far from being conclusive," they were offered on the basis of factual data collected from several thousand people are a better guide "in assessing the nature and extent of the rehabilitation problem than the intuition or judgment of any one person."

CONQUERED LANDS

Germany is Exploiting Big Part Of Occupied Territory

LONDON.—The Germans now are exploiting part of their conquered domain at a rate equivalent to about $10,400,000,000 annually, the House of Commons was told by Dingle M. Foot, parliamentary secretary to this ministry of economic warfare.

In a written reply to a question he said the estimate does not include any data on levies against occupied parts of Russia, Greece and Luxembourg or losses in the occupation of France and Belgium which a re been incorporated into the Reich

CHANGE IN REGULATIONS

OTTAWA.—All ranks of the army and C.W.A.C. now may wear civilian clothes on leave of seven days or more, army headquarters said. Previously army personnel could only wear clothing other than uniform for sports requiring special dress. The change in regulations was announced in a recent routine order.

BETTER VARIETY

Development Of New Type Of Durum Wheat Is Announced

WINNIPEG.—A new variety of Durum wheat, having outstanding agronomic and quality characteristics, has been developed it was announced by the associate committee on grain research in convention here.

The new variety is called Carleton, the committee said in a statement which recommended the variety to be increased for early, distribution and classified as high grade Durum wheat.

Experiments in the study of glycol production by fermentation of wheat, the statement declared, showed that butadiene, a constituent of synthetic rubber, could be produced from wheat more easily with glycol than with alcohol as an intermediate step.

Glycol is also used as an antifreeze and in production of synthetic chemicals.

The need for producing new varieties of flax and sunflower seed with a higher yield of oil and superior quality was emphasized by the committee. Investigations into experimental studies in oil seeds were progressing at the University of Saskatchewan.

STANDING ARMY

Think Canada Should Maintain Army, Navy And Air Force After The War

OTTAWA. — Some business men and women and some members of Canada's armed forces believe the Dominion should maintain a standing army, navy and air force after the war

This was revealed in the report Dr. G. M. Weir, acting director of training for the pensions department, tabled before the reconstruction committee

Dr. Weir said in the report he questioned between 200 and 300 professional men and women members of the armed forces on the subject of Canada's preparedness for another possible war or preparedness in helping maintain world peace.

On the average, those questioned believed Canada should maintain at home an army of 50,000, a navy of 25,000 an air force of 30,000 a commercial aviation strength of 25,000 and about 20,000 munitions and equipment workers.

It was felt Canada should have a two-ocean navy and a modern merchant marine "manufactured and manned by Canadians" Dr. Weir said. Provisions for training soldiers, sailors, airmen and merchant marine personnel after the war also were discussed.

The provisions would involve:

1. Claims of military and naval science in larger Canadian universities. Aeronautical and marine engineering, with their backgrounds in mathematics and physics, would receive special emphasis in engineering faculties.

2. A Dominion institute of technology and military science should be provided for post-graduate and research work.

3. High school curricula should provide for preliminary military mathematics and sciences, also fully developed cadet courses.

4. Correlation of physical training with the Dominion National Physical Fitness Act of 1943.

Allies Are Not Ready Yet To Invade Europe

LONDON — Why don't we hurl large forces across the channel and end the war?

This is a question many Britons and Americans are asking. The blunt answer is "Because the Germans might fling them right back at us."

If just the opening of a western front would bring victory, it would be a different question, but it is going to take weeks and months of the bloodiest kind of fighting on the continent before Hitler collapses

Because this task is more than one of a mere landing of 50 divisions In the average man's mind a division means about 15 000 men But the experience in Africa, Sicily and Italy indicates that to supply one fighting man at the front it takes from four to eight behind the front

The longer men must fight on land the more essential do the behind-the-lines soldiers become as the war moves away from the ports and supply lines become more complex. Therefore, a division to a military man means handling not 15 000 men, but 60 000 or more Once they are ashore it takes tons of shipping to keep them going

What is known as the "tail" of an army

When one recognizes that the Germans have been able to boost their strength along the West Wall to 50 divisions it is easy to understand the determination of the Allied high command not to move until it is certain that the punch will carry through to victory.

Behind the scenes thousands of dead left in Russia, the German army must suffer much more killing before a collapse comes. Their reserves have been drained almost dry by the Russian front but their frontline strength is almost as formidable as ever and not until the Germans' divisions cannot be replaced is the end near for Hitler.

Will Not Accept Nazi Peace Bids

LONDON — Germany has been making—and continues to make—outright bids for peace, but these have failed so far about the Allies' unconditional surrender stand that Hitler's Nazi party and Germany's Junker generals have been drawn together by mutual desperation as a result

This outgrowth of Germany's increasingly grim outlook is the approach to a final Allied onslaught was emphasized by pronouncements of two war leads of the Allied "Big Three" Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Joseph Stalin

It first might been known, Russia reported peace bids, both by official Nazis and the unofficial Junkers regime, but have been far more substantial than mere rumors However, this indirect approach to the Allies, on the heads of Europe still in Nazi clutches, has been with terms still favorable to the Reich's escape from doom to many

"Hitlerite diplomats," Stalin said in an order of the day on the 26th anniversary of the founding of the Red army "have been rushing from one neutral to another trying to establish contacts for Hitlerite elements, looking at separate peace, sometimes with our allies, sometimes with our Allies

But such moves he asserted, are doomed to failure."

Twin statements this in with reports, issued for months, of thinly-veiled Nazi diplomatic feelers for peace, first in Turkey and more recently in Portugal Russia is reported to have been approached through Bulgaria, with which the Soviets still maintain diplomatic relations Stockholm has been the centre of the latest diplomatic manoeuvring, in which F. Peck was reported attempting to sound out of an unhealthy alliance with the Germans against Russia

Mounting mutual peril apparently brought Hitler and the old-time Nazi-despising Prussian generals to a mutual footing in this situation, and resignance of this was taken by Mr. Churchill in his report on the war to the House of Commons

"Hitler and his police are still in full control," he said, and the Nazi party and generals have decided to hang together."

He took his training at Brandon, Calgary and Jarlow and left for overseas on March 21, 1941. He was stationed in Scotland for 17 months following. During this time he made 51 trips over Germany, on one of which he lost his first pilot who fell a prey a prisoner of war. He then went to North Africa and was under the American Centralized Airforce. He was stationed there until Dec. 1st, 1942.

During the time in North Africa he made 12 raids over Sicily and Italy. On the last trip over Sicily which was on the evening of June 28th he was accidentally injured in air combat with the Germans. As a result of his injuries he remained in base hospital for six months and six transfusions were necessary. On this memorable trip the rear gunner got a German machine - Warrant Officer Roberge suffered leg injuries in the thigh from a portion of cannon shell which stuck in the bone. On the return journey on this trip, a distance of 275 miles taking 64 minutes, the other members of the crew administered artificial respiration 11 times. He recovered consciousness 3 days later, remained as mentioned above

The leap year dance at our school proved to be quite a success last week with the girls choosing their partners before supper time and giving the boys a chance to be wallflowers. Jim Lomas did all the bidding that night and did a good job of it. Jack Schaum, Hegfeld and others helping out with the music and encore. The two boy girls who gave the dance, had the satisfaction of making $5 for the Red Cross.

Mr. Harry Portanski had an operation on his eyes in Edmonton and is expected back this week. We hope complete recovery will be the result in the very near future.

A farm forum meeting was held at the home of Chris Thomson on Monday 21st with twenty people there, some of the younger ones played cards, thirteen taking part in the discussions and everyone enjoying the lunch served by the young hostesses Ruby and Lucia. The doughnuts and cake were really delicious girls!

On Sunday young people of the Union and surrounding districts got together for a skiing and sleighing party at the farm of Val Bodalska. We have not heard at the time of writing, but we bet that everyone had a good time on that sunny afternoon.

We hear that wedding bells will ring soon for several couples in neighboring communities. Those sparklers always bring in inevitable excitement and guesswork when the great day will be.

MAYOR MORRISON GIVES INAUGURAL ADDRESS

a little more passable than at present.

Our water courses should be given attention so that the ever-recurring spring freshets along Main Street and Bulyea Avenue at least can be diverted to their proper channels.

Consideration should be given by the Council to the matter of engaging a street foreman or making some arrangement whereby the work can be carried on.

If the proposed cemetery by-law is adopted, greater emphasis can be placed upon the development of our park system. The trees planted on the sidewalk right of way in Block 1 should be removed and placed elsewhere. Unsightly trees in Railway Street park should be removed.

The placing of a sump for fire purposes in the area near our elevators, as has been suggested, should be carried out. The elevator companies pay a considerable amount in taxes and have little or no fire protection.

SANITATION

There should not be much required by this department except that some action be taken with respect to the septic tanks in the business block. Owners should be made to have three cleaned out every so often. The incinerator in Block 4 should be repaired. I believe it would be advisable to appoint a Sanitary inspector, to make inspection when directed. It is scarcely fair, under present conditions, that we should insist on the Medical Officer of Health attending to this part of the service, particularly as regards restaurants and other public places.

BUILDINGS

The Zoning by-law should be amended so as to meet present conditions, in fact our whole building by-law should be revised.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

I think the Fire committee should at once take into consideration (1) has already, to some extent) the matter of rehabilitating our fire department. In the connection, I feel that an effort might be made to organize a junior brigade with officers of its own as it is here you are to find the the firemen of tomorrow. In view of our depleted brigade, these young men should be of some assistance in case of a fire.

FINANCE

I am pleased to note the Finance committee is taking steps to create a municipal reserve fund as suggested at the ratepayers' meeting. There does not seem to be any reason why we should not be able to finance most all of our temporary loans wholly within ourselves.

BY-LAWS

Some of our by-laws need revising so as to bring them up to present day requirements. The Business Tax by law is one that requires immediate attention as was suggested by the Finance committee in its annual report.

Pressure is brought to bear to have our parking by-law amended and this matter should engage your early attention. I do not think side-parking will relieve the congestion of the town owners — some other arrangement must be made for them.

I note the agreement between the town and the Power Public Service will come before you for revision and this will require the earnest consideration of the Council board.

I wish to compliment Supt Wiebe on his renovation of the Electric Light and Power plant, including installations that were outstanding for two or three years. I believe the plant is now in better condition than it has been for years. The return steam line will require attention this year as well as being it up to proper working condition.

I think it would not be out of line to give some consideration to the establishment of an auto camp. There were enquiries the last year or two for such facilities and it might prove of much value to the business interests of the town.

I regret that Councillor Stewart did not see fit to re-offer for election. He was a very valuable member of the Council and his services were appreciated by the members and by the ratepayers as a whole.

The Court of Revision should be held at the earliest possible date so that the work of levying our taxes may be completed without undue delay. In the meantime I feel a roll might be made upon taxpayers to make payments on account. This should apply equally as well to the business tax. We need this money.

I must congratulate the secretary-treasurer upon the excellent manner in which he is carrying out the orders and instructions of his office.

I must also express my personal appreciation of the co-operation extended me as Mayor by the respective councillors and trust these happy relations will continue for the coming year.

The matter of appointing a street [illegible]

NORMAN BURCH BURNED IN GARAGE BLAZE

Norman Burch, 22, was severely burned about the hands and face in an explosion which damaged his garage in the rear of his home at 10027 81 ave., last Saturday.

Firemen who reinstituted the fire were told Burch had gone into the garage to light a heater there, and that the explosion occurred when he lit a match.

Burch was taken to hospital for treatment. His condition was described as good Sunday night.

HOW TO ORDER MAPLE SYRUP

EDMONTON.—Westerners who like to order maple syrup direct from producers Back East, have been inquiring about ration regulations, now that syrup comes by coupon.

Ration officials here state that it is illegal to send loose coupons through the mail, but the ration administration, WPTB has arranged that it can pose for maple syrup can be exchanged for a special purchase voucher at any Local ration board. These purchase vouchers may pass through the mails.

Each 2c coupon is worth 10 fluid ounces (1 quart) of maple syrup. It will require four 2c coupons to exchange for one voucher to buy a ration of syrup.

The producer in the East returns the voucher to the ration administration.

"WE MOCKERS" AID MILK FOR BRITAIN FUND

"We Mockers" girls club announce that Betty Milne won the doll's bonnet in the recent draw. $12.80 was the amount realized by this means for the "Milk for Britain" fund. Thanks are extended to all who purchased tickets. Every dime collected means another quart of milk for the children of Britain.

Miss Betty Bowlen of Brandt Airways, Rockport, Texas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Bowlen of Vermilion, sponsored the launching of an army boat built in the Hire Hess and Co. shipyard in Rockport. The boat was christened by Miss Bowlen during a brief launching ceremony recently, large photos of which appeared in the "Rockport Pilot".

Mrs. K. Lambert left for Edmonton this Thursday morning where she will spend a week visiting her daughter Mrs. Bonnie Lindell. While in the city she will be the delegate of the St. Saviour's W.A. to the Anglican W. A. convention being held in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Beckett join in writing the Editor a letter this week and extend their greetings to their many old friends here. They have not been many Vermilionites lately but did run into Bob Brennan a short time ago. Their son Larry has been in England since last August and spent his Xmas leave in Edinburgh. The only Vermilion boy Larry has seen in England is George Douglas who is stationed but a short distance from him.

Thos. Dick attended a two-day conference of Government vendors in Edmonton on Tuesday and Wednesday. The vendor stores here was closed during that period.

C. M. Feaney, president of Canoe Oils Ltd., is a business visitor to Winnipeg this week.

WILDMERE WISPS

Our weather turned a bit stormy as old February passed out of the picture.

Wm. Smith drove to the city last Friday to bring back his mother who was visiting there. Johnnie Bath of Basswood accompanied him and so Mrs. Bathe was also in the city they all returned home on Sunday.

The writer and family visited over a short while at the Rendell and Whitlock homes on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Rendell has been sick this for a couple of weeks but is now feeling some better.

A nice crowd attended the dance on Saturday evening. Several had a grave time and a pleasant evening was enjoyed.

One of our young men of Hazeldell is giving up being a bachelor on March 7th when he will take to him self a wife.

Miss Gwen Dibbon, who has been a patient at the Calgary San for nearly three years is now home for a visit. Everyone is very pleased to hear the good news.

We understand that Mr. Tessman is our big division councillor, he got 77 votes, Mr. Hodgins 39 and Mr. Winters 28 in our division. Polls did not take a very good turn out, probably it was the stormy day and again some did not know where to cast their ballots as the polling places were not well advertised at all beforehand.

Mr. Fred Johnson has joined the armed forces and left for Calgary over the week end. His wife and children are staying at present with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Wilson of Tramble.

Funniest thing was Mrs. Cecil King of Thorneliffe going down the street in Vermilion last Friday carrying a new potato fork. Kind of rushing the season isn't it?

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear husband who passed away March 5th, 1938.

Home here back in the sunset
Where loveliness never dies.
He lives in a land of glory
Midst the blue and cool of the sky
And I who dearly loved him
Whose passing has brought many tears.
Will cherish his memory always
To brighten the passing years —Ever Sadly.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of
Mr. Thomas Giles
— so passed away March 4, 1943.
Time steals on each day we live passed,
Since death its gloom and sadness cast
Within our home where all seemed bright
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light and ever will
His vacant place there is none to fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain
For up in Heaven we will meet again."
—Ever remembered by his wife Lily and family.

Queen Honors Airplane Crew

W. W. FOWLER

The three members of the crew of a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane were recently honored by Queen Wilhelmina at the Netherlands Legation in Ottawa. They were in charge of the plane which carried the Queen from Ottawa to an East Coast port last July on her way back to Britain after a visit to the Dominion. They are W. W. Fowler, of Blackville, N.B., who was captain of the aircraft; Arthur J. Tomkin of Medicine Hat, Alta., co-pilot, and Miss M. J. Clinch, of St. George, N.B., the stewardess. Queen Wilhelmina presented a gold pin with the Royal cipher superimposed on a crown to each of them.

A. J. TOMKIN

Captain Fowler who began flying in 1927 has been with TCA since the inception of Canada's transcontinental air service. He is now assistant operations manager at Winnipeg. Tomkin, a native of Keewatin, Ont., joined the TCA service in 1941 at Winnipeg. Miss Clinch is a graduate of Saint John, N.B., General hospital and joined the air line in September of 1942.

A Word For The Doctor

Helping To Bear Burdens Of War At Home Add Ailments

Among the people who are helping to bear an extra burden in this war are the doctors. It is doubtful if there is any greatly affected by more than four years of conflict and the depletion of ranks through enrolments for active service, than the general practitioners. Not only are the doctors with reduced civilian ranks carrying on the full peacetime services in hundreds and hundreds of communities all over the Dominion, but they have had to assume additional work and responsibilities, obviously brought on in many instances by the war.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S PARASOL

Queen Mary sent to the chairman of the British Red Cross Sales, the parasol which Queen Victoria carried at the opening of the Great Exhibition in Hyde Park in 1851. The parasol is of white China silk lined with green silk, and is richly embroidered in coloured silks in a floral design. The carved ivory handle is in the form of a Chinese dragon.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

MARCH 5

JESUS'S UNDER HIS DISCIPLES TO WATCH

Golden text: Watch therefore: for ye know not when the lord of the house cometh. Mark 13:35.

Lesson: Mark 13:1-37

Devotional reading: I Thessalonians 5:1-11.

Explanations and Comments

I. Prophecy of the Destruction of the Temple, Mark 13:1, 2. The temple was a glorious structure, the pride of every Jew. As Jesus and the disciples were leaving the building on that last Friday of his life, one of them turned for a last look and casually remarked, "Teacher, behold, what manner of stones and what manner of buildings!" Josephus has described the immense size of the stones and the marvelous beauty of the building. The remark led Jesus to solemnly declare that all would be destroyed, not one stone left upon another. "It was already destroyed in the eyes of Jesus by the corruption, impurity, the blasphemy sheltered within its walls. Not Roman legions, but stiff-necked rebellion had accomplished the work."

A Prophecy Concerning the Fall of Jerusalem and Coming Events, Mark 13:3-10. When the little group of the Master and his four earliest chosen followers had reached a point on the Mount of Olives where they had a perfect view of the temple, they sat down and talked there. The disciples were still lost in amazement at Jesus' words, and asked him privately to explain them, to tell them when his prophecy would come to pass, and what would be the signs of its coming. Jesus did not answer their question, but warned them of what was coming and how they must meet it.

"Take heed that no man lead you astray," he said. There would come those who would proclaim themselves the Christ and would deceive many. Among false Messiahs who later appeared three are mentioned in the Acts Theudas, Judas of Galilee, and the Egyptian." Josephus speaks of "a body of wicked men, who deceived and deluded the people under pretense of divine inspiration."

Jesus especially warned his disciples to be prepared for suffering and persecution; they would be beaten on synagogue axe, have to stand before the bar of rulers and kings in The Acts we read of Peter standing before Herod, Paul before Felix and Festus and before Agrippa, and in 2 Timothy 4:16 before Nero. In all their trials they were to bear witness for Christ. Furthermore, the gospel must be preached to all nations—to do this was their supreme duty.

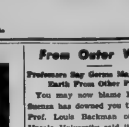
RAILWAY MEN PROMOTED

W. R. DEVENISH,
Vice-President, Western Region,
Canadian National Railways.



WALTER C. OWENS,
General Manager, Western Region,
Canadian National Railways.

During the increase of traffic and the expanding activities of the Western Region of the Canadian National Railways caused by war time conditions, it has become necessary to enlarge the supervisory administration of that territory, according to an announcement made by N. R. Walton, executive vice-president, in appointing a general manager for the region to relieve the heavy burden carried by W. R. Devenish as vice-president and general manager. Mr. Devenish will continue as vice-president of the Western Region, and Walter C. Owens, of Winnipeg, formerly assistant general manager, has been appointed general manager and will maintain headquarters at Winnipeg.

"Railway" he said, which is the primary measure of operating activity, during 1943 reached a record practically equal to that of 1942 which established an all-time record for the Western Region, these two years providing the highest traffic density during the past 20 years. The region extends from the head of the Great Lakes to the Pacific Coast and includes the Canadian National shipping facilities.

Other promotions and appointments of senior officers in the Canadian National System are also announced by Mr. Walton. J. P. Pringle has been appointed vice-president and general manager, Central Region, with headquarters at Toronto, succeeding Major F. L. C. Bond, D.S.O., who has retired after 45 years railway service. Professors Say Germs May Come To Earth From Other Planets

You may now blame Mars if Influenza has downed you this Winter. Prof. Louis Bachman of Sweden's Upsala University said it was quite probable that influenzas and other epidemics of mysterious origin were started by germs from other planets, which had been pushed to the earth by the propulsive power of sunlight. Bachman cited experimental evidence to prove that viruses could survive the temperature of 450 degrees below zero to which they would be exposed during their voyage through space. It was also thought far from fantastic to suspect that organisms not only might be propelled by the sun's rays but also might hitchhike eastward on meteorites.—Newsweek Magazine.

CASSEROLE OF BEEF

2 tablespoons corn starch.
1½ lbs. round steak, cubed
2 tablespoons maizena
1 medium size onion, chopped
1 cup boiling water
½ teaspoon salt
1-16 teaspoon pepper
½ cup diced carrots
1 cup diced raw potato

Method: Dust meat cubes with corn starch; sear in hot maizena. Add onion; cook and stir until golden brown. Add boiling water and seasoning, tightly covered, until almost tender (about 45 minutes). Add diced vegetables, continue cooking 20 minutes. Pour into 1½ quart casserole filled with maizena, cover with a tender biscuit batter and bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 15 minutes. Serves 6.

FRENCH TEA RINGS

Make dough as for rolls or buns.

Roll out to thin sheet, spread with melted butter, sprinkle with chopped nuts and brown sugar. Roll up like jelly roll, form into ring and cut deeply through with scissors, making cuts one inch apart. Place on a greased tin sheet and allow to rise until doubled in bulk. Bake slowly in moderate oven.

Set basin of hot water at bottom of oven.

Under Lend-Lease

British And American Supply Officials Agree On Limiting Shipments

Virtually all essential civilian goods shipments to Britain under lend-lease is understood to have been agreed upon by British and American supply officials at Washington. The decision is one of numerous adjustments being made to keep lend-lease exports closely geared to military needs.

For several months the quantity of machinery going to Britain has been decreasing steadily, largely because British plants now have about all they need except for occasional replacements.

The approaching climax of the war in Europe has accentuated the policy of limiting all lend-lease supplies to those needed primarily for war purposes. Lend-lease officials apparently are determined not to leave themselves open to Congressional criticism that they have supplied other countries equipment having more use in the post-war period than during the war.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Cup Of Gold

— By —
GEORGE JAMES MARTIN
McClure Newspaper Syndicate

His throat burned. He'd had no liver since yesterday noon at the Bad Lands, just beating the sheriff over the Mexican line.

The soldados on this side might be after him, too. He hadn't robbed the cash drawer in the bonnery where he'd been counterman; must have been the manager who took the dough. That was why the skunk had had him slapped into jail. What chance had an ex-con like himself to explain that the manager had used him for a fall guy?

He'd busted out of that pest-ridden cell. With no food, water, or horse, he was lucky to get this far. It might be smart to climb this next rise, keep low and have a look around.

This was luck—that house below, sprawling in all that green growing stuff. Must be water there. . . . .

Had the rancho been warned about him? He must chance it.

Warily nearing the hacienda, he approached a man with a drooping white mane, who wore a brocaded jacket above trousers which clung to his lean shanks. He noted the saddle. On closer view he saw an aquiline nose and piercing eyes set off by white skin bespeaking aristocratic Spanish ancestry.

The ranch owner smiled benignly. "Buenos dias, amigo. You are welcome." Then, understanding, "Water, si?" He called to a peon: "Juan, bring water!"

Quigley and the cold draugn craftily watching the peon make a spirited repost to his employer, he deduced that he'd been lay by in the direction the peon was pointing.

"Ah—you feel better, Senor. May I ask why you were hospitably run over?" Keen 'em moving! Reminded him of that jail stretch, marching this way, blistering feet, wet. Keep 'em moving, walk over the ground without getting his shoes muddy, the rake can be brought into play.

In his bath new karma lay in patching the soil should be raked fine and level. Another valuable saving only by the highest quality of seed mixtures, the thick at the bottom of the can. Of course, when there is no wind blowing.

Both new and old lawns benefit from rolling while the ground is still soft. Grass like any other plant, needs good soil and an annual application of fertilizer to advantage. This pushes growth so that many weeds are crowded out

Clawing at feet, hugging legs, he locked up into the eyes of the white-maned caballero.

"Water, Senor! Here is your gold —take it. For God's sake forgive me!"

"You do not need forgiveness, Senor. It is the custom of our people to leave a cup of gold in the guest room for wayfarers to help themselves on their journey. The gold is yours amigo, for the taking . . . but Senor you look your weariest here. Then wust after you to return it

Man Hitler Selected Is Most Ruthless Nazi Of All

According to Stockholm reports which may be taken as well-informed, Hitler recently held a Berchtesgaden conference at which he indicated Martin Bormann as his successor for the Fuehrership in case anything happened to himself. Whether this is a bid that Hitler confers plates hara-kiri, which he has frequently stated would be his next exit is extremely anybody is at liberty to guess. His selected triumvirate in the event of his own demise consists of Bormann, as Number One with Goering and Himmler

Bormann's reputation is a sinister one. Not much is known of him, but enough to know about him, the most ruthless Nazi of them all. His present task is disciplining Germany's dangerous home-front partisans of millions of conscripted foreign workers. These are said to total over twelve millions, and they have been showing signs of restiveness Bormann's plans for handling them are as drastic as his reputation suggests. He is an atheist, and is described as "a chunky little man with thin black hair." He will undoubtedly look his best on a gallows.

GARDEN NOTES

The Start Is Vital

If there is any secret of success to victory gardening, and that applies also to the other kind, then it is probably an early and thorough start, and though there may still be snow on the ground and actual spring weeks away, the experts say that it is not too soon to start planning.

Probably a million Canadians gardened for the first time last year and some of them, it is feared, were only moderately happy about the results. They ran into a great deal of trouble with weeds, twitch grass and baking earth. The bulk of this could have been avoided had there been a little planning, and especially cultivation before the seeds were planted. It is easy to kill weeds by a thorough digging or cultivation before anything is planted and the same thing is important in preparing a victory Garden is not enough. It should be cultivated deep and fine and, if possible, well fertilized. If maximum results are to be expected.

THIS TIME

Easily the biggest yielding crop one can grow is the garden vegetables. Not only can most lines be grown close together but with some things like radish, spinach, lettuce and carrots, for instance, a second crop can be harvested in the single season.

Small vegetables like lettuce and radish require rows only 15 inches apart. Beets, beans, carrots, peas and spinach need a little more space between, while potatoes, tomatoes and staked tomatoes must have a couple of feet to thirty inches. Space may be saved with the latter type if something quick-maturing such as lettuce and spinach are planted in between. The bigger things will not need the full room at first, and by the time they do the early crops will be out of the way.

If room is extremely limited, then experts advise cutting vegetables to make early heavy yields—lettuce, carrots, beets, onions, celery and, possibly, cabbage and potatoes. A 20-foot row of any of these will supply a family of four with plenty of greens. The expert who appreciates garden possibilities will also grow a row of corn. These things take up no more room than a row of peas, but are needed for a worthwhile crop, but only from the garden right at the back door. Good soil, water and peas be obtained.

Save Grass Early

Any work with lawns should be done early in the season, if it is to be of the most benefit. This does not mean that the soil should be worked while it is still wet. But as soon as you can walk over the ground without getting his shoes muddy, the rake can be brought into play.

In this new karma lay in patching the soil should be raked fine and level. Another valuable saving only by the highest quality of seed mixtures, the thick at the bottom of the can. Of course, when there is no wind blowing.

Both new and old lawns benefit from rolling while the ground is still soft. Grass like any other plant, needs good soil and an annual application of fertilizer to advantage. This pushes growth so that many weeds are crowded out

German Officers Forbid Sailors To Associate With Norwegians

The morale of German sailors in occupied Norway is so low that their officers have forbidden them to associate with "undesirables among Norwegians," meaning non-Quislings, according to a private dispatch to Stockholm's Tidningen

By going about with the Norwegians over more intimately the German sailors' morals is affected to the extent that they are doubting the right-ousness of the German cause the dispatch said

In the coastal city of Aalesund, headquarters of the Norwegian patriots, the German port captain banned all relations between German sailors and Norwegian civilians, the dispatch added After nightfall Germans are kept on board ship to insure that they will not be "contaminated" by contact with the Norwegians it is said

Red Cross Notes

The monthly meeting of the Vermilion Branch of the Canadian Red Cross was held in the Legion hall on Monday, Feb. 21st. Ven. Archdeacon Laverendye presiding, Miss Jean Ivey acting secretary.

Various reports were received, among them one from the Junior Red Cross representative, setting forth the various activities of the children in the public school from Grade 2 to 6. Work for Grade 1 is the great deal of ground and included donations of money to the Crippled Children's Hospital, making scrap books for the inmates and sewing, both for the Crippled Children's hospital and a Chinese orphanage. Credit is due both teachers and pupils for their endeavor.

New information has been received regarding the issue of wool parcels, both as to change in addressing some parcels and listing of various foods allowed in parcels. Such information may be obtained from the Secretary.

A copy of a letter was also received which had been sent to the Chairman from Air Vice-Marshal N.I.M. Maclean, Chairman of the Soldiers' Comforts Committee, Canadian Pacific Westminster, Eng., who said that at the Branch Conference of the association at which were present over 60 representatives from every part of the United Kingdom, it was unanimously agreed that the grateful thanks of the body be sent for the magnificent and ceaseless supply of beautiful clothing etc., received since the early days of the war. The letter continued, "The clothing has been of inestimable benefit to countless thousands of families and has been a real contribution to the war effort. The Council of the Association will be very grateful if their thanks could be conveyed to all those who by their unremitting efforts have contributed so generously to this great and beneficient work."

A large amount of money will be required this year to meet the needs of the Red Cross and the National drive for funds will come in progress. Plans are being made accordingly.

Stagette Notes

The regular meeting of the stagette club was held on Tuesday night in the schoolroom.

The girls are busy selling tickets for the annual "Killarney Kapers" to be held on March 17. Novelty dances and fun galore will be the order of the day.

Armfuls of magazines came pouring into the clubroom. Many more have yet to be collected. Thanks folks for your contributions

50,000 PAMPHLETS SENT OUT

Calling for a reduction of Alberta motor licenses and drawing attention to farmers' need to restrict the motorist's full use of his car, 50,000 pamphlets have been distributed to automobile owners by the Alberta Motor Association.

The A.M.A. says the license fee should be governed by and sufficient only to cover the cost of recording ownership so that the public may ascertain ownership readily, and the cost of necessary registration.

It says further that whether or not the existing fee was justified in time of peace, it ought to be reduced under existing conditions so as to make a reasonable allowance for the limited use of the vehicle and reduce the cost of operation per mile to a reasonable figure.

Car owners are asked to discuss the matter with their local M.L.A.

The pamphlet also outlines the objects and services of the A. M. A., which is the third largest organization in Canada devoted to motorists' interests.

A. TOVELL AGAIN HEADS CHATSWORTH A.F.U. LOCAL

The annual meeting of the Chatsworth Local of the Alberta Farmers' Union was held on Wednesday, Feb. 23. A. L. Tovell who has been president for the said local for the last two terms was again elected president for the coming term by acclamation Other officers to be re-elected were Vice-Pres., R. Brenham; Secretary, G. J. Nestman, directors Harry Pechocko, Richard Good and H.J. Davies.

A short report on the A.F.U. convention held in Edmonton was given by the A.F.U. director Mr. Nestman. His report covered the increased delegates to the convention and the increased membership. He pointed out that the A.F.U. had a U.F.A. contact committee in the past, and still has, on the matter of amalgamation. No progress on this matter can be shown and the speaker went on to say, using the words of Henry Young of Miller, "We directors are doing all we can to amalgamate but at the rate of absorbing the U.F.A. members, in a couple of years there will not be anything to amalgamate with". He also pointed out what the Unions wanted to affiliate with the Farmers Union and that the convention moved that this possibility be investigated, pointing out that no affiliation will take place unless the farmers will benefit by such a move and this can only be brought about by another convention or referendum.

The meeting went on record, unanimously, in use of Varkle fly powder in an effort to bring about a district that would be free from Warble flies. Richard Good and M.D. Smith were delegated to interview the councillors of Minburn M.D. re a mile and half of main road that is in the Vermilion Valley M.D. The road in question being the 1½ miles at the end of Indian Lake road, east of Baker's corner leading to the north road south of town. The meeting was of the opinion that the Minburn councillors could persuade the Vermilion Valley M. D. to build this road or pay the Minburn M.D. to build same.

With this as getting the ladies to join, a meeting is called for March 11th at Chatsworth with invitations sent out, especially to the ladies of the district to attend.

BEER PURCHASERS IN FEBRUARY CUT OFF FOR THE MONTH OF MARCH

Suspension of purchases or beer in March by permit holders who bought beer in February, announced Friday by J. A. Kling, chairman of the Alberta liquor control board.

Owing to the rush to buy beer in February, the month's quota was exhausted by the end of the first week and further sales were suspended until March 1.

"Thirty-five thousand permit holders found themselves unable to buy beer in February, because supplies were exhausted," said the board chairman. "In addition, other persons took out permits in February and they too were unable to obtain beer.

"To accommodate these permitees who were not able to buy beer in February when the call did, they will not be allowed to buy any for the month of March," said Mr. Kling.

The effect is that if a permit holder bought beer during February, no further purchases of beer can be made at government vendor's stores until April 1.

Hockey Attraction For Saturday Night

Edmonton Junior Champions Here

Saturday night the strong Edmonton Navy team will clash with the Vermilion Bombers in ice Vermilion arena. This Navy team, "Nonoels" recently won the Junior league playoffs in Edmonton against the Canadians.

The Vermilion Bombers are well prepared for the combat and it will take plenty of Navy to stalk them. Les Williams, Eag Spooner, Kevin Douglas, Lan Messler, Keith Dowdell and Marvin Crowell will be on deck with Brooks Branting on a new cut in the rubber supply. Your old favorites, Clarence and Manson Barr and Ernest Maslaski will be out there personally to see that no breakdown will occur and will give plenty of rough praise for the sailors to navigate. The club has made some spectacular showings this season and will undoubtedly give both the Navy and spectators something extra special to look at.

A capacity crowd is expected to be on hand and extra seats are being installed to provide for their comfort. The game will get underway at 8:30.

ORGANIZE VERMILION FISH & GAME ASSOCIATION

To See Motion Picture

At a recent meeting a number of Vermilion sportsmen decided to form a Fish and Game Protective League, in affiliation with the Alberta Fish and Game Association.

The general aims and objects of the various leagues which are scattered across the province are:—

1. Conservation of Alberta's Game animals, fauna—birds, game birds and Game fish.

2. Protection of forests, lakes and streams.

3. Promotion of protective legislation for wild life useful to man.

4. Dissemination of knowledge to young and old in regard to wild life.

5. Propagation of the "Spirit of Sportsmanship" respecting of legal bag limits, owner's rights, etc., and avoid the slaughter of wild life.

Various projects for the Vermilion district were discussed. Among these were the following:

1. To sponsor and organize the destruction of crows and magpies, both by means of bounty and by organized hunts.

2. The introduction and protection of pheasants and Chukkar partridge to the Vermilion district.

3. To investigate the possibility of stocking some of our deeper lakes with game fish such as perch

4. Conservation and protection of the few deer which have recently been found here, and the stocking of same.

5. Promotion of the project to dam the Vermilion River and thus form a suitable lake for fish and bird sanctuary.

TO SEE DUCKS UNLIMITED MOTION PICTURE

Arrangements have been made to hold an open meeting on Tuesday, March 14th at 8 p.m. in the Elks hall, to see the motion picture, "Into the Land Where Ducks Unlimited". The is a picture which cost over $10,000 to produce and should be well worth seeing. An invitation is extended to all who are interested to attend this meeting. Guest speakers will be Mr. G. M. Gosnell, Secretary Alberta Fish and Game Association. Mr. R. Harker, Alberta Manager for Ducks Unlimited and Geo. J. Kettle, Vice-President of the Alberta Fish and Game Association.

WILLIS WICKED CURLING BROOM ON COYOTE

(By Our Islay Correspondent)

On Friday last Mr. Mr. Inman and Dr. Street were whizzing along the highway in a car they hit a coyote, throwing it into the snow. It could still run but not too fast so Dr. Street seizing a curling broom that was in the car, pursued the animal. The coyote ran into a culvert and as it came out the other end the Doctor swiped it on the tip of the nose with the broom, knocking Mr. Coyote completely out. We are now waiting to see that pelt somewhere.

VERMILION MAN AWARDED MILITARY MEDAL

Posthumous D.C.M. for Derwent Hero

Sixty new Canadian awards for value in the Italian campaign have been approved by His Majesty the King, Col. J. L. Ralston, minister of National Defence, announced in Ottawa on Tuesday.

Included in the awards was that of Military Medal to Pte. J. W. Magistad of Vermilion and of the Distinguished Conduct Medal to Sgt. (Acting CSM) Walter Lawrence Bober of Derwent (posthumous).

The citations for valor are as follows:

Pte. J. W. Magistad, M.M.

Born at Ardmore, Alberta, Private Joseph William Magistad resided at Clandonald, Alta., prior to his enlistment on June 28, 1940. His mother, Mrs. Mary Magistad resides at Vermilion, Alberta. Pte. Magistad is a member of the Canadian Infantry Corps and proceeded overseas on May 19, 1942.

His citation for his award reads as follows: "On Dec. 13, 1943 during an advance many positions were captured north of San Leonardo in Italy. Pte Magistad's platoon came under heavy machine gun fire from an enemy post. The platoon commander realized this post made it impossible for the platoon to move forward without heavy casualties.

"Pte. Magistad with his platoon crawled within grenade throwing distance and then advanced on the post and where he was under enemy machine gun fire, until he reached it. He then single handed routed seven of the enemy. He scored a direct hit on the post, severely wounded one of the enemy and succeeded in silencing the machine gun.

"Pte. Magistad showed great bravery, initiative and skilful use of speed in positioning himself where he could get up his mortar and successfully engage the enemy post fi[ring] with courage and skill. Pte. Magistad saved his platoon many casualties and enabled it to make a successful assault on the enemy position, where the enemy were found to be completely demoralized. Seven prisoners were taken."

SGT. (Acting CSM) WALTER LAWRENCE BOBER, D.C.M.

Sergeant (Acting Company Sergeant-Major) Walter Lawrence Bober, M162370, of the First Canadian Division, was killed in action December 28, 1943, and was awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal for gallantry on October 23, 1942. He was a resident of Derwent, Alberta, at the time of his enlistment Oct. 24, 1939.

Born at Lublin, Poland, December 28, 1919, he came to Canada as a child. He went overseas in December, 1939. His father, John Bober, lives at Derwent.

The citation relates that at dawn on October 22, 1943, Sergeant Bober's regiment was attacking the town of Colle D'Anchis and he was commanding the leading platoon of the company attacking on the left flank.

It continues: "When his platoon first came under fire, Sergeant Bober observed a fortified enemy strong point dug in behind the stone walls and housed by at least 20 of the enemy. This strong point was forward of the other rifle companies of the Regiment, and was engaging them with machine gun fire from two machine guns and a number of anti-tank weapons. It was essential, therefore, that the enemy be able to be destroyed.

"With the authority of his Company Commander, Sergeant Bober turned over the command of his platoon and then worked forward alone across open ground and up an exposed slope carrying with him a PIAT. Throughout his advance approximately the yards he was under enemy rifle fire from the building, but he persisted and by skilful field craft reached a position 30 yards from the strong point.

"He immediately fired the PIAT bombs from the position, completely destroying it, inflicting nine casualties and killing two on the spot. This gallant action allowed another rifle company on the right flank to continue its advance without opposition, and although wounded during the action, he returned to his platoon, resumed command and continued to lead it throughout the battle."

JUDGE P. McISAAC PRESIDES AT COURT SITTINGS

The deliberations of the local bar were held in the Court House during the sittings of the Supreme Court of Vermilion Tuesday last, when His Honor Judge P. J. McIsaac of the Supreme Court of the Judicial District of Vermilion presided at the sittings. Mr. Mills, being the Judge's first appearance here since his appointment to the bench, Mr. Morrison also as Mayor extended to the new Judge a hearty welcome to the town of Vermilion. Judge McIsaac expressed his appreciation of the kind words spoken by Mr. Morrison on behalf of the local bar and thanked him for his courtesy from the town. Judge McIsaac formerly practised at Sexsmith and since the beginning of the war has been Divisional Registrar of Dependents National War Services at Edmonton.

Present at the sittings also were: P. J. Hickerson, D. Adam, K.C., James McCarty, Kitscoty, and J. J. Jones of Mannville.

The only case tried was a civil action claim of Mike Dymanuk vs Jim Perry both of the Lloydminster district. Action dismissed with costs and counter-claim dismissed without costs. Richardson, for plaintiff; Messrs. Bradford and Morrison for defendant.

JESUS BETRAYED, DENIED AND CONDEMNED

Golden text- He was despised and rejected of men, a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief. Isaiah 53 3.

Lesson.- Mark 14:10- 15.20.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 53:13—53 3

Mark 14:10. And Judas Iscariot, he that was one of the twelve, went away unto the chief priests, that he might deliver him unto them. And they, when they heard it, were glad, and promised to give him money. And he sought how he might conveniently deliver him unto them.

And they led Jesus away to the high priest: and there came together with him all the chief priests and the elders and the scribes. And Peter had followed him afar off, even within, into the court of the high priest; and he was sitting with the officers, and warming himself in the light of the fire.

And as Peter was beneath in the court, there cometh one of the maids of the high priest; And seeing Peter warming himself, she looked upon him, and saith, Thou also wast with the Nazarene, even Jesus. But he denied, saying, I neither know, nor understand what thou sayest: and he went out into the porch; and the cock crew. And the maid saw him, and began again to say to them that stood by, This is one of them. But he again denied it. And after a little while again they that stood by said to Peter, Of a truth thou art one of them: for thou art a Galilean. But he began to curse, and to swear, I know not this man of whom ye speak. And straightway the second time the cock crew. And Peter called to mind the word, how that Jesus said unto him, Before the cock crow twice, thou shalt deny me thrice. And when he thought thereon he wept.

And Pilate again answered and said unto them, What then shall I do unto him whom ye call the King of the Jews? And they cried out again, Crucify him. And Pilate said unto them, Why, what evil hath he done? But they cried out exceedingly, Crucify him. And Pilate, willing to content the multitude, released unto them Barabbas, and delivered Jesus, when he had scourged him, to be crucified.

Too Time Trust—And Dinner Sweet

Here's a cake good enough to eat twice in one day. Mocha Cake, rich with spices and flavorful mutlike bran, topped with thick coffee icing, makes a delicious tea-time treat. Saves the bother of making sandwiches, or other tea snacks. Mocha Cake does double duty for you, too. For dinner dessert you can let 'em eat cake again!

MOCHA SPICE CAKES

½ cup All-Bran
½ cup milk
¼ cup shortening
¾ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt

1 egg
¾ cup sifted flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Soak All-Bran in milk. Mix shortening, sugar and salt until creamy. Add egg and beat well. Sift flour, spices and soda together. Add sifted ingredients alternately with soaked All-Bran to creamed mixture. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 20 minutes. Frost with Mocha Icing.

Yield: 9 cup cakes (2½ inches in diameter). One 8x8 inch cake.

MOCHA ICING

1 teaspoon butter
1½ tablespoons hot coffee

½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup confectioner's sugar

Melt butter in coffee. Add vanilla and confectioner's sugar. Beat until mixture is right consistency to spread. Sufficient icing for 9 cup cakes or one 8x8 inch cake.

Mosquito Control

Gas Attack Is The Latest Method To Be Used

United Nations armed forces have been using a new secret weapon—a deadly gas, known as D.D.T., which, it is said, kills all mosquitoes within a radius of three miles.

The disclosure was made at the annual meeting in Montreal of the annual meeting of the Canadian Pest Control Operators' Association.

P. W. McLeod, of Vancouver, was elected president of the association. Western vice-president is Charles Rioux, of Winnipeg.

MORE SEEDS AVAILABLE

Grain shipments by Great Lakes ports approximate 382,000,000 bushels in 1944 against 190,000,000 bushels this year. The increased volume will result from the return of 13 vessels from emergency ocean service and the addition of 16 new ships to the lake fleet.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

FREE CANCER TREATMENT

Beginning on May 1, the Saskatchewan Government will provide free treatment and hospitalization for cancer, it was announced in the speech from the Throne at the opening of the Saskatchewan Legislature. At present, perhaps treatment has been available at reduced charges through the two cancer clinics at Saskatoon and Regina.

Saskatchewan has provided free diagnosis, treatment and hospitalization for tuberculosis for the past 15 years, and the Province enjoys the lowest tuberculosis death rate in Canada, and perhaps the lowest on any registration area in the world

Free treatment is also provided for venereal diseases. The province, moreover, provides free sera and vaccines for immunization for communicable diseases such as diphtheria, smallpox, whooping cough and scarlet fever.

The Government has announced plans to set up a department of labor and public welfare to bring under the administration various services that are now being managed by a number of departments.

BIG HEART PUSH

The governor-general, chief scout for Canada, said in a broadcast address that in China the fund of $42,000, raised in Canada by the Boy Scouts Association to assist British scouts, will be used after the war to help revive scouting in Norway, Denmark, the Netherlands, France, Poland and other countries."

DECORATED FOR VALOR

Zip an Airdale belonging to Lieut. Gerald Mahoney of Montreal, in the Canadian Army, is to be decorated for valor by a dog society in London. The dog distinguished himself during the height of enemy raids by locating buried victims and saved other people from injury by falling ruins by dragging them to safety.

Air Travel

Should Be Encouraged By Government After The War

"It is to be hoped that once the war is over the government at Ottawa will see to it that every inducement is offered for the development of air travel from coast to coast and from the south to the farthest north. This will do much to open up the country and to encourage settlers to go into the most remote parts and there, using the word in its proper sense, exploit the natural resources," said the Right Reverend A. L. Fleming, D.D., Bishop of the Arctic for the Church of England in Canada, speaking to the Elgin Deanery Laymen's Association.

Advisory Commission

Smaller European Countries Asked To Nominate Three On Economic Delegation

The smaller European countries have been invited by the European Advisory Commission to submit their views on the handling of defeated Germany, to be co-ordinated with those of Britain, Russia and the United States in working out a master program to prevent future aggression.

A plan of liaison between the commission and Norway, The Netherlands, Yugoslavia, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Greece, France and other occupied countries is being worked out whereby the commission will have the advantage of all possible data for handling Germany and for other European problems, both in the prosecution of the war and afterwards.

Aunt Jennie's house, standing well back from the street, was beautiful now in its June setting of lilacs and syringas. Ruth saw her aunt on the porch and ran up the walk.

"Aunt Jennie, she is, was her first thought as Aunt Jennie clasped her in a welcoming embrace.

"Ruthie, child, I'm so glad and thankful to see you." Aunt Jennie said; she sounded as if she might burst into tears at any moment.

Ruth hugged her. "Life begins here for me every summer," she said. "Say, but I smell something good!"

At supper Ruth sat in Uncle Perley's chair, across the table from her aunt as they ate Aunt Jennie's wild strawberry jam and home-baked bread made from hop yeast. Aunt Jennie wanted to hear all about the Toronto people, and Ruth chattered heavily. Then she felt she must mention Uncle Perley's absence. "Are you getting adjusted to the change in your life, Aunt Jennie?" she asked gently.

"Yes, dear." Aunt Jennie fidgeted with her handkerchief, and her hands trembled

"I think you're run down, Aunt Jennie. You look thin as a rail." Ruth offered sympathetically.

Aunt Jennie drew a long breath. "Ruth, dear," she said, "I may as well tell you what's wrong. It's . . . It's not Perleys passing away that's killing me; it's . . . If . . . he was resting in peace . . . I could be happy But . . . but . . . he's not. Oh, Ruth, Uncle Perley's haunting me!" She sobbed violently.

"Mercy, Aunt Jennie!" Ruth exclaimed in consternation. "What on earth makes you think that?"

"Oh, it isn't thinking. I know it is." Aunt Jennie asserted firmly "It is!"

Aunt Jennie smiled a little. "You young people—there are some things you don't understand, but Ruth, sure you can't." She shook her head sadly. "Perley and me," she went on, "we lived happy, and got along smooth and serene enough for 35 years. Of course he was awful set in some of his ideas; things had to be just a certain way; if they weren't he had no peace till they were. I know just as sure as I sit in this chair, that what's disturbing him now is that there's something I should put right and I'm not doing it. But for the life of me I can't think what it is."

"Aunt Jennie!"

"Oh, you don't know how stubborn your uncle was. My neglecting something that he wanted me would bring him back, all right."

"How did you get this idea, Auntie?" Ruth asked.

"Well . . ." Aunt Jennie leaned forward and spoke in a whisper. "Three different times I . . . he, well, you might say appeared to me! In the cellar. Late at night he came . . . and moved around, hesitating like, but never made a sound. I always keep the cellar light on now. I've done everything down there I can think of that he'd want, but I can't find the right thing."

"Do you mean, Aunt Jennie, that you've really seen Uncle Perley in the cellar since his death?"

"I didn't actually see him, because I didn't dare to go down," Aunt Jennie explained. "But I saw his shadow from the top of the stairs, as plain as I see you; and he looked so droopy and sad."

"Now, Auntie dear," Ruth said briskly, "if I don't do another thing all summer, I'm going to find the natural explanation for this! Tomorrow we'll explore that cellar."

The search next day offered no solution to the mystery. The cellar was a large cavelike room, its windows open to the air, securely screened. The furnace, Aunt Jennie's jam closet, old garments and carefully tied bags hanging from nails in the beams were the sum total of its contents.

"You see," Aunt Jennie pointed out, the outside door is bolted; the windows are nailed tight. No one could get in except from the kitchen, and I'm there all the time. I've had the walls whitened, the cellar cleaned up all gone over, the chimney cleaned; I can't think what's left to do—but there's something."

The days passed pleasantly, but when night came Aunt Jennie grew uneasy, and the light in the cellar was regularly turned on. But though Ruth, with her youthful eyes from the top of the stairs, the sights passed with nothing unusual appearing.

One day, a wind arising at sundown increased in force and intensity until, at bedtime, the house was creaking and shaking in the grip of a full-blooded gale. Ruth, opening the cellar door to make her routine inspection, was about to turn away when a many-branched candle caught and peared on the wall. It advanced quickly, hesitated, and then drew back. Then her keen eyes grew tense with fear. "You saw it?" whispered her aunt.

"Aunt Jennie." Ruth said, "I'm going down."

"No, No!" Aunt Jennie protested wildly, but Ruth with a palpitating heart was already on the bottom step. Coronach Courier and the Cadillac Herald also some monthly publications, but deal with other fields. Not only has Fr Branch spread himself in the world of the printed word, but he has also found force with the spoken word through a radio program weekly from Moose Jaw which has a rating of 60,000 listeners.

All this as Fr Branch himself has said, from a little old battered printing press, almost out of sight in a basement. It was an idea that grew from small beginnings. The idea was to give his troop of Boy Scouts something to do something worth while and creative.

To the words written by Fr Branch about the event one evening when the scouts were homeward bound from school they noticed at the end of the small scout hall a few men working. They were digging and pushing the old printing press into the scout room. The next day was very cold but an effort was made to use the press, but the ink froze and would not make an impression. Aided by the warm sun of the next day, they got the machine in order and printed a small sheet of information that was distributed around Gravelbourg. In order for printing came in and the words had something to do, the something that Father French had to do. They were obtained nearby and in a 5x8 garage a business began which is to-day a operation.

By 1937 the first issue of the Bell Weekly was printed, the first of the weekly papers under the printing of Fr Branch. It was a small and the venture struggled. The Great Depression was on and the Bell Weekly never paid. It carried only a few pages each week and other issues were printed on a weekly schedule. Then came a series of stories that had been handed up due to the lack of printing. The results which were to be the beginning of the art of typesetting and printing and several of the boys were working in the early years as printers' assistants.

Fr Branch, in summarizing his efforts in producing the printed word says, "I have always tried to give the best contributions to the district as a newspaper, my own personal opinion of a business that realizes a fair paid employment and a trade for a few dozen young men."

In 1942 Fr Branch turned to the spoken word and added to his press fought against a rising tide of [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and

C.C.F. LEADER ADDRESSES AUBURNDALE MEETING

Mr William Irvine, C.C.F. candidate for Carlbou Riding, B.C. addressed a meeting in the Autumn Leaf school last Saturday afternoon. Mr. Hardy Wear being chairman. Mr. Irvine was accompanied by Mr. J. T. Melville, president of the Vermilion Constituency Association of the C.C.F.

Mr Irvine in his speech outlined the policy of the C.C.F. party in reply to a question he asked if it was not possible for the C.C.F. party or the Labour Progressive party to cooperate. Mr Irvine replied that the Labour Progressive party had stated that there was a difference between their policy and the C.C.F. but the Labour Progressive were welcome to come in with the C.C.F. He could see no reason for there being two parties since their aims were practically the same which standard of living and social security for all classes of the population and a decent life for all. Such a policy would accrue to the wealth of natural resources of this planet. The C.C.F. he said was the natural party in Canada at the present time, and it eventually would be the government. He said Canada had gained nothing from the experiences of the last war and that if the people were not careful they would gain nothing from this one. He praised the Red Army, saying that their actions had proved their metal. He quoted Lord Beaverbrook as saying that the Russians adopted the "scorched earth" policy because everything in Russia was publicly owned and that a "scorched earth" policy would not have been feasible in a capitalistic state.

A C.C.F. local was formed for this district, practically all the people who attended the meeting becoming members. Mr. Hardy Wear was elected president of the Local, and Mr. Bow land Arthur, secretary.

A Montreal retailer was fined $500 and costs for buying and selling strawberry jam above WPTB price ceilings.

REPATRIATED PRISONERS CHEER THE RED CROSS

A Proud Record

When the Canadian and British repatriated prisoners of war from Germany reached a British port and saw the Red Cross uniforms on the dock they cheered. They had every reason to do so as the Red Cross could be called their "Deverdge Plan" for comfort and service.

When a man joins the Canadian Armed forces he also becomes a responsibility of the Red Cross. He is provided with comforts, such as woolen scarves, helmets and socks, and should he go to hospital through illness or wounds the Red Cross is at his side to provide dressings and bandages. His "home town" newspaper and delicacies. But best of all the doctor's "Visitors Service" at home and abroad is there to bring him cheer and friendship when he needs it most

Should he be seriously wounded on the battlefront, Red Cross blood serum, that miracle of modern medical science, is there to give him a fighting chance to live. When he reaches a base hospital, the Red Cross brings him comforts in the shape of smokes from home, writing paper, books and magazines.

Many a man has taken prison-ers, and then the Red Cross is still at his side even across the frontiers of belligerent nations. Every week he will receive a life-sustaining food parcel and other morale keeping necessities of entertainment and culture. The Red Cross is always at your service—a record just the people have made possible because the Red Cross is you and it does for our men what you would surely do if you were there.

The I.W.B. Welfare club held its March meeting at the home of Mrs. Wm Garnett, Basswood, ten members turned out, and two of the visiting ladies joined up, so we now have 21 members. Mrs. G Curtkey donated a pieced quilt top to the club which will be raffled off at some future date for charity work. Almost 50 pieces of finished work were handed in which was quite a record for so small a turn out. A donation was made to the Red Cross. After the business part was over Mrs Garnett assisted by Anne, served a nice lunch. Next meeting is on April 5th and will be held at the same home when Anne Garnett will be hostess. POISON ALCOHOL

In an article headed "Poison Liquor Sold in City," you state the alcohol was 97 overproof. This would be impossible as 97 overproof would be 112% which of course doesn't exist

The strongest alcohol known to chemists is absolute alcohol which is 99% which is equivalent to a little over 74 overproof

The per cent was another error as percentages entirely different from proof and the two are not used together

INTERESTING LETTER FROM FORMER RECTOR

Donnington Rectory, Ledbury,
Herefordshire, England.
February 12, 1911.

Editor Vermilion Standard.

Dear Mr. Cooper:

Although it is not quite Valentine's Day, I hope you will accept the unlikely best wishes of Mrs. Edwards and self, for yourself and family, and their families.

It is a long time since I first set foot in Vermilion in 1907, but the place has always held a corner in my heart, and I trust the Standard will much interest always. I note the passing of the old pioneers with regret, but also, I am much interested to follow the school careers, marriages and setting up of homes and families of so many of their descendants; and I am really very much indebted to you for making this possible by regularly sending me the paper.

You will note from the head of this letter that we have changed our address—I hope for the last time. I was offered this parish last fall and as it is in my home country where I was born, and is not too large for me now I am getting on in years, I was very glad to accept it. It is in lovely country close to the Malvern Hills, and in sight of the Forest of Dean, my birthplace.

Mrs. Edwards keeps well, and joins me in best wishes to you and each of our old friends as regards in the district. We have a lovely garden and a beautiful old house, stone-drape, daffodils and crocuses are already in glorious to come out in great numbers and before long the fruit trees, of which we have a large number, will be in bloom—I wish you could drop in for a visit and enjoy it

Mr daughter Thea, who you still remember as a little girl of about five is living with us at present with her two children; her husband Frank Reeves is in the Navy, at present somewhere off the east coast of India I cannot compute with you in the matter of grandchildren, but the two I have are the greatest delight, the girl is three, and the boy just 13 months.

BANKING IS ADAPTABLE

...it changes constantly to meet this country's changing needs

FOR INSTANCE...

Ever wonder where your ration coupons go? The answer is that your grocer takes your sugar, butter and other coupons to his bank, which acts as the government's agent in identifying and accounting for millions of spent coupons. This vast bookkeeping job—known as "Ration Coupon Banking"—is just one of the new, additional assignments which the banks have assumed as part of their wartime service.

Another is the payment, on behalf of the government, of certain subsidies arising out of wartime price control. Still another is the handling of exchange transactions as agents of the Foreign Exchange Control Board.

At the same time the banks have arranged facilities to serve military establishments and new war-industry centres alike.

Through loans to industry and agriculture, they have helped to increase the supply of raw materials, weapons and food.

They have acted as issuing agents for approximately $5,700,000,000 worth of Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates, as well as lending direct financial aid to the government through short term loans.

...All this in the face of widespread staff changes resulting from enlistments of 8,360 trained bank employees.

The war emergency has proved the readiness and ability of Canada's banks to adapt their services to new conditions. It has proved, once again, the strength of your banking system, which is providing a firm base of financial service for the greatest economic effort in the nation's history, and will with equal resourcefulness meet the challenge of the years ahead.

DOTTELL BULLETIN

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Tow on the birth of a baby girl in the Vermilion hospital.

Due to the stormy day only a few attended the last sewing bee. The boxes were filled and shipped to Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd.

Mrs. Sisdale accompanied her mother as far as Edmonton when the latter returned to the coast.

Jack Harley had the misfortune to have a breakdown with his truck while it was heavily loaded. It was necessary to unload the grain and pull the truck home with a team.

Due to the disallowed's leaving the district a new caretaker will have to be found.

Little Joan Brady had the barn door fall on her. Apparently she suffered no broken bones but the shock upset her stomach and at the time of writing these notes she is quite ill in bed.

The trainees are putting on a dance in the near future with proceeds for war work. Watch for full particulars in the next bulletin.

Mrs. McFarlane expects to leave shortly for Edmonton to consult an eye specialist.

A dance was busy closing a gale after driving his team through it. On turning around to climb into the sleigh box he found that the horses had run on home and he had to trudge the half mile through deep snow. 'Nuff said, aye Bill?

A SEED FIELD ON THE FARM

Good seed is scarce and may be even scarcer next year.

It would pay farmers to purchase now any six bushels of the best Registered seed, sow this on a few acres, and so have at a cheap price a large quantity of good seed available for next year's use.

For supplies of good seed of the highest quality, see the nearest Searle Agent.

News Letter From Home

(A monthly review of events for inclusion in letters to our boys overseas.)

A miniature snowstorm swept down on Vermilion some days ago and it was thought we were in for a real old winter, but the elements broke and since then we have had fine weather with just enough snow to make both wheeling and sleighing quite acceptable to the travelling public. It has been all along the most remarkable winter—one of the best the district has ever had.

A Petroco electrical dehydrating plant has been installed by the Vermilion Refining plant at Borradaile for the purpose of dehydrating the crude oil from the Vermilion oil field. The electrical energy is had from the Canadian Utilities line. The entire field will probably be wholly electrified shortly, electric motors replacing gas engines.

Vermilion defeated Lloydminster in a snappy hockey game at the arena last week by a score of 7 to 5. They also trimmed the Wainwright Army team twice since.

The local air cadet squadron is now affiliated with the Air Cadet League of Canada. The officers of the Corps are affiliated with the R.C.A.F.

W. B. Cameron, editor of the first newspaper published in Vermilion, The Signal, and the only survivor of the Frog Lake Indian massacre, has been appointed curator of the R.C.M.P. museum at Regina.

Mrs. Alf Hollington of Islay, age 71, has gone on a trip to visit a sister in New York whom she has not seen in 45 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Carlson of the Wildmere district have gone on a visit to Seattle, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cavil, Vermilion, recently celebrated the 55th anniversary of their wedding.

A letter has been received from PO. Henry Powell from Palestine, acknowledging receipt of his Christmas parcel. It arrived on time.

There is an agitation in Vermilion to do away with centre parking and go back to the old system. A ride o'corb parking.

W. Dalgliesh replaced E. M. Stewart on the Vermilion town council, the latter deciding not to seek re-election.

The municipal districts of Ribstyn, Vermilion Valley, Grizzly Bear, Wellington, Morton, Fairview, Lamont and Grizzly Bear have now been merged into one large district to be known as Vermilion River, No. 480.

Dan Rathmus, a former resident of the Wildmere district was drowned near Chetwynd, B.C. when the car in which he was driving slipped over an embankment and the occupants all drowned.

The family of George Cox are moving to Edmonton shortly where they will make their future home.

20 wells were drilled in the Vermilion oil field in 1943. There were 13 wells producing during the year, the total for 1943 being 98,263 barrels.

Oil burners have now been installed in the light plant of the town as a guard against a temporary breakdown of the gas flow.

Pte. Lillian Lamoreaux and Pte. Olga Grenz, both of Mannville, have joined the C.W.A.C. at Vermilion.

Fire did $20.00 worth of damage to the Cold Standard plant and service station at Mannville recently.

PO. Maurice Fallon, son of the Hon. W.A. Fallon, has been promoted from the rank of Pte. Officer.

Harry Sweeney has bought the Shaze properties south-east of Vermilion.

Eber McFadden took second in the Grand Challenge at the Vegreville bonspiel and 3rd in the Merchants' competition.

The Montreal Canadiens clinched the National Hockey league title when they defeated the Boston Bruins recently at Montreal 10-2.

Saturday night Feb. 26 the Black Hawks defeated Maple Leafs 2 to 1 in a game filled with thrills and excitement and in which Art Wiebe appeared to be all over the ice.

Dandelions blooming in Ray Nerison's garage and a butterfly fluttering in the home of Mayor and Mrs. Morrison are harbingers of an early spring we hope. And best of all, Mrs. (Dr.) Clarke killed a mosquito in her home lately.

The Government House at Edmonton is to be converted into a convalescent home for wounded soldiers returning from overseas.

The campaign to raise $10,000,000 for the Red Cross is now in progress. W. P. Pitkin is manager for the local drive, the quota set being $4,000.

The U.S. Army Air Corps Yanks sprung a surprise the other night by winning the Edmonton International Basketball league defeating the U. S. hospital squad 61 to 41.

News Items of all kinds are always welcomed by the Standard.

The Allied Air Offensive

RECENT ALLIED AIR ATTACKS on Germany have reached unprecedented proportions, and there is no doubt but that the results are devastating. In all democratic countries the people have high regard for human life and the sum of human suffering as it is not surprising that there has been from time to time some disposition as to whether this great air offensive against Germany is fully justified. Allied authorities have frequently stated that only objectives of military importance are bombed, but it is inevitable that in raids of this extent, some damage must be done to the surrounding area. It must be remembered that attacks against military targets are in no way similar to the terror raids which have frequently been made on Britain and which were a feature of Hitler's conquest of Europe. Germany is at war and it should be expected that the lives and property of people living near military objectives will be endangered.

• • • • •

Nazis Started Mass Bombings

It should not be forgotten that the Nazis are the aggressors in this war, and that it was they who first planned mass air raids, and undertook to attack Rotterdam, Warsaw, Stalingrad, and many other centres of population, without mercy. They would have destroyed London completely if they had not been turned back by the Royal Air Force, and they have caused great damage to many other British cities. "When legitimate targets in Britain became too difficult to approach the Germans bombed cathedrals, hospitals, schools, and other purely civilian objectives, which were without anti-aircraft protection. In spite of all this, the German protest when Allied planes raid cities which harbor important war industries, and are heavily defended against air attack. It has been observed that it is to our credit that there has been no such protest as to the justice of mass air raids on Germany, but consideration of the facts leaves no doubt in this respect.

Germans Must Not Be Spared

At the end of the last war the Germans sought to ease the difficulty of their situation by appealing for sympathy and it is expected that they will again try this method of avoiding the full responsibility for their crimes against other nations. Mr. Churchill, Mr. Roosevelt, and other Allied leaders have frequently stated that there must be no painting on our part, and that we must not allow pity for the German people to stand in the way of victory and a lasting peace. This war has shown too clearly the true character of the German people for us to have any choice but to defeat them on their own soil, and to let them experience some of the hardships and horrors which they have chosen to inflict on other nations twice in less than twenty-five years. It is said that German military leaders realize that this war is lost, but that they are already planning means of conserving their resources for another attempt at world domination in the years to come. If this is to be avoided, and it must be, Germany's military power must be finally crushed now, without doubt or hesitation on our part.

Double-Action Way To Help Relieve BRONCHITIS Distress

COUGHS - SORENESS - CONGESTION

Get right at the painful bronchial irritation and help relieve the coughing, soreness, and soreness that sometimes follow Vicks way that is so successful!

Put a good spoonful of Vicks VapoRub into a bowl of boiling water. Then breathe in the steaming vapors for just a few minutes. With each breath you take, the medication goes right to inflamed bronchial tubes where it soothes irritation, quiets coughing and loosens tightened-up congestion.

At bedtime rub Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest and back. Its poultice-vapor action works for hours to help you added comfort while you sleep.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q—Can my hairdresser raise the price of a permanent?

A.—No. The prices charged for permanent waves are the same prices that were charged during the basic period in 1941.

—o—

Q.—We have been buying baby chickens from the same hatchery for years. Can they raise their prices from $17 to $20?

A.—Under Wartime Prices and Trade Board regulations there is no ceiling price on baby chickens.

—o—

Q.—How much notice must I give my landlord when I wish to move?

A.—If there is no lease you must give one clear month's notice if you pay your rent by the month, and one clear week's notice if you pay by the week.

—o—

Q.—Has the maple syrup ration been increased?

A.—Yes. Maple syrup may be purchased on the basis of one coupon for forty fluid ounces until May 31. After May 31 the coupon will be worth 24 fluid ounces. The coupon value of cane sugar and honey in table syrup has been increased from 14 to 15 ounces.

—o—

Q.—Are we allowed to tear out our own coupons in a store, or must we give the book to the clerk to tear out the coupons?

A.—This is a question that often arises. It is best to give the whole book to the store clerk. You may tear out the ration coupons yourself, but they must be cut in the store and in the presence of the retailer, or person in charge of the store.

—o—

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet Wartime Prices and Trade Board Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mentioning the name of your paper, to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

GARDEN NOTES

Seed Supplies Sufficient

While seed supplies will not be too plentiful, authorities are confident that there will be sufficient to go around. Despite the war, reports the Canadian gardens came from almost every part of the world. Most of the old regular supplies are now out. From Canadian and United States sources must come practically all of our garden seed supplies.

Last year many Canadians tasted garden fresh vegetables for the first time in years. They came from the Victory Garden right at the door. They were amazed at how much better things tasted when grown in their own gardens. Grown quickly and picked just before cooking, vegetables are full of natural sugars and the vitamin content is especially high.

Spacing the Rows

After the soil is worked up into fine tilth, the rows in which the vegetables may be planted. These may go in rows from 12 inches apart and wider, depending on the size of the soil; mature plants. Carrots, lettuce, beets, parsnips, etc., can be planted in 12 inch rows, but beans, peas, tomatoes, corn and potatoes will need 18 to 24 inches.

If we are lucky enough to have a tractor or horse for cultivating, then of course there will have to be more space, and two to three feet between all rows is not too much. Not only because it will be very much easier, but will also make cultivation easier, all rows should be absolutely straight and all plantings done along a string. Thus planted we know where the seeds are and it will also be safe and easy to cultivate even before plants have started to sprout.

Peas, corn and such fairly large seeds are planted about one to two inches deep fine seed like lettuce and carrots merely pressed in.

Custom Made Flowers

Through plant breeding and natural selection flowers have been developed to suit almost any location. There are some which prefer darkness entirely. There are stocks nicotine etc., specially designed to avoid the morning sun, and hard to believe perhaps, there are things like portulaca that actually seem to thrive on neglect.

There are white, short chaps like alyssum and dwarf marigolds and lobelias specially used to fit along the front edges of flower beds or to trim walks. There are tall bushy hacks, castor beans, ornamental sunflowers, cosmos and other giants which will make background and screen fences.

Two British Women Serve Tea Night Up On The Front Line In Italy

Right up near the Fifth Army front in Italy in a little Y.M.C.A. van are two British women—serving tea! As they drive to the front line, military police salute them and wave them through traffic jams, Canadian Y.M.C.A. headquarters learned.

The women are brown-haired Lady Brocklehurst, wife of Colonel Sir Philip Brocklehurst, Cheshire, and her co-volunteer, Mrs. de la Pole Holland. Both are getting battle-hardened for serving tea to clamorous British troops makes it difficult to keep an eye on the battle-darkened sky at the same time.

Lady Brocklehurst was the first Y.M.C.A. woman in Italy. She gets crushed into Sicily and there helped herself to a German radio van in Catania.

It is in this van that she has poured more than 1,200 cups of tea. The van follows the British front line troops on the Fifth Army front and has now been adopted by a Canadian unit given the right to carry the divisional sign.

Lady Brocklehurst, in her green undervest and name of stockings rolled down as ankle socks, is almost as well known as a general.

"I think they would let us through the German lines to get a cup of tea," she said. "They are great boys, and we will be like anything to get an extra cup. They steal your tin mugs but come up smiling. They thrive on action—and on tea—and it is a joy to serve them."

A Main Course Without Meat

How is the "meat situation" at your house? We must not forget that rationing and shortage can never be used as an excuse for failing to consume up to the family's food requirements.

Meals are built about main course dishes—the vegetables and dessert are planned to round out a meal which takes its character from the main course. We have come to think that the meat must be the item of central interest—and for very good reasons. Foods of this type belong in any well-balanced menu as they provide an important part of the protein needed by everyone, every day.

Proteins are needed for the growth and repair of the human body. Proteins are not alike, and in general, protein made from animal sources is more efficient than protein from vegetables—milk protein has all the essential parts. The vegetables richest in protein are dried peas and beans. If you can combine these excellent foods with milk, you will have achieved a protein dish that will worthily substitute for the meat of the main course.

Here's a recipe the family will enjoy eating and that you can serve with satisfaction

BAKED LENTILS

2½ cups dried lima beans	2 cups milk
1 cup diced celery	2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons chopped onion	4 tablespoons flour
5 tablespoons chopped green pepper	1½ teaspoon salt
2 diced hard cooked eggs (if possible)	½ teaspoon pepper

Wash beans, cover with cold water, and let stand overnight. Add salt, cook till tender and drain. Cook celery in small amount of boiling water till tender. Cook the onion and green pepper in the butter till tender but not browned. Blend in the flour, salt, and pepper and gradually add the milk. Cook, stirring constantly till the mixture is thickened and smooth. Add the beans, celery and eggs. Turn into greased dish and bake for ½ hour in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) Will serve eight.

Tumbling Mustard

Single Plant May Bear As Many As 1,500,000 Seeds

Tumbling mustard was first introduced into the Prairie Provinces from central and southern Europe about 1887. Each pod contains about 130 seeds and a single plant has been known to bear about 1,500,000 seeds. When the seeds are ripe, the whole head breaks off and is blown across the prairie, scattering seeds far and wide. As the seeds are not readily shed from the tough pods, a head may be blown about the prairie for a whole winter, dropping a few seeds at intervals for many miles.

Mercury has been known for at least 2500 years, but its wide use is a development of recent centuries.

Post-War Plans Being Made For Our Air Force

OTTAWA. — Air Minister Power said in the commons that "personnel consultants" have been appointed to discuss post-war careers with R.C.A.F. personnel, to advise men who want to help themselves in getting re-established after the war.

The planning of peace should replace the glamor of war and young Canadians now in the services should be given a new target in the development of Canada, he said. They should be taught how to build, and be ready to accept duties and responsibilities as heavy as those they now bear.

"The great adventure -the strenuous one of living for their country—will be only beginning."

Maj. Power said he now is looking for an officer with fighting experience and able to speak "the overseas man's language" to act as director of demobilization. Systems of returning men to civil life on a priority basis were being considered. He did not favor keeping men in uniform until work was found for them.

Maj. Power said it was common to suggest that men be kept in the forces until work is found for them.

"I have no objection to that as a theory, but I fear it will not work out in practice," he continued.

The minister added he should make preparations for the civilian career of men in the forces only to the extent to carry out a meal which takes its character from the main course. We have come to think that the meat must be the item of central interest—and for very good reasons. Foods of this type belong in any well-balanced menu as they provide an important part of the protein needed by everyone, every day.

Surplus Wheat Is Being Used To Feed Livestock

OTTAWA.—The Dominion bureau of statistics reported that the livestock population in North America is consuming wheat bushel for bushel with the human population, and that the bureau's estimate for the year ending 1943-44, while the civilian and brewer military requirements of Canada and the United States may total only 580,000,000 bushels.

"If World War I became [illegible] 13 years, on the basis of per-war bread consumption, to get rid of the amount of wheat that livestock will consume in the current crop year, while the civilian population of the United States would need at least 15 months to digest the flour product of 500,000,000 bushels of wheat."

In Canada, the use of wheat for livestock feed in the year ending July 31, 1944, is expected to be 3½ times the quantity fed during the crop year 1939-40. But Canadian wheat is moving in large quantities to the United States to be used there as livestock feed, so that the quantity of Canadian wheat fed animals in both countries might easily reach a total of 215,000,000 bushels.

The bureau said transportation will be the chief determining factor in the ultimate figure. It added that the government originally intended to take delivery through the Canadian Wheat Board, of only 280,000,000 bushels of western wheat, representing a maximum delivery of 16 bushels per "authorized" acre in the west.

Should maximum delivery of 365,000,000 bushels be realized, the bureau said, stocks of wheat remaining on prairie farms will be down to "almost normal" prop-rations, but on the basis of current estimates of domestic and export disappearance, the Canadian carry-over of wheat is expected to exceed 400,000,000 bushels next July 31.

The United States carry-over may fall to 150,000,000 bushels compared with 618,000,000 bushels at July 1, 1943, so that the prospective surplus in North America is 650,000,000 to 675,000,000 bushels, despite the "enormous" quantities of wheat fed to livestock.

Some Changes Made In Health Insurance Plan

OTTAWA.—Complete health services will cost Canadian adults $12 a year, plus a percentage of income for those in the income-tax paying classes, under a revised health insurance plan submitted to the commons social security committee by Pensions Minister Mackenzie.

Compared with the plan on which the committee worked last session, the new plan envisages a simpler financial structure, lower cost to contributors and a scheme of Dominion government assistance to the provinces which takes into account the unevenness of financial capacity in different provinces.

The changes also eliminate all contributions from employers and ease the levy on married men.

The draft bill studied by the social security committee last year called for contributions of $36 a year for all adults, with a plan for downward adjustment for persons of low incomes.

In addition to the flat contribution, single persons with incomes of more than $600 per year would pay three per cent. of the income up to a maximum of $30 and married persons with incomes of $1,200 or less, $1,200, five per cent. up to a maximum of $50.

Thus, the maximum payment for a man and wife with no adult dependents would be $76 a year.

Contributions would be collected along with the income tax.

Federal financial contributions to provincial health services under last year's draft were based on the principle of equalization. In the new draft they are based on the average per capita cost of health services in all provinces, the contributions collected from residents of the province.

Thus, in effect, the Dominion assumes the cost of health services for children under 16 and the excess of the average costs of services in each province over the amount collected in contributions.

Food And Not Money Causing Most Crimes In Germany

LISBON.—Comment appearing in German newspapers these days seems to be giving the lie to the old adage, "The love of money is the root of all evil."

A collection of criminal and police court items in recent issues of Nazi papers contain not a single case of fraud, clothing thefts, or juvenile delinquency over the amount collected in contributions.

INVASION EXERCISES

Manoeuvres On The English Coast Attended By Russian Officers

LONDON — Soviet admirals and a general, in a new degree of military co-operation with the Allies, took part in United States amphibious exercises for the continental invasion, held recently in an English coastal area, United States naval headquarters disclosed

Participation of the Russian military mission, which included nine other officers, in the manoeuvres and their interest in the complicated technique of amphibious invasion, developed by the western Allies in the Pacific and Mediterranean — may point to a co-ordinated Red army blow in the east when the Allies open the we orn front.

The Allies have been particularly anxious for the Russians to understand the difficulties of amphibious operations since Prime Minister Churchill's statement two years ago that the Soviet military staff "concerned largely with land operations . . . found it hard to appreciate the problems of a seapower nation."

Mutual understanding of one another's military problems has been a theme in the relations between Britain and the United States, on the one hand, and Russia, on the other. Closer co-operation in the military field apparently is one of the fruits of the Teheran conference. Once the Allies are on the continent, close co-ordination with the Red army's moves will be essential to insure maximum use of both army's efforts.

The Russian officers "participated freely" in the exercises which lasted two days, the navy said. They studied the assault weapons, various types of landing craft, and methods of [illegible] amphibious assaults explained technical points to the Russians through interpreters."

FLOWN FROM BURMA

Wounded And Ill British Troops Taken Out By Plane

NEW DELHI —During the bustcontrolled Arakan battle in Burma more than 500 wounded or ill British troops were flown from the Maungdaw front by British and American planes, it was announced.

The air-land method of pulling out casualties from under the noses of the Japanese was introduced into the area a months ago by Wing Cmdr. A J M Smith, of Southampton England.

Types of planes used were the British Fox and Moth. R A F planes each brought back a single stretcher case and two sitting patients on each flight.

Nazis Evacuate French Civilians From Coast Area

LISBON —German military authorities, fearful of meeting the same conditions that hampered the French army in 1940 are evacuating nearly 3,000,000 French civilians from the channel provinces to permit easy movement of motorized defence forces in the event of an Allied invasion.

Special trains are pouring into Paris daily, bringing thousands of evacuees from the Calais, Dunkirk and Boulogne districts. They mostly are children under 15 and men and women over 60, each wearing a red and white armband. They are allowed only the baggage they can carry.

The evacuation ordered by Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt commanding the western defences, has a dual purpose for the occupation authorities. It will cripple the population's resistance and prevent the clogging of roads with thousands of refugees a condition which hindered movement of French troops during the German invasion.

The influx of the millions of refugees into Paris has left the French government with the responsibility of finding housing for the refugees in the crowded central department.

The evacuation order also included Cannes, Nice and even Monte Carlo, from whose 3,000 British, American and other foreigners will be forced to move more than 100 miles inland. Another 3,000 expected in the Riviera evacuation are the dean of British expatriates, 80-year-old Lord Winterton, and the richest American in Europe, Virgil Nesbi, who sold his French cosmetics business and invested in modern art.

Preparations for the Riviera evacuation—to "reduce the population density" — indicates that the Germans have reconciled the area will become a battleground. They have banned the use of coastal roads for evacuees and have converted the Promenade des Anglais into a minature Siegfried line.

Steel girder barricades peep at the street level from holes dug in the promenade. Concrete anti-tank pyramids dot the sidewalks. Thick concrete walls block off and defend entrances. Sumbathers have been banned from the sands, which are mined and strung with barbed wire.

ARE PREPARED

German Commentator Says Nazis Ready To Meet Invasion

LONDON —Gen. Kurt Dietmar told the German home front in a broadcast that Allied invasion preparations have been completed, that gigantic tanks, guns and sea and air armadas are standing by and "they're no bluff."

The whole world, the Nazi commentator said in a transmission recorded by The Associated Press, "is full of expectation."

"No landing operation ever carried out in any war can be compared with the one we are ready for," he said how he said "It is certain that the preparations are completed and the time is ripe. We do not believe that these are mere initiatives with the aim of binding German forces in the east while the Red army forces a decision in the east."

Dietmar warned that "We don't underestimate the military characteristics of the Anglo-American."

They are tough and confident," he said.

The commentator added, however, that the above defences were ready and your old front soldiers from the east have been through so many purgatories that the hell which the Anglo-Americans have in store for them will not be an extraordinary experience."

BATTLEVIEW ECHOES

Owing to bad roads and considerable sickness, there was a smaller attendance than usual at the church circle and war service hourse meeting held at Mrs. George Harrison's on Thursday. The few who did attend had a very enjoyable afternoon. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess.

We regret to hear that Mrs. Jim Stranahan is ill in the Vermilion hospital and hope that she will soon be well and home again.

A quick recovery is wished Mrs. A. E. Fuller who was recently operated upon in the Vermilion hospital. Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Darling on the birth of an 11 pound baby boy in the Vermilion hospital.

Mr. Friendly and Lindy Fadden played out the road so our mail man Mr. Martin could get through. Wa mies have our mail.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson of Greenshields spent the week end visiting their daughters Mrs. Symes and Mrs. Stranahan.

Alfie Fadden or Triangle spent the week end with his grandparents at Battleview. Mr. Critcher and Jim Walters family spent Sunday at the Jensen's home.

International Understanding

DEVELOPMENTS IN SCIENCE medicine and mechanics have been greatly accelerated because of the demands of war and undertakings which in a real sense might have taken years have been completed in weeks or months. In the same way there has been rapid progress in international co-operation and understanding. Had there been no war, improved means of communication and other factors would have brought the people of all nations into closer contact but the war has greatly hastened this process. Refugees from Nazi tyranny have come from all parts of Europe to Britain, the United States and Canada, some of them bringing outstanding abilities which have been placed at the disposal of the countries in which they have settled. The presence of these people, many of them members of governments in exile, or of the fighting forces of occupied countries, has contributed a great deal towards the mutual trust and understanding among nations which is so desirable now and in years to come.

* * * * *

Air Training Plan A Factor

Another factor which has been instrumental in bringing together men from many lands is the Commonwealth Air Training Plan. Through this project thousands of young men from British Australia, New Zealand, and other parts of the Empire have travelled widely in Canada, becoming familiar with this Dominion and its people and at the same time giving us an opportunity to learn much from them of the countries from which they come. This exchange of information and ideas is bound to lay the foundations for firmer bonds of friendship between the people of the nations who are now fighting for a common cause. A writer for the British Ministry of Information commenting on this subject recently, observed that "the benefits of world war are indeed few enough, but among them must be rated high opportunities for ordinary people of many countries to get to know each other better."

* * * * *

British People Are Hospitable

The war has made Britain a meeting place for people from all the United Nations. At first many found refuge there from German oppression, and later, armed forces from all parts of the Empire, the United States and the free governments in exile gathered in preparation for attack. It has been observed that English people have had the reputation of being insular, but whether this was true or imaginary, it is not in evidence now, as British hospitality is warmly extended to people from many lands. Numerous clubs and organizations were set up for refugees, where they might meet not only their own countrymen but people from the other United Nations. For members of the services from all parts of the Commonwealth and the United States, provisions have been made for many forms of entertainment. There are abundant invitations from private homes for those on leave, and in addition educational tours, "leave courses" at Oxford, and many other facilities are offered. In all this there is evidence of great progress in international understanding and co-operation.

Sure Of Victory

Canadian Servicewomen Overseas Are Ready For The Fray

Pte/ter Barclay, back in Ottawa after more than three years' service overseas as a Canadian Press war correspondent, said Canadian servicemen have shown that they know how to wield their weapons, and that "wherever you go nowadays" there is high praise for the three "potent" Canadian services.

The men overseas cannot say when the war will end, but they are sure of victory Barclay said. "They would like to be home, too, but if you were to give them the choice of coming tomorrow or staying to the end you could bet they would want to continue."

"Even when a soldier is wounded, his first fear is that he may be knocked out for keeps."

For Laying Hens

When Housed In Comfortable Quarters Production Goes Up

One of the reasons for the phenomenal increase in egg production during this winter is attributed by the Dominion Department of Agriculture to the moderate weather which has permitted hens to be comfortable. Hens housed in comfortable quarters are always the best layers, and it has been pointed out that notwithstanding weather conditions, the same comfort can be maintained in any winter simply by proper housing.

A good laying house should be warm enough so that water will not freeze in it, and to be warm, the house must be well insulated. The birds themselves generate enough heat to be comfortable in a well insulated house. The golden rule is ventilate, then ventilate.

A wood block house is one of the most economical that can be built. While cedar blocks are best for the purpose, any kind of properly air dried wood block will do. This includes poplar on the Western prairies. Logs should be cut now and the bark removed immediately so that the wood may be thoroughly air-dried before sawing. With cedar the usual length of block is 6 inches. Lighter woods the block should be 10 or 12 inches long.

Vitamin Tablets

Part Of Ration to Canadian Navy Command In Newfoundland

Something new has been added to the pay cheques of Royal Canadian Navy personnel in Newfoundland.

The Navy said that personnel living out will receive a month's supply of the tablets when they assemble for pay parade. Those living in barracks will be issued a pill a day when they sign in for meals.

The tablets are considered a necessity in Newfoundland Command where milk retails at 37 cents a quart and fresh vegetables are hard to get.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—Is it correct that blueberries are no longer rationed?

A.—Yes, it is correct. Canned blueberries were taken off the list of rationed commodities because of the heavy crop last summer.

Q.—I always order my maple syrup by mail. What do I have to do to get it this year?

A.—In the near future special provisions for mail orders of maple syrup will be completed. You will be able to take your coupon book to your local ration board where they will give you a voucher in exchange for the required number of coupons. You send this voucher to the person from whom you purchase the maple syrup.

Q.—Now that meat rationing has been stopped, should I detach all meat coupons from War No. 3 book?

A.—No. Any meat ration coupons numbered 41 and over will be withdrawn, destroyed, but any coupons numbered 41 and onward should not be detached. The interpretation of meat rationing was announced as a temporary measure by the Board.

Q. Can I throw away my No. 3 ration book when the No. 4 book is issued?

A.—Not if you wish to become eligible for the "pleasure" coupons this summer," as the first 10 spare "P" coupons in the No. 3 book are to be used for that purpose.

Q.—My doctor always used to charge me two dollars for an office call. Now he charges three dollars. Can he raise his fee?

A.—Yes, he is allowed to do so. Professional fees for such things as office calls and house calls are not subject to the ceiling regulations of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Q.—Now that canned vegetables are available in greater quantities, do we have the right to ask the grocer to sell no more than one tin?

A.—In the interests of equity of canned vegetables allowed to each grocer is on a percentage basis, in order to give as many as all of his customers he has a perfect right to allot whatever he deems fair to each of his customers. It is for this reason that many stores have their own individual rationing plan, and if you think it over carefully, I'm sure you'll realize that it is a really fair way of distributing items in short supply.

Q.—I am a farmer's wife living in Western Canada, and I would like to know if extra rations for harvesting help can only be obtained in the summer and fall?

A.—No, that's not so. You will be glad to know that these extra rations can be applied for at any time of the year, wherever there will be temporary help employed. Many people had the idea that rations for transient workers were only available at harvest time, but, actually, they can be applied for all the year round.

Q.—Is tomato juice rationed?

A.—No. Tomato juice is not rationed. It is classified, as a matter of fact, as a canned vegetable, and although there is a limited supply available, it is not rationed and therefore does not require the surrender of coupons.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers Please" or the Blue Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

A Special Sovereign

Headquarters of the Canadian Red Cross Society announced that the first contribution reported in the society's national campaign for $10,000,000 was a gold sovereign from Queen Mary.

The coin was one of two placed on the collection plate at Christ Church Cathedral, Ottawa, in 1917 when Queen Mary and the late King George V visited the city as Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York.

The sovereigns were kept by the church wardens who replaced them with the equivalent amount in Canadian money and recently the one given to the Red Cross was sent to Queen Mary by Mrs. Orde, widow of one of the church wardens and mother of Brig J. F. Orde of the Canadian Army.

Mrs. Orde asked Queen Mary to give the sovereign to any war purpose she chose and Her Majesty decided to donate it to the Red Cross.

When the coin was presented to Maj Gen C. B. Price Canadian Red Cross overseas commissioner, he recalled he won a chair boy in the cathedral on the Sunday it had been placed on the collection plate.

The world's oldest book, still intact, is said to be a volume discovered in China. It is composed of 70 wooden leaves, fixed together with string and dates back to 100 B.C.

Had One Defect

Marquis Wheat Deficiency Idled But Susceptible To Rust

As era has ended, an era which began at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa one fall day in 1903 when Dr. Charles Saunders (later Sir Charles) plucked a head of wheat from an experimental plot, looked at it hopefully and separated it from its fellows. From that lone head came the hundreds of millions of bushels of Marquis wheat which have poured out of the Prairie Provinces in the intervening years to make the name "Canada" known throughout the globe as the home of the world's finest hard wheat.

Dr. Saunders sought a near perfect wheat. He demanded that it yield well, ripen early, possess the finest milling and baking qualities and that it possess a tough, sturdy straw of medium length, with harvests not given to shelling out easily. After years of patient research he found it in that single head of wheat which he named "Marquis".

Much of the tremendous development which has taken place in Western Canada in this century has been attributable to this wheat, which was, in most respects, ideally adapted to the soil and climate of the Prairie Provinces. Much of the romance of the modern West is inextricably interwoven into the short history of Marquis wheat.

It had only one major defect, but that defect was grievous. It was susceptible to a plant disease known as rust, a disease which struck at the very heart of production and, meanwhile, causing the loss of hundreds of millions of bushels of wheat over the years, gave plant breeders the incentive to produce a rust resistant wheat and eventually several strains came into being. A type known as "11 was one that has proven the most satisfactory. In 1943, 58 per cent. of all wheat sown in the Prairie Provinces was of this type, while only 19 per cent. was Marquis.

And so passes the Queen of the wheatlands. An era has ended and there is more than a measure of regret in its passing.—Otta va Jour al.

Wise homemakers know that in good meal planning, correct cookery methods are just as important as proper food selection. Many of the values present in the foods you buy at the grocery can be lost before those foods reach the dinner table unless particular care is taken.

1. Do not soak vegetables before cooking.
2. If you must pare vegetables and fruits, pare thinly.
3. Cook vegetables as quickly as possible.
4. Avoid overcooking—cook until just barely tender.
5. Steam vegetables rather than drowning them. Put vegetables in an amount of boiling water that doesn't quite cover them and cook in a tightly covered saucepan.
6. Save the water in which vegetables are cooked and use it in cream sauces, gravies and soups.
7. Never add soda to cooking vegetables. It may preserve the colour but it destroys the vitamins.
8. Try to cook the right amount for each meal. Storing and re-heating causes loss of vitamins.

Have you been missing out on any of these points? Check up on yourself and make sure that it cannot be said of your house that "the drainpipe is better nourished than the family."

Strange Currency

Pigs Are Used By Natives Of South Sea Islands

Pigs may be pigs in most parts of the world, but in the South Sea islands they are used as currency.

Cmdr. Harry Huston, United States Navy, who was attending the American College of Surgeons convention in Winnipeg outlined the operations of this unique monetary system.

"The chief, usually the richest man, has the most pigs. As the pig herd increases, the chief needs help. So he uses some of the pigs to buy a wife to care for more pigs." The result, he explains, is "inevitable". "The chief has most of the pigs and the desirable wives."

More Ships Have Been Added To Canadian Navy

OTTAWA.—Presenting his $410,000,000 estimates to the commons, Navy Minister Macdonald reviewed a wide range of navy activity on the seven seas, told of a successful fight against the U-boat and spoke of a "big ship" navy in prospect.

Touching all phases of naval effort, Mr. Macdonald spoke of acquisition of two cruisers, eight modern-type destroyers and the manning of three aircraft carriers, and added: "This will add to the strength and effectiveness of the Canadian navy."

His comment that these additions would give Canadians experience in handling larger ships after having served in a small ship navy was taken to mean a new offensive program for a navy that has been waging an increasingly successful defensive operation in protecting convoys carrying supplies to the battle areas.

Other than adding that Canada would operate the carriers with her own officers and ratings with Britain supplying planes and air personnel, Mr. Macdonald did not elaborate. However, a recent despatch from Vancouver reported at least one of the carriers, in command of Capt. Horace E. Little, would be one of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, already has left for a battle zone.

His complete review included this information:

1. The estimated expenditure for this year of $410,000,000 would be the same as was spent last year, when $489,000,000 was budgeted.
2. Personnel will be increased at the rate of 1,000 a month—the same as last year.
3. The navy now has 250 fighting ships, 450 auxiliary craft, a personnel total of about 50,000, 4,500 Wrens and a sea cadet enrollment of 13,700.
4. Tonnage has been added to Canada and more than 16,000 officers and ratings have been given courses at H.M.C.S. Cornwallis—the new name for the main training establishment at Deep Brook, N.S.—in less than a year.
5. Casualties to dead, wounded, missing and prisoners since the start of the war now number 1,300.
6. Not a single merchant ship under convoy has been lost in the St. Lawrence river or gulf last year, but U-boats crept close enough to sink seven ships on convoys routes leading to Halifax, resulting in the destruction of one ship.
7. Last year the navy had a hand in the "definite and certain" destruction of eight submarines and in the probable sinking or damaging of seven others. The "definite kills" include three that fell to the credit of Canadian corvettes in the Mediterranean.
8. Canada's main task last year continued to be escort work on the North Atlantic and the percentage of ships getting through safely was twice as great as in 1941. From the beginning of the war the R.C.N. has escorted more than 19,000 ships bearing 114,000 000 tons of supplies over this route.
9. Canadian losses of four fighting ships in 1943 were more than made up by 10 additions to the navy and today the ships of war building in Canadian yards, in their material makinbery, guns and other equipment are 95 per cent. Canadian products

WILL HELP ALLIES

Thousands Of Recruits Have Joined Guerilla Army in Bulgaria

ISTANBUL.—An estimate a guerilla army is growing in Bulgaria, where by springtime it is expected to be large enough to deliver considerable help to any Soviet or Anglo-American thrust into the Balkans.

Recruits have been drawn largely from Communists in urban areas and from farmy deserters. The Bulgarian guerillas who call themselves Chet Stomanin (unclassed), are numerically weak and lack leadership but in them lies the Allied hope that at the decisive moment the Bulgar army may be persuaded to turn against the Germans.

The guerilla armies are expanding at the rate of 3,000 to 5,000 recruits a month They have an estimated 15,000 to 20,000 members mostly in mountain villages or mountain hideouts. Organized action awaits the development of suitable leadership.

BRITAIN WATCHFUL

Believe Another War Conference Being Planned

WASHINGTON. — Plans for another Churchill-Roosevelt war conference are believed to be in the making, probably to follow closely after the forthcoming visit to London by the United States assistant secretary of state, Edward Stettinius The next meeting between the two Allied leaders will be their eighth. It is expected to deal particularly with war and peace objectives in Europe.

President Roosevelt announced a few days ago that Stettinius and a group of experts would go to London as soon as States Secretary Cordell Hull returns from a rest in the south.

He said Stettinius would deal with a dozen different subjects and claimed there was not a headline in the lot. But the proposed trip, first revealed as off-the-record information at the state department and later made public by the president, has aroused a great deal of interest. Among the problems expected to engage Prime Minister Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt at their next meeting are:

1. The quarrel between the Polish government-in-London and the Soviet government
2. The unexpectedly slow progress of the Allied forces in Italy
3. Plans for an all-out offensive in Burma
4. The situation with respect to the Balkans and the position of Turkey.
5. The necessity of a new and definite declaration on Allied post-war objectives with particular reference to the treatment of Germany and the alignment of European borders

There is a clamor in the United States for an outspoken declaration, at least to co-ensure, of the war aims of the United States

There is some demand exists in other Allied countries and the claim in some circles here is that Mr. Churchill is more confiding in this respect than is President Roosevelt

Both the president and Mr Churchill separately have made complete recoveries from the illnesses which struck them both after the meetings in Cairo and Teheran

FOR CIVIL DEFENCE

Over Million Dollars Has Been Spent To Equip Workers

OTTAWA.—The federal government has spent an estimated $1,000,286 to equip civil defence workers with steel helmets firemen's coats, rubber boots, anti-gas equipment and other supplies, a return tabled in the commons showed

The return, for George Cruickshank (L., Fraser Valley), listed the amount of clothing and personal equipment issued and the number of articles distributed on a unit basis

The number of civil defence workers in Canada was not listed in the return but a year ago government officials estimated that there were 75,000 such workers. Since then, air raid precautions restrictions have been lifted in Ontario and western Quebec. This relieved an estimated 10,000 workers of their duties.

SLUMP IN MORALE

Japanese Prisoners in Burma Have No Hope Of Victory

ON THE ARAKAN FRONT, Burma.—Hungry, tired and malaria-ridden Japanese prisoners, including more than a score mentally sick, testified to the sharp slump in enemy morale as a result of the recent victory of the British 14th Army

The prison camp is a barbed wire cage in the Mayu hills and more than 30 mentally sick Japanese are being hospitalized here. One bedraggled, under-nourished infantryman, his head swathed in bandages sits upright in bed with a look of hopelessness in his eyes

One thin-faced artilleryman said the war might last another three years but he believed Japan would lose.

Others thought Japan practically was standing alone and that Germany would soon be knocked out of the war

CHEESE RATION CUT

Two Ounces Weekly Is The New Allowance For British People

LONDON.— Britain's cheese ration will be cut from three to two ounces weekly April 2 but the temporary loaf ration will remain unchanged and the milk and canned goods ration will be boosted, Food Minister J. J. Llewellin announced.

The food minister told a press conference the two ounce weekly butter ration was not in danger. The two pints weekly milk ration will be boosted by a half-pint and the increase in the canned goods ration will be effected by giving 24 points a month instead of 20 for canned meats, dried fruit and other goods.

Increase in the canned food ration was possible because of the larger supplies of canned meat and fish available, the minister said.

WILL GET AWARD

Men Captured At Dunkirk To Receive The 1939-43 Star

LONDON. Officers and men captured at Dunkirk in May, 1940, will receive on repatriation the 1939-43 star although their operation service was less than the required six months, War Secretary Sir James Grigg said in a written reply to a House of Commons questioner.

The announcement about Dunkirk prisoners was the first indication they would receive it but a white paper giving details of the award in August said those evacuated from Norway in the spring of 1940 were eligible although serving much less than 6 months.

Will Discuss Air Services Over Atlantic

OTTAWA.—The question of future air services over the Atlantic will occupy an important place on the agenda of the four-power aviation discussions to be held in Washington later this month. Canada will participate in the conference with the United States Britain and Russia. Inclusion of Canada is regarded as re cognition of this country's strategic position in world aviation

The Washington discussions will merely forward an, their step discussions that have already been underway both in London and Washington. In some areas of the world, the future prospect is becoming clear. In the north Atlantic air services will be mainly British American and Canadian. It is expected that Canada and Britain will each operate a trans-Atlantic service, agreeing on a schedule of flights. Whether the United States government will agree to a proportionate number of flights is not yet clear But if agreement is reached, it would likely be on a formula of 2-3-4 for Canada, Britain and United States.

Elsewhere, the picture is different. United States companies will undoubtedly operate south Atlantic air services. And British companies will also expect to operate there. Inside Europe, no forecast of the situation can be made at this stage, but obviously the predominant air powers will be Britain and Russia, and it is likely that there will eventually be inter-city air services around Europe.

Across the Pacific, Canada will likely hold one route which may in some portions overlap with services of American companies. Trans-Canada Air Lines may fly the north-eastern route to China, Japan, Singapore. Whether direct trans-Pacific service to Australia and stepping stone islands of the South Seas to Australia will be undertaken by Canadian interests is a matter of speculation. The American air transport command has developed this into a fairly standard route. If future aviation arrangements are reached by a process of bargaining, Canada's control of north Arctic routes may become the chief bargaining power held by any British country in negotiating with the Americans for Pacific service

From Europe to Asia there is no doubt that British overseas airways, or other British companies, will operate direct services straight through the Middle East to India, Singapore and Australia. This is a route in which the Netherlands is also interested and will probably obtain recognition.

Britain Releases Figures Of Her War Production

LONDON — Britain manufactured 90 000 aircraft, mainly of combat types, in the last 12 months, he said at the end of 1943, production minister Oliver Lyttleton announced in the House of Commons.

"Our naval construction has more than replaced losses so that by the end of 1943 in most types of vessels our strength is greater than at the beginning of the war," he said.

He gave these other output figures for the same period:

Eighty three thousand tanks, armored cars and carriers, more than two 000 wheeled vehicles of unarmored types more than 115 000 guns of calibres larger than 22-millimetre and nearly 5 2 million machine guns and rifles

He said that just over four-fifths of current aircraft production is made up of bombers fighters and naval reconnaissance planes the balance being transports trainers and target a rs

Proximity of Britain to German bomber bases obviously prevented the publication of complete statistics, he said but added that it certainly could do no harm to make public "a few actual figures to illustrate the magnitude of the war production of this country."

To the figures he gave on aircraft and gun production, he added 150 000 000 rounds of gun ammunition and nearly 7 000 000 000 rounds

N. McINNES LONGS FOR OLD LIFE ON PRAIRIES
Lived Near Islay

W. T. Crumb of Minburn reports that he has received a letter from Norman McInnes, formerly of Islay. Norman played an important part for many years in the Islay country. He was on the municipal council for a long period and took a lively and active part in church work in Islay. Through constant practice he became an excellent public speaker, and he was willing to help any good cause. Mr. McInnes farmed a section of land two miles east of Islay for many years, now he is playing the "game main". He is likely to discover on a ship belonging to the merchant navy, and his headquarters is Halifax. He still has a hankering for the old life on the prairie for he says: "I sometimes wish I was out there as that is the only country to be in".

WILDMERE WINKS

There were some really thin winds last week end. Thursday night it blew over a granary standing it on its roof for George Wilson: it took a cupola off the roof of Smith's barn smashing it to pieces on the frozen ground. On Friday during the snowstorm some people were away from home and it was with difficulty that they made it to their domicile, as the visibility was all at times making driving very slow. One thing the hills and prairies until the children got home from school, at least out our way, which is something to be very thankful for.

We wish to extend our hearty congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ley Linden (nee Dora Herbert) for a very happily married life. We extend to Mrs Dibbon a very warm welcome to Wildmere and to our new neighbors.

Turner Bros. of Wendvale are very busy moving onto the Elza Arthur farm in Baldwin these days—and it's a long way to move things.

Percy and Bobby Graham visited with George and Gary Crutheru on Sunday afternoon.

Red Cross donations were much better in our part of the country this year than in the past few years. Congratulations.

Brooks Lyonne has moved to the Potter place for the summer.

Little Irene Wallace celebrated her third birthday last Sunday and had several of her little friends in to dinner. Gordon Lewis, Blanche Forsyth and Mr. Thomson were also dinner guests.

The Farm Forum meeting was also held this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Wolters on Monday night with thirteen in attendance in spite of the cold evening.

Word has been received that Mr and Mrs Albert Shank (nee Barbara Hedman) formerly of the Wildmere district, lost their home and contents by fire about two weeks ago. The Shank family live at Moon Lake and have a large new home only a few years old.

Mary Preston is at home visiting for a few weeks for a short time. She will return to Edmonton to take up her school work again.

W. J. Mayhew has resigned from the town council, his resignation becoming effective at Monday night's meeting of that body. No reason is given for the resignation. Mr. Mayhew has been on the council for several years during which time he was chairm n of the Health and Relief, Public Works and other committees. Last year he was in charge of the public works and succeeded in effecting considerable improvement to our streets. He gave the department his undivided attention" stated Mayor Morrison to the Standard. "I regret the doing some of the work himself in order to save money to the taxpayer". Mr. Mayhew was a faithful and conscientious councillor, the Mayor added, and during his chairmanship of the Relief committee some years ago he saved the town hundreds of dollars in connection with that work. The Mayor regretted Mr. Mayhew's retirement

Derricks in the oil field were the chief victims of the high wind last Thursday and Friday, no less than seven of the giants biting the dirt. In many cases the derricks were no longer any actual use to the well.

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

We are having some winter this week with temperatures quite low after the storm of last Friday and Saturday. Eastwest roads are badly drifted with the heavy winds.

The Ottawa road was opened with the snowplow last week, which required to cure getting through early but made very poor travelling for the teams and sleighs.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Good celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary on March 8th.

Geo. Meatman and Mrs. Barnwell were Edmonton visitors from Monday last to 8th, making the trip by bus.

Jim Foster was also a recent visitor to Edmonton.

The A.F.U. held a meeting at the school last Saturday. Due to bad roads there was not the expected large attendance.

The young people of Bird Hill, Ottawa and Chatsworth attended a tobogan party at Bird Hill last Tuesday, 7th.

The Chatsworth school children had planned a skating party at the ovens in Vermilion last Sunday but weather did not permit.

The A.F.U. is planning a big evening at the school on March 21st when a whist drive, box social and dance is being held. We hear there will be a Quiz on the evening's entertainment bill and a clock is being raffled to aid in swelling the funds for the Memorial Chimney, which is to be erected in the spring.

Miss Madeline Khalinsky, who has appent the past winter in Vancouver, returned to her home here last Saturday

BATTLEVIEW ECHOES

We are experiencing cold and windy weather at present but hope to get a warm spell soon.

Mr. Peter Jensen has sold his farm to Dmitro Newman and is quitting farming and intends to move to Vermilion. We will be sorry to see Mr. and Mrs. Jensen leave our community. They are having a sale at their farm on March 29th. Lunch at the sale will be by Battleview War Service league.

Henry Brecher is also moving to town. The town fever is surely catching the farmers.

Rationing has gone off meat since Prissel's cow had twin calves

The following items was sent home by one of our boys in Italy:

CAN YOU BEAT IT!

The horse and mule live 30 years And nothing have or whom or nowre. The goats and sheep at twenty die And never taste of Scotch or Rye. The cow drinks water by the ton And at eighteen is mostly done. The dog at fifteen cashes in Without the aid of wine or gin They eat in milk and water soaks And then in twelve short years it croaks.

The modest cuber hens dry her: Lays eggs for 'nogs then dies at ten All animals are strictly dry They shelves live but swiftly die. But sinful, gin-full rum-soaked men Survive for three score years and ten!

TOLLAND

March started off quite nicely but by now Boom up to its name with plenty of wind and cold weather One happy thought is that it won't be with us until spring arrives now. The high wind of last Thursday and Friday did considerable damage in places.

Brooks Lyonne has moved to the Potter place for the summer.

Little Irene Wallace celebrated her third birthday last Sunday and had several of her little friends in to dinner. Gordon Lewis, Blanche Forsyth and Mr. Thomson were also dinner guests.

The Farm Forum meeting was also held this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Wolters on Monday night with thirteen in attendance in spite of the cold evening.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(This paper does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by correspondents)

Dear Mr. Editor

To those who might not know we are supposed to have free treatment for tuberculosis patients in Alberta. Why is it then that the wives and children have to pay $20 per month of their dependent's allowance to the Sanatorium wherein they are receiving treatment? I have no objection to that it takes money, and plenty of it to keep up such places, and we are all very pleased that we have such institutions for those unfortunate enough to fall prey to the T.B. germ. The government must have set aside a fund for these cases, or else the treatment was put into force, by what we would like to know is why the families of members of our armed forces have to pay for this treatment? Surely our boys are paying enough over in the battle front by giving their life's blood without their families having to pay for what is supposed to be free here on our home front.

This is something that the Legion could well investigate. Mr. Williams our manager of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion has spoken of the subject in the Edmonton Journal, and Victor Quelch, Social Credit M.P. has drawn Col. Ralston's attention to it at Ottawa. What do others think about it? We, for one are out for a fair deal to all and for the monies to be refunded to the wives or members of our armed forces who are patients in the sat. If it's free, let it be free for all

BOWELL BULLETIN

Everybody is busy digging them active out of the snowdrifts after the big storm last Friday.

The Busy Bee meeting held at the home of Mrs. Ingford was attended by 13 members. Enough donations were made for three overseas parcels but it was decided to send cigarettes this month instead. The ladies are to meet this week at the home of Mrs. Repp where two quilts are to be sewed and a pot-luck dinner served.

A letter of thanks was received from Clifford Sharpness by the ladies. He also reports having met Charlie Young overseas.

The next meeting will be at Mrs. Harrison's with lunch scheduled by Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Sherwood. Ladies please note that it has been decided not to quilt at the next meeting in April.

Mrs. Walker had the misfortune to have a fork tang run into her hand. Mr. Walker has been sick in bed and Don Harrison has kindly helped out.

The new school caretaker is Mr. Fyr.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney were dinner guests on Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. Dodelly. The occasion was the birthdays of Mrs. Sweeney and Mrs. Dodelly. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison were Sunday visitors at the Repp home.

Mr. Durdis was a visitor to Edmonton this week.

Robert Repp spent the week end at the Sherwood home.

Mrs. Foston was noticed meeting the train Monday night as she was expecting a shipment of chicks.

VERMILION PLANT NEEDS GREATER FLOW OF CRUDE

Problems of the Vermilion oil field, which have attracted considerable attention lately, received a further thorough airing this week in Calgary. Officials of more than one of the Vermilion companies have been in the city this week discussing the future of the field, and reports state that good progress has been made.

J. K. Swanson of Vermilion Refining Co. was among the visitors. He contacted APA officials and also J.C. Galloway, who is Vermilion representative on the APA directorate. Mr. Swanson said that Vermilion crude had been giving splendid results. He also stated that while the plant is now handling almost 900 bbls. a day, it could handle as much as 1000 bbls. daily with ease. That it is not doing so is due largely to the fact that there are not sufficient trucks available to carry the product of the wells to the plant in a constant stream. Efforts to increase the supply of trucks have so far failed, and this is the only important reason which has prevented the plant from working to capacity.

It has been demonstrated that the wells already completed have a potential production far higher than their present output. But their ability to produce will not be determined definitely until the present facilities for transporting the oil from the wells to the refinery are greatly improved.

It is for this reason that several operators have appealed to the APA for assistance in obtaining new trucking equipment. Several additional trucks are required immediately if the difficulty is to be overcome, and if these can be secured the field will show a much increased production and the operators will feel encouraged to go ahead with several programs of development which are slowed up just how on account of the transportation problem.

It is expected with some confidence that the necessary trucks will be given priorities and that the present trouble, like the refining problem, will be solved, smoothing the path of the new field. —Western Oil Exam.

Care Of Chicks

Useful Information Regarding The Methods To Be Used To Avoid Losses

More chicks than ever were hatched in Canada in 1943, but far too many of them never lived to lay eggs or to be sold as poultry meat. Many of those deaths could have been avoided.

No matter how vigorous and healthy a newly hatched chick may be, if it is stunted or weakened in the early days of its life it will be a losing proposition in the end Careless feeding, careless brooding—these are the kind of things which set a chick off to a bad start

How can a farmer avoid these losses? Good housing will help. A weatherproof building built to allow plenty of sunlight and fresh air and a reliable heating unit with the best fuel obtainable will keep the chicks comfortable and the operator not too busy.

As to feeding there's no economy in feeding cheap and inferior rations. Until it gets out on range, the chick depends entirely on the feed it is given in the brooder Per this reason, the starter feed should be carefully prepared, containing all the elements necessary to a growing chick.

There is little cause for worry if the chicks come from a reliable source, are warmly housed in sanitary surroundings, and are given fresh water and plenty of suitable feed. Nature will take care of the rest.

But once a chick is chilled or inadequately fed, it may never recover sufficiently to be profitable. And late replacements never equal an earlier hatched chick

For Hospital Work

St. John's Ambulance Brigade From Canada Arrives In Britain

The first contingent of St. John Ambulance Brigade officers from Canada to serve overseas, has arrived in Britain.

The women, who come from every part of the Dominion, are all specialists who will study their own particular phase of work while in the British Isles.

Mrs. Thomas Gilmour of Toronto, Canadian superintendent-in-chief of the brigade, who wears the insignia of a brigadier on her grey uniform, said on her arrival "This is an information gathering group. More large parties are expected later to do hospital work, occupational therapy and study post-war rehabilitation, as well as relief in re-occupied European countries Souls of dead chieftains visit their relatives in the form of snakes, according to a superstition of some African natives.

6-Pounder Anti-Tank Gun

Indicative of the versatility of the infantry, and the manner in which they adapt weapons from almost every branch of the service to their own advantage, is their use of the deadly, six-pounder anti-tank gun. Mobile to the extreme, the weapon is generally towed behind a light truck. In difficult terrain, it is light enough to be man-handled into position by its five-man crew. With a long, effective range, the gun can be set up in a matter of seconds, and pours its deadly armor-piercing shells into the vitals of the enemy's lumbering mobile units. The projectile, weighing but six pounds, punches a small round hole in the enemy armour and ricochets inside with a devastating effect. If gun supplies are hit, the tank will go up in flames. The number of rounds that can be fired by a trained gun crew in a minute reaches almost rapid-fire speed

As Victory Salute

Churchill Prefers Ringing Of Bells To Roar Of Guns

Prime Minister Churchill prefers the ringing of bells as a victory salute, rather than the roar of guns.

To the proposal by Capt. Leonard F. Plugge, Conservative, that cannon be sounded to commemorate major military successes, Mr. Churchill said:

"Personally, I favor bells. We are likely to hear quite enough of guns before Empire Day."

ANSWER: Right Both crocodiles and alligators are found there.

MEDICAL CARE IN RUSSIA

Each large enterprise in the Soviet Union (with 250 or more workers) has a health centre on the premises at which workers and their families receive medical service. To care for both the day and night shifts, this health centre functions as a rule on a round-the-clock basis. The health centres, often termed polyclinics are engaged not only in treatment but also in sickness and accident prevention through inspection and education. . . . Those enterprises which are in the vicinity of large hospitals usually limit their services to routine and emergency work; then the hospital clinics become the centres for complete service to the workers of these plants. Enterprises with fewer than 250 workers will often maintain joint use of a polyclinic in their immediate neighborhood. Some 7,600 factory health stations had been established by 1940. —From "Soviet Health Care in Peace and War", by Rose Maurer.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

MARCH 19

JESUS CRUCIFIED

Golden text: He was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed. Isaiah 53:5.

Lesson: Mark 15:21-37.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 53:4-12.

Explanations and Comments

Simon's Part, Mark 15:21. They led Jesus away. Pilate had handed over Jesus to be crucified, compelled Simon of Cyrene to bear the cross. Simon was a native of Cyrene, in northern Africa, probably a colored man; a man of some importance because Rufus (whose father and mother are mentioned) by name. Against his will he was compelled to carry the cross which Jesus was too weak to bear (Mt. 27:32). With us a cross is thought of as the sort of burden, rather than the man as father of the boys. Kennedy Williamson asks two questions: "May not this mean that the sons of Simon of Cyrene were known to the early Christian Church; or was it well known indeed that it was actually of interest to the folk for whom Mark was writing, that Simon was the father father? Had Simon brought up his boys so well in the faith that they became stalwarts in the Church, workers of such prominence that he was now thought of as the father by his now distinguished sons?"

The Crucifixion, Mark 15:23-37. The place of the crucifixion was called in Hebrew Golgotha, (or Latin, Calvary), a word meaning "The place of a skull," so named from the shape of the mound. To stupefy Jesus and so lessen his pain he was offered wine mingled with myrrh, but he refused it. It was the third hour, 9 a.m., when the soldiers crucified him, and then they sat calmly down to divide his garments among them, casting lots for them.

It was customary to have the crime of the malefactor inscribed on a piece of wood and carried before him to the place of execution, then fastened to his cross. The offense inscribed to Jesus, the King of the Jews, was inscribed and fastened to his cross above his head. (See also John 19:20 we learn that it was written in three languages, Hebrew, Latin and Greek. On either side of Jesus a robber (malefactor, Luke calls him) was crucified.

The Death, Mark 15:33-39. From noon till three o'clock there was darkness over the whole land, due to the sun's light failing. Luke 23:45. This darkness may have been part of the ordinary course of nature, or such intense darkness as is sometimes experienced in the East. It could not have been an eclipse, as it was the Passover season and full moon. Another explanation given is that "it was a symbolic way of saying what is literally true, that for those who loved Jesus, just waiting, while he suffered, for the end."

Muscular tension is believed to be one of the major causes of light sleeping.

Japan Has Hit On Brilliant Idea To Overcome Labor Shortage

Owing to the acute manpower shortage in that country, Japan has already moved to steeply bookkeeping in Japanese banks. The first step, already taken, was to stop paying or crediting interest on any deposit. The next move is to stop all withdrawals of deposits.

This, it is believed, will save more time than refusing deposits, because it is easy to take in money, particularly when it is not necessary to credit it. Then when no interest has to be paid and no money is allowed to be withdrawn, no bookkeeping of any kind will be necessary. Simple, isn't it?

Loyal Allies

Glurkas Of Nepal Helping To Fight Japs In Burma

The Ghurkas are about the toughest fighters in the world, as the Japs in Burma are now finding out. The British discovered it early in the last century, when they attempted to conquer Nepal. The Ghurkas licked them, then signed a treaty with them, and ever since they have been loyal allies. They did yeoman service in the Indian Mutiny and in the World War.

As jungle fighters the Japs are bush lawyers compared to the jungle-bred Ghurkas.

USE OF PLASTICS

A. E. Byrne, manager of the plastics supply department for Canadian General Electric, said plastics will offer the public of the post-war world "something far surpassing the dream of ancient alchemists."

GARDEN NOTES

To Relieve Strain

This year with the war in a critical phase, gardening and gardening are needed more than ever. Not only are they needed for providing essential food, but also as a useful and pleasant recreation open to every citizen of the Dominion In the spring one turns naturally to gardening. Digging in the soil, sowing seeds and watching plants develop provides a welcome and needed change when tension was never greater, and when many of our normal recreations may be no longer possible.

Hardy and Otherwise

Roughly, vegetables and flowers naturally divide themselves into three degrees of hardiness.

In vegetables one can hardly plant such things as peas too early, because they are a cool weather crop and must make their growth before the days become too hot. Also in the hardy line are spinach, lettuce, radish, beets, carrots and parsnips, swiss chard, etc. Under semi-hardy, there will be beans, peas, corn, cabbage, etc. A very slight frost will not kill some of these but it will certainly set them back. As a matter of fact with a few exceptions, there is little gained by planting these while there is still danger of serious frost and the soil is cold. And, of course, with warm weather things like melons, squash, tomatoes and cucumbers, one is risking certain disaster by planting before danger from frost has passed.

Flower Families

In flowers, certain things that would normally seek threatening and come up unasked every spring can be sown just as soon as possible. That would cover such hardy things as alyssum, bellyflocks, marigolds, etc. Some also should be put in this category, although they will not stand the winter except in some of the very mildest parts of Canada. At the other end of the line will be the tender plants like dahlias, the very tender bulbs, gladioli and cannas. Those will not be planted until the good Canadian seed catalogue, of course, will advise in detail on these points.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

"The Blast-Out"

— By —

LESLIE B. LUCK

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Sheriff Matt Scott and his deputy, Pete Connely, lounging in front of the county jail, weren't especially enjoying the shade. "I still say I'm right to lock up every bum that drifts through Keysport!" the sheriff growled belligerently.

"You're a hard man," insisted the deputy. "Everybody says so. You even bully your daughter."

Diana Linden out of this!" Scott roared. He rose from the bench and went inside. Pete could hear his heavy steps halting in front of the kid's cell. Scott addressed the prisoner: "Are you willing to talk, Hale?" There was dead silence from the cell.

Pete almost jumped at the soft, rustic of skirts behind him. Diana Scott bent her bright blond head close to Pete's ear and whispered, "I didn't dare tell Dad, but Terry Hale and I met while he was at State University. Terry was on his way to a city where he has a job waiting for him."

She stopped his question with a warning look. "You see," she gasped, "we're engaged! We were going to run away—elope"

Pete whooped under his breath, "Hallelujah! Say I was beginning to think you were going to let your dad railroad you into marrying that George Cole!"

Diana crimsoned enchantingly. Her violet eyes were starry. "That's all right—but this is how. . . is, what to do!"

Some of her exhilaration died when she stepped into the jail. She said, "Dad, let Terry out, please, dear!" About she coaxed softly, "Oh, why don't you let him go, Dad? He's not guilty! I'll help prove it."

The prisoner, bronzed arms bulging through a torn shirt, gazed at her worshipfully, but kept adamantly silent beats. But Hale's voice was cool. "I guess the sheriff won't let me go until he's had him my home town so he can check up on me."

Diana tried to control her excitement. "That should be simple."

"I—can't tell," muttered the prisoner.

Sheriff Scott sneered. "You probably broke the law there. I've sent your finger prints and description to the local F.B.I. office." He whirled on Diana "Come along; we're going home."

But me her father stamped down the corridor. Diana managed to thrust a note through the bars and received one in exchange. . . .

* * * *

Sheriff Scott watched his daughter closely as she moved about the kitchen preparing their evening meal. "Diana," he ordered brusquely, "I forbid you to come around the jail again. Hale, household goods and electrical instruments. The scholarship which originally brought Hale to America from Belgium at 26 has had unusual consequences, the importance of which cannot be measured. PULPIT ON RAILS

In St. Cuthbert's Church at Carlisle, Cumberland, is a pulpit on rails: three rails let into the floor are the means of guiding the huge pulpit into the centre of the church according to a letter to the editor of the London Field, who sent a photograph of it.

Grateful to Canada

People in British Appreciate Foodstuffs That Have Been Sent

The women of Britain with whom Miss Mary-Etta MacPherson, managing editor of Chatelaine, came in contact during a two-months visit to the British Isles are deeply interested in all things Canadian, she told the Advertising and Sales Executives' Club of Montreal. They are very grateful for the foodstuffs that Canada has been sending over to help them maintain a standard of living that enabled them to do their full part in the war. That they were doing this there was no doubt—women were doing the hardest kinds of jobs with grim determination, and Miss MacPherson said it was a wonderful privilege to have the opportunity of meeting them and seeing for herself the things of which she had heard.

"There is no war weariness in Britain," she declared, "but there is a tremendously steely fighting spirit among the civilians as well as in the services, an indomitable quality about the ordinary people in Britain, who are willing to do anything as long as they think there is fair play."

Miss MacPherson spoke about the humor of the British women workers, which persisted despite the blackout and the curtailment of social life, and then described the high place Canadians have in their esteem.

"Any Canadian over there can feel intensely proud being a Canadian," she remarked. The speaker mentioned that the British people were particularly grateful to Canada for sending over tinned salmon, and they were greatly interested in the fact that young women could get university education on the same footing as men in Canada. Miss MacPherson contrasted the life of the British working classes with those of this country, remarking that no provision had been made for privages in 50,000 new houses that had been built. People over there were surprised, she said, that in Canada many workers of this class would have family cars. She told her audience of some of the ingenious devices in English homes for utilizing the heat from the living room fireplaces. One cooker being piped through to the boiler in the kitchen, and even to the kitchen ovens for baking.—Montreal Star.

Grain Spoilage

Take Proper Methods To Protect Farm Stored Grains

In order to help Western farmers avoid losses in their farm-stored grain the Division of Entomology, Science Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture, has distributed a sheet of information on the subject. At the same time, a mimeographed circular has been sent to elevator operators, laboratories, and other officials dealing with the storage of grain.

Most spoilage arises from tough grain, with its accompaniment of insects, mites, moulds, and heating Tough grain may result from unfavourable harvesting conditions. Leaks, seepage, green weed seeds, condensation, and lack of ventilation may cause dry sound grain to become tough in a few months. Tough grain favours the rapid growth and breeding of mites, insects, moulds, and heating. These processes proceed even in the coldest weather because of the heat generated by the tough grain. Transferring and cleaning grain in cold weather lowers the temperature of the grain, reduces pest activity, and prevents heating

Farmers are advised to examine the grain now and in cold weather to prevent warm weather losses, examine grain stocks every two weeks, transfer tough infected grain in cold weather to a clean granary, provide adequate ventilation, market grain whenever possible, consult the district agent about over-delivery privileges and use them. These are some of the suggestions made by the sheet Further information may be obtained from the local elevator agent or write to the Provincial Biological Laboratory (at Brandon, Man., Saskatoon, Sask.; and Lethbridge Alta.), or to the Provincial Department of Agriculture concerned at Winnipeg for Manitoba; Regina for Saskatchewan, or Edmonton for Alberta.

A Man-Sized Job

Being Done On Northumberland Farm By Young English Girl

A 16-year-old English girl, Dulcie Scott, is running an 80-acre Northumberland farm that has a herd of 19 dairy cattle, seven calves, two horses, two pigs, and 50 chickens. Her assistant is a 19-year-old Land Army girl, who had lived in the city all her life Here is Dulcie Scott's timetable: Up at 4.30 a.m., milked, barns cleaned, cows fed and milked, milk delivered to cross-roads for pick-up, calves, pigs and poultry fed before breakfast at 9 a.m. After that, said Dulcie, "the day's work begins," which included ploughing, cleaning milking machines, taking animals and produce to market and other routine farm chores, repeating the morning's schedule at 3 p.m.

Norsemen Plane

Appeared In The Movie "Captain Of The Clouds"

Dominion Skyways purchased the first Norseman plane in January, 1936, and it is still in operation, flying from CPA's Resolute base. Canadian Pacific saw the plane in the movie "Captain of the Clouds". The star, James Cagney, flew it in the movies. It was not long before almost every bush operator was flying or planning to fly a Norseman. As Norseys had hoped, they found it ideal for the tough, every-day beating it had to take

It was the Bernt Balchen incident that resulted in the Norseman getting the military use it deserved. The U S bought several of them and the pilots with flew Norsemen praised them mightily

AIRWOMAN HONORED AT PELICAN LAKE SCHOOL

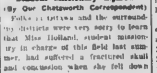
A social evening was held at the Pelican Lake school on Tuesday March 14 in honor of AW1 Philomena Cusack, home on furlough from her training depot at Calgary. The evening was spent at cards with nine tables in play. After the cards a dainty lunch was served by the hostesses. Mrs. Cusack, Mrs. Casterton and Mrs. P. Toner

Miss Cusack was presented with a well filled kit bag. She brings the number up to eighteen of the daughters and sons or residents of the Pelican Lake district who have joined His Majesty's Forces

Student Missionary Injured
(By Our Chatsworth Correspondent)

Folks in town and the surrounding districts were very sorry to learn that Miss Holland, student missionary in charge of this field last summer, had suffered a fractured skull and concussion when she fell down some steps. Last word heard here was to the effect that she was recuperating in a Toronto hospital.

The death took place at Grande Prairie on March 14th of George A. Lanaw, formerly of Tofield and Wainwright. The deceased resided at Vermilion for some years prior to going to Tofield. He is survived by his wife and one son, Pte. Lanaw, Canadian Army at Edmonton. When in Vermilion the deceased was connected with one of the local lumber yards.



Vermilion Squadron No. 97

The command medical officer P. L. Underhill visited the squadron on Monday and medically examined all the Cadets. Also visiting the squadron was Air Cadet Harrington. Now a full fledged WOG (Wireless Operator ground), he was immediately put to work transmitting some of his wireless knowledge to the boys. We are always pleased to receive visits from our former Air Cadets.

Thursday there was an aircraft recognition and mathematics parade while next Monday a drill parade has been called.

We will be without the services of our commanding officer AC. PO Taylor for a few weeks as he left on Thursday morning for Ottawa on post office business. We will miss his genial hand while he is away.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Catherine Clarke MacKay

Mrs. Catherine Clarke MacKay passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Barr, on Tuesday March 7th, 1944. She was 69 years of age and died following a very short illness.

The deceased was born at Campbeltown, Argyleshire, Scotland in 1875, coming to Calgary with her family in 1910. She was predeceased by one daughter in 1916 and by her husband in 1919. In 1920 Mrs. MacKay came to Vermilion and has since that time made her home here, the past three years living with her daughter Mrs. Clarence Barr.

Left to mourn her loss are one daughter, Mrs. Clarence Barr, Vermilion; one sister Mrs. Mary Clarke in Calgary; two brothers, Peter McCallum, Calgary and Neil McCallum in Scotland. There are also two grandchildren, Catherine and Mary Barr.

A memorial service was held at the First United church, Vermilion, on Thursday March 9th at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Interment took place in the Union cemetery in Calgary.

CHRISTINA ROSE COX

Christina Rose Cox, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cox of Kohler, passed away on February 27th, 1944. The deceased was just eleven months old and passed away after a short illness.

The funeral services were held from the Anglican church, and interment took place in the Vermilion cemetery. The Ven. Archdeacon Harrison officiated.

Beautiful floral tributes were received from: Dad, mother, brother and sisters; Cyril and Garfield; Mr. and Mrs. Bowman and family; Mr. and Mrs. Friedlan; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Powell and family; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Turner and family; Mr. and Mrs. Graham Gaston and family and Alice and Ted and family.

The sympathy of a wide circle of friends and acquaintances is extended to the family in their sad bereavement.

Wartime Prices and Trade Board announces lifting restrictions on the manufacture of stranded clothesline.

Stagette Notes

The stagettes held a farewell party in the clubroom on Tuesday March 14th in honor of Norah Nelson and Letha Corke.

Letha has been transferred from the local Telephone Exchange to the Edmonton office and will become a member of the city club. Letha who is one of our more recent members was presented with a Stagette pin and the club's best wishes. Good luck Chum!

It is with great regret that we say goodbye to our president, Norah. For the past two years she has been the guiding spirit and during that time has been on the entertainment committee secretary and president. In appreciation of her hard work and good leadership Norah was given a sterling silver hand mirror.

Iola Schoonmaker was welcomed as a new member. She has been partially initiated into the club—as a result of the bumps and bruises she acquired from the broomball game.

Don't forget Killarney Kapers tonight, Friday March 17th!

Pte. James Boyd, Canadian Army, was killed in action in Italy on March 15th, according to a message received by his wife in Vermilion. Pte. Boyd was born in Scotland and came to Canada with his parents when a boy. He enlisted in Vermilion in 1940 and went overseas in 1941. He was 28 years of age.

TOWN MAKES $300 DONATION TO RED CROSS CAMPAIGN

The Town council at a special meeting Monday evening voted the sum of $300 towards the Red Cross drive, the highest contributing ever made by the town for this or any such like service. C. L. Whitby and J. R. Robson on behalf of the local Red Cross appeared before the board and made a strong plea for a substantial vote for this worthy cause. In view of the fact that his budget for grants was limited to a certain amount the Council decided not to make grants to the Board of Trade nor to the Vermilion Agricultural society for this year, in order to respond to the urgency of the appeal for Red Cross funds. The generous grant of $300 will very substantially increase the subscriptions to the local drive which is still short of the quota allocated to the Town of Vermilion and district.

LAND HELD RATE FOR 1944

Business Tax is Up

The tax rate for Vermilion for 1944 will be 55 mills, the same as in 1943. The result, while the same, is arrived at a little differently, as the school requisition is down and that for municipal rate is up. The municipal rate jumps 2 mills or from 19 to 21 but this is offset by a 2 mill drop from 26 mills to 24 in the school rate.

Tax demands by the schools last year were $31,788 and this drops to $29,415 for 1944.

The municipal requisition on the other hand is $16,179 for 1944 as compared with $15,829 for 1943.

The hospital requisition remains the same, $2,376.

The business tax takes quite a jump this year from the former rate of 10 to 25 mills. It is presumed that this is for the purposes of establishing a town sinking fund.

The rural school rate continues at 15 mills.

ISLAY

SEIZED WITH AN ATTACK OF FRIGHT

While hanging out the clothes on washday, Mrs. McRae was seized with fright—a runaway team bringing in the Hanson children's school canoe flying up Railway Ave. right by Mrs. McRae's house, and then turned up the alley back of the lumber yard, past the rink and then through Hanson pulled them into a pile of poles. There they stopped. The children were fine, they hopped up the hill that were down drives as quietly as you please so one to the livery barn, got the horse into the barn and off to school as if nothing had ever happened. After some time Mrs. McRae recovered her poise and finished the washing.

Much credit is due the Bridstow area when a couple of weeks ago they staged a whale, an amateur night and dance in the school and made more than $62 for the Red Cross fund. It was handed in to our local secretary recently.

On March 17th the Islay Red Cross held an amateur night and dance in the hall. $78 was realized, we had a fine time. Lunch was a little scarce we heard some say but you know it each

Mutual Aid Will Bring The Allies Closer Together

OTTAWA. — Mutual aid agreements with Britain, Russia and Australia, tabled in parliament by Prime Minister King, contained terms to show that Canada's material assistance to her allies in the war would serve to cement closer economic relations after the war.

Thus mutual aid, as one of Canada's weapons for victory, will become a weapon for prosperity in the future.

Other agreements are being negotiated with China and the French National Committee of Liberation along similar lines.

The Canadian government wrote into its mutual aid agreement a clause comparable to section seven of the master agreement of the United States lend-lease act, which binds countries receiving lend-lease to promote mutual economic advantage after the war.

The Canadian agreement, in clause "X" of the treaty with Britain and Australia, and clause "IX" in the Russian treaty reads as follows:

"The governments re-affirm their desire to promote mutually advantageous economic relations between them and contribute to the attainment of the economic objectives set forth in the Atlantic Charter, jointly known as the 'Atlantic Charter'."

Reference to the Atlantic Charter was article "5" of that document which stated the objective to be "The fullest collaboration between all nations in the economic field with the object of securing for all improved labor standards, economic advancement, and social security."

The new mutual aid agreements did not specify amount or value of material assistance to be furnished in Britain, Russia and Australia this year; in Canberra, Hon. H. V. Evatt, minister of external affairs for Australia, disclosed that his country expected to receive from $85,000,000 to $100,000,000 annually.

The total amount of mutual aid to be provided by Canada in 1944-45 is expected to be $600-000,000, a reduction from the billion dollar figure appropriated last year.

The agreements with Britain and Russia were signed on Feb 11. The Australian agreement was signed only on March 9

Canada's mutual aid agreements were drafted in order to leave no doubt of the precise post-war obligation inherent in the goods and materials supplied by this country; this as much as the avoidance of a war debt in money terms, is expected to reduce the possibility of future disputes that will be, as Mr. King said "an indeterminate obligations".

The agreements provide that ships, supplied by Canada will be returned; that supplies on the way when the war ends may be used by Canada; that serviceable aircraft and automotive equipment may be returned, and that serviceable war supplies be distributed among United Nations in accordance with existing needs of war, that Canada's contribution to "creation" should not be such as to burden post-war commerce, lead to the imposition of trade restrictions or otherwise prejudice a just and enduring peace

SHOWN A DECREASE

OTTAWA. The Dominion bureau of statistics reported stocks of Canadian wheat in store or in transit in North America at midnight March 9 totalled 336,415,792 bushels, including 8,241,920 bushels in Canadian positions and 19,073,873 bushels in United States positions. On the corresponding date last year the visible supply totalled 443,186,011 bushels.

May Acquire Carriers For Canadian Navy

OTTAWA.—Navy ... ister Macdonald said in the comm ons he hoped Canada could acquire two aircraft carriers she is to man for the United Kingdom, but the matter at present is complicated as the vessels were given the United Kingdom under lease lend by the United States

Answering a series of questions asked during debate on the navy estimates for the fiscal year 1944 45, the minister said that the aircraft carriers were in a different position from the two cruisers being obtained by Canada from the United Kingdom These were British ships which would come into Canadian hands completely.

Mr Macdonald said there was no means of saying at present how many men would remain in the Royal Canadian Navy after the war A post-war complement of between 9,000 and 9100 men had been authorized in 1941 and since that time various plans had been suggested for a possible maximum but nothing has been decided

(Just recently the minister said the navy personnel numbered about 80,000.)

"I hope as do many other members in the house that it will be a reasonably large navy adequate for a country the size of Canada," Mr Macdonald said.

PASSED OBJECTIVE

Net Amount Of February War Savings Stamp Drive $3,053,180

OTTAWA. Finance Minister Ilsley announced in the commons that the food industry's February war savings stamp drive netted $3,053,180, or about 53 per cent. more than the objective.

"Never before in the history of war savings have so many stamps been sold in a single month," he said. "The success of this campaign has been a stimulant to the war savings effort."

EXPORT TRADE GROWS

Increased Shipments Of Wheat And Other Farm Products

OTTAWA.—The Dominion bureau of statistics reported that Canada's merchandise export trade continues to grow, with the total in February reaching $227,168,000 compared with $167,699,000 in the corresponding month last year.

Features of the month's trade were heavily-increased outward shipments of wheat, meats and motor vehicles and parts Wheat exports rose to $28 454,000 from $4 909 000 meats to $29,234,000 from $7 253 000 and motor vehicles and parts to $30 - $15,000 from $16 794,000 Wool exports were increased to $1 683,000 from $193,000

The flow of Canadian supplies to India, China, the French possessions, Italy, Russia, Turkey, the United Kingdom, the United States and to many other countries, was continued.

Merchandise exports to India were valued at $12,144,000 compared with $5,996 000. China $2 050 000 against nil, French possessions $1 100 000 compared with $102,000 Italy $4 - 921,000 compared with nil Russia $6,490,000 compared with $964,000, Turkey $2 686 000 compared with nil. United Kingdom $73 154,000 compared with $51,883,000 and the United States $91,850,000 compared with $81,583,000.

LARGER PLANES

Britain May Build Bigger Aircraft In Future

LONDON—Britain has reached her peak of aircraft output "from the operational point of view," Sir Stafford Cripps, minister of aircraft production, said, but added he did not think from the point of view of operational strength we have reached it."

"We shall probably be producing more bigger aircraft and fewer small ones," he explained in a statement in which he disclosed 40 per cent. of Britain's aircraft workers were women.

Canada To Get Full Share Of Britain's Trade

REGINA. Forecast that Canada will get her full share of trade with Great Britain after the war was made by Rt. Hon Malcolm MacDonald M.P. British high commissioner to Canada in an interview in Regina.

"We shall certainly see that Canada gets her share of our post-war trade" Mr MacDonald said, adding a prediction that Canadian exports of agricultural products to Britain would be much larger than ship ments made before the war.

"The people of Britain would be extremely well disposed to do all they could to give Canadians a good market for their products." Mr MacDonald said. He suggested that Canadians should be prepared to take and return the products of British manufacturers who would again be in a position to export to Canada after the war

While Britain expected to participate in the Canadian market after the war she appreciated the fact that Canadian industrial production had greatly increased during the war and would be a factor to contend with after the war.

In matters other than mutual trade the relationship of Canada and Great Britain after the war would be one of continued intimate co-operation Mr. Mr. Donald said.

The immense amount of help Canadian farmers had given to Britain in the war through the sending of foodstuffs to keep British people alive would not be forgotten after the war This help had won the eternal gratitude of the British people, Mr. MacDonald said.

The British commonwealth pat formed great services to humanity in the most critical year of the war, before Russia and America were implicated, and after the whole of Europe had been conquered Mr MacDonald said.

It was only the refusal of the British commonwealth to surrender that prevented a complete German triumph, he declared. Without the war and some of the leaders of the world's nations of the world Canada would not have attained its present stature as a nation and would not play an important role in international affairs he said

Canada's importance was illustrated by the fact that she was fourth [illegible] production of [illegible] the United Nations [illegible] Canada's [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The Story of The Canadian Women's Army Corps

In the dark unforgettable days of 1940, His Majesty the King used these inspired words to his people

"Let us go forward to that task as one man, a smile on our lips and our heads held high, and with God's help we shall not fail.

To the peoples of the hard-pressed British Empire listening then to that great pronouncement of faith and courage it seemed a task whose fulfillment was almost impossible. Now, four years later, surrounded on all sides by the signs of Victory, with the Atlantic Charter uniting all nations who are lovers of freedom in the fight for its preservation, those grim days seem very far away.

That the people of England, of Canada, and of the whole Empire rallied as they did, and that their inspired leaders is one of the great miracles of history. That miracle could not have been accomplished without the whole-hearted self-sacrificing effort of every member of those nations.

There is one aspect of this total war effort about which can be praised and that is the work which has and is being done by women, and par ticularly by the women of Canada.

When the war broke out, women's organizations all across Canada began approaching the government for permission to form auxiliary branches to the three fighting services But it was not until August, 1941 that an Order in Council authorized the formation of the Canadian Women's Army Corps as an auxiliary. In September, the first recruits enlisted and by March, 1942, the Corps had grown so greatly in numbers that it became necessary to establish Army active

The Canadian Women's Army Corps is NOT an auxiliary. It is an active force and subs for actual combat duties in the theatre of war in all things practically as do the men of Canada's army

The women who enlist to serve in the Canadian Women's Army Corps wear the general service badge, this means that they have enlisted to serve anywhere in the world for the duration of the war and for a period of twelve months thereafter, should His Majesty on long require their services.

Any woman who is between the ages of 18 and 45; who is physically fit with at least grade eight education and who has no young children dependent upon her may enlist in the C.W.A.C.

She will receive 50% of the pay of the men as well as clothing allowances and free issue of all kit and uniform. If she is married to a man in the services she will continue to receive her dependent's allowance. She will also receive dependents allowance for any close relative whose support she has, with the exception of young children.

When a girl decides to enlist in the C.W.A.C. she takes a medical examination first of all and if she is accepted in passing this, she is then attested and sworn into the Corps. This means that she takes her oath of allegiance to Her King and Country and to the Army. This oath is as binding as that taken by the men.

Then, having been issued with her kit, she goes, if she is a western girl, to Vermilion, where No. 2 C.W.A.C. basic training centre is established in the fine buildings which formerly housed the Agricultural College. Here she will learn drill, marching, first aid, self-protection from gas warfare and all the things which will turn her into a good soldier. Above all she will learn that she is now part of a unit numbering over 12,000 Canadian women.

She will discover that there is a comradeship and a Corps spirit with her sisters in uniform—the value of which will endure long after the war is over.

The code of law by which Armies throughout the British Empire are governed is the Kings' Regulations and Orders. This applies to women of the C.W.A.C. with certain lateral additions.

Discipline is something without which no family or society can exist, and the individual that will not fall in with his fellow men without self-discipline. So, there is nothing terrifying about army discipline and no one, anyone is dressed it, it is simply an extension of those other forms of discipline and a means towards the happiness and efficiency of each and every member of the C. W.A.C. contributes to the well being and efficiency of the Corps as a whole. For the sake of the mothers and the fathers of girls in uniform or about to enlist, let this be said. Their daughters are in the C.W.A.C. are well looked after. Their meals are arranged by trained dietitians; the best of medical care is theirs when they are ill; their leaves and late passes are regulated with due regard for their health. Should any misdemeanour occur, the compassionate leave is never withheld.

The work of the C.W.A.C. officers as administrators of the Corps is secondary to their work of looking after the welfare of the girls who serve under them. They are not set apart and unapproachable. Courtesy is paid to them at all times because they command the King's Commission But the officers work every bit as hard as the other ranks — a great deal harder. No girl in the C.W.A.C. need ever be unhappy in her job or in any other way. She has only to go to the officer under whom she works to receive every possible help and encouragement.

There is one job which is being done by the women of Canada's Army and which is the reason for the Corps' existence; and that is the releasing of men wherever possible for more active service in Canada or overseas. This means simply that every girl in your town or district who can add one to the women's work. There are fifty different types of jobs which women may do, and indeed, which only they can do. If this great objective is to be brought not only to a victorious conclusion but to the speedy conclusion for which we all long.

Women may replace men as stenographers writers and telephone operators; drivers and driver mechanics; cooks, waitresses, canteen helpers; dental and medical assistants; laboratory technicians and postal clerks, to name but a very few of the many trades for which the C.W.A.C. will train girls. There are no restrictions in almost every trade so that a girl need not qualify for any particular job before enlisting. And the training and experience she will gain in the army will be of invaluable service to her personally in the post-war world.

Each girl upon enlistment has an interview with the Army Examiner. The purpose of this interview is to discover the type of work for which she is most suited. The course she takes or the job to which she is assigned on completion of her basic training is based on this interview.

Says Railways Appreciate Co-operation of the Public

MONTREAL — Traffic is heavy on every part of the Canadian National western lines,' said Allistair Fraser, B.C. vice president of the system, on his return to Montreal after a recent trip of business tour of the Prairies and British Columbia "The movement of this traffic has been an outstanding achievement, of which we are very proud and it could only be accomplished with the splendid co-operation of the public, which has been most generously afforded. Travellers understand the position and have made allowances for any difficulties which have arisen. shippers, too, have helped tremendously by loading the freight cars to capacity and in prompt manner in which they have expedited a quick turn-around, enabling the railway to get maximum use of all equipment."

Fraser is administering the pre-war line, including all expenses connected with railroading is approximately $1.25 per year for each person in Canada, or about 10c per month, said W. A. Coughlan of the WPTB.

ALBERTA'S Liquor SITUATION

The Alberta Liquor Control Board is faced to lay with the cold mathematics of trying to supply more than double the number of permit holders with heavily curtailed liquor ration. Greater demand rather than reduced supply is mainly responsible for the situation.

The Alberta Liquor Control Board purchased in 1942 home year, 362,611 gallons; added sales in 1942—215,111 gallons. From these figures it is seen that the amount purchased was in excess of sales by 27,500 gallons, which went into stock. In 1943, the Alberta quota for liquor was 169,827 gallons (70 per cent of 1942 purchases). Of this amount, only 157,009 gallons was received. Thus, the province received 12,818 gallons less than it was allowed under its quota.

The sales for 1943 totalled 218,207 gallons. The difference between the amount received and the amount sold was made up out of stocks on hand.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

A Study In Technique

By V. B. DOBSON
McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Sam Granger went out with only the prettiest girls. Nothing unusual about that, of course. Lots of men do it—men who are either good looking or rich, or both. Sam was neither. Sam was in the garage business. A fair to middling business, with little danger of his getting rich.

As for his good looks—I couldn't say, though I was his best friend and not too critical. He was short. His hair was mud-colored and thin in spots. His complexion was florid and healthy looking. In short, he was anything but a tall, dark-haired, bronze-faced god.

In spite of that, the girls went for him. I made up my mind to find out why, figuring that with my looks and his technique I'd get on to it. I'd be able to go places

A new restaurant opened up a couple of blocks from the garage. "So what!" Sam said when one of his helpers told us about it.

"This restaurant owner knows how to pick waitresses. He's got a couple of knockouts working for him."

I didn't ask Sam if he was going to try the new restaurant that day. When he said he was going out to eat, I told him I was going too, and fell in step beside him.

We took a table. At eight of the girls who made her way toward us I think we both got a little widespread. She was all there, all right. "Nice day," Sam told you have.

"Yes, sir. What will you have, sir?" You'd think she was a rube just serving a couple of other robots, that's how much interest she showed in us. It was just long enough for a whole meal. All she said was "Yes, sir," and "No, sir," in a way that was discouraging.

"Buddy," says I to myself, "I'm going to run for President."

"Laugh if you want to, Brad. That was an inspiration—tipping her with the buck in my pocket. It not only interested her in me but it revealed her character. She's a clever kid."

I knew that. I laughed again at the thought of Sam marrying her.

When we walked into the restaurant the next day, the girl working with Lora smiled brightly, their boss grinned and Lora laughed right out loud. They all said "Hello" as they would to their best friends.

Sam took our order, still laughing, and for the first time acting chummy.

Sam asked her, "What are you doing tonight?"

Her eyes grew eager. "Nothing."

"Care to take in a show with me?"

"Why—I'd be glad to. There's a show I've been going to see—"

I knew women well enough to notice it wasn't the show she was dying to see as much as she was dying to go out with Sam.

"How in the world did you do it?" I asked him after she left with our order.

"You ought to know," said Sam. "You saw me take it."

"Yes, I saw you but—well, do you think it? I sat at one of the tables the girl got over and tipped her with a few nuts and bolts—"

"Bud, you're a simp. That technique is stale now."

Mrs. Blank—Do you want employment?

Tramp—Lady, you mean well, but you can't make work sound any better by using a big word

Teacher—Junior, did I saw a boy beating a donkey and not stopped him, what virtue would I be showing?

Junior—Brotherly love.

Customer—Do you give a guarantee with that hair tonic you're selling?

Barber—Guarantee, sir? Why we give a comb.

Friend—What kind of a line did you have in the police court this morning?

Motorist—Fine.

Stranger—I'm looking out here to make an honest living

Native—Well, there's not much competition.

First Sailor (on first convoy duty)—Did you see the size of those submarines we will have?

Second Sailor (in reverse)—You haven't seen nothin'. That's only the top.

Lady—Can't you find work?

Tramp Yessum, but every one wants a reference from my last employer.

Lady—No, mum You see, he's been dead 20 years.

"How old would you say she is?" "Oh, somewhere in the early thirties."

Could Do Damage

Germany Still Has Several Large Battleships in Her Fleet

W. L. Clark, in the Windsor Star, says: Germany has lost the Graf Spee, Bismarck and Scharnhorst sunk, the Tirpitz damaged, and the Gneisenau out of action

The Nazis still have the Hipper, Prinze Eugen and Admiral Scheer, Schneer, Nurnberg Leipzig and Emden as large units of the fleet

Any one of these vessels can do a lot of damage, if it gets loose and on the convoy prowl Ballors of the United Nations have to be keyed to the alert at all times, watching for the Nazis, never knowing when one of them may turn up and do battle

The Germans do not relish shooting it out with the Allies, but every now and again there is a stand up and fight engagement. Families of those who went down with H.M.S. Hood know that.

THE HELICOPTER

Principally made of metal, the helicopter lends itself to mass production, and it is estimated that its cost should eventually be about that of a medium priced automobile

Waste Paper

Tons Of Paper Salvaged From Trains On Canadian National Railways

To anyone but a railroader it would be a sixty-four-dollar question to know what happens to newspapers, magazines and other paper left on trains by the travelling public. On the Canadian National Railways this material is carefully salvaged in the various couch yards throughout the National System. Before leaving on another run, all passenger equipment is thoroughly cleaned in a couch yard and here all waste paper is collected, baled and disposed of through regular reclamation channels.

Since the start of the war and to the end of 1943, waste paper saved by the employees of the Canadian National Railways amounted to 8,308,371 pounds. This figure includes paper salvaged by the couch yards and all other departments and disposed of by the Railway's stores department. According to the stores department, the amounts of waste paper salvaged ranged from one ton on Hon to a million and a half pounds each year.

Some of the waste paper is ultimately used to make Red Cross prisoner of war parcel cartons, and if Canadian Railways collection since September, 1939, were used exclusively for that purpose there would be enough to make 48,510 cartons. It requires 72 pounds of waste paper to make 100 such cartons.

GARDEN NOTES

Cultivation

One real cultivation before planting will save hours of labor later on and a good deal of disappointment. The authority on gardening stresses the importance of thorough preparation of the soil. This applies to both vegetable and flowers.

Assuming the place is fairly level, the first job will be a spading, hoeing, or plowing if it is big enough and possible. Care should be taken to see that all old sod and other coarse vegetable refuse is thoroughly burned, and if possible broken up a bit. Then it is best to cultivate. In small plots a rake will do the work until the soil is broken down as fine as possible If there is time it is then an excellent idea to allow the garden, or at least the later planted part, to rest for a few days to encourage weed seeds to sprout. The second and final cultivation, of course, will then kill these things easily, making the banding of the garden later on that much easier.

Better Varieties

Gardening beginners often make the mistake of asking for varieties that perhaps were popular many years ago, without realizing that there has been vast improvement and much better kinds are now available. Plant breeders have been steadily turning out better varieties. Bigger, earlier and more tender peas are but of one know in the old days

Corns have been developed that give larger cobs, thicker and juicier kernels There are beets and carrots that grow more quickly; radishes that are fit to use in a matter of days from the time of seeding spinach that will not go to seed and become bitter as quickly; and that list is by no means complete. Ottawa Chinese Kai-shek and members of the presidium of the People's Political Consultative Council said at a press conference at Ottawa.

OPINION IN CHINA

Most people in China believe that the defeat of Germany will not be followed by a quick collapse of Japan," Dr. Wang Shih-chieh, chief spokesman for Generalissimo Chiang of the 84 fatal motor vehicle accidents that occurred in Alberta last year, approximately one in every three was at a level crossing, it is pointed out by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

HEAVY TOLL SHOWN AT LEVEL CROSSINGS

There were 21 accidents at railroad crossings, resulting in deaths of 13 persons and injuries to 19

Of the fatal accidents in the province, 23 occurred in cities, as follows: Edmonton, 14; Calgary, 7. Most fatal

There were 18 persons killed during the year for being intoxicated while in charge of a car, compared with 48 the year before. Three were sent to jail on manslaughter charges and five were imprisoned for dangerous or reckless driving

The A.M.A. is continuing to urge motorists to use every possible care in approaching level crossings, in view of the heavy percentage of deaths from accidents of this type.

Red Shield Notes

We are pleased to note the keen interest taken in war work in connection with the Red Shield

During the present term ten new members have been added to the roll call. Each Friday evening is spent in knitting, tagging garments and in quilting besides discussing business in general. Every second Friday a contest is held to add to the social spirit of the meetings

On Feb 25th a social evening was spent in honor of Mrs. Cocks who is leaving us to live in Edmonton. She will always been an ardent worker and will sure her cheerful presence and contributions towards the work.

A shipment for overseas was sent out recently made up of 135 articles as follows: For War service—52 prs. socks, 9 sweaters, 2 scarves, 2 caps, 2 dishes, For Civilian Use—2 skirts, 7 sweaters, 2 caps, 1 scarf, 9 prs. mitts, 5 prs. socks, 1 nightgown, 1 sleeper, 6 prs. pyjamas, 14 dresses, 3 prs. slacks, 2 shirts, 9 blouses; Also 9 quilts.

We are indebted to the following auxiliaries for work contributed: Dowtell Boy Bees, Rosewood-Wildmere-Battleview War service club, Morrison Wm. Morris Friendly Victory club, Past Matrons of the Eastern Star, Union Home-Workers club Allandale and Autumn Leaf, Mannville.

A shipment of blankets was received from Fairfield & Sons. It has been decided by the war committee not to handle any more woollen rags to be made into blankets for private use. The Canadian Comforts Fund Ltd. in work for the committee for no good war purpose. However we will welcome old woollens to be made into rugs for sale at our next overseas. Cotton rags of every description are also welcome.

Don't forget our Saturday Dargain sales every Saturday afternoon in the basement of the Salvation Army hall. Good, clean clothing and dresses are on hand suitable to make over, also shoes and many other articles. Contributions are always welcome and the proceeds go to the Red Shield drive fund. Out-of-town visitors are especially welcome.

ALL-WEATHER ROAD TO NORTHERN AREA

Completion of an all-weather highway to the B. C. boundary in the Peace River district is hoped for this year by the public works department, according to information received by the Alberta Motor Association.

The province plans to provide $1,000,000 for main highways improvements and surfacing this year and the graveling of connecting links of the Peace River highway is on the program.

Of the 420 miles from Edmonton to the B.C. boundary, it is estimated that 180 miles still need graveling to complete the all-weather road. Some of the sections on which work would be done this year are between Edmonton and Grande Prairie.

At the same time, attention is being drawn to work on the Jasper-Hinton section of the Jasper highway. It is claimed that only a few miles remain to be built to make this highway suitable to motor truck traffic.

Interest in this is shown in the report that the B.C. government is planning to spend about $6,000,000 on the construction of a road from Prince George to Dawson Creek by way of the Pine Pass

NEW JOB FOR PLANE

During a storm recently, the city of Moncton, N.B., was without electric power for nearly 24 hours. Since power for the Trans-Canada Air Lines transmitter at Moncton is dependent on outside sources for its operation, the disruption to the power lines called for emergency measures. A plane was towed from the hangar to the runway and placed close up to the window of the transmitter room at the oil port and a cable was stretched from the aircraft's transmitter to the instrument panel in the operations room. Using the plane's transmitter, communications were sustained.

Foundation on the Farm

Fungicides for the control of plant diseases are for general information only and not all farms. Some of the best fungicides are the most poisonous and therefore to handle—careless persons might have more disease in using either materials or formulas.

Mercury fungicides such as semesan, bayteron, and Ceresan, which are used for treating grain, are excellent fungicides and should not give trouble if used as recommended. To avoid inhaling the dusts, work in a well ventilated building if possible and wear a mask. If machines are available, use a drum half filled with the poison and pour in. Suitable machines are not expensive. After handling poisonous grains or solutions, wash up thoroughly, especially before eating. Avoid all contact of fungicide on the hands, face or clothing. If insects control grain should not be fed to live stock, it may be sown for green feed.

Formalin, an irritating and deadly poison, has been used for years by most farmers without serious trouble. They know it and handle it with the care and caution it deserves. It is a good fungicide and good disinfectant. Formalin treated grain may be fed to livestock after thorough airing. Farmers have used bluestone and lysol as general disinfectants without serious trouble although lysol is very poisonous. Sulphur is a good common fungicide. It is inexpensive except when burned for fumigation purposes; then the fumes are both irritating and toxic. Before using any fungicide, read carefully the directions printed on the container. Note the warning crow bones and skull, if any, and read the "accidents." If an accident occurs, call a doctor without delay.

Keep all poisonous material out of reach of children. Fungicides, insecticides, gopher and rat poisons should be kept together in a locked cabinet under lock and key. Clean up and put away all utensils used for fungicide mixtures or treatment.

Always use the best fungicides. The base rules are simple, master them; apply the treatment and apply common sense—Do not be careless.—Contributed by Dr. F. H. Simmonds and Dr. H. W. Mead, Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology, Saskatoon.

At A Fighter Station in Britain

Shortly before he landed with the Canadian assault troops on the beaches of Sicily, F/Lt. Max Bercovitch, Peter Sturberg, interviewed a famous Canadian ace in Britain. It was a Vancouver reporter, Squadron Leader Edward Francis John (Jack) Charles, D.F.C. (left) is the son of Mrs. Anne Charles, of Vancouver. Charles, it will be remembered, split a three-hundred pound purse with a Fighting French pilot for the three-mile chase brought down by their respective squadrons; Charles bagged eleven of the enemy planes in his squadron's tally. The Farmer's Responsibility

All kinds of discussions are taking place these days concerning the after war responsibilities of the Dafoe Nations, of Canada and of different sections of the Canadian people, and about what particular duty each of us should perform.

The farmer's duty and responsibility, however, is genuine, clear and beyond dispute. It is merely to make each acre of land produce just to its very utmost, both for the sake of his family and for the sake of the farmer and his own family

Spring is rapidly approaching and the thoughts of farmers are now turning to seeding time. Again there is one clear and beneficial action all farmers can take that will aid early acre to produce the most food, which is simple to use the best seed available, for we know from bitter experience that a crop of thick, well-filled high quality cannot be produced on a poor seed.

No better investment, therefore, can be made by any farmer than to purchase a few bushels of high quality, Registered or Certified seed ready for the park and to sow this on a few acres of good clean summer-fallow.

The product from these few bushels in a year or two would soon provide enough excellent seed to sow the whole farm

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

U.K. winter grain crops in the mid-west are in a critical condition as a result of the most serious drought in years—The total value of 1943 field crops in the prairie provinces is officially estimated at $656,119,000, compared with the revised estimate of $719,181,000 for 1942.

Reports from Europe continue to indicate satisfactory growing conditions for winter crops in most countries—Tokyo's 1943 barley crop has been revised downwards to 14.4 million bus., but is still considered to be a record production — The 1943-44 Argentine wheat crop is now estimated at 280 million bushels, compared with 233 million bushels harvested in the preceding season.

A Survey Of Education

DURING THE TROUBLED times through which we are now passing there is a general tendency to look ahead, and in hope for a better world when the war is ended. Education is a fundamental factor in social progress, and it holds an important place in any plans which we may make for post-war improvements. A recent report, made by the Survey Committee of the Canada and Newfoundland Education Association, contains some interesting facts concerning our Canadian schools, and points out some ways in which our educational system could be adjusted, to meet the needs of these changing times. There is a very well known saying to the effect that "the children of today are the citizens of tomorrow." With this in mind, outstanding educationalists have conducted a nation-wide survey for the first to be made here. Their report deals with numerous problems relating to our school systems

Larger School Units Proposed

An adequate program of health service for all children is stressed as a fundamental need. This should include both medical and dental care. It is further proposed that educational opportunities be equalized in all areas, whether rural or urban. Canada at present has 20,610 school administrative units, and of this number 14,092 units employ only one teacher, while 1,480 employ but two teachers. These small units represent more than three quarters of the whole, and pupils are taught all subjects from grade one to grades nine or ten in one or two-room schools. Recommendations of the committee in this connection include the suggestion that larger units be set up to afford greater facilities for the children in rural districts, and that pupils living at a distance from the school be provided with transportation or living accommodation in hostels or boarding houses. It is also proposed that as soon as possible after the war, a building program be undertaken to supply necessary new buildings and to repair old ones, and that the number of supervisors and inspectors be increased. "Helping teachers" are suggested to assist class-room teachers, especially in the primary grades.

Many Reforms Are Outlined

In respect to financial matters, the report reveals that the amount of money spent per child per year varies widely throughout the Dominion, the minimum being $21.70 per pupil, and the maximum $83.38. The average teacher's salary in Canada is $782 per year, and 74.9 per cent. of the teachers receive less than $1,223 a year. This is compared with the average wages of workers in all Canadian industries, which was $1,307 a year in 1940. The report suggests that the present yearly school expenditure in the Dominion, which is $146,832,642, be doubled, and that additional annual expenditures be provided for. It proposes that all fees be abolished in elementary and secondary schools; a system of scholarships be set up to enable gifted students to continue their studies; that the average teacher's salary be raised to $1,221; that library facilities be improved and extended; that the school-leaving age be placed at sixteen years and that part-time attendance should be required until the age of eighteen. These are only some of the proposals which are made for improving the preparation of Canadian youth to assume the responsibilities of citizenship.

Out To Win

And President Of Britain's Board Of Trade Regards Co-operation

Hugh Dalton, president of Britain's Board of Trade, has moved down more wheels than any other man in Britain. Those were the wheels that produced peacetime goods; and he started them spinning again in factories rapidly equipped for war production. The long sequence of decrees framed by him has had more effect upon the lives of men, women and children in Britain than the edicts of any other Minister with the exception of Lord Woolton, says Augustus Muir in "Britain". But if anything is notable for its absence it is a grumble about the Dalton austerity drive. Mr. Dalton is out to win the war and he expects every member of his staff to keep pace with him. He sleeps in a room next door to his office and he is back at his desk after dinner at night. Seldom does he retire to his country house for a brief week-end; seldom does he see Mrs. Dalton, whose own hands are full with important war work. Before he took office as President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Dalton controlled the Ministry of Economic Warfare. He is an acknowledged expert in foreign politics and international relations. He served in France and on the Italian front in the last war, receiving a decoration for valor.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—It seems that the chocolate bars those days aren't to be compared with those we used to buy in size and yet the price is the same. Shouldn't there be a law prohibiting candy manufacturers from reducing the size of their bars?

A.—The Wartime Prices and Trade Board does control the weights of chocolate bars. All types of bars must weight just as much as they did during the basic period, in the fall of 1941. Here are the weights that were fixed: One and a half ounces for a moulded plain or milk chocolate bar. One and a quarter ounces for a moulded plain or milk bar with other ingredients. One and three quarter ounces for a chocolate-coated bar with a confectionary centre. And two ounces for a confectionary bar that is not chocolate-coated.

Q.—How can I obtain a ration book for new-born babies?

A.—To obtain the ration book for new-born babies, you must make application to your local ration board, bringing with you either the child's birth certificate or baptismal certificate.

Q.—What should be done with ration books belonging to a deceased who have died?

A.—If a member of a household dies, his or her ration book must be turned in to the local ration board immediately by the legal representative of the deceased, or by some member of the household.

Q.—I am about to move into a new home with a coal yard right next to it. Knowing us to the tenants who are moving out, I find that the landlord is charging me a higher rent than they have been paying. What should I do?

A.—If you are sure of your facts, I would suggest that you take the matter up with your landlord and try and get the matter adjusted between yourselves. If you can't get satisfaction this way, then I suggest you get in touch with the Rentals Administration, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, which will be located in the rapital city of your province.

Q.—As a "war bride" newly arrived in Canada, how would I go about getting a ration book?

A.—Please apply to your local Board at which will deal with your request.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' Guide to the Ration Book (the book in which you keep track of your spending privcai mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

Speaking Of Breakfast!

There are breakfasts AND breakfasts! Is yours one that will give your body the right food to get it off to a day's work and recreation that lies ahead—or is it merely the cup of coffee that gives brief stimulation without providing energy and stamina? To start the day without breakfast is like trying to run an automobile without gas or oil.

If we might breakfast, it is almost impossible to secure a sufficient amount of food, and the recommended daily amounts of those important food essentials at the other meals. Someone has stated that "if more children ate an adequate breakfast we would not have to worry so much about an increase in the number on the report cards and fewer A's in the register because of illness."

An adequate breakfast is a nourishing meal that will supply the foods which you are not apt to eat in the other meals, and also in a meal that is substantial in "breaking the fast" and supplying energy for a new day. An adequate breakfast also contains the energy-giving foods and the regulating foods. It should supply about one-fourth of the daily calories, and should be considered in planning the day's meals as a whole.

Growing children need to have fruit or fruit juice, a cooked wholegrain cereal, occasionally shortcrisped cereal, milk, butter or vegetable, toast, and all the milk they can drink.

Remember that good breakfasts get the day off to a good start.

Telephone Of Future

Will Be Self-Answering With Device For Taking Messages

A telephone that will answer itself and talk back to you when you come home was predicted by Bell Telephone Laboratories Inc., in New York for after the war

The self-answering phone uses a recording device, usually a magnetic record on a steel tape, from which messages can later be erased by passing the tape between two poles of a magnet, thus permitting it to be used again and again

If nobody answers the phone, the caller can start talking to the tape When the person called comes home he picks up the receiver and the message is "played" to him

A variation of this device already in use records a two-way conversation for permanent records, but nowadays seems to pick up the receiver to make it work.

Blitz Cat Deserts Sea for Sleuth

"Blitzie" has had a remarkable career which commenced in her Icelandic, Cod Country days.

For some unknown reason the dock-bred cat of Liverpool used to run for cover when bombs thundered. Failing, "Blitzie" joined the mad, furry scramble one night, but didn't quite make it.—it flying piece of shrapnel from her soul next morning seamen found her lying on the wharf. They took her to the ship's doctor who extracted the shrapnel and stitched the wound. The crew adopted the cat and she accompanied them on a voyage to Canada where she promptly deserted. She later turned up in the C.P.R.'s maritime dock police office where Sergeant Bailey found her comfortably asleep in his chair.

Her sea-faring days over, "Blitzie" is now doing her share to help win the war, according to Sgt. Bailey, the cat guards his bolonee pouch and other belongings when he is out of the office and won't let anyone touch them. The two have become such fast friends that whenever the Sergeant travels between maritime ports and Montreal he takes "Blitzie" along in a specially-built crate.

Sgt. Bailey has been with the Canadian Pacific since 1911 when he commenced his career as a deckstable, earning his promotion to sergeant in 1917.

A Good Idea

Bridge Built By Eighth Army Sappers Named Poste Monty

The problem of the speedy crossing by a choir formed mainly of Welshmen, Eighth Army sappers recently completed their greatest bridge-building feat of the war. About 200 of them, with 100 laborers, flung a 1,200-ft.-long steel bridge across a river in 10 days. At night the men, who hailed from all parts of the Empire, worked under floodlights with officers always ready to switch them off at the approach of enemy aircraft. Then, when the bridge had the early stages of the building. Once he put his shoulders to a girder to help improve it slid into place. "That happens the same to me bridge," said an officer standing by. "What's that?" demanded the sapper. "Monty," said the officer. That is not the official name of the bridge, but throughout the Eighth Army it is known as Ponte Monty, reports the London Daily Herald.

SCHARNHORST BATTLE

The problem in the last bat- ith the "Scharnhorst" was to get within range of the "Duke of York's" 14-inch guns. The courageous attack of three British destroyers against the much heavier guns of the "Scharnhorst" achieved this end. This makes a remarkable contrast with the German destroyers accompanying the "Scharnhorst," who made off and took no part in the action.

WEDDING BELLS

HEWITT—HEWITT

In a quiet ceremony at Robertson United church, Edmonton, on Tuesday, March 7th, the marriage took place of Miss Elsie Hewitt, of Edmonton, and Mr. Roy Hebbes, of Vermilion. Rev. Iw. Murdoch MacInnon officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Hewitt of Birtle, England, and granddaughter of Mrs. H. Rodell, of Edmonton. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Hebbes, of Vermilion.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Frank Clayton, the bride wore a two-piece dress of powder-blue crepe, a Guy black veiled hat, and shoulder corsage of red roses.

She was attended by her cousin, Miss Maxine Clayton, who was dressed in delph-blue jersey, a two-piece model with three-quarter-length sleeves. She wore a matching hutch cap and corsage of pink carnations

Mr. Harold Hebbes, a brother of the groom, was best man. Wedding marches were played by Mr. Alex Kevan.

After the ceremony 20 guests gathered at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Clayton, for a wedding reception. Mrs. H. Rodell, the bride's grandmother, received with the bridal party. She wore a two-piece model in black crepe, with a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Hebbes, the groom's mother, in black jersey dress, featured trim, a wide-brimmed hat, and a corsage of carnations.

Assisting at the reception were Miss Irene Rodell, cousin of the groom; Mrs. R. Dibbens, Miss Margaret Hilhelme, Cpl. Elsie Gilholme, W.A.A.C., and Mrs. C. J. Miller

Set in scrlse lace, the bride's table was centred with a bouquet of tulips, daffodils and carnations, flanked on either side by tall yellow tapers.

The newlyweds will spend their honeymoon in Calgary and afterward will be at home in Vermilion.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. G. Dibbens, Mr. David Dibbens Miss Gwen Dibbens, all of Edmonton, and LAC. William Garrett, Lethbridge.

THE $64 QUESTION

MONTREAL. How many folks does a locomotive travel during a [illegible] That question is frequently asked, but how many of the [illegible] queries, the answer depends on various factors, including the particular service and the type of locomotive. The example out of the 2,500 engines in use on the Canadian National Railways there are nearly two score, each of which holds up a total monthly mileage in excess of 10,000 miles and some of these powerful units to-day [illegible] of all kinds covering the first three Victory Loan campaigns was approximately 64 cents for each dollar of bonds sold and for the last two [illegible] less than 1c.

The costs include the preparation and delivery of the Bonds, office equipments and supplies salaries, travel and expenses, advertising and publicity, [illegible] expense [illegible] ing payments to investment brokers and dealers who aid in the sale of bonds, and those who act as paying agents. Bonds and coupons are sent [illegible] service to the National War Finance Committee remuneration for services of banks and trust companies and commissions to salesmen

It must be borne in mind that this low cost is made possible by the fact that a very large percentage of the business people serving on the Committee do so without any remuneration whatsoever, and also that the greater portion of publicity is donated by the press and radio, so say nothing of the countless speakers who donate their services gratis. Past experience is that publicity expenditures amount to approximately one-fifth of the total cost of campaigns.

RATION ADMINISTRATION THE WARTIME PRICES AND TRADE BOARD

Cost of Victory Loan Campaign

Commissions are paid to salesmen because they give up their regular jobs during campaign periods and work night and day to reach every potential Bond purchaser in their respective territories. In many cases, commissions received are much less than the actual cost of selling. Commissions are paid for sales to large investors or corporations, nor Bonds sold to employees of large or medium business organizations

It requires more advertising, more selling time, and more bookkeeping to sell a large number of small bonds than to sell a small number or large week and he had received cigarettes a Bond is much greater than selling one ten or 100 times greater.

When you buy a Bond, compare it with the dollar bill in your pocket. Both are simply a scrap of paper and as such, it is valueless. But there is a promise on it which reads: "The Bank of Canada . . . will pay to bearer on demand One Dollar" and that promise creates its value. The man with a wad of bills in his pocket has really just a bundle of promises, but he knows they will be honored and so he thinks of them in terms of value.

So with a Government Bond—like the Dollar Bill it embodies a promise. The first clause "The Government of the Dominion of Canada for value received, will pay to the bearer, or if registered, to the registered holder hereof, the sum of $—."

IT IS CANADA'S PROMISE AND CANADA WILL HONOR IT.

Britain's War Effort

Savings Effort Has Increased Every Year Of The War

The savings effort of the British Home Front has increased steadily throughout the war; despite the immense increase in all forms of taxation during the same period. In all a total of more than £26 000 000 has been subscribed- an average of more than $580 for each man, woman and child in Britain.

The war effort of the British people increases with every year of war. This is well illustrated by the record in small savings. For every savings stamp and gift token bought in 1940 eight were bought in 1942 Small savers holding certificates total 17,000 000 which is over 50 per cent of the entire British adult population. Over half the 1943 savings total was contributed by small savers. There was a similar increase in large savings.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

MARCH 26

THE SACREDNESS OF LIFE
(Temperance Lesson)

Golden text: Know ye not that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit? 1 Corinthians 6:19

Lesson: Genesis 1:27, 28; Matthew 12:11, 12; Romans 14:19-21; 1 Corinthians 6:19, 20.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 116:12-20.

Explanations and Comments

Man Made to Be Image of God, Genesis 1:27 From the creation story comes this text. The purpose of the earth which God created was to become the abode of man, whom God made as the crown of creation all his earlier acts were preparatory for man's coming. God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him

Man's likeness to God lies in his intellectual, moral and religious capacities and powers, in his ability to think, feel and will which makes possible his communion with God and God's revelation to him

Man Made to Have Dominion, Genesis 1:26-31 God gave man dominion over all other living things, vegetable and animal

Jesus' Valuation of Man above Possessions, Matthew 12:10-13 One day a man with a shriveled hand besought the help of Jesus

Man Redeemed, 1 Peter 1:18-21 In the Apocryphal Gospel of the Hebrews, the man said "I was a mason, winning a livelihood with my hands I pray thee, Jesus, that thou restore me to soundness lest I have the shame of begging my food"

The Scribes and Pharisees, Luke 6:7-11 asked Jesus if it were lawful to heal on the Sabbath, for they sought a chance to accuse him. In answer Jesus asked who among them would not rescue a sheep that had fallen into a pit on the Sabbath and added, How much then is a man of more value than a sheep' It is lawful to do good on the Sabbath day

In Him the Divine Spirit Dwells, 1 Corinthians 6:19, 20 Your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit, received from God Ye are not your own, for ye were bought with a price the sacrifice of your Redeemer Glorify God therefore in your body, honor him by your care of the temple in which the Holy Spirit dwells, by which God has breathed something of his own life.

Universal Carrier

Often termed the "most useful vehicle in this war", the Universal Carrier is the pet of the Infantry, supporting and complementing their actions over terrain that would be impassable to almost any other means of transport. This speedy, lightly armoured, open-topped vehicle travels on caterpillar tracks at a speed comparable with that of road-confined automobiles. It can mount a Bren gun for action against enemy troops and aircraft, be utilized as a smoke screen layer, barbed-wire destroyer, for laying communication wires, and for many other types of work. The hard-hitting Infantry have a tough affection for these speedy weapon carriers that can take as much punishment as the versatile infantrymen themselves, and still come back to hand out even tougher punishment to the enemy.

HAPPENS SOMETIMES

John, aged five, had been caught wasting bread, so his mother delivered a little lecture on the sin of waste She concluded by saying: What would you do if the brave sailors who bring your food, said they would not bring any for naughty boys who wasted it?" "Well," said the culprit, after a pause for reflection "perhaps we could pinch some from the good little boys."

An appreciable rainfall occurs only once every few years in the Egyptian desert

INCREASE CONTINUES

Output of aircraft in Britain continues to increase, it has been announced. Total structure and weight of output in February this year was more than 36 per cent, higher than in February, 1943, while heavy bombers in structure and weight showed an increase of more than 83 per cent Actual figures were not issued.

Soldiers Do Not See War In Same Way As Civilians

An American private in an English village pub remarked to one of this newspaper's reporters, Drew Middleton, that he didn't like to hear war "called fancy names." Other soldiers profanely agreed. They just didn't care to be called the "spearhead of democracy" or to be lectured on "honor" and "glory". They intend to do what they had to do, which was to "beat these Germans because it's gotta be done." They did not regard the prospect as romantic.

The very fact that the subject could come up reveals the chasm between the soldier and the civilian. The civilian, and for reasons that seem good to him, is prone to use the words the soldier doesn't like. The civilian has a sense of inferiority. Because of youth, age, bad eyesight, a weak heart or an essential occupation he is not asking to fight. The Army and Navy won't have him. So he has an easier time of it than the soldier. He is not to blame, but his conscience hurts him. Glorifying the soldier and the soldier's job makes him feel better. But to the soldier he seems to be saying: "Never mind the rain, mud, snow, dust, thirst, hunger, malaria, tedium and general discomfort; never mind the danger, the wounds, the pain; never mind the stink and horror—just fix your mind, you lucky devil, on the beautiful, glittering generality."

The soldier is not thinking of generalities. He is thinking of how to get through the next day, hour, minute, how to keep on going, how to do what he has to do without getting killed. His is dirty, unhappy, dangerous work and, being human, he doesn't like it. More honey to him—but there we go; he doesn't care for honor as a word but only as an act. In the long years to come he may acquire perspective and realize that he and his colleagues really were the spearhead of democracy and that their conduct was really honorable and glorious. But not now. He is too close to the fact.—From the New York Times.

Problems Facing Allies After The War Are Being Discussed

Representatives of the Allied governments already are discussing methods to be used in the post-war days to insure co-ordinated action on all problems affecting them, Viscount Halifax, Great Britain's ambassador to the United States, said.

The ambassador was in Boston to receive an honorary degree of Doctor of Civil Law at Boston University.

"There is a common program now being discussed," he said at a press conference, "concerning the problems of the Allies after the war. However, ultimately the results of the discussions must depend on the minds of the respective publics in the different communities."

War Of Wits Between Attackers And Defenders

Air Vice Marshal Saundby, Deputy C-in-C of Bomber Command, has said that in this war of wits between the attackers and the defenders, the attack becomes more difficult every week, due to the great development in size of the enemy defences, and the fact that 80% of the enemy's night fighters are now on the Wireless Front. Yet, thanks to the Tactical ingenuity of Bomber Command, the air offensive continues to grow in size, despite these difficulties, and without heavy percentage of losses.

Old Scottish [illegible] solo, both sung and pipe tunes were delightfully rendered by the very capable Mr Scouts and were much appreciated by the audience In addition a reading that will ever be remembered by the folks of St. Andrews

DEFEND BLAIR CUP

From present weather indications the Blair cup will remain in Vermilion until next fall at least, in spite of a determined effort to take it home made by two rinks of Manville curlers on Monday night. The visitors lost out on the round by five points.

Doug Burch skipped Gerhart, Bennett and Angus to victory over Art Danke, Ross Beake, Ashley Cooper and Carman Long. Two Regina curlers could Ed Corley however and the defenders came out on the right end of the score. Sargent had Whitson, Mann and Mercer while Corley's rink was Percy Moffatt, Loyal Anne and Jim Atkin.

Stagette Notes

To the merry tunes of Irish airs the stagettes and their guests kicked up their heels in one of the merriest jigs of the season. Is it wishful thinking on our part that March 17th rolled around more often or is it the Irish in us?

At the weekly meeting Mary Gleven took the president's chair and Kay Clarke is our new vice-president. It was decided to donate the proceeds of Kilkenny Kapers to the Canadian Red Cross and local charities.

High School Inspector Here

Mr. D. M. Sullivan of Edmonton, senior high school inspector, spent Tuesday and Wednesday on an official visit to the Vermilion high school. This is the first inspection for the high school in two years, and it happened at a time when one of the staff, Miss Mildred Branum, was absent through illness.

WEDDING BELLS

DONNELLY—GOULD

The marriage was performed at 8:45 on Tuesday, at St. Martin's in the Field church, by Rev. R. L. Sanderson, of Mabel Miriam (Sylvia), daughter of Mrs. R. J. Gould, 916 Thirty-first avenue, Calgary, and late Mr. R. J. Gould of Vermilion, Alta., and WO2 (at Mr. J. McN. Donnelly, Vermilion, John Alfred Donnelly, R.C.A.F., and the late Mrs. Donnelly. The bride is a member of the Times advertising staff.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Alvin Hyde-Smith, and Miss Kay Pullin sang "O Perfect Love" while the bridal party was in the vestry.

A mauve orchid in the shoulder bouquet of the bride complemented her blue-grey suit of crepe, and her matching accessories and corsage were navy blue. Mrs. Lloyd Donnelly, R.C.A.F., mother of the groom wore a brown tailored suit with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Edmins, A.C.T. Lloyd Donnelly, R.C.A.F., supported his brother.

United Marjorie Anstey and Phyllis Going ushered, while the guard of honor was formed by Golden Pat Halina, Sidney Fawcett, Alan Webb, Florence Tickle, Catherine Court, Mary Lou Donnelly, Maureen Dwiter and Helen Warnick.

A reception was held at the church hall, where Mrs. Gould was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. George Donnelly, mother of the groom, Mr. Len Dunaway, an old friend of both families, proposed the toast.

WO2 and Mrs. Donnelly left on a honeymoon trip to Edmonton prior to the groom leaving for the east.

GOULD—TAGGART

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. L. Taggart, 948 Admiral Road, Victoria, B. C., announce the marriage of their only daughter, Muriel Jean, to Chief Petty Officer Arthur Lewes Gould, R.C.N.V.R., only son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thomas A. Gould, Islay, Alta., which was solemnized March 10, 1944 by the Rev. T. Nemetz.

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. L. Taggart entertained Thursday evening at their home, 948 Admiral Road, Victoria, in honor of their daughter and son-in-law, Chief Petty Officer and Mrs. Arthur L. Gould whose marriage took place Friday, March 10th.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with spring flowers and tall standards of snap-dragons, iris and gladiolis flanked the fireplace which is a gem. Against this setting the bride and groom accompanied by Miss Frances Moulton of Cobble Hill and Petty Officer Jack Speakman (R.M.C.S. Gloucester), made the receiving line. Congratulations and good wishes of friends and relations.

The bride was charming in deep ruby velvet with tiny hat to match, trimmed with soft turquoise veiling. Three quarter length mink completed the ensemble and she carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and white and yellow orchids nestled in maiden hair fern.

The bridesmaid was becomingly gowned in soft blue wool and hat to match, with shoulder length mink and accessories. Her flowers were a spray of pink carnations and blue iris. For receiving the bride's mother wore a two toned taupe grey crepe with shoulder spray of deep red roses.

Mrs. L. C. Andrews, sister of the groom, chose pale turquoise wool with deep brown accessories, and wore a corsage of violets and mauve heather.

A pretty three-tiered wedding cake centred the lace-covered bride's table, flanked with tall white tapers in silver holders, and was cut with the groom's sword.

In J. M. Thomas, an old family friend, proposed a gracious toast to the bride, and was fittingly responded to by the bridegroom.

A dainty supper was served.

Mrs. Gould was the former Joan Taggart, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. L. Taggart of Victoria and Cobble Hill.

Chief Petty Officer Gould is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Gould of Islay, Alberta, and is attached to H.M.C.S. "Cheshire" R.C.N.V.R.

The marriage was performed by the Rev. T. Memetz at the home of the bride's parents.

FINE PROGRAM ARRANGED BY LOCAL FISH & GAME LEAGUE

The newly organized Vermilion branch of the Fish and Game League of Alberta, sponsored an extremely interesting meeting on Tuesday night of last week. Speakers were Mr. G. M. Sparrow, secretary-manager of the Alberta body and Mr. R. Harley.

Mr Harley showed the great nature study picture, "On the Trail with Yoho Lake Expedition" served as a wonderful production with great educational value. It was packed full of interest for everyone, and how many times one sits down of the wild life were procured is a mystery.

Mr. Sparrow spoke very favorably on introducing pheasants into this part of the country to offset the cycle of illness which affects our common sharp-tailed grouse and partridge. This disease has not yet affected the pheasants. In 1931, 2500 pheasants were set loose in the Brooks, Alberta area and the number is now estimated at 50,000. Edmonton area also has a large number of these birds. The Vermilion country is regarded as ideal for pheasants, and with co-operation of all hunters the numbers would increase swiftly.

47-4x

Crows & Magpies Big Enemies

Mr. Sparrow stated that the decrease in ducks due to crows and magpies amounted to 120,000 per season. He advocated a determined drive to wipe out these marauders and suggested organized teams for the destruction of crow and magpie nests, as well as the birds themselves.

A great increase in ducks has been produced by the building of dams and the flooding of dry areas.

Officers of the Vermilion branch of the Fish and Game League are:

President—R. Meivor
Vice-Pres.—Father O'Sullivan
Sec.-Treas.—M. Fitzbirbs
Executive—Russell Carroll, Jim Swanson, Ross Banks, Melvin Hill.

Anyone wishing to join the organization may obtain a $1 membership fee seeing one of the officers, and would help along the good work which has been started.

Campbell Lake Airmen Honored

Practically every man, woman and child in the Campbell Lake district appeared at the school house last Monday night (March 20) to welcome home a boy from the air force in the persons of Pat McCambridge and George Mood. Pat has now returned to Calgary while George leaves shortly for Eastern Canada.

RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY CHANGES HANDS

Mr. and Mrs. George White have purchased the Garland residence in the east part of town. The house is at present rented to Mr. and Mrs. Buckingham.

Wm. Koehn of Dunnyville who plans on moving to Vermilion, bought the George Cook's house and fruit trees in the east end.

Both transactions were made through the Chas. W. Robinson real estate office.

WEDDING BELLS

RICE—HELGERCROFT

At 3 p.m. on Wednesday, March 15 at St. Nelson's church in Vermilion, the Ven. Archdeacon Leversedge united in marriage Doris Amelia, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hargrove of Derwent, Alberta, and Corporal Emmet Rice, son of Dr. and Mrs. M. H. Rice of Marshalltown, Iowa.

The bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white crepe with a full length veil. Her corsage was of orange blossoms with bridal bouquet of red damask roses. Bridesmaid Miss Evelyn Haslegrove, sister of the bride, wore a blue dress with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of spring flowers. Supporting the groom was the bride's brother, Robert Reid Hargrove.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. H. J. Payne, who acted in the absence of her father who was unable to attend because of illness.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. A. M. West. During the signing of the register Mrs. Ted Riley sang "O Promise Me".

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt Mrs. H. J. Payne. About forty guests attended. The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake, with decorations of spring flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Rice will be at home in Marshalltown, Iowa, to the time future.

MAXWELL SERVICE STATION DESTROYED BY FIRE

Equipment Lost — Three Cars Burned

Fire that at times seriously threatened the Alberta Livery barn across the street, destroyed the Maxwell service station at noon on Saturday. The building loss is estimated at $3000 and $6000 worth of equipment was ruined. Besides this two private cars belonging to Andrew Carlson of Wildmere and Jos Stewart of Claymore were burned, while a third belonging to Cecil Kennedy of Asbumdale was badly damaged. The latter car was dragged from the burning building with difficulty.

The blaze started shortly after 12 o'clock and within a very few minutes from the time the mechanics closed up for dinner. The danger of the fire spreading from the livery barn to the Holstein calf. Admission 25c.

TAX POSTPONEMENT TO AUGUST 31 GIVEN

OTTAWA—Unpaid balances on income tax which fall due April 30 may be postponed until Aug. 31 without payment of interest, Revenue Minister Gibson announced Monday in the commons.

Income tax returns still must be filed by April 30, the minister said.

Col. Gibson said the government's decision to extend the income tax payment date had been reached "owing to an unusual combination of circumstances, which is not likely to occur again."

"It remains open for any individual to make payment of the unpaid balance of 1943 taxes, due on April 30, at any time between now and August 31, without any penalties being added," he explained. "After August 31, interest at five percent, as provided by law, will become payable."

LLOYDMINSTER BULL SALE

The 28th Annual Lloydminster Bull sale will be held this year on Tuesday, May, 30th. This event plays an important part in maintaining and improving the quality of livestock in western Alberta and Saskatchewan. In 1942 sixty-one bulls and two heifers were sold at the Lloydminster sale in spite of the bad weather prevailing at that time.

Mr. J. W. Burns Resinick auctioneer, Calgary, Alberta, will conduct the sale.

All animals offered must be tuberculin tested. This will be done free of charge on the owners farm by the Dominion Health of Animals branch to allow time for testing and printing the catalogue, entries close Saturday, April 29th. For entry forms or catalogues apply to the secretary-manager, Lloydminster Exhibition Association, Geo K. Ross.

Appeal on Behalf of Air Cadets of Canada

Vermilion Objective $300.00

A canvass and tag day is planned in Vermilion in connection with the national campaign now in progress to solicit funds for the Air Cadet League of Canada. The canvass will start at once and the tag day in Vermilion is planned for April 8th.

The local committee feel that the minimum amount of $300 will be over-subscribed some of this will go to the National headquarters, and the balance will be kept to insure the satisfactory operation of the local squadron whose members now stand at the peak of 38. Since this movement started in town there have been approximately 14 enlistments from the air cadet group. These boys with the training received from officers here have found the course extremely beneficial, being able to step into line and get rating much quicker than ones without any training.

When you have a good chance to look after it to make it last, and this organization has done a great job, there being 29 air cadets and 270 squadrons assembled in three years. The campaign fund now being raised will be used to insure the continuance of the movement after the war ends. These boys, whose numbers may be greatly increased by then, can be left high and dry, and the structure for continuing the good work must be laid now—to support this drive.

The air cadet movement, if properly handled, can be a greater force in peace than in war—let everyone help that day get over to us. $50 will support the national program for 10 boys for one year, $100 for 20 boys, $500 for 100 boys.

LOCAL SOCIETY DISCUSSES HOME BEAUTIFICATION

Horticulturists Organize for Year

Another year of activity was planned at the annual meeting of the Vermilion Horticultural Society, held in the Memorial hall recently. Presidential title will be given out as usual to the members.

The new president is H. D. Graham and W.E. English will be secretary for 1944. Mr. John Brownlee was appointed to take orders for trees shrubs and any nursery stock required by members. All orders must be placed previous to the planting season in April 15th, 1944.

Mr. H. Buchanan, district agriculturist, will be present on the planting and property beautification.

SPECIAL SPEAKER AT THE SALVATION ARMY

Capt. M Hamilton of Edmonton will be the visiting officer at the Salvation Army on Sunday April 2nd. The Hamilton's are well known here on his experience in connection with police court and penitentiary work which is taking place at the present time.

Everyone is heartily welcomed to these services and a collection for the field has done in the lines in other.

New McColl-Frontenac Agent

Mr H Smith of Edmonton is the new McColl-Frontenac oil agent for Vermilion and district. Mr. Smith has already taken over his new duties, succeeding N. J. Grelg who has moved to the northland.

Handicapped Children

Do you know that Alberta children who are blind or deaf need not, because of this handicap, remain without an education? While there are no special schools for the education of such children within the province, the Government makes a generous provision for their training at special schools in other provinces. Those who are blind go to the Ontario school for the Blind at Brantford. During the present year 41 young Albertans who are deaf are in attendance at MacKay school in Montreal. Recently the Deputy Minister of Education visited this school and received a great welcome. The children wished all the news from Alberta and he was very busy for more than half an hour answering questions MacKay school is a private, not-for-profit institution for the English speaking deaf in Quebec Recently the Deputy Minister of Education announced that it is now in a position to accept students from other provinces and by McNally reports that our children are all well, very comfortable and happy.

The Department of Education requests that anyone reading this item will bring it to the attention of any parents or children either blind or deaf. It frequently happens that children who have reached the school age receive information of such children

DISCUSS PLANS PROPOSED KIDDIES' WADING POOL

Large Attendance at Board of Trade Meeting

Chief discussion at the board of trade meeting on Wednesday resulted on the proposed kiddies wading pool, a project of the local Elks. An interesting outline of the plan was given in the meeting by Vernon H. Cooper. Following his talk the board went on record as favoring the project and offered all support possible.

Mr. H. P. Long was chairman and there were thirty members present. Mr Fyfe of Edmonton was the guest of honor by Mr. Meivor and welcomed. The chairman also welcomed Mr Jack Reid.

A motion was passed expressing regret at the recent fire loss suffered by Douglas Maxwell, and also the hope that he would see his way clear to re-establish his business in Vermilion

Mr. Dan E. Campbell, publicity commissioner for the province of Alberta, has been invited to attend a meeting at trade on either April 5 or 12. He will speak on "Reconstruction". In the evening he will meet the reconstruction committee.

Mr. J. Wener told of the forthcoming caravan in aid of the air cadets and outlined the reason behind it. Mayor H. C. Heckbert congratulated our newly elected councillor Mr. Gerald F. Stephens, who is the immediate past president of the board of trade

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday April 5th and a full attendance of members is requested.

FORMER VERMILION BUSINESS MAN DIES AT VANCOUVER

George Richard Allardville, who in the early days of Vermilion was prominent as a large general store here, passed away in Vancouver on March 20th. He was in his 73rd year. He will be well remembered by many local citizens.

Mr. Allardville leaves to mourn his loss four daughters, Mrs. C. J. Chisholm, Prince Rupert, Mrs. R. W. Fallins, Kent, Washington, Mrs. F. T. Lloyd, Edmonton, Mrs. Arthur Perrell, Portland, Oregon, 2 sons, Rev. A. N. Allardville Ottawa, C. H. Allardville, Edmonton, R. E. Glanville, Edmonton, Thomas E. Glanville, Edmonton, Gordon A. "PROOF OF PROWESS" GETS AMMUNITION

Shells To Combat Crows, Magpies

EDMONTON.—To combat the present menace of destructive predatory birds, the Ration Administration, Wartime Prices and Trade Board and the Alberta Fish and Game Association, have concluded a "proof of prowess" scheme to provide small arms ammunition to persons honestly fighting these pests, according to C. D. Mackay, regional superintendent of rationing.

Active campaigners against crows, magpies, owls and hawks, will be eligible for limited rounds of ammunition, known, as "proof of prowess" in pairs of crows' feet, or the feet of other predatory birds, sent to the Fish and Game Association will entitle them to a certificate to apply to the local ration board for authorization to buy 22 shotgun shells or 50 .22 rifle bullets.

"There is no increase in the amount of ammunition available", the superintendent declared. "The new scheme is designed to bring fairer distribution of small arms ammunition to those honestly fighting these pests. It is also in assurance that ammunition released for this purpose will be used to maximum advantage."

Because of war demands for explosives, the United States will not be dynamiting rookeries as usual this year, and an increase in the kill of crows to Canada is anticipated.

CHATSWORTH CHATTER

The warm spell about two weeks ago followed by freezing again, has left our district in the very worst possible condition. Main roads are closed to practically all ice and were quite muddy and rough.

Mr. Norman left for Toronto on the early morning train on Friday March 17th

Mr. Mathew was home from Edmonton the week end of March 19th. Mrs. Hughes made a visit to Edmonton this past week end.

Jimmie and Keith Fooks and Allerton out at Jim Thompson's for the week end

R. Jerome has been cleaning grain throughout the district this past two weeks, having the misfortune with Mr. Kee's, Cobbledestoe's, Jim Foster's and Percy Hughes'.

George Neuman received the first shipment of chicks to our district last week. Three hundred White Leghorns.

Barney Kisshinsky has also been to the coast. It is reported that Mrs. Kisshinsky and family will follow him later.

Joyce Cobbledestoe spent the week end in town visiting her sister Mrs. McBride.

Mrs. McKeague who has spent the past six weeks in hospital, is home again. We all hope she will be quite well soon.

Mr. J. R. Thompson spent a few days last week in town visiting his daughter Mrs. Fooks.

Though spring is just around the corner, our weather is still acting like. To date, no crows have been reported but we saw a gopher last week.

The Farmer's Income

Some people have the idea that our prairie farmers are enjoying a far greater income than they ever had before. This is not correct. Here are the facts:

For the four years of this war 1940-43 inclusive, the cash income for prairie farmers has averaged 640 million dollars a year. In the previous four years 1936-1939, the similar cash income averaged 534 million dollars a year. It will be seen, therefore, that for the four war years our farmers have received 19% LESS income than they received during the four years 1936-39. (The cost of things farmers have to buy is shown by the Bureau's index to be about the same for the two periods).

The official figures reveal however, that the hourly wages of industrial labor for those four war years have been no less than 33% HIGHER than they were for the four years 1936-39. Indeed the difference is even greater, for the farmer's income includes the returns from the additional livestock produced for war purposes, basing by what might be called overtime work, whereas the 33% increase in industry's wage does not include the additional income industrial workers have received from their overtime work.

It certainly can be said, therefore that our prairie farmers cannot be reproached for having received more money for their products than they are entitled to.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reports that by next July the nation's wheat reserve will be down to 300 million bushels—Food rationing in the crowded Calcutta area of India continues on Jan. 31st—The weather in Europe has been colder recently following a prolonged period of mild rain.

WORDS OF DISTRICT AGRICULTURISTS APPRECIATED

According to the report of the Department of Agriculture, tabled in the legislature by the Hon. D.B. MacMillan, Minister of Agriculture, the District Agriculturists had a very busy year in 1943. The report of the Extension Service shows that the number of District Agriculturists was the largest ever employed in the province, namely, twenty-eight.

While the value of the services rendered by these men cannot be adequately measured, some idea of the extent of the service rendered is contained in a few figures that are available.

1,222 meetings were held by the District Agriculturists during the year, at which the total attendance was almost 50,000 people. The District Agriculturists visited over 17,000 farms during the year and had 23,000 office interviews, as well as about 19,000 telephone calls.

The report points out that the District Agriculturists were obliged to assume extra responsibilities in 1943 on account of the Farm Labor Program. The field administration of this program developed upon the District Agriculturists.

RED CROSS TOTAL

TORONTO.—Late contributions to the Red Cross have brought the campaign total to $11,116,155, national headquarters announced. Weekly totals of the campaign which ended March 18 was set at $10,000,000. Ontario reported to contribute one-half the provincial objective, has raised $6,770,000.

IRON VITAL MINERAL FOR LITTLE PIGS

It is hard enough to realize that often very tiny amounts of some mineral are vital to the health of little pig, from as one or three. A new born pig grows rapidly, and very quickly uses the supply of iron stored in its liver at birth. This is one mineral which the sow does not supply in her milk if outside the pig gets the iron he needs from eating earth and bits of grass and roots. If inside the pig amounts or iron needed to keep the pig healthy and lively must be supplied by the feeder.

This can be done, either by supplying earth or soda, or chemical iron in some form. Clear directions on methods and quantities can be obtained from the nearest agricultural college or experimental farm.

Important things to remember about iron are that it is a food and without it pigs may be seriously weakened. Also other food, a regular method of feeding it should be adopted and followed. With soda or earth the pig can eat what it needs; with chemical iron the pig has little choice, and must take what it is given, so that it is important that directions be followed to the letter, as feeding too much iron is not only wasteful, but may be harmful.

Important things to remember about iron are that it is a food and without it pigs may be seriously weakened.

Banking System Of Canada Will Be Overhauled

OTTAWA.—Success in maintaining a high national income and maximum employment in Canada after the war will depend upon the policies of governments in the domestic and international field. Dr. W. C. Clark, deputy minister of finance, told the banking and commerce committee of the House of Commons, in the course of a statement in which he characterized the proposed industrial development bank as one of several steps to be taken in reviving the Canadian financial structure.

The industrial development bank, he said, would cover a gap in the existing financial structure, providing a short term money market for medium-sized and small enterprises. He said other new features of the banking system would be the central mortgage bank provided for by the present Bank Act and not yet set up, or something like it, to furnish long term loans; an export credit bank, to facilitate exports; and a farm credit institution.

But one of the main tasks of the committee will be to overhaul the foundation of the banking and credit system in the bank act. With the new features suggested by Dr. Clark, the committee contemplated possibly the most comprehensive reconstruction of Canada's financial and monetary structure since confederation.

Press clippers are going to have a full scale examination of Canadian banking policy, probably running for months, what is right.

OTTAWA.—Securities of the proposed industrial development bank will sell on about the same basis as government-guaranteed bonds, Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada said before the commons banking committee.

Mr. Towers said the gap in the financial structure which the industrial bank was designed to fill had grown greater in recent years. Formerly it was possible for small businesses to get capital from individuals. Now the amount of savings individuals had for investment was affected by income tax. Individuals also had to consider how their estate would be converted into cash and minority interests in small business were often not really convertible.

"In other words, we are taxing ourselves out of private enterprise and into a state of public ownership or public aid," said Dr. G. Sedgewick (Lib., Vancouver-Burrard).

"I think there is a tendency in that direction," said Mr. Towers.

ROCKET GUNS

British Merchant Ships Have Proven Their Worth

LONDON — Deadly rocket guns that have been taking destruction to Germans bombers flying over England now are serving at sea. Bolted to the decks of British merchant ships they afford the convoys protection against shipping raiders.

They look like the old Lewis machine guns of the last war, but are mounted on a rack and fire rockets instead of bullets. Each rocket is about 2½ inches in diameter and 5 feet long. It is fired by electricity and has a range of about 3,000 yards.

Last week it was officially announced that Britain beat Germany to the punch in developing rocket guns. It now is permissible to say that this deadly weapon has been placed on merchantmen.

The only complaint seamen have is that the guns were given to them at such a late stage of the war that there's hardly a thing left to shoot at."

JAPAN WORRIED

Premier Admits That War Situation Has Become Very Grave

LONDON — Premier Gen. Hideko Tojo told the Japanese diet that Japan's military position is the past few months has become very grave, it was broadcast by Tojo told the diet.

"Through hesitant Japanese soldiers have been able to ward off the first onslaught of the Americans but new attacks must be expected from this stubborn and tough enemy, who bases his plans on material superiority.

"These new attacks are likely to be launched with greater weight than anything experienced so far. The situation is truly grave."

At the end of the first Great War, 130,000,000 Europeans were reported dead.

Two Canadians Meet Queen

The Queen recently paid a surprise visit to the Churchill Club. Located in the heart of London, behind the famous Westminster Abbey, the Club is open to members of His Majesty's Forces, officers and other ranks. Commander Of Invasion Armies Very Confident

(By Edward W. Beattie, B.C.P.)

ABOARD GEN. MONTGOMERY'S SPECIAL TRAIN, Somewhere in England.—The big bombers and the "little men" in the munitions factories already have begun the "second front" against Germany and when the Germans are stunned sufficiently, the Allied invasion armies will strike across the English channel, Gen. Sir Bernard Law Montgomery told me in his private office aboard this special train.

The man who will lead the British land armies onto the continent was supremely confident when he received me after touring England meeting British, Dominion and American troops.

"The second front has already begun—it's going on now," Monty of El Alamein said. "We finished in Tunisia in May and then we began bombing Italy. When we thought they were soft enough I invaded Sicily with the Americans on my left. While that was going on we continued to bomb Italy. Then we invaded Italy and knocked her out of the war.

"Now we are bombing Germany—and how we are bombing them it's terrific terrific."

He stopped with a sharp gesture. "And mind you, the woman who is doing welding in Birmingham is a part of this second front."

"The second front has begun," he repeated. "When the Germans have been sufficiently stunned we will invade them. It's a set up."

Montgomery did not mean that the "set-up" would not cost thousands of lives. What he meant was that the massive bombings and the weapons pouring off production lines assured the eventual victory.

Montgomery has been out showing his quick smile and his tankman's beret to the arsenal and troop camps of England and he has this word about the troops:

"The average British or American fighting man is Russian although I've had no personal experience with him is a better man than the German.

"The German is a soldier a very fine soldier" he elaborated. "The Germans are a military race. We and the Americans are not. We are a martial race there is a big difference."

The German army employs many non-commissioned officers in jobs the British and American give to commissioned men he pointed out explaining. The Germans do what they are told blindly and without knowing why I always see to it that my men know what we are trying to do and why it is to be done.

"Our officers go in and lead the men into battle. You must give the men leadership. There must be mutual trust between the commander and the troops. My chief purpose in talking to the Americans on my recent visit to their camps was to introduce myself. I told them 'We're going to fight together and you should know each other'."

PEACE IN FUTURE

Lies In Unity Of Great Powers To Prevent Aggression

WASHINGTON, Hope for peace in the future lies in the unity of the great powers to prevent German aggression, "not by formal alliances but by the formulation of policies together in peace as we have done it in war," says Col. John Jacob Astor, publisher of the Times of London.

Britain, the United States, Russia and the other Allied powers must maintain adequate forces to guard against any surprise movement of aggressors, Col. Astor said in an interview here.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER

Rate Of Production Will Avoid A Serious Shortage

OTTAWA.—A race to bring in synthetic rubber production in time to avert a serious shortage resulting from a dwindling stock pile has been won, Munitions Minister Howe said in the commons.

While military and other highly essential needs will be met from synthetic production, there is little relief in sight for the ordinary civilian, the minister said.

The synthetic rubber plant of the government owned Polymer Corp., at Sarnia, Ont., now is producing buna-S type rubber at the rate of 2,500 tons a month and butyl rubber at 150 tons a month. Production of buna-S will be expected to reach full capacity of 34,000 tons a year by May and the full rate of butyl at 4,000 tons a year by July.

ATLANTIC CHARTER

Principal Allies Will Hold Further Consultations, Says Churchill

LONDON Prime Minister Churchill told the House of Commons that there would be "renewed consultation between the principal allies" on the application of the Atlantic Charter under the changing phases of the war.

Mr. Churchill did not elaborate whether these consultations might take the form of a new meeting of the Allied "big three"—as has been rumored.

His reference to the Atlantic Charter—on which Mr. Churchill only last week refused to schedule an open debate in commons — arose when Daniel Lipson, Independent, asked for a clarifying statement "in view of the doubts which existed as to what territories the principles of the Atlantic Charter apply to."

"It is evident that as the changing phases of the war succeed one another, some further clarifications will be required of the position under the document which has become honorably known as the Atlantic Charter," Mr. Churchill replied, "and that this must be a subject for renewed consultation between the principal allies."

Hitler Is Using His Reserves On Balkan Front

LONDON The Red army's overpowering surge over the Dniester river into pre-war Rumania has forced Hitler to make one of the two great gaps due of the war—to use a large portion of his precious strategic reserves to bolster up the tottering Balkan front.

Some divisions of this reserve probably had been slated for the spring drive in Europe to combat the forthcoming Allied invasion, but the Germans already had to throw some forces into Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria or concede the Balkans to the Red army.

Hitler wanted to hang on to this army reserve as long as possible, but only for the west but also to meet the Russian threat through Poland. The Soviet push toward the Balkans, however, exceeded anything anticipated by the Germans and they were not prepared for it. The shortly to be not denuding France or the Low Countries to get these new troops for the Balkans but it is highly probable that divisions held in reserve near the Swiss border or the Siegfried line area and Germany itself have been rushed southeast.

This will weaken the western front for the man who wins battles is the one who has the last reserve in hand.

If the Germans can possibly stabilize the Balkan front they will be able to bring some of these divisions back into the vital reserve and special units the "expedition" battalions at the South Pacific or a similar force in the Balkans.

LEAVING THE NORTH

Hundreds Of Americans Pass Through Edmonton On Way Home

EDMONTON Railway company officials said hundreds of Americans have passed through Edmonton in the past three months on their way from the North.

The Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway have been handling about 250 monthly out of Edmonton" one official said. "Practically all these men," he added, "have been working on northern projects in the Yukon, Mackenzie River area and the Peace River."

Another official said the movement is almost complete. The Americans have been replaced by Canadians who crowded out Edmonton while the northern projects were operating full blast. He estimated about 90 per cent "in the past year."

Delivery Quota On Barley And Oats Is Raised

WINNIPEG —The Canadian wheat board announced that delivery quotas on oats and barley are now raised to 15 bushels per seeded acre, and it says further increases may be expected as country elevators move stocks of these grains. The board stated that the year's total marketings of wheat, barley oats rye and flaxseed are expected to reach 526 - 600,000 bushels Of this amount a total of 241 000000 bushels had been marketed up to March 17 This is 45 per cent of the estimated delivery for the year.

The board says that the demand for all grains continues at a high level and producers are expected to be able to market these amounts during the balance of the crop year. Wheat of course is still limited to the 14 bushel per acre rule as restriction.

The board points out that some western areas part where northern Alberta and northern Saskatchewan will have to receive a considerable increase in supply before the newly established quotas can become effective for the producers.

The statement adds that since the early part of February the shipments of grain from country elevators have been greater than marketings by producers. The result is that stocks of grain in country elevators have been reduced by about 14,000,000 bushels had become available for deliveries across the prairies

FAMOUS CITIZEN

To Celebrate Birthday Of Jack Miner On April 10

KINGSVILLE, Ont April 10 is the birthday of our most famous citizen Uncle Jack Miner Many schools throughout Canada observe the day by special wild life studies. It has even been suggested that April 10 be a school holiday for all of the provinces.

Mr. Miner will be 70 years of age on his next birthday This has prompted many Kingsville citizens not prepared for it. The shortly to be this year as a special testimonial day to Uncle Jack. The suggestion was made at a Chamber of Commerce meeting last week and received fine support. Although we trust that the idea will be adopted many months yet we should not let the years pass without tendering a testimonial to our friend.

Various functions could be planned for the day, including probably an address by Mr. Miner of Uncle Jack's friends from other sections of Michigan and Ontario would be glad to be present to celebrate

"PRISON SUNDAY" APRIL 5th

More than 10,000 men and women behind bars in Canada, Newfoundland and Bermuda in 91 institutions will keep special message day dedicated to their welfare on Sunday April 2.

Known as "Prison Sunday" The Salvation Army has established the tradition of holding an annual service in all penal institutions in the territory especially planned for those whose misfortune have led them to prison.

Radio announcers broadcast special religious music and gospel addresses will feature these religious services which are to be conducted by officers from Army officers.

Commissioner H. Orames of The Salvation Army says: "The tragic tale of humanity is uphill work, but for over three-quarters of a century The Salvation Army has assiduously applied itself to the task of making rough places smooth and crooked places straight, so that man, guided by God's image, may walk in His ways and keep His statutes. The prisoners seen in Canada strikingly illustrates this."

A Brief Bulletin

Line Elevators Farm Service Bureau, the enviable distinction of having published the first Canadian bulletin devoted entirely to the problem of wheat shortage of acute. The first Bulletin No. 1. In less than three months, 50,000 copies were distributed. No. 1 has since been out of print for about a year. The urgency of the matter is fully recognized in government circles, and several Dominion Experimental Stations have, for some years, been conducting experiments to control methods.

Bulletin No. 1 was commercial, chiefly, with drawing public attention to the problem itself, and very little space was devoted to control.

Bulletin No. 6 is now ready for distribution. It is entitled "Water Erosion of Soils in the Prairie Provinces and Its Control" Mr. L. E. B. Thoreson, Superintendent, Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current, and his staff, have offered invaluable advice and assistance in the preparation of the bulletin. The bulletin has also been [illegible] by farm advisers [illegible] made by [illegible] Mitchell, University of Saskatchewan; Mr. W. D. The information published is, therefore, authoritative. Farmers, country school teachers and their students may secure copies through Line Elevator agents or by writing directly to Line Elevators Farm Service, Grain Exchange Building, Winnipeg, or Herald Building, Calgary.

A strong plea will be made to the prisoners to search their souls for the cause of their downfall, and having found it, seek to blot out the temptations and habits which first led them astray. They will be urged to turn away from the wrong and do the right.

A man who had served long years in an eastern penitentiary, after completing his sentence, was interviewed by a prison officer, was so inspired by the simple, direct way in which the officer interpreted his beliefs to him, he said upon his release:

"Nothing that I have ever done; nothing that I have ever been will ever prevent me from becoming the man that I originally intended to be."

An R.A.F. man, stationed in Canada, found himself in trouble with the law. For his offence, he was confined to jail for one year. Upon his discharge he was returned to the Old Country, and thereafter entered a number of questions which he found difficult to answer. Why had he returned to England? Why was he discharged from the Service?

He enlisted again and this time landed in North Africa. During his confinement in a Canadian prison he had come in contact with a Salvation Army officer who had done much to restore his belief in God and His faith in himself.

A year passed, and after proving himself to be a true son of Great Britain and distinguishing himself in the service of his Country, he wrote to Salvation Army Territorial Prison Headquarters in Toronto:

"I have been waiting for this year to end and now that it has I feel that a great load has been lifted from my mind, and that I can look forward to better times. It is amazing what faith and courage can do.

"I am going to keep in constant touch with you because you were sincere and I feel that you are still a great friend to me and one day I hope to repay your generosity to me".

HOW, WHEN AND WHERE TO GET RATION BOOK 4

Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Mar. 30, 31 and April 1st

Arrangements Completed in Vermilion District

Arrangements are now complete in the Vermilion district for the distribution of ration book No. 4 which takes place this week end, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 30, 31, April 1. All centres in the district are open those days between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m.

In Vermilion distribution is again in the capable hands of the ladies of the Canadian Legion auxiliary with the president Mrs. Harry Scott and secretary Mrs. J. H. T. McLean in charge. Distribution centre is the Legion hall.

In Mannville the L.O.D.E. are in charge directed by Mrs. E. M. Hesketh-son. Islay people get their ration books from J. T. Fyfe, postmaster; Hardisty folks from Graham Gardiner. At Dewberry the Red Cross branch is in charge directed by Mrs. J. S. MacKay; at Clandonald George Stonehouse, manager of the Bank of Toronto hands out the valuable little booklets. G. K. Crosby, merchant and postmaster at Ranfurly, Viger and McConnell at Derwent are the distributing agencies in those centres, while F. M. Danielsen, secretary of the board of trade is in charge at Myrnam.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Some 400,000 new ration books are now in the hands of 65 local ration boards situated throughout the province and the Peace River Block of Northern British Columbia, ready for distribution to citizens throughout that section.

From local ration boards it can people of ration book 4 still be allotted to over 1000 conveniently situated centres in which citizens may apply during the days of distribution.

Volunteers man each distribution centre, prepared to check over each [illegible] and record the information from it to ration book 4. "Volunteers working all across Canada saved the country over half a million dollars during the last distributing campaign," the supervisor-intendent stated.

He said that personal distribution is more effective than mailing and relieves the already overburdened post offices.

POINTS TO REMEMBER

Mr. McKee, regional supervisor, today reiterated points to be observed in obtaining new ration books:

Watch your local newspaper for distributing dates, which may vary in each locality, and for the addition of distributing centres.

Late applicants will not be able to obtain new ration books until April 17th.

Print proper information on the red-lettered card. RI99 in the back of ration book 3. Note line 5 which requires that you fill in the name or number of the municipal district in which you reside.

Present ration book 3 to obtain ration book 4.

Do not destroy ration book 3 which you can P coupons for rationing sugar, not yet valid.

Any one member of a family, or on a remote community, if over 16 years of age can obtain ration books for others, if he presents their copies of ration book 3 with card RI99 properly completed.

RECEIVER RECEIVES JAIL SENT TO GAOL

Showing a reduction of 50 from the previous year, 18 persons were convicted in Alberta last year on charges of being interested while in charge of a motor vehicle, according to the provincial secretary's department. They were given jail sentences.

In addition, three were given prison sentences for manslaughter and five sent to jail for dangerous or reckless driving. In all, 26 motorists were given jail sentences in 1943.

The Alberta Motor Association on many occasions has urged the need of measures being taken to see that regulations concerning sane and safe driving are enforced. It has also urged public co-operation to aid the police in locating "hit-and-run" drivers.

Doubtless the efforts made by the A.M.A. to promote safety have been a factor in reducing the number of reckless driving cases.

There also has been a substantial reduction in the number of motor vehicle accidents in the province, the number in 1943 being 1,572 compared with 2,272 in 1942.

At the same time, there were just about as many cars on the highway during the past year as the year before.

The reduction of the speed limit to 35 miles per hour doubtless has been a factor in cutting down the accident toll.

WANT SCENIC ROAD OPENED BY MAY 24th

Opening of the Jasper-Lake Louise scenic highway to traffic by May 24 is being urged and there is a possibility of this being arranged, according to information received by officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

It is claimed that many motorists will take advantage of this opportunity to drive over the road early in the season if the plan proves feasible.

Many car owners are planning short holiday trips this year and the first continental hopes to be on the road by May 24. Another factor is that the trout fishing season should be open in some districts by that time, giving added incentive to the angler-motorist to travel to choice spots.

Last year, despite the restrictions on gasoline and tires, many motorists visited the national parks. Parks officials also have reported that a large percentage of the visitors were members of the armed forces who spent their leaves in the holiday resorts.

GARDEN NOTES

Transplanting

Successful transplanting depends on two factors (1) the purchase of good, healthy, stout stock, and (2) exposing the roots as little as possible to the air. Set out stock on a dull day or in the evening, say the experts. Firm down the earth well around the plant, tree or whatever is being transplanted, and water well. With big trees—six or seven feet high—this may mean a pail of water to each, and every few days if possible. With small things like tomatoes or sweet corn, a pint or so around each plant will be sufficient. Earth around the roots should be free and of good fertility, and it should be kept well cultivated while the plant is getting established.

There is a lot of transplanting connected with gardening, in vegetables a great many things such as cabbage, celery, tomatoes and peppers are usually brought as started plants from seedsmen or greenhouses and set out. Perennials quantities, while almost any flower—perennial as well as annual—can be purchased in this way. The same method also applies to all nursery stock, fruit and ornamental trees, shrubbery, roses, vines, etc.

Vegetables Needed

The authorities are warning that shortages of vegetables are possible this summer. Unemployment, due to greatly increased employment in the war factories, has been going ahead by leaps and bounds, and the amateur gardens on the outskirts of the big cities are getting smaller because it is so difficult to get help and machinery

First Planting

There are some things which must get their first growth while the weather is cool and moist. In this line, of course, are shrubs, vines and trees and other nursery stock. One also hardly plant these too early.

There are also these flowers which may be planted when ground, along with lupine, corn flowers, marigolds and alyssum. These will thrive in cool weather.

In vegetables among the earliest ones there are several that must get their growth in cool weather. These include peas, spinach, onions, curly endive, radish and lettuce. One can start to plant all of these but as soon as the driest part of the garden is ready.

With most vegetables, the experts advise making at least three sowings, about ten days to a fortnight apart. In this way the gardener is protected against damage which might wipe out the sowing, and the whole season's supply of vegetables will be greatly extended

INDIA RUBBER PRODUCTION

It is hoped that this year India will produce enough rubber to satisfy not only her own requirements, but those of the British and American forces in India.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—
HAPPILY EVER AFTER

By ARNIE YOUNG
McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Mollie could not remember getting on the bus. Later the fight with Joe who had gone out and walked and walked. But here she was, sitting all the long ride to the east end and Joe had always laughingly said was reserved for them. While Joe was courting her they had taken the Fifth Avenue bus to the end of the line and back almost every evening.

They had planned on big things when they were married, but Joe hadn't worked out just as they expected. Three years now, and Joe had received only one raise. But Mollie had realized a little bit of her dream. A small flat roof jutted out from the dingy window of their top story apartment, and that provided Mollie's longed-for penthouse. She had managed to raise a few scraggy plants in flower boxes, had painted the kitchen (which led on to the roof) green—the garden room. This tiny living room she had furnished in black and white — the modernistic mode.

She'd been very happy until Joe's father died and his mother came to live with them. After that, with the mother-in-law's laundry strung over the kitchen window so you couldn't see out of it, even Mollie's imagination couldn't convert the place into a penthouse.

This morning Joe's mother had gone away for the day. Mollie and Joe had planned a dozen things to do to make the most of it. And yet Mollie knew they were lines they had turned on each other.

The nerves of both must have been at breaking point. But that didn't excuse Joe. Suppose she had started picking his mother's clothes off the chairs and hiding them, suddenly, thrown them out the window? If he'd been home all day, every day, with that room as long as she had, he'd have thrown them too!

So when he'd said cuttingly, "That's the way you feel about my mother, eh?" she'd gone to pieces and told him just how she did feel—about his mother, about his job and the inadequate bank account, and about him, too. When he should have comforted her, Joe had grabbed her shoulders and shaken her. Mollie had wrenched free and flung out of the apartment.

The bus stopped at a corner and Mollie found herself looking straight into the eyes of a young man in a uniform. He grinned and patted the seat beside him. Mollie turned quickly away, but at the next stop, there he was again. Suddenly Mollie rose. She didn't intend to accept the man's invitation; she just couldn't stand the associations any longer.

He was waiting for her at the curb. "Could I interest you in a cocktail party?" he asked.

Mollie would have walked on, but he caught her arm. "Come on, kid-die," he urged, "I'm no big, bad wolf —it's just that my date fizzled out. And you looked so forlorn up there all alone—"

The kindliness in his tone brought quick tears to Mollie's eyes. "I—I think it would do me good," she said.

Mollie scarcely heard Dale Peterman's cheery conversation during the short drive. Surreptitiously she twisted off her wedding ring and dropped it into her bag.

They drew up before a smart apartment building. The elevator shot up and up and, to Mollie's astonishment, they emerged at the penthouse apartment. It was all she had ever dreamed, and more. Vast, shiny, modernistic. Through French doors she glimpsed real trees and sky.

A tall girl came forward. "Hello, Dale," she said, "help yourselves. And for goodness' sake think of something to do. The party's dying on its feet." Then she drifted away.

Mollie saw Dale talking to a girl in a bright red dress. Unnoticed, she walked out on the terrace. She heard a swish of silken skirts. "You like it?" It was the tall girl.

"Oh, yes!" The lump in Mollie's throat made her voice sound queer. "It's so—so big!"

The girl looked at her searchingly. "Yes, it's big," she agreed. "And while it's beautiful to you, it might seem ugly to someone else. Some one who—well, who didn't have anyone with whom to share it."

"You mean you live alone?"

The girl's tone was bitter. "Yes, I live alone. And when I can't bear it any longer, I call in that great big side. We have much in common, Dale is still in love with his ex-wife —the girl in the red dress— and pro-duce somebody new every day to kid people into thinking he isn't. His ex-wife is married to my ex, and they're all shedding him for someone else. And I—" she shrugged.

"I—I must go," Mollie choked. She knew, suddenly, that she must get to Joe before it was too late. She must tell him that he was all that mattered to her. At the window she paused. "I hope," she said softly to the girl, "that some day you'll have a penthouse, too."

"That's the way to talk," the girl smiled. "You'll have to forgive me for making up that yarn about my-self. Maybe being in love, I've gone sticky with sentiment. You see, I'm getting married next week—for the first time. I like to believe the bride and groom live happily ever after."

Mollie stared at her in confusion. "What do you mean?"

Her hostess laughed gayly. "Next time you remove your wedding ring, child, remember that white circle doesn't match your sun tan."

World Trading System

Proposal Made By Federation Of British Industries

Creation of an International Economic Council and a direct world trade has been proposed by the Federation of British Industries as a primary post-war measure.

In a report on international trade policy, the F.B.I. said such a council would stimulate trade by bringing system and prevent the trade of various countries "getting out of equilibrium, as happened in the years between the two world wars."

Functions of the council would be: "To stimulate the needs of and the possibilities of supplying the different countries commodities.

To guide world trade to channels where it would most benefit producer and consumer.

To act as co-ordinating body with the aim of raising countries with low standards of living should be raised or whose industrial and commercial activities should be extended.

"The prosperity of every country is the background against which a prosperous world economy must stand," the report said "No attempts, therefore, by one country to force its goods on other countries by any way as to upset their internal policy should be permitted."

Was Not Planned

British Empire Grew Out Of People's Love For Adventure

Lord Elton, secretary of the Rhodes Trust, is responsible for reminding the world that no Government planned the expansion of England overseas. British men laid the foundations of a world-wide Commonwealth by the simple process of being prepared to go where opportunity and the bright eye of danger tempted them. All of Britain's greatest imperial rivals were authoritarian States, in which colonization was an affair not of individual enterprise, but of ministers and officials. Spain of the Armada, France of the Bourbons, or Franco of Napoleon, Germany of the Hohenzollerns—all were ruled by despots and bureaucrats. But British overthrew them all.

Do not suppose that the adventurers were all either merchants or fighting men. Some of the greatest names in British Imperial history are those of men who risked everything to discover or to heal or to preach. David Livingstone, for example, was a great missionary, but equally he was a great adventurer—the man who discovered the whole course of the Zambesi and explored East Africa in order to reveal the horrors of the Arab slave trade. Mungo Park and the discovery of the mysterious Niger, Sir John Neill and the ending of slavery in Zanzibar, Rajah Brooke and the throne of Sarawak—these and countless others are stories not only of high achievement, but of high enterprise.

It was men such as these who made the British Empire; but it make the British Empire was far from being their object. The British Empire, indeed, grew as a sort of unintentional by-product of the adventurous enterprise of individuals.

The men and women whose adventurous enterprises, as we can see now at this moment, was in fact responsible for building the world-wide British Commonwealth as we know it today, were for the most part not actuated by any such deliberate purpose. They went to trade, to settle to explore, to preach, to serve; we shall need the adventurer as never before."—Stratford

A veteran Atlantic coast pilot with more than 20 months of operational experience, Flying Officer A. P. V. "Pat" Chester, 1012 Angus St., Regina, dished up his first submarine attack on St. Valentine's Day. His crew made it a good one, attacking the U-boat with depth charges and machine-gun fire as Chester swept over the enemy craft four times once at mast-head height. Simultaneously they could have dropped a hand grenade down the conning tower. The submarine sent a hail of flak until the last, but failed to hit the hurtling Liberator.

"SALADA" TEA

Have Sweet Tooth

Quarter Million Pounds Of Sugar Consumed By Canadians Every Week

(By Edna Jacques)

To women falls the task of preparing food for a hungry world and since the dawn of time, they have been zealous in making it attractive and delicious to the taste. One of the prime methods of improving on Mother Nature is to add sweetness to some of her products.

From ancient India comes the first record of sugar. From there it worked its way to China. In an old manuscript we learn that in the year 600 A.D. a wise old Emperor of China sent men to India to learn the art of sugar-making.

From China the cultivation of sugar cane and the making of sugar spread to Egypt. The Arabs introduced it into Sicily and Spain. And from here it was carried to Siam, Ceylon, Java and other countries of the old world. Soon after the discovery of America it was brought to Cuba and nearby islands, and thus to the "north American continent.

Canadian people have developed a terrifically sweet tooth. We like our apple sauce sweet as honey—our pancakes have to be smothered in syrup, our porridge must be loaded down with brown sugar, our cakes piled high with icing. We want sugar in our tea. . . . Some of us even put sugar on our lettuce and tomatoes. When we can't have it we get to feeling sorry for ourselves and think we are badly used.

Once a week a sugar coupon becomes valid. Each one is good for a half pound of sugar. This means that Canadians use in their own homes five and a quarter million pounds of sugar every week of the year just as regular as clockwork. Added to this every person, man, woman and child, from a day-old baby to the granddad of the community can get an additional half pound every two weeks if they care to use the "D" coupon for sugar instead of preserves. On top of that, there is the yearly allowance of 10 pounds per person for canning. This extra item adds up to 115 million pounds a year.

If you live in or near a city you can occasionally buy a cake or pie, a few doughnuts, cookies or a raisin loaf to tide you along. If you live in the country, and can't get this added sweetness, you can tell yourself that you have more butter, cream and maybe your own maple syrup or honey to balance the whole thing and make your family feel well fed and righteous.

After all, we didn't have bombs for breakfast, incendiaries with our lunch, or block busters for dinner.

Housing Poultry

Plan Ample Room For The Chickens To Grow

The housing problem in Canada is not confined to human beings: it extends to poultry. There is no excuse, say the Poultry authorities, Dominion Department of Agriculture for not having ample room for poultry to range and grow in Canada. Growing chicks — half grown pullets lacking ample roosting accommodation frequently pick each other to pieces on the floor, and while piling up in growing chicks is not immediately fatal as with young chicks, the loss in flock will be apparent long afterwards, if the piling up is allowed to continue. The obvious solution is to provide better colony houses and range shelter as soon as possible, and for satisfactory growth these should be at least two range shelters for each colony house, and the birds taught to use them. Birds are equipped by nature to exist in the open with ample air and ventilation around them. Many equipment manufacturers and hatchery operators now offer for sale range shelters in disjointed form. Now is the time to plan to meet the housing contingency before the rush season of another year comes around.

DEFLATED

Some of the young boys in uniform try hard to appear grown up and sophisticated. One of this type was in a night-club group recently. As a mature cabaret singer danced near his table he whispered confidently, "Hey, babe, what you doin' after you get through here tonight?"

The girl looked at him compassionately. Leaning over tenderly, she said: "I'm going home to take care of my little boy who is just about your age" — Lee Shippey in Los Angeles Times.

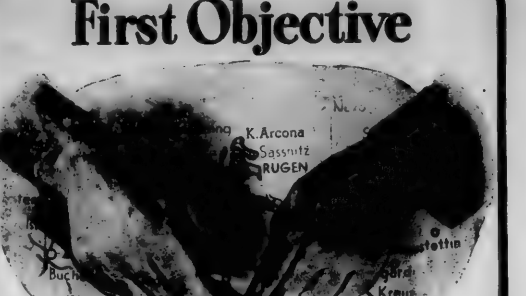
First Objective



In these decisive months all Canada's effort is concentrated on one great objective—the attack that is to destroy the Nazi menace and all that it represents. Years of work have gone into its preparation. The best of our young men are staking their lives on its success.

We in Canada must support and strengthen this attack with all our effort. This one purpose must command our work, our minds and our hearts.

We must not permit any cessation for private gain or individual selfish ends, to distract us from our main task. If we concentrate on seeking, individually or jointly, higher prices, higher pay or higher profits, we shall be diverting our attention from the main task at this critical time. We shall also endanger the stability of prices which we in Canada have achieved after great difficulties—a stability that is essential to efficiency and fairness in war, and to peacetime prosperity afterward.

Our young men are fighting for a Canada and a world in which all men can have faith, hope and security. Each of them wants to come back to a job—or a farm—with a future. We at home must keep secure for them a strong and stable foundation on which alone a post-war period of promise and achievement can be built.

This advertisement is one of a series being issued by the Government of Canada to emphasize the importance of preventing further increases in the cost of living now and deflation later.

Allied Naval Supremacy

THE INCREASED MOMENTUM of land and air operations has made them the main topic of news and discussion in recent months, yet it should not be forgotten that the Navy is at all times playing a very active part in the great Allied offensive. The duties of the Navy in carrying troops and supplies to the fighting fronts are stupendous, and it is also a most important factor in all amphibious operations. Mr A. V. Alexander, Britain's First Lord of the Admiralty, recently gave some interesting information concerning the work of the Royal Navy, when he presented the naval estimates for the approval of the House of Commons. Referring to shipping losses, Mr Alexander stated that during the second half of 1943, less than one ship in a thousand, sailing in Allied convoys, had been sunk by enemy action. This figure was compared with the losses in 1941, which were 181 in a thousand, and in 1942 when the losses were 233 out of every thousand ships.

Sub Menace Is Still Serious

A grim warning was contained in Mr. Alexander's message in regard to the submarines menace. Contrary to the opinion held by many people, that there is now no further danger from this source, he pointed out that Germany now has at least as many submarines as she had at the beginning of 1943, and that they have been provided with greatly increased fire power, a new acoustic torpedo, and possibly other improvements. They have also extended their field of operation into wider areas, including the Indian Ocean. There was the encouraging observation, however, that the Mediterranean route to the East is now being freely used by ships of the Allied nations. "This route," Mr. Alexander said, "is worth about one million gross tons, and the liberation of North Africa and Italy together have brought in half as much again in actual shipping." When we recall the long and circuitous voyage which had to by taken by Allied ships before the Mediterranean trade lanes were safe, it is not difficult to realize the importance of this development.

Looks Forward To Offensive

Referring to the many offensive actions which lie ahead, the First Lord said that the Navy is looking beyond the struggle in Europe to the day when the full force of our resources will be directed against Japan. "When we hear upon Japan for the final blow," he said, "our maritime forces will, more obviously than for generations past, be the cornerstone of our whole strategy. The Navy stands today in a more commanding position than it has held since 1940, strenuously preparing for further and greater responsibilities." Germany has devoted her naval efforts in the war largely towards submarine warfare and there have been relatively few engagements involving surface craft. In all naval actions which have taken place, however, the Royal Navy has shown that the splendid traditions of British seamanship are maintained, and the Royal Canadian Navy has likewise added honors to its already fine record.

Winston Churchill

British Premier Is In A Class All By Himself

Winston Churchill is an old Tory. He is an old Liberal. He is a man of importance. He is a fervent democrat. But mainly he is one of those men who cannot walk into the House of Commons, or any house or place, without creating something of an electric shock, says The New York Times. He does not do this because he is Prime Minister. He is Prime Minister because he can do it.

He is Prime Minister because he has made and projected an image of what the British people wish to be in this war: there he stands and there they stand, in courage so sure that it need never plume itself, in faith so strong as the British earth from which it springs in cheerfulness that pames smiling into the dark Valley, in honesty of purpose, in loyalty to even the most misunderstanding of friends.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q—I am expecting my daughter and her baby to arrive from New York to live with me. How can I get ration books for them?

A.—If your daughter and the baby are staying in Canada for five days or more they are eligible for temporary ration cards; no card is good for more than 12 weeks. If they are staying longer than six months they may apply to your local ration board for a permanent ration book.

—o—

Q—My son, who is in the services, did not receive a ration card when he left camp on leave. Will he be able to get one at the local ration board?

A.—No, all ration cards for short or long leaves must be issued by the unit before your son leaves camp. If he does not receive his ration card when he gets his leave pass, he should ask for it.

—o—

Q My husband is a diabetic. Is there any way in which he can obtain extra rations of butter and meat?

A—Yes, provided he surrenders sugar coupons not required, he can apply to a branch of the ration administration for such rations. The application must be accompanied by a statement signed by a duly licensed medical practitioner identifying his disease and indicating the extra rations in specified amounts that are required by him.

—o—

Q—I would like to know if there is a ceiling price on used cars.

A—Definitely yes, there is a ceiling price on all sales of used cars — the price, of course, depends on the year and model of the car; if it has any extras the price would differ. Write to your nearest regional office of the Board and they will give you complete information.

—o—

Q—In the price of meat the same with the bone as with the bone taken out?

A.—No Meat charts, which are displayed in butcher shops, show the difference in price for cuts containing bone and boneless cuts.

—o—

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

OIL BEARING SEEDS

Objectives for 1944 in oil bearing seed crops are — Seaweed, 2,800,000 acres, five per cent. below the 1943 acreages; soybeans, 80,000 acres, 75 per cent. more than in 1943; rape seed, 147 per cent. above last year, and sunflower seed, 50,000 acres, a 72 per cent. increase over 1943.

Sunflower Production

Another Worthwhile Contribution To The War Effort

Until recently the production of the sunflower in Canada was restricted chiefly to its use for ensilage in areas not suited to the production of corn, and to a lesser extent in the garden, where it served to provide seeds which were eaten much as peanuts are, or as a border flower.

Interest in the sunflower as a grain crop came about largely because of the shortage of edible vegetable oils in Canada soon after the outbreak of the present war, states Dr. T. M. Stevenson, Dominion Horticulturist, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

The ensilage varieties which were tall growing and late maturing, were not suited as a grain crop in most areas. However, other types were available. Canadian plant breeders had, some years prior to the outbreak of war, recognized the possibility of using the sunflower as a grain crop chiefly as a source of vegetable oil. They set about to develop varieties suitable for grain production on a large scale. They decided first of all that such varieties must be semi-dwarf in habit of growth and early maturing so that they could be harvested satisfactorily by ordinary farm machinery. Furthermore, the new varieties had to meet certain standards of perfection respecting oil content and oil quality.

The two outstanding varieties which resulted from that work are "Hunter" and "Mennonite". Approximately 30 000 acres of these varieties were grown for grain in the prairie provinces in 1943. It is estimated that this crop will yield over 18½ million pounds of seed. This crop is capable of providing 4½ million pounds of high quality edible oil and more than 2,750 tons of excellent high protein oil meal available for stock feed. In addition there will be an abundance of seed available to enable us to meet the 50,000 acre objective set for 1944.

The development and production of sunflowers for oil constitutes another wa hwhile contribution from agriculture to the war effort.

Proper Diet

Toothache Days May Now End With Use Of Vitamin D

There's no fun in a toothache—no fun certainly for the poor sufferer—and none for the one who pays the bills!

Regular dental care is of course necessary for young and old—but proper diet for mothers and children can help reduce dentist bills by forming sound teeth which don't decay readily.

Dr. L. B. Pett, Director of Nutrition Services, Ottawa, explains that vitamin D is necessary so that the calcium obtained from milk and other foods can be used to form tooth enamel—which helps prevent decay.

Mothers need vitamin D before babies are born and while they are nursing and children need it from early babyhood through adolescence. Sunshine in contact with the skin is dangerous and fish liver oils in winter provide the sunshine vitamin D without which calcium cannot do its work of building and maintaining strong bones and sound teeth.

If children have not been getting some good source of vitamin D this winter, Dr. Pett advises mothers to start now with a daily dose of cod liver oil, and for the rest of the summer see that they get plenty of sunshine.

Famous Beaver Club

Canadian Boys Use Its Many Services The Year Round

Beds in the Canadian Y.M.C.A.'s London clubs and the one in Harrogate were used 189 961 times last year by Canadian servicemen. Ed Otter, senior War Service supervisor overseas, states in his annual report.

The famous Beaver club fairly overflowed with Canadians all year round, says Otter. More than 471,000 participated in the "Y" War Services program, and miscellaneous services which might be anything from sewing on a button to writing letters home—were provided on over 3,000,000 occasions. Altogether, Beaver club facilities were used by Canadians last year 2,003,205 times.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

MAN OF INTEGRITY

The integrity of men is to be measured by their conduct, not by their professions.—Junius

The man who does his work, any work, conscientiously, must always be in one sense a great man — Mulock.

True honesty takes into account the claims of God as well as those of man; it renders to God the things that are God's, as well as to man the things that are man's.—C. Simmons.

The man of integrity is one who makes it his constant rule to follow the good of duty, according to truth and the voice of his conscience... and to cut to him. Mary Baker Eddy

It is wonderful what strength and boldness of purpose and energy will come from the feeling that we are in the way of duty.—John Foster

A mind conscious of integrity seems to say more than it means to perform.—Robert Burns.

The use of tobacco as legal tender is as old as its cultivation; it matched gold as legal tender in colonial Virginia.

When the bond of an ordinary worm is cut off, he simply grows another.

On the Home Front too...

● When a gun goes into action every man has a job to do. Seconds count, and team work gets results.

Training . . . endless training . . . gets efficiency that makes each man part of a perfect machine.

But something more than efficiency is needed to make a top-rank fighting unit. There must be loyalty . . . that spirit of responsibility that each man feels toward his mates.

We've got efficiency on the farm front . . . we're producing more, and with less help to do it. Keep up the teamwork that will make each one of us go all out to support our men on the fighting fronts.

We too, are part of a fighting unit . . . citizens of a nation at war. We must not let our men on the fighting fronts down.

Invasion means high tension on the fighting fronts . . . combined operations . . . thorough team work in every detail. And that call for greater action comes back to us at home. We have a job to do here, too. We must all buy Victory Bonds. We have a responsibility to our mates on the firing line. We can't let them down.

And the job that we are asked to do is . . . save more, and lend more to our country. We are asked to let our country have the use of money that we do not need now. We will have the money later on to improve our farms and to buy stock and equipment; for new barns and silos; for new furnishings and conveniences for our homes.

Be ready to buy more Victory Bonds.

COWBOY-SOLDIER

(Synopsis of preceding Chapters)
A cowboy from the Alberta foothills, deciding there is a much greater task on hand than riding the range, joins the Canadian Army (Active) and takes his training at Camrose Basic Training Centre and A. 16 Canadian Infantry Training Centre, Curtis Barracks.

Just before leaving for the east on his way overseas he married Miss Edith, the school teacher who presides over the little country schoolhouse close to the ranch where he works. Then, as a wedding gift, his ex-boss tells him he is giving him half interest in the ranch as a wedding present and Miss Edith is going to live at the ranch until his return from overseas.

We now find Johnny landed safe as he continues his story.

CHAPTER VIII

I never was one to do much travelling and that is maybe why I really enjoyed the trip right across country from Calgary to the east coast port where we are waiting to go overseas. Before I joined up most of my travelling was done by cow pony, while hazing dogies from the ranch up the mountains to the Calgary stockyards or highballing it by jalopy to the small stampedes where a fellow can pick up a little loose change by bronc riding or calf roping.

The first part of the journey down here was a little monotonous as has been a great deal of prairie and all those little wayside stops but after we got by Winnipeg we really started to see new sights.

A few fellows in our car had been sent quite a few times and knew all about the country but there were bits of shape like myself who hadn't been out of Alberta before and it was quite a trip — especially seeing the Great Lakes and the Lakehead ports and the big eastern cities for the first time.

But strictly between you and I the easterners can keep their part of the country. It's alright to go travelling through but give me the prairies and the foothills every time. And, brother, already I'm longing for another look at a real western sunset with the sun nestling behind the Rockies.

Of course, here on the east coast, where we are now you see the sun rise over the Atlantic and it's really something but its far from being a seafaring man and I can't get enthused about it like I can about a prairie sunset.

There is one thing about the army that always sort of amazes me because I've spent all of my life sort of changing what I was going to do next. Take this moving for instance. You get told to move at the last minute then away you go. Now that we're over here we don't even know where we are going but I'll bet some day but about then I'll be writing those newspapers and magazine articles asking the folks back home to send letters to the fellows in the service.

Just take my case for instance down here on the east coast thinking I'd be sailing for a while and not getting a line from anybody when I'm right here on the job all the time.

The folks here are nice enough but they don't seem to get the same range as the folks back home do. Then, too, I've heard of Hereford in this neck of the woods would likely cause a stampede — out of the cattle but of the citizens. Right now we're not working too hard and we're eating well and sleeping sound. All that word from Italy though has the boys hoping that it won't be long till we get going and that we aren't going till we're looking at those Roman temples and stuff we read about in our history books.

Now, though there's nothing we can do but wait even if we are all itching to march up the gangplank of a transport and be on our way.

OCEAN RECORD BROKEN AGAIN BY MAIL PLANE

LYMPNE On Friday, March 2, Capt. E. M. Smith, Trans Canada Air Lines pilot established a new record for a transatlantic flight from Montreal to Montreal. The record flight was made by a big four-engined Lancaster transport operated by T. C. A. the Canadian Government overseas service. The elapsed time from taking off in Scotland and landing at Montreal was 12 hours and 59 minutes, bettering by 17 minutes the record established a week before by Capt. A. Rosaire. The plane carried eight passengers, many mail and 1200 pounds of freight as well as one of the ferry pilots.

Health League of Canada presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

CONTROL OF INFECTIONS

The germs hang over the mouth when one coughs or sneezes is quite ineffective in the king the spread of the common respiratory diseases the Health League of Canada is urging the observance of simple rules of hygiene. Covering the mouth or cough with a handkerchief is a good hygiene as well as good manners. It was stated

When a person coughs or sneezes he ejects droplets of varying size most of which fall to the ground within a few feet of the individual. These droplets usually contain thousands of bacteria: for example, from one sneeze 17,000 colonies of bacteria were grown on a plate of culture medium held three feet away. If the sneezing person is suffering from an infection like the common cold, or measles or sore throat he will expel many infective droplets so that anyone in close proximity is liable to be infected Many diseases other than those that affect some part of the respiratory system are spread by this droplet or spray infection.

Some of the droplets are so small or quickly become so by evaporation that they remain suspended in the air like smoke particles and may be carried considerable distances by air currents These droplets, therefore, infect persons in the same room hospital ward or theatre although these people are not in close contact with the culprit

Most of the droplets fall to the ground and become dried If exposed to daylight or sunshine many infective bacteria in the droplets may soon be killed but inside a building they are protected from the germicidal rays and may remain alive for weeks Whenever there is much movement in the air as by sweeping or dusting or by beginning the infected dust particles are raised into the air and inhaled by persons present

Generally the Health League stated, the infective person is most dangerous in the early stage of the disease, but many continue to be infective after they have recovered Such persons have been called "convalescent carriers

Individual use of handkerchiefs and dust control were recommended as methods of controlling infection

TRUCK TRANSPORT

Those brawny legs the Infantry used in the last war are still one of the prime assets of the Infantry today But now they are complemented with equally resilient rubber tires on big, troop-transporting trucks. The use of transport trucks for long hauls has turned the Infantry into Storm Troopers, striking hard at one spot, shifting quickly and dealing a vital blow in another section of the enemy's defences.

Too, the trucks are used as a means of rapidly deploying a company of infantry across a wide front. The men drop off the vehicle at spaced intervals while it lurches across the uneven terrain. They land ready to fight, preparing their advance under protective camouflage of hurrying clouds of smoke Their attack will be deadly, equipped as they are with several types of rapid-fire weapons, mortars and light artillery. They are Shock Troops in every sense of the word.

SAUL BECOMES A NEW MAN

Golden text: If any man is in Christ, he is a new creature. II Corinthians 5 17.

Lesson: Acts 9:1-19, 22:6-16; 26: 12-18.

Devotional Reading. I Timothy 1: 12-17.

ACTS 9: But Saul, yet breathing threatening and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the high priest, and asked of him letters to Damascus unto the synagogues, that if he found any that were of the Way, whether men or women, he might bring them bound to Jerusalem. And as he journeyed, it came to pass that he drew nigh unto Damascus: and suddenly there shone round about him a light out of heaven; and he fell upon the earth, and heard a voice saying unto him, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? And he said, Who are thou, Lord? And he said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest: but rise, and enter into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do. And the men that journeyed with him stood speechless, hearing the voice, but beholding no man And Saul arose from the earth, and when his eyes were opened, he saw nothing; and they led him by the hand, and brought him into Damascus. And he was three days without sight, and did neither eat nor drink

But Ananias answered, Lord, I have heard from many of the man, how much evil he did to thy saints at Jerusalem, and here he hath authority from the chief priests to bind all that call upon thy name. But the Lord said unto him, Go thy way: for he is a chosen vessel unto me, to bear my name before the Gentiles and kings, and the children of Israel: for I will show him how many things he must suffer for my name's sake

And Ananias departed, and entered into the house; and laying his hands on him said, Brother Saul, the Lord, even Jesus, who appeared unto thee in the way which thou camest, hath sent me, that thou mayest receive thy sight, and be filled with the Holy Spirit. And straightway there fell from his eyes as it were scales, and he received his sight; and he arose and was baptized; and he took food and was strengthened.

DOMINION DAY HOLIDAY

The Toronto Star says: Commencing with 1943, Dominion Day was to be celebrated on the first Monday in July as a wartime measure. Before July came around, however, the proposal was abandoned and the holiday was observed on the usual date. It is announced that it will be so observed this year—on Saturday, July 1—although some of the calendars issued for 1944 have July 3 marked. The "first Monday" proposal has evidently been dropped for good.

$42.45 RAISED AT PELICAN LAKE FOR THE RED CROSS

At the pie social and sale of handicraft held at Pelican Lake school on Friday evening March 24 the sum of $42.45 was taken in for the Junior Red Cross. The teacher Miss I. Shaw and pupils wish to thank all those who contributed to the success of the evening and to Auctioneer W. J. Casterton who sold everything. Mahon as well as pies. The average pie was sold for $2.10 and the highest price paid was $2.75.

The highlight of the sale was when the boys of the school, not to be outdone by their elders, started bidding on pies too and paid $2.60, $2.90 and $3.10 respectively. Two of the schoolboys, Allan Hammer and Raymond Goodwin clerked the sale.

Two rinks of local curlers went to Vermilion on Tuesday evening and enjoyed two close games. The Innisfree curlers, guided by the astute skipping and sure-shooting of Harvey Gantom and Lars Thomassen, came out on the long ends of 13-10 and 12-9 scores. Vermilion curlers were skip E. M. Stewart, Art Butler, Rod Mclver and Ashley Cooper; skip Gordon Park, Ross Beebe, Billy McLaughlin and Tom Stark.

Pte. D. E. Kinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Kinney of Vermilion, received his Knox parcels in Germany, and he wishes to thank those responsible for their kindness.
